DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

§ 2723. [3000-1.] Creation of Department.

There shall be a department of the state government known as the Department of Agriculture, which shall be charged with the administration of the laws relating to agriculture, agricultural resources and products, horticulture, livestock, food, drugs and oils, and such other subjects as the legislature may provide. [L. '13, p. 196, § 1.]

See infra, § 10760, department created.

See infra, § 10841, divisions of department created.

See infra, § 10893, old department abolished.

Cited in 81 Wash. 604; 82 Wash. 646; 94 Wash. 293, 295.

This act repealed Rem. & Bal. Code, § 3133, providing for the levy of a tax by county commissioners for horticultural purposes: Maxwell v. Lancaster, 81 Wash. 602, 143 Pac. 157.

The title to this act did not violate Constitution, article II, section 19, providing that no bill shall embrace more than one subject, expressed in its title: Carstens v. De Sellem, 82 Wash. 643, 144 Pac. 934.

§ 2724. [3000-6.*] Powers of Commissioner.

The commissioner shall have power and it shall be his duty:

(1) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the state veterinarian.

(2) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the state dairy and food commissioner.

(3) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the state commissioner of horticulture and the district horticultural inspectors appointed by such commissioner.

(4) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the state oil inspector.

(5) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the state fair commission.

(6) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the state commissioner of labor so far as they concern the inspection and supervision of bakeries and bake-shops.

(7) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the department of animal husbandry in the State College of Washington in respect to the registry and licensing of stallions and jacks.

(8) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the director of the Washington agricultural experiment station in respect to concentrated commercial feeding stuffs.

(9) To exercise all the powers and perform all the duties now vested in and required to be performed by the director and chemist at the Washington agricultural experiment station, or either of them, in respect to commercial fertilizers used for manurial purposes.

(10) To publish and distribute bulletins and reports embodying information upon the subjects of agriculture, horticulture, livestock, dairying, foods and drugs and other matters pertaining to his department.

(11) To cause surveys and classifications to be made of such lands as shall come within any project of the state for reclamation, drainage or utilization of logged-off lands, or other similar enterprises.

(12) To make a report to the governor, at least thirty days before the commencement of each biennial session of the legislature, containing an account of all matters pertaining to his department and its administration, which shall be printed and published in the manner provided by law.

(13) To declare, promulgate and enforce quarantine measures for the protection of any agricultural crop, forest trees, forest products or other products not otherwise protected by law against the ravages of destructive or injurious insects or diseases. To adopt, promulgate and enforce rules and regulations for the inspection, grading and certification of growing crops of agricultural or vegetable seed grown in this state and to inspect, grade and certify the same at the request of the grower and to fix and collect fees for such inspection, grading and certification and to pay the fees so collected into the state treasury. [L. '19, p. 295, § 1. Cf. L. '13, p. 197, § 6.]

See infra, § 2738, duty as to state fair.

See infra, § 2771, duty as to weed districts.

See infra, § 2824, duty as to seeds.

See infra, § 2840, duties as to horticulture.

See infra, § 2876, duty as to farm marketing.

See infra, §§ 3110, 3114, duty as to infected animals.

See infra, § 6137, duty as to pure food standards.

See infra, §§ 10847—10851, duties of, devolve upon director of agriculture.

See infra, § 10893, commissioner of agriculture abolished.

Cited in 111 Wash. 127—130.

This section did not impliedly repeal the earlier enactment defining the powers of the state fair commission, but transfers the control exactly as it was under the original act: State ex rel. Sherman v. Benson, 111 Wash. 124, 189 Pac. 1000.

§ 2725. [3000-7.] Assistants.

The commissioner of agriculture may appoint such assistants, inspectors, experts and other employees as may be necessary for the administration of the affairs of the department, at such rates of compensation as the advisory board may determine upon. The commissioner may require any assistant, inspector or other employee to give a surety bond to the state of Washington in such sum and with such conditions as he shall determine, the premium on such bond to be paid by the state. He shall before appointing any assistant or inspector require him to take an examination on such subject or subjects as shall pertain to the performance of his duties; but he may appoint without examination any person who is a graduate of the State College of Washington in such subject, or who is a graduate of any recognized school maintaining a course of instruction in such subject equivalent to the course prescribed at the State College of Washington therein. [L. '13, p. 199, § 7.]

See infra, § 10876, assistant director.

§ 2726. [3000-8.] Assignment of Assistants.

The commissioner of agriculture shall designate the division of the department to which any assistant or inspector appointed by him shall be assigned. An assistant or inspector may be assigned to more than one division. Any assistant or inspector assigned to any division shall, subject to the supervisory control of the commissioner, possess and exercise the same powers and perform the same duties as the commissioner of agriculture, with respect to all matters within such division. [L. '13, p. 199, § 8.]

See infra, § 10842, supervisor of division.

Cited in 82 Wash. 652.

Agricultural Boards and Officers: This section is substantially complied with where an inspector's commission was general, certifying that he is a duly appointed, qualified and acting inspector of the department of agriculture of the state of Washington and as such vested with full authority to enforce all statutes and regulations relating to the department: Carstens v. De Sellem, 82 Wash. 643, 144 Pac. 934.

§ 2727. [3000-9.] Appeals to Commission.

Any person aggrieved by any finding, order or act of any assistant or inspector in the Department of Agriculture may appeal from such finding, order or act to the commissioner, who shall forthwith proceed to hear and determine such appeal, render his decision therein, and report the same to the appellant and to such assistant or inspector. Such decision shall specify the further proceedings to be had in the premises. Such decision shall not, however, preclude an appeal or proper action in the courts in cases where such rights would otherwise exist. [L. '13, p. 199, § 9].

Cited in 82 Wash. 648.

§ 2728. [3000-10.] Officer not Interested in Contracts.

It shall be unlawful for the commissioner, or any assistant, inspector, or other employee, to be interested, directly or indirectly, either as owner, agent or solicitor, in the sale or purchase of any article, commodity or product used or produced by any person with whom he may come in contact in his official capacity. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 200, § 10.]

§ 2729. [3000-11.] Chemists of Department.

§ 2848. [3082-10.*] Infected Premises—Notice—Shipments—Manufacture.

In case the officer making the inspection provided for in the preceding section shall find that the premises or property inspected is infected, he shall condemn the same and serve upon the owner or upon the person having possession or charge of said premises or of said property a notice in writing that the same is condemned and ordering the disinfection of any and all thereof which is capable of disinfection and the destruction of such property as is incapable of disinfection, which notice shall describe the premises or property ordered to be disinfected or destroyed with reasonable certainty and shall specify the time within which the same shall be so disinfected or destroyed; and shall give notice that unless the premises or property ordered disinfected or destroyed is disinfected or destroyed as directed, in the manner and within the time specified in said notice, the same will be done by the officer giving the notice and the expense thereof charged against the premises and the owner of said premises or property. In case personal service of said notice cannot be had upon any person in possession or charge of said premises or property and the name and address of the owner of such premises or property are not known and cannot with reasonable diligence be ascertained, said notice shall be served by posting the same in a conspicuous place upon the premises where the property to be disinfected or destroyed is situated, as the case may be. the premises or property described in the notice to, within the time specified in said notice, disinfect said premises or disinfect or destroy said property, as the case may be: Provided, that in the case of nursery stock, fruit or vegetables about to be shipped or any shipment thereof, or which is offered for sale, or held for the purpose of delivery upon any shipment or sale thereof, if the officer making the inspection shall find that only a part thereof is so affected that it cannot be successfully disinfected, he shall state in such notice that the owner or person in charge thereof has the privilege of separating the same into two or more of the following classes, to wit, such as does not need disinfection, such as can be successfully disinfected, and such as cannot be successfully disinfected, and in such cases it shall be the duty of the owner and person in charge of such property to, within the time specified in said notice, disinfect such nursery stock, fruit or vegetables as can be successfully disinfected and destroy such as cannot be successfully disinfected: And provided, further, that in the case of fruit or vegetables that cannot be successfully disinfected the inspector may grant the owner or person in charge thereof the privilege of manufacturing the same into by-products or of shipping the same to a by-product factory and issue a permit in writing so to do, and in such case it shall be unlawful for the person receiving such permit to sell or dispose of such infected fruit without having first manufactured the same into a by-product or shipped the same to a by-product factory, or to divert any such shipment when made, and it shall be unlawful for the consignee of any fruit or vegetables shipped to a by-product factory, to sell or dispose of the same without first manufacturing it into a by-product. It shall be unlawful for any person to ship, deliver, sell, barter, give away or otherwise dispose of or part with the possession of, or for any common carrier to transport, any nursery stock, fruit or vegetable which has been found infected and condemned until all of the requirements of said notice and order have been complied with, and permission given in writing so to do by an inspector. [L. '19, p. 663, § 21½. Cf. L. '15, p. 504, § 10.]

See supra, §§ 2781, 2782, quarantine as to trees and plants.

§ 2849. [3082-11.] Disinfection or Destruction by Inspector.

In case the owner or person in charge of any premises or property required to be disinfected or destroyed as in the previous section provided, shall fail or neglect to comply with the notice within the time specified therein, the officer giving the notice shall have the right and it shall be his duty to enter upon the premises to be disinfected or where the personal property required to be disinfected or destroyed is situated and perform the acts required in such notice, or cause the same to be performed at the cost and expense of the owner of such premises or property as the case may be. The officer shall keep an accurate account of such cost and expense and the same shall be a lien upon the premises or personal property so disinfected, which lien may be enforced by the methods hereinafter provided. The liens in this section provided for shall in the case of personal property have precedence over all other liens. [L. '15, p. 506, § 11.]

§ 2850. [3082-12.] Impounding for Expenses—Notice and Sale—Actions—Records.

The officer giving such notice shall post it in a conspicuous place upon the premises where such property is impounded and serve the same upon the owner or upon the person in possession or charge of such impounded property in like manner with like effect as hereinabove in this act provided for service of notice to disinfect. The time within which a sale shall be had after the giving of the notice shall not be less than ten days, provided that in the case of perishable fruits or vegetables, the same may be had immediately. Sales may be either at public auction or private sale as in the sound discretion of the officer may be for the best interest of the state and the owner of the property to be sold. The proceeds of any such sale shall be applied first to the payment of the cost of making the sale, second to the payment of the cost and expense of disinfection and third to the payment of accrued transportation and storage charges, if any, and the balance, if any, shall be paid the owner or person in charge of the property sold, upon demand. In case the proceeds of such sale be not sufficient to pay the cost of making the sale, and the cost and expense of disinfection, the deficiency may be recovered from the owner of the property disinfected in an action at law in the name of the state on the relation of the commissioner of agriculture, and the prosecuting attorney of the county where the property was disinfected shall, when directed so to do by the attorney general, bring such action for the recovery of such deficiency. The officer making such sale shall make and keep a full and detailed record of all acts done by him with reference to such property, stating the name of the owner or reputed owner of such property when known, the location thereof, the date of inspection, the facts found upon inspection, the date and manner of giving the notice to disinfect, the failure of the owner or person in charge to disinfect, the disinfection by or under the direction of the officer, the cost and expense thereof in detail, the date and manner of giving the notice of impounding and sale, the date, place and manner of sale, the name of the person to whom the property was sold, the amount of the proceeds of the same and the disposition made thereof, which record shall be signed by the officer making the same. Upon demand of the owner or person in charge of such property, the officer making the sale shall furnish him with a copy of such record verified under oath, and shall tender him the balance of said proceeds. If no demand is made upon the officer making such sale within thirty days from the date of sale, or in case the balance of said proceeds is not accepted when tendered, the officer shall file a verified copy of such record with and remit the balance of the proceeds of such sale to the commissioner of agriculture, who shall retain the same for a period of six months subject to the order of the owner of the property sold, and if at the end of six months such proceeds be not claimed and accepted by the owner or his order, the same shall be turned into the state treasury. The record required to be kept as hereinabove provided and the verified copy thereof shall be prima facie proof of the truth of the facts therein stated in any court in any action or proceeding where proof of such facts is competent. [L. '15, p. 507, § 12.]

§ 2851. [3082-13.*] Levy of Horticultural Tax—Collection.

It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county at the time of making the regular annual tax levy in each year to include a tax upon the taxable property of such county in such an amount as they shall find will produce funds sufficient to meet the expense of inspecting and disinfecting orchards, vineyards, berry farms, vegetable farms, nurseries, fruit trees, vines or bushes, ornamental trees or shrubbery, horticultural plants, and packing houses, warehouses, dry-houses, storerooms, depots, docks and other places where fruits, vegetables or nursery stock are packed, stored, shipped or held for shipment or delivery or offered for sale within said county, which shall be inspected or disinfected by or under the direction of an inspector, which tax shall be known as the "Horticultural tax." In estimating the amount to be levied for such horticultural tax, the county commissioners shall take into consideration the expense of inspecting and disinfecting the above mentioned property within said county for the ensuing year and the amount that will be collected from levies on property disinfected as in this act provided. The horticultural tax shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other general taxes and when collected shall, together with all sums collected by local inspectors for inspecting, and inspecting and disinfecting, such property within the county, be placed in the current expense fund of said county. Until the collection by any county of the taxes to be levied under the provisions of this section at the next annual tax levy after the taking effect of this act, the county commissioners of such county are authorized and empowered to cause to be paid, by warrants drawn upon the current expense fund of such county, all expenses for inspecting and disinfecting premises or property within said county properly chargeable to such county under the provisions of this act, and all expenditures made from and warrants drawn upon the current expense fund of any county by order of the board of county commissioners of such county, subsequent to the repeal of section 3133 of Rem. & Bal. Code and prior to the passage of this act for the purpose of paying the cost and expenses of inspecting or disinfecting the premises or property in such county as provided in this act, are hereby validated. § 2852. [3082-14.*] Recovery of Disinfection Expenses—Lien for Costs—Notice—Enforcement.

The cost and expense of disinfecting any nursery, orchard, berry farm, vineyard or vegetable farm, or any nursery stock fruit trees, vines or bushes, shade trees, ornamental trees or shrubbery or horticultural plants growing on any premises, or any packing-houses, warehouses, dry-houses, storerooms, depots, or other premises where nursery stock, fruits, vegetables or horticultural products are stored, situated or being prepared or packed for shipment or offered for sale or held for the purpose of delivery upon any shipment or sale, may be recovered as in this section provided. The officer disinfecting any premises or property growing upon any premises or causing the same to be disinfected as in this act provided shall make and keep a full and detailed record of all acts done by him with reference to such property or premises, stating the legal description of premises upon which property disinfected was growing, the name of the owner or reputed owner, the date of inspection, the facts found upon inspection, the date and manner of giving of notice to disinfect, the failure of the owner or person in charge to disinfect, the disinfection by or under the direction of the officer, and the cost and expense thereof in detail, which record shall be signed by the officer making the same. In case the cost and expense of disinfecting any premises, or the property growing thereon, are not paid within five days after the completion of the work of disinfecting, the officer making such record shall make and file with the county auditor of the county where such premises are situated two verified copies of the records of his acts with reference to such premises and the charge against the same, and shall also file a claim of lien against said premises for the amount of such charges and expenses, which said claim shall refer to said record. Upon the filing of such verified record and claim of lien the county auditor shall record the said claim of lien as other lien claims are recorded. The county auditor shall also, at the time when said record and claim are filed, forthwith issue proper warrants in payment for labor of men employed in the work and fix a day for a hearing upon the report before the board of county commissioners, which date shall not be less than twenty days from the date of said filing and shall prepare a notice of the filing of such record and claim and of the date of hearing upon the same and in all proceedings the county shall be deemed substituted to all the rights of laborers paid as herein provided. Said notice shall be directed to the owner, or reputed owner, and shall give notice of the filing of said record and claim and of the amount thereof and shall also give notice of the time and place when and where the board of county commissioners will hear and determine the same. The county auditor shall deliver said notice, together with a copy thereof, to the sheriff of the county in which said claim is filed and the sheriff shall make service thereof in like manner and with like effect as herein provided for the service of notice to disinfect and shall make return of such service upon the original notice and file the same with the county auditor before the time of hearing of the same, and he shall also certify with said return the amount of his fees for such service, which shall be the same as is provided for service of summons in civil proceedings. In case the amount of said claim, together with the amount of sheriff's fees and auditor's fees, which shall be the same as is charged for the filing and recording of other liens, is paid to the county treasurer on or before the date of said hearing before said board of county commissioners, the auditor shall, upon the presentation to him of a duplicate receipt of said treasurer for the amount above specified, cancel the said lien in the records of his office and notify the board of county commissioners of his action in the premises. The county treasurer shall disburse the fund received by him as above provided to the parties entitled to receive the same according to the record as shown in the office of the county auditor. In case the amount of said claim, together with costs as above provided, is not paid at or before the time of the hearing before the board of county commissioners, the county auditor shall present a verified copy of said claim and record to the said board, which shall proceed with the hearing upon the same and shall, if offered, hear sworn testimony concerning the matter set forth in said record and claim. The record required to be kept by the officer disinfecting, as hereinabove provided, and the verified copy thereof filed with the county auditor, shall be prima facie proof of the facts therein stated in any proceedings before the board of county commissioners and in any court in any action or proceeding where proof of such facts is competent or the validity of such charges or any tax levied therefor is questioned. After the hearing as herein provided for, the county commissioners shall make an order fixing the amount of such claim and costs and shall order the amount so fixed paid out of the current expense fund of said county, and the auditor shall draw warrants for the payment of such claim as fixed by the county commissioners. The said order of said board fixing the amount of said claim and costs shall be recorded by the county auditor as are other lien claims and shall stand as a lien in favor of said county against the premises therein described until canceled as herein provided. In case the amount of said lien, together with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of said order of said board of county commissioners, is paid to the county treasurer of said county on or before the first Monday in October following the date of said order and a duplicate receipt therefor of said treasurer is presented to said county auditor, the county auditor shall cancel said claim of lien in the records of his office. Payment to the county treasurer as above set forth shall be made by presenting to said treasurer a statement over the signature of the county auditor of the amount due upon said claim together with the amount of money shown by said statement to be due. Upon said payment being so made the treasurer shall stamp said statement as paid, showing the date of said payment, and shall file said statement so stamped in the records of his office; he shall also issue a duplicate receipt for said payment and shall deliver one of said receipts to the party making payment and immediately transmit one of said receipts to the county auditor. In case the amount of said claim and costs, together with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of said order of said board of county commissioners, is not paid as hereinabove provided, on or before the first Monday in October following the date of said order, the board of county commissioners shall, at the regular meeting for the levy of taxes in the month of October following the date of said order, make an order that the amount of such claim, costs and interests, together with a penalty of six per cent thereon, shall be a tax on the premises described in said claim and collected as other taxes are collected and said last named amount shall be added to the amount of taxes levied against said premises for current expenses. Upon the making of said order the county auditor shall mark the recorded order of said board fixing the amount of said claim of lien "canceled and amount hereof charged as taxes against the property." Upon the collection of said tax by the county treasurer the same shall be credited to the current expense fund of the county, to be used for the expenses of horticultural inspection. [L. '21, p. 515, § 5. Cf. L. '15, p. 510, § 14.]

and it shall be unlawful for any person having in his possession for sale or offering for sale or selling any fruit grown in this state and shipped in closed packages, to repack the same in the boxes or packages of any other grower or shipper or from any other place, or to sell or offer for sale in closed packages, or to pack in or offer for sale any marked box or package any fruit other than that originally contained or shipped therein.

In addition to the marks required to be placed upon any closed package of fruit grown in this state, as hereinabove provided, the grower thereof or association or organization of growers packing the same may mark upon the outside of such package the grade of the fruit contained therein, either as "First Grade," "Grade No. 1," or "Extra Fancy"; "Second Grade," "Grade No. 2," or "Fancy"; "Third Grade," "Grade No. 3," or "C-Grade"; and "Orchard Run," or such other designation as will indicate first, second or third quality of fruit and "Washington Standard Pack," according to the obligatory grading rules and regulations, issued, published and adopted by the commissioner of agriculture, and it shall be unlawful for any other person to re-mark any such closed package to a higher or superior grade than that originally marked by the grower thereof or association or organization packing the same, or for any person other than the grower or association or organization packing such fruit grown in this state to place upon any such closed package not marked with the grade of the contents thereof any mark or brand indicating the grade of such contents: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to canned or dried fruit. It shall be unlawful for any grower thereof or association or organization of growers packing apples, or other fruit to mark the package with the grade of the contents, or for any person to ship, sell, barter, or otherwise dispose of or offer for sale, or have in his possession for the purpose of sale, any package of apples, or other fruit, grown and packed within the state of Washington unless such contents shall comply with the general obligatory rules and regulations made, adopted and published from time to time by the commissioner of agriculture, which general obligatory rules and regulations shall define and establish the standard for the grades.

It shall be unlawful (1) to mark or place upon any package of vegetables the name of any other place or locality than the place where the same were grown, except the place to which shipped; or to falsely mark any such package as to variety, name of grower, or place where grown, or to represent for purposes of sale that said vegetables were grown in any locality other than that in which they were actually grown, or by any other person than the person by whom they were actually grown; (2) to mark, brand, advertise, offer for sale, or sell, any vegetables as graded according to, or by the name of any of the grades promulgated by the commissioner of agriculture unless they conform to such grades; (3) to mark, brand, advertise, offer for sale or sell any vegetables by the name of any grade that imitates or ap-

For the conducting of such hearing the commissioner of agriculture may prescribe all necessary reasonable rules, but said rules must be such as to insure a fair, full and impartial opportunity for all interested districts to be heard. In establishing the grading obligatory rules herein mentioned the commissioner of agriculture shall base them on the necessities and properties as shown in said hearing, taking into consideration the tonnage of commercial fruit in each district of the state affected by the grading obligatory rules to be established; said rules and regulations so established to become obligatory rules and regulations and be given the same force and effect as though enacted by the legislature of the state of Washington, said obligatory rules and regulations to become effective upon being adopted and promulgated by the commissioner of agriculture. § 2876. Director of Farm Markets—Duties and Powers.

(b) To aid and assist producers and consumers in establishing economical and efficient systems and methods of distribution, in promoting more direct business relations through the organization of co-operative societies of sellers and buyers, and in every practicable way to reduce the waste, expense and cost of marketing, that the producer may secure more adequate returns and the consumer a lower cost of food products.

(c) To investigate the methods of commission merchants and of all others who buy, sell, handle on commission or otherwise, or deal in farm products, to the end that distribution of such commodities in this manner may be efficiently and economically and honestly accomplished. In such investigation, he may hear complaints and suggestions and shall have power to visit the place of business of any individual, firm, corporation or association, and examine under oath such individuals and the officers and employees of such firms, corporations and associations for the purpose of obtaining accurate information. If the director shall find legislation necessary for the regulation of such distribution of farm products, he shall recommend to the governor not later than the fifteenth of November of each even numbered year.

(d) To investigate the feasibility of direct dealing between producers and consumers through the agency of the parcel post and the employment of mail order methods.

(e) To receive applications for farm help and for employment in farm work, assisting in bringing the job and the man together without expense to either employer or laborer, and to this end to co-operate with the authorities of the United States, the state or municipalities that may be engaged in similar work.

(f) To investigate transportation of farm products, methods, delays and charges, and advise and assist producers in relation thereto. [L. '17, p. 472, § 3.]

(e) To establish reserves and to invest the funds thereof in bonds or such other property as may be provided in the by-laws.

(f) To buy, hold and exercise all privileges of ownership, over such real or personal property as may be necessary or convenient for the conducting and operation of any of the business of the association or incidental thereto.

(g) To do each and everything necessary suitable or proper for the accomplishment of any one of the purposes or the attainment of any one or more of the objects herein enumerated; or conducive to or expedient for the interest or benefit of the associations; and to contract accordingly; and in addition to exercise and possess all powers, rights and privileges necessary or incidental to the purposes for which the association is organized or to the activities in which it is engaged; and in addition any other rights, powers and privileges granted by the laws of this state to ordinary corporations, except such as are inconsistent with the express provisions of this act; and to do any such thing anywhere. [L. '21, p. 358, § 5.]

§ 2883. Membership and Stock of Association.

(a) Under the terms and conditions prescribed in its by-laws, any association may admit as members, or issue common stock only to persons engaged in the production of the agricultural products to be handled by or through the association, including the lessees and tenants of land used for the production of such products and any lessors and landlords who receive as rent part of the crop raised on the leased premises.

(b) If a member of a nonstock association be other than a natural person, such member may be represented by any individual associate, officer or member thereof, duly authorized in writing.

(c) Any association organized hereunder may become a member or stockholder of any other association or associations organized hereunder. [L. '21, p. 359, § 6.]

§ 2884. Articles of Incorporation.

Each association formed under this act must prepare and file articles of incorporation, setting forth:

(a) The name of the association.

(b) The purpose for which it is formed.

(c) The place where its principal business will be transacted.

(d) The term for which it is to exist, not exceeding fifty (50) years.

(e) The number of directors thereof, which must not be less than five (5) and may be any number in excess thereof, and the term of office of such directors, which term shall not exceed two years.

(f) If organized without capital stock, whether the property rights and interest of each member shall be equal or unequal; and if unequal, the articles shall set forth the general rule or rules applicable to all members by which the property rights and interests, respectively, of each member may and shall be determined and fixed; and the association shall have the power to admit new members who shall be entitled to share in the property of the association with the old members, in accordance with such general rule or rules. This provision of the articles of incorporation shall not be altered, amended, or repealed except by the written consent or the vote of two-thirds of the members.

(g) If organized with capital stock, the amount of such stock and the number of shares into which it is divided and the par value thereof. The capital stock may be divided into preferred and common stock. If so divided, the articles of incorporation must contain a statement of the number of shares of stock to which preference is granted and the number of shares of stock to which no preference is granted and the nature and extent of the preference and privileges granted to each.

(h) The articles must be subscribed by the incorporators and acknowledged by three or more of such incorporators before an officer authorized by the law of this state to take and certify acknowledgments of deeds and conveyances; and shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of the general corporation law of this state; and when so filed the said articles of incorporation, or certified copies thereof, shall be received in all the courts of this state and other places, as prima facie evidence of the facts contained therein and of the due incorporation of such association. [L. '21, p. 360, § 7.]

§ 2885. Amendments of Articles.

The articles of incorporation may be altered or amended at any regular meeting or at any special meeting called for that purpose. An amendment must first be approved by a majority of the directors and then adopted by a vote representing a majority of all the members of the association. Amendments to the articles of incorporation when so adopted shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of the general corporation law of this state. [L. '21, p. 361, § 8.]

§ 2886. By-laws.

Each association incorporated under this act must, within thirty (30) days after its incorporation, adopt, for its government and management a code of by-laws not inconsistent with the powers granted by this act. A majority vote of the members or stockholders, or their written assent, is necessary to adopt, alter or amend such by-laws. [L. '21, p. 361, § 9.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 2878—2909.

§ 2887. Meetings.

In its by-laws each association shall provide for one or more regular meetings annually. The board of directors shall have the right to call a special meeting at any time, and ten per cent of the members or stockholders may file a petition stating the specific business to be brought before the association and demand a special meeting at any time. Such meeting must thereupon be called by the directors. Notice of all meetings, together with a statement of the purposes thereof, shall be mailed to each member at least ten days prior to the meeting. [L. '21, p. 362, § 10.]

§ 2888. Board of Directors.

The affairs of the association shall be managed by a board of not less than five directors, who shall be residents of the state of Washington and who shall be elected by the members or stockholders from their own number. The by-laws may provide that the territory in which the association has members shall be divided into districts and that the directors shall be elected according to such districts. In such a case the by-laws shall specify the number of directors to be elected by each district, the manner and method of reapportioning the directors and of redistricting the territory covered by the association. The by-laws shall provide that primary elections shall be held in each district to select the directors apportioned to such districts and the result of all such primary elections must be ratified by the next regular meeting of the association. The by-laws shall provide that one or more directors shall be appointed by the director of agriculture. The director or directors so appointed need not be members or stockholders of the association, but shall have the same powers and rights as other directors, and shall be regarded as representing the interests of the public. An association may provide a fair remuneration for the time actually spent by its officers and directors in its service. No director, during the term of his office, shall be a party to a contract for profit with the association differing in any way from the business relations accorded regular members or holders of common stock of the association, or to any other kind of contract differing from terms generally current in that district. When a vacancy on the board of directors occurs, other than by expiration of term, the remaining members of the board, by a majority vote, shall fill the vacancy, unless the by-laws provide for an election of directors by district. In such a case the board of directors shall immediately call a special meeting of the members or stockholders in that district to fill the vacancy. [L. '21, p. 362, § 11.]

§ 2889. Officers.

The directors shall elect from their number a president and one or more vice-presidents. They shall also elect a secretary, and treasurer, who need not be directors, and they may combine the two latter offices, and designate the combined office as secretary-treasurer. The treasurer may be a bank or any depository, and as such shall not be considered as an officer but as a function of the board of directors. In such case the secretary shall perform the usual accounting duties of the treasurer, excepting that the funds shall be deposited only as authorized by the board of directors. [L. '21, p. 363, § 12.]

§ 2890. Membership, Liability of—Stock, Issue, Redemption, Transfer.

When a member of an association established without capital stock has paid his membership fee in full, he shall receive a certificate of membership. No association shall issue stock to a member until it has been fully paid for. Except for debts lawfully contracted between him and the association, no member shall be liable for the debts of the association to an amount exceeding the sum remaining unpaid on his membership fee or his subscription to the capital stock, including any unpaid balance on any promissory notes given in payment thereof. No stockholder of a co-operative association shall own more than one-tenth of the issued common stock of the association; and an association in its by-laws may limit the amount of common stock which one member may own to any amount less than one-tenth of the issued common stock. Any association organized with stock under this act may issue preferred stock, with or without the right to vote. No member or stockholder shall be entitled to more than one vote. Such stock may be redeemable or retirable by the association on such terms and conditions as may be provided for by the articles of incorporation and printed on the face of the certificate. The by-laws shall prohibit the transfer of the common stock of the association to persons not engaged in the production of the agricultural products handled by the association, and such restrictions must be printed upon every certificate of stock subject thereto. The by-laws and the marketing agreement, of the association, may provide for the retiring of the common or preferred stock of the association. [L. '21, p. 363, § 13.]

§ 2891. Charges Against Officers.

Any member may bring charges against an officer or director by filing them in writing with the secretary of the association, together with a petition signed by ten per cent of the members, requesting the removal of the officer or director in question. The removal shall be voted upon at the next regular or special meeting of the association and, by a vote of a majority of the members, the association may remove the officer or director and fill the vacancy. The director or officer against whom such charges have been brought shall be informed in writing of the charges previous to the meeting and shall have an opportunity at the meeting to be heard in person or by counsel and to present witnesses; and the person or persons bringing the charges against him shall have the same opportunity. In case the by-laws provide for election of directors by districts with primary elections in each district, then the petition for removal of a director must be signed by twenty per cent of the members residing in the district from which he was elected. The board of directors must call a special meeting of the members residing in that district to consider the removal of the director. By a vote of the majority of the members of that district, the director in question shall be removed from office. [L. '21, p. 364, § 14.]

§ 2892. Marketing Contracts.

The association and its members may make and execute marketing contracts, requiring the members to sell, for any period of time not over ten years, all or any specified part of their agricultural products or specified commodities exclusively to or through the association or any facilities to be created by the association. The contract may provide that the association may sell or resell the products of its members, with or without taking title thereto; and pay over on a proportional basis or otherwise to its members the resale price, after deducting all necessary selling, overhead and other costs and expenses, including interest on preferred stock, not exceeding eight per cent per annum, and reserves for retiring the stock, if any; and other proper reserves; and interest not exceeding eight per cent per annum upon common stock:

Provided, that the form of such contract shall be approved by the director of agriculture, and shall state the maximum amount of any such reserves to be deducted from the sale price of the products of the members of such association: Provided further, that said contract shall contain a date upon which settlement will be made between the association and each by its members for the crop or product marketed by said association during the preceding marketing season, which date shall not be later than July 1st following the year in which any such crop or product has been produced. The by-laws and the marketing contract may fix as liquidated damages specific sums to be paid by the member or stockholder to the association upon the breach by him of any provision of the marketing contract regarding the sale or delivery or withholding of products; and may further provide that the member will pay all costs, premiums for bonds, expenses and fees in case any action is legally maintained under the contract by the association; and any such provisions shall be valid and enforceable in the courts of this state. In the event of any such breach or threatened breach of such marketing contract by a member, the association shall be entitled to an injunction to prevent the further breach of the contract, and to a decree of specific performance thereof. Pending the adjudication of such an action and upon filing a verified complaint showing the breach or threatened breach, and upon filing a sufficient bond, the association shall be entitled to a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the member. [L. '21, p. 365, § 15.]

§ 2893. Payment in Stock.

Whenever an association organized hereunder with preferred capital stock shall purchase the stock or any property or any interest in any property of any person, firm, or corporation, or association, it may discharge the obligations so incurred, wholly or in part, by exchanging for the acquired interest, shares of its preferred stock to an amount which at par value would equal a fair market value of the stock or interest so purchased, as determined by the board of directors. In that case the transfer to the association of the stock or interest purchased shall be equivalent to payment in cash for the shares of stock issued. [L. '21, p. 366, § 16.]

§ 2894. Annual Report.

Each association formed under this act shall prepare and file in the office of the director of agriculture an annual report on forms furnished by the director of agriculture, containing the name of the association, its principal place of business and a general statement of its business operations during the fiscal year, showing the amount of capital stock paid up and the number of stockholders of a stock association or the number of members and amount of membership fees received, if a non-stock association; the total expenses of operations; the amount of indebtedness or liability, and its balance sheets. An examination and audit of the affairs of all associations incorporated under this act and doing a gross business of at least two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) per year, shall be made annually by the department of taxation and examination and at such other times as the director of agriculture may require. The director of taxation and examination is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to cause such examination and audit to be made. One copy of such audit shall be filed with the director of agriculture, one shall be sent to the secretary of the association, one to the president of the association, and another shall be kept in the files of the office of the department. A charge of not more than ten dollars ($10) per day and expenses for each examiner shall be made to the association to pay the actual expense of making such audit. Associations doing a gross business of less than two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) annually shall provide in their by-laws or otherwise for the making and filing of annual audits of their books; provided that upon demand of one-tenth of the members of such association said audit shall be made by the department of taxation and examination in the manner provided herein for larger associations. [L. '21, p. 367, § 17.]

§ 2895. Violations and Insolvency.

If the director of agriculture shall find that any association is operating in violation of law or is insolvent, and after ten days' notice has failed or refused to comply with the law, he may by proper proceeding in the superior court of the county where the principal place of business of said association is located, cause a receiver for such association to be appointed, and the affairs of such association immediately liquidated under the direction of said superior court. [L. '21, p. 368, § 18.]

§ 2896. Membership of Association in Another Corporation.

An association may organize, form, operate, own, control, have an interest in, own stock, of, or be a member of any other corporation or corporations, with or without capital stock, and engaged in preserving, drying, processing, canning, packing, storing, handling, shipping, utilizing, manufacturing, marketing, or selling of the agricultural products handled by the association, or the by-products thereof. If such corporations are warehousing corporations, they may issue legal warehouse receipts to the association or to any other person, and such legal warehouse receipts shall be considered as adequate collateral to the extent of the customary percentage of the current value of the commodity represented thereby. In case such warehouse is licensed or licensed and bonded under the laws of this state or the United States, its warehouse receipt shall not be challenged or discriminated against because of ownership or control, wholly or in part, by the association. [L. '21, p. 368, § 19.]

§ 2897. Contracts With Other Associations.

Any association may, upon resolution adopted by its board of directors, enter into all necessary and proper contracts and agreements and make all necessary and proper stipulations, agreements and contracts and arrangements with any other co-operative corporation, association or associations, formed in this or in any other state, for the co-operative and more economical carrying on of its business, or any part or parts thereof. Any two or more associations may, by agreement between them, unite in employing and using, or may separately employ and use the same methods, means and agencies for carrying on and conducting their respective businesses. A duplicate copy of each of the contracts mentioned in this section shall be filed in the office of the director of agriculture immediately after the execution and delivery thereof. [L. '21, p. 368, § 20.]

§ 2898. Associations Heretofore Organized.

Any corporation or association organized under previously existing statutes, may by a majority vote of its stockholders or members be brought under the provisions of this act by limiting its membership and adopting the other restrictions as provided herein. It shall make out in duplicate a statement signed and sworn to by its directors, to the effect that the corporation or association has, by a majority vote of its stockholders or members, decided to accept the benefits and be bound by the provisions of this act. Amendments to articles of incorporation shall be filed as required in sections 2881 and 2884, except that they shall be signed by the members of the board of directors. The filing fee shall be the same as for filing an amendment to articles of incorporation: Provided, that any such corporation or association organized prior to the approval of this act shall be admitted to the benefits hereof, subject to all of the requirements of this act except that the marketing contract between such association and its members need not be approved by the director of agriculture. [L. '21, p. 369, § 21.]

§ 2899. Voluntary Dissolution.

The members of any association may by two-thirds vote of all such members, at any regular meeting or at a meeting regularly called for that purpose, vote to dissolve said association, and thereupon such proceedings shall be had for the dissolution of said association as is provided by law for the dissolution and disincorporation of corporations organized under the general law. [L. '21, p. 370, § 22.]

§ 2900. General Corporation Laws Applicable.

The provisions of the general corporation laws of this state, and all powers and rights thereunder, shall apply to the associations organized hereunder, except where such provisions are in conflict with or inconsistent with the express provisions of this act. [L. '21, p. 370, § 23.]

ing in this act contained shall be construed to prohibit a director, officer or employee who may also be a member of such association from receiving all the ordinary and usual benefits which other members receive. Any officer, director or employee of any such association who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a felony. [L. '21, p. 370, § 23-a.]

Said fair price shall be determined by said director from any and all information obtained by him with reference to the particular farm crop, covering the condition of the markets in the United States and elsewhere; the visible supply of such product and the kind, quality and condition of same. Said fair price shall not be considered as in any manner fixing the price at which said products may or shall be bought or sold, but same shall be fixed only for the purpose of further assuring the purchasers of any securities or paper issued on the basis of the credit of such farm crop. [L. '21, p. 391, § 17.]

§ 2932. Members' Indebtedness, Collection and Disposition.

Upon maturity of the notes evidencing the members' indebtedness to the association, the said trustee shall collect and place same in a fund for the retirement of said crop credit notes. Upon the collection of said indebtedness, which shall include the ten per cent (10%) excess, as hereinbefore provided, any and all warehouse receipts, insurance policies, certificates of inspection, or other security deposited for the security of the indebtedness of said member, shall be delivered to the said member or to his order. The funds so repaid by the members of the association, upon the order of the trustees of such association may be used for the immediate retirement of any outstanding crop credit notes of said issue, at a price not to exceed the face value of such crop credit notes. All members' notes, money, certificates and securities remaining in the hands of said trustee, after permission given it by the director, shall be returned to the crop credit association issuing same, which association shall collect as quickly as possible any remaining indebtedness under said issue then due to it. All sums so collected, less collection fees and expenses, shall be divided among and paid to the members of said association in proportion to the loans severally made to its members: Provided, however, that before any such division of moneys remaining after the retirement of any issue of crop credit notes, a full report of the issuance and sale of said notes and the retirement thereof shall be made to the director, and same shall not be distributed to the members of such association until the approval thereof by said director has been made in writing. The director shall at all times have the right and privilege of inspecting the crops, securities, warehouse receipts and accounts of the said association or the said trustee until the issue secured by same shall have been fully paid and retired. Each association shall make an annual report to the director of markets, showing the gross returns to said association from the business of the previous year; an itemized statement of its expenses; the amount of its net gain, if any, which shall have been transferred to a surplus account; and the amount of money distributed to its members. Such vendors and repurchasers shall be subject to all the terms and conditions imposed by this act upon other purchasers. [L. '13, p. 503, § 35.]

§ 2981. [3139-36.] Preference in Letting Contracts.

When logged-off or cut-over lands have been sold by settlers subject to the right of preferential repurchase as provided in the next preceding section of this act, the commissioners shall give preference to the vendors of such lands when letting contracts for the clearing and improving of the same: Provided, such vendors undertake by contract in writing, on such terms and conditions as said commissioners may prescribe, to effect such clearing and improving at a price not exceeding the most satisfactory tender received by the commissioners from outside bidders, or in any case not exceeding a reasonable price in view of the value of such lands for agricultural purposes. [L. '13, p. 503, § 36.]

All tracts distant less than one mile from a state or county highway shall be connected by a temporary road, and the proportion which any particular tract should bear of the expense of that road shall be estimated by said commissioners against that tract in the price subsequently to be placed upon it for purposes of future sale or lease. One-half of one per cent per annum above the rate realized by the agricultural development district on its issue of bonds, and not less than four and one-half per cent per annum, interest shall be charged on deferred payments. [L. '13, p. 506, § 44.]

offers from the owners of two-thirds of the lands that can be watered therefrom, or from an irrigation district or company, to accept distribution from such reservoirs, which offer shall be in form binding upon such owners or irrigation districts or companies during a period sufficient and reasonable for the construction of the reservoir. The commissioners, having obtained such binding offers, may then call for the written opinion of some competent engineering expert, showing the estimated cost of the reservoir, its capacity, the area that can be watered therefrom and the source and constancy of supply thereto, and when reports thereon satisfactory to the commissioners shall be filed, they may proceed with the construction of any works within or without the district which in the opinion of said commissioners may be necessary for the impounding and distribution of the waters. [L. '13, p. 507, § 50.]

§ 2996. [3139-51.] Price of Water—Maintenance.

§ 3000. [3139-55.] By-products.

The coupons for the payment of interest on said bonds shall be considered for all purposes as warrants drawn upon the general fund of the agricultural development district issuing such bonds, and when presented to the treasurer of the county having custody of the funds of such agricultural development district, if there are no funds in the treasury to pay the said coupons, it shall be the duty of the county treasurer to indorse said coupons as presented for payment, in the same manner as county warrants are indorsed, and thereafter said coupons shall bear interest at the rate named in the bond. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby created in the state treasury a state reclamation revolving fund, hereinafter called the reclamation fund, which shall consist of all sums that may from time to time be appropriated thereto by the legislature from other funds in the state treasury; all gifts, donations, bequests, and devises, made to the state therefor, and the proceeds of the sale thereof; the proceeds of the sale or redemption of and the interest earned by securities purchased or acquired with the moneys thereof; all reimbursements for moneys advanced for the payment of assessments upon state, school, granted and other public lands for the improvement thereof, as hereinafter provided; and all taxes received under levies authorized by the legislature therefor.

Whenever the total amount in the reclamation fund, including cash on hand, market value of property, and par value and accrued interest of securities owned, reimbursements due or to become due for moneys advanced for the improvement of state, school, granted and other public lands, and all uncollected taxes, including the current levy, less all outstanding warrants drawn against such fund, shall equal five million dollars ($5,000,000), all taxes from future levies authorized by this act made therefor shall be paid over to the respective funds in the state treasury from which moneys have been appropriated for the reclamation fund, until such funds are reimbursed for all sums so appropriated.

From the moneys appropriated from the reclamation fund there shall be paid, upon vouchers approved by the board and signed and attested by the chairman and secretary, the administrative expenses of the board and such amounts as shall be found necessary or expedient for the investigation and survey of reclamation projects proposed to be financed in whole or in part by the board, and such amounts as may be authorized by the board for the reclamation of logged-off lands and for the reclamation of lands of diking, drainage, diking and drainage, and irrigation districts duly and regularly organized under the laws of this state, and such other districts as shall from time to time be authorized by law for the reclamation or development of waste or undeveloped lands, and all of the respective districts hereinabove referred to shall, for the purposes of this act, be known and designated herein as reclamation districts. [L. '19, p. 444, § 4.]

§ 3008. Powers of Board.

In carrying out the purposes of this act the board shall be authorized and empowered:

To make surveys and investigations of the unreclaimed and undeveloped lands in this state and to determine the relative agricultural values, productiveness and uses, and the feasibility and cost of reclamation and development thereof;

To formulate and adopt a sound policy for the reclamation and development of the undeveloped agricultural resources of the state, and from time to time select for reclamation and development such lands as may be deemed advisable, and the board may in its discretion advise as to the formation and assist in the organization of reclamation districts under the laws of this state;

To purchase the bonds of any reclamation district whose project is approved by the board and which is found to be upon a sound financial basis, and to contract with any such district for making surveys and furnishing engineering plans and supervision for the construction of its project, and to accept the bonds of such district in payment therefor, and to expend the moneys appropriated from the reclamation fund in the purchase of such bonds or in carrying out such contracts;

To sell and dispose of any reclamation district bonds acquired by the board, at public or private sale, and to pay the proceeds of such sale into the reclamation fund, Provided, that such bonds shall not be sold for less than the purchase price plus accrued interest;

To, whenever it shall deem it advisable, require any district with which it may contract, to provide such safeguards as it may deem necessary to assure bona fide settlement and development of the lands within such district, by securing from the owners of lands therein agreements to limit the amount of their holdings to such acreage as they can properly farm and to sell their excess land holdings at reasonable prices;

To clear and reclaim logged-off lands in the manner hereinafter in this act provided;

To employ all necessary experts, assistants and employees, and fix their compensation, and to enter into any and all contracts and agreements necessary to carry out the purposes of this act;

To have the assistance, co-operation and services of, and the use of the records and files in, all the departments and institutions of the state, particularly the office of the commissioner of public lands, the state Department of Agriculture, the office of the state hydraulic engineer, the bureau of farm development, the bureau of statistics, agriculture and immigration, the State College of Washington, and the University of Washington; and all state officers and the governing authorities of all state institutions are hereby authorized and directed to co-operate with the board in furthering the purposes of this act;

To co-operate with the United States in any plan of land reclamation or land settlement or agricultural development which the congress of the United States may provide and which may affect the development of agricultural resources within the state of Washington, or the settlement of soldiers, sailors, and other worthy persons, on the agricultural lands within this state, and the board shall have full power to carry out the provisions of any co-operative land settlement act that may be enacted by the United States.

The board shall prepare and report to the legislature, at the commencement of each biennial session, a full statement of its operations and recommendations. [L. '19, p. 445, § 5.]

See § 10828, infra, duties devolve upon director of conservation and development.

§ 3009. Reclamation Contracts With United States.

The board shall have the power to co-operate and to contract with the United States for the reclamation of arid, swamp, overflow, or logged-off lands in this state by the board or by the United States, and shall have the power to contract with the United States for the handling of such reclamation work by the United States and for the repayment of such moneys as the board shall invest from the reclamation fund, under such terms and conditions as the United States laws and the regulations of the interior department shall provide for the repayment of reclamation costs by the lands reclaimed. [L. '19, p. 447, § 6.]

§ 3010. Drainage and Irrigation District Reclamation Contracts.

Every diking, drainage, diking and drainage, and irrigation district duly and regularly organized under the laws of this state, or such other district as shall hereafter be authorized by law and organized for the reclamation or development of waste or undeveloped lands, shall be and is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into all contracts with the reclamation board for the reclamation of the lands of such district in the manner provided in this act, or such manner as such districts are now authorized by law to contract with the United States or with individuals or corporations, for the making of surveys and furnishing engineering plans and supervision for the construction of, or for the construction of, all works and improvements necessary for the reclamation of its lands, and for the sale or delivery of its bonds. [L. '19, p. 447, § 7.]

§ 3011. State Lands—Inclusion in District.

Whenever in the judgment of the commissioner of public lands any state, school, granted, or other public lands of the state will be specially benefited by any proposed reclamation project approved by the board, he may consent that such lands be included in any reclamation district organized for the purpose of carrying out such reclamation project, and in that event the reclamation board shall be authorized to pay, out of the current appropriations from the reclamation fund, the district assessments levied as provided by law against such lands, and any such assessments paid shall be made a charge against the lands upon which they were levied, and the amount thereof, but without interest, shall be added to the appraised value and included in the sale price of such lands when sold, and the state treasurer shall, upon the certificate of the state land commissioner, credit such amount of the proceeds of the sale, when received, to the reclamation fund. [L. '19, p. 448, § 8.]

§ 3012. Survey of State's Logged-off Land.

Whenever the commissioner of public lands shall believe that any tract of cut-over forest or logged-off state, school, granted, or other public lands of the state, is of such quality and so situated that it may be profitably cleared and made ready for cultivation for agricultural purposes under the provisions of this act, he may request the state reclamation board to make a survey and investigation thereof and to determine the cost of clearing the same and whether such clearing will increase the value of the land sufficiently to warrant the expense. [L. '19, p. 448, § 9.]

§ 3013. Report on Feasibility.

Upon the filing of such request by the commissioner of public lands the board may in its discretion cause a survey and investigation of the lands described in the request to be made, and determine whether the land is of such character and so situated that it can be profitably cleared and made ready for cultivation for agricultural purposes under the provisions of this act. In making such determination the board shall take into consideration: (a) the character and quantity of stumps and debris on the land and the cost of removing and destroying the same; and (b) the character of the soil, its depth and fertility, the number and kinds of crops to which it is adapted, the local climatic conditions, the local annual rainfall, the water supply upon the land, the drainage, the number and extent of the markets accessible, the distance and means of transportation to market, the amount of similar land already under cultivation and accessible to the same market or markets, and the ordinary margin of profit per acre between the cost of production and the market price of the various crops to which the land is adapted.

Upon completion of the investigation the board shall make a detailed report of its findings and furnish a copy thereof to the commissioner of public lands and such report shall be kept on file for the information of the board and the commissioner and shall be open to public inspection. [L. '19, p. 448, § 10.]

§ 3014. Cost of Clearing Added to Sale Price of State Lands.

If the board shall determine that the state lands investigated as provided in the preceding section can be profitably cleared and made ready for cultivation and sold at an advanced price sufficient to cover the cost of clearing, it may cause the same to be cleared and pay the cost of such clearing out of the moneys appropriated from the reclamation fund for the reclamation of lands, and the cost of such clearing shall be made a charge against the lands cleared and included in the sale price thereof when sold, and such lands may be sold upon such terms as to deferred payments, including the cost of clearing, as is provided by law for the sale of state, school, granted, or other public lands of the state. [L. '19, p. 449, § 11.]

§ 3015. Tax Levy.

For the purpose of raising revenue for the carrying out of the provisions of this act, the state board of equalization shall, beginning the fiscal year of 1919, and annually thereafter, at the time of levying taxes for state purposes, levy upon all property subject to taxation, and the proper officers shall collect, a tax of one-half of one mill. The revenue so raised shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the state reclamation revolving fund. [L. '19, p. 450, § 12.]

§ 3016. Appropriations.

There is hereby appropriated out of the general fund in the state treasury into the state reclamation revolving fund the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000); for the purpose of making surveys and investigations of unreclaimed and undeveloped lands in this state and for general administrative expenses of the state reclamation board there is hereby appropriated out of the state reclamation revolving fund the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary: for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act relating to the purchase of the bonds of reclamation districts, the performance of contracts made with such districts, the payment of reclamation district assessments levied against lands of the state, and the payment of the cost of clearing logged-off lands of the state, there is hereby appropriated out of the state reclamation revolving fund the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary: Provided, that no warrant shall be drawn upon the state reclamation revolving fund in excess of the amount in the state treasury to the credit of said fund. [L. '19, p. 450, § 13.]

§ 3017. Partial Invalidity.

If any section or provision of this act shall be adjudged to be invalid or unconstitutional, such adjudication shall not affect the validity of the act as a whole or any section, provision or part thereof not adjudged invalid or unconstitutional. [L. '19, p. 451, § 14.]

CHAPTER XVII.

LAND SETTLEMENT.

§ 3018. Designation of Act.

This act shall be known and cited as the "Land Settlement Act." [L. '19, p. 583, § 1.]

See supra, §§ 3004—3017, reclamation of agricultural lands.

Cited in 110 Wash. 527.

This act is not unconstitutional as levying a tax for other than a public purpose; the legislature, by the act, having decided that it was a public purpose: State ex rel. State Reclamation Board v. Clausen, 110 Wash. 525, 188 Pac. 538.

This act does not violate the equal privileges and immunity guaranty of the constitution, and is not unconstitutional in that it discriminates in favor of agricultural lands; nor does it violate the due process clause of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution: State ex rel. State Reclamation Board v. Clausen, 110 Wash. 525, 188 Pac. 538.

§ 3019. Purpose of Act.

The state of Washington in the exercise of its sovereign and police powers declares that the settlement of such portions of the undeveloped lands in this state as may be determined to be suitable and economically available therefor is a state purpose and is necessary to the public health, safety and welfare of its people. In the exercise of such power the state, acting for itself and in co-operation with the United States, hereby establishes a definite land policy providing means whereby soldiers, sailors, marines, and others who have served with the armed forces of the United States in the war against Germany and her allies, or other wars of the United States, hereinafter generally referred to as "soldiers," and also industrial workers and other American citizens desiring a rural life, may settle upon and become owners of small improved farms and farm laborer's allotments. [L. '19, p. 583, § 2.]

Cited in 110 Wash. 527.

§ 3020. Co-operation Between State and Federal Governments.

That the state reclamation board created by the sixteenth legislature, hereinafter called the "board," shall have power to co-operate with the federal government in the settlement of any undeveloped lands in this state, and to avail itself of any authority of federal laws, rules and regulations therefor when any such settlement project shall be approved and adopted, by both the federal government and said board. Before said board shall expend any of the moneys appropriated for the settlement of land, except as herein otherwise provided, it shall enter into a written agreement with the federal government, setting forth the plan and basis of co-operation between the state and the federal government, and the expenditures to be incurred by each, and the provision for their repayment.

The contract with the United States may provide for the subdivision of the lands and other work needed to render one or more groups of farms available for agriculture.

The board is authorized to secure from the United States, subject to the provisions of federal laws, the necessary funds for making permanent improvements and for the purchase of necessary equipment. [L. '19, p. 584, § 3.]

§ 3021. Reclamation Board—Powers.

The board shall have power:

To investigate and select for settlement suitable areas of undeveloped lands in this state available for settlement;

To purchase and acquire on behalf of the state such privately owned lands as in its judgment are available for settlement, whenever the same shall be within the limits of an approved project and after full investigation and official approval thereof;

To subdivide any lands owned by the state and found available for settlement, including lands purchased or acquired for that purpose, into tracts suitable for farms and farm laborer's allotments;

To make on any such farms and farm laborer's allotments such improvements as may be necessary to render the same habitable and productive;

To accept from private owners deeds or other instruments of trust relating to land and to subdivide, improve, and sell such lands;

To lease to prospective settlers any land selected by the board of settlement;

To dedicate to public use appropriate tracts for roads, schoolhouses or other public purposes;

To purchase and acquire under state laws any state, school or granted lands of the state which the board shall determine are available for settlement under the provisions of this act, whenever the same shall be within the limits of an approved project and after full investigation and official approval thereof;

To purchase and acquire lands in co-operation with the United States under such conditions as may be deemed advisable for the purposes of this act, and to convey the same under such conditions and restrictions as may be approved by the secretary of the interior;

To arrange with the federal government for sharing in the expense of furnishing agricultural training for settlers so as to render them better qualified for the cultivation of their lands, under appropriate conditions of supervision by the federal government;

To sell and convey such improved farms and farm laborer's allotments subject to the limitations of this act;

To make such rules and regulations and perform any and all acts as may be necessary and proper for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act.

If it shall appear that federal aid and co-operation shall not be available, or the board shall determine to adopt and proceed with any land settlement project without federal aid and co-operation, then and in such event the board may acquire lands for such land settlement project and conduct their settlement with moneys from the state reclamation fund appropriated for land settlement purposes.

The board shall have power and it shall be its duty, upon request of any land settlement or colonization company operating in the state of Washington, to make, or cause to be made, a careful examination and, providing investigation warrants, to certify to the following conditions in reference to said company and its project:

(1) That the land is suitable to agricultural purposes and in passing upon this feature it shall first procure a report from the Washington State College and make such further investigations as the board deems advisable;

(2) That its location in reference to markets, public roads, and transportation facilities makes it suitable for colonization purposes;

(3) That the proposed plan of settlement and colonization is in the interest of the settlers and especially in reference to the following points:

(a) The price at which the land is proposed to be sold;

(b) The aid to be rendered the settlers in improving the same;

(c) The rate of interest to be charged and the length of time within which payments are to be made.

(4) That provision is made for deferred payments on the amortization plan maturing in not less than twenty years;

The expense incurred in making such examination and certification shall be paid by the applicant therefor.

Before any such certificate is issued such settlement and colonization company shall fully satisfy the board that it is able to and will faithfully carry out its plan of settlement and colonization and all contracts entered into with settlers.

Whenever any such certificate shall be issued it shall be lawful for such settlement and colonization company to advertise the fact that its plan of settlement and colonization has been approved by the state of Washington.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to claim, represent, advertise, or hold out in any manner that the board has issued to him or it any such certificate mentioned in this section unless such certificate has actually been so issued and unless such person, firm or corporation shall have fully complied with, and is complying with, such certificate and the terms and conditions therein prescribed and the rules and regulations of said board. [L. '21, p. 236, § 1. Cf. L. '19, p. 585, § 4.]

§ 3022. Preference Rights of Soldiers—Purchase Contracts.

That the board shall give to soldiers the preference right to purchase or lease such farms and farm laborer's allotments.

A qualified applicant must be a citizen of the United States and must satisfy the board that he is not the holder of agricultural land or possessory rights therein which, together with the land and improvements to be purchased hereunder, shall exceed a value of $15,000. No purchaser shall at any one time hold more than one farm or farm laborer's allotment. Every purchaser shall satisfy the board as to his fitness, both financial and otherwise, to cultivate and develop the same successfully.

Each approved applicant shall enter into a contract of purchase which shall provide for the payment of the purchase price of the land, the reclamation costs and the farm improvements and other charges, if any, and shall require the purchaser actually to occupy the land within six months and actually to reside thereon for at least eight months in each calendar year for a period of at least five years, unless prevented by illness or other cause satisfactory to the board; and other absence from the land exceeding four months in any calendar year shall be a breach of the contract.

The contract shall provide that it shall not be assigned without the consent of the board.

The purchase price of the land shall be paid in annual installments to be fixed by the board for a total period of not to exceed forty years, with interest on deferred payments from the date of the contract at the rate of four per cent per annum.

Title to the land shall not pass until full payment has been made for the land and improvements. [L. '19, p. 586, § 5.]

§ 3023. Notice of Leasing or Sale.

The lands disposed of under this act shall be leased or sold, in accordance with regulations adopted by the board, after public notice in at least one newspaper published in the state and of general circulation therein, and one newspaper published in the county where the land is situated, once a week for five consecutive weeks, the first date of publication being at least sixty days prior to the date of lease or sale, setting forth generally the location of the land and the terms of lease or sale and stating that detailed information can be obtained at the office of the board and such other convenient places as are designated in the notice. [L. '19, p. 587, § 6.]

Cited in 110 Wash. 529.

§ 3024. Investigations and Reports.

The board shall investigate land settlement conditions in other states and elsewhere. The board shall report biennially to the legislature, giving a full statement of its operations and recommendations under the provisions of this act, and shall furnish a copy of its report to the secretary of the interior. [L. '19, p. 587, § 7.]

§ 3025. Appropriations.

For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act relating to acquiring lands and improving the lands of the state, and the lands acquired or taken in trust under the provisions of this act, there is hereby appropriated out of the state reclamation revolving fund the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary; for the administrative expenses of the board in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated out of the general fund the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary: Provided, that no warrant shall be drawn upon the state reclamation revolving fund in excess of the amount in the state treasury to the credit of said fund. [L. '19, p. 588, § 8.]

Cited in 110 Wash. 529.

§ 3026. Partial Invalidity.

If any part of this act shall be adjudged to be invalid or unconstitutional, such adjudication shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the act as a whole, or of the part thereof not adjudged invalid or unconstitutional. [L. '19, p. 588, § 9.]

Cited in 110 Wash. 530.

§ 3027. Penalty for Violations.

Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '21, p. 239, § 2.]

CHAPTER XVIII.

STATE CONTROL OF BLASTING POWDER.

§ 3028. Purchase of Powder and Explosives.

It shall be the duty of the state board of control, within thirty days after this act takes effect, to make an investigation of the practicability of purchasing manufactured powder and other explosives for the purposes of sale by the state for land clearing purposes in the manner hereinafter provided. If the state board of control shall determine from such investigation that all the powder required to carry out the provisions of this act can be acquired by contract from manufacturers at a reasonable price as to justify the purchase thereof, it shall be the duty of the state board of control from time to time to advertise for bids for the quantities needed for the purposes of carrying out the provisions of this act, in the manner required by law for the purchase of supplies by the state board of control, and to enter into contracts for the purchase of the same with the lowest and best responsible bidders therefor. [L. '19, p. 439, § 1.]

§ 3029. Resale Price.

The explosives purchased under the provisions of this act, at any time within five years from the date of approval thereof, shall be sold for cash for actual use within this state for land clearing and road building purposes, at prices equaling the actual cost of purchase plus the actual cost of delivery at the warehouse where sold. [L. '19, p. 439, § 2.]

§ 3030. County Warehouses for Explosives.

The county commissioners may establish a warehouse for the storage and distribution of explosives purchased under the provisions of this act, in each county in the state when petitioned so to do. Whenever a warehouse shall be established in any county, the board of county commissioners of such county shall provide and maintain, at the expense of the county, a suitable building for use as such warehouse. The state board of control shall, from time to time, employ or contract with persons, firms or corporations, to transport explosives from the point of delivery to this state to such warehouse. The county auditor of the county in which any such warehouse is established shall keep a record of all purchases and sales and make monthly report to the board of county commissioners. The county commissioners shall have the power to appoint a warehouse superintendent who shall have charge of the county powder warehouse and the sale of powder to the county. The said warehouse superintendent shall furnish a sufficient bond to insure the safe handling of the funds; the amount of the bond together with his salary shall be fixed by the county commissioners. The county auditor shall provide vouchers for the sales of powder and the uses thereof, and it shall be the duty of the warehouse superintendent to have each purchaser sign a voucher for each amount purchased and the use thereof, and he shall report all sales with the voucher and purchase price to the auditor each day for the preceding day's sale: Provided, however, that if in the judgment of the county commissioners the county's use of powder shall not justify them in hiring the warehouse superintendent, the county auditor may depute the county agriculturalist or county engineer to act as warehouse superintendent. [L. '19, p. 440, § 3.]

§ 3031. Requisitions on State Board of Control.

The board of county commissioners shall be entitled to obtain explosives by requisition filed with the state board of control at such times and in such amounts as shall be reasonably necessary to supply the demands of the consumers in their locality (and shall be liable upon their bond to account for the proceeds of the sale of the same). [L. '19, p. 441, § 4.]

§ 3032. Settlements.

The county auditor shall, on or before the tenth day of each calendar month, report to, and settle his accounts with the board of control for all sales of explosives made by him for the preceding month. [L. '19, p. 441, § 5.]

§ 3033. "Powder Revolving Fund."

All proceeds from the sale of explosives shall be turned into the state treasury and credited to a special fund to be known as the "Powder Revolving Fund," except that from and after the expiration of five years from the date of approval of this act, two per cent of the actual purchase price of the explosives sold shall be credited to the general fund until such time as the state is reimbursed for the amounts hereinafter appropriated from the general fund. The powder revolving fund shall be used exclusively for the purchase and distribution of explosives as provided in this act, and for the cost of distribution of explosives, including transportation. [L. '19, p. 441, § 6.]

§ 3034. Violations of Selling Price and Use Conditions—Penalty.

It shall be unlawful for any person to sell explosives purchased under the provisions of this act for any sum in excess of the selling price thereof as fixed by the state board of control, and it shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to sell explosives purchased under the provisions of this act, or to purchase the same except for actual use in this state for land clearing purposes. Any person found guilty of violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '19, p. 441, § 7.]

§ 3035. Appropriations.

For the purpose of creating the "Powder Revolving Fund" there is hereby appropriated out of the general fund in the state treasury the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000). For the purposes of carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated out of the "Powder Revolving Fund" the sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary: Provided, that no warrant shall be drawn upon the "Powder Revolving Fund" in excess of the amount in the state treasury to the credit of said fund. CHAPTER IV.

STOCK RUNNING AT LARGE.

§ 3068. [3172-1.] Livestock Area.

That the board of county commissioners of any county of this state shall have the power to designate by an order made and published, as provided in section 3070, certain territory within such county in which it shall be unlawful to permit livestock of any kind to run at large: Provided, that no territory so designated shall be less than two square miles in area: And provided further, that this act shall not affect counties having adopted township organization. [L. '11, p. 93, § 1. Cf. L. '05, p. 194, § 1; L. '07, p. 566, § 1.]

See infra, § 3154 et seq., estrays.

Cited in 77 Wash. 502.

Rem. & Bal. Code, § 3166, providing for livestock areas, was not unconstitutional, as conferring judicial powers on the county commissioners and assessors, their acts being ministerial rather than judicial, and especially as the conferring of judicial powers on them is not obnoxious to the constitution; and it is not discriminatory, as it applies to the whole state, and being a police regulation, may be made to apply to certain locations: State v. Storey, 51 Wash. 630, 99 Pac. 878.

§ 3069. [3172-2.] Petition—Notice—Hearing.

Whenever ten residents within a proposed district shall file with the county auditor a petition, asking, within the territory therein named, no livestock of any kind shall be permitted to run at large, the county commissioners shall, at their next meeting, make an order fixing a time and place when a hearing will be had upon such petition, which time shall not be less than twenty days nor more than ninety days from the filing of such petition; and shall cause notice of the time to be given by publishing such notice in some newspaper having a general circulation within such territory for three successive weeks before the day fixed in such order; if there be no newspaper having a general circulation in such territory, then by posting such notice in three public places in such territory at least twenty days before the day of hearing, and such notice shall set forth the petition. It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners at the time fixed for such hearing, or at the time to which such hearing may be adjourned, to hear all persons interested in the question presented by such petition, and to determine whether such district shall be created. [L. '11, p. 93, § 2.]

§ 3070. [3172-3.] Commissioners to Make Order.

If the board of county commissioners shall determine to prohibit the running at large of livestock within the territory described in such petition or in any portion thereof, it shall make an order defining the boundaries of such territory, which shall be entered upon the records and published in a newspaper having general circulation in such territory for four successive weeks, or by posting in three public places in such territory for four weeks. [L. '11, p. 94, § 3.]

Under this section, the commissioners' power is not fully exercised by the granting of an application upon a hearing and the record entry of such action on the minutes; hence, until the order is entered and published, the matter was in a determinative stage, and the commissioners had power to give notice of a reconsideration of the application: State ex rel. Sieler v. Virnig, 77 Wash. 502, 137 Pac. 1039.

§ 3071. [3172-4.] Penalty.

Any person, or any agent, employee or representative of a corporation, violating any of the provisions of such order after the same shall have been published or posted as provided in section 3070, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than two dollars, nor more than ten dollars, for each offense, and it shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of such county, on complaint of any resident or freeholder of said territory to forthwith enforce the provisions of this section. [L. '11, p. 94, § 4.]

§ 3072. [3172-5.] Swine not Permitted at Large.

The owner of swine shall not allow them to run at large at any time or within any territory, and any violation of this section shall render such owner liable to the penalties provided for in section 3071: Provided, that swine may be driven upon the highways while in charge of sufficient attendants. [L. '11, p. 94, § 5.]

§ 3073. [3173.] Unlawful for Swine to Run at Large.

It shall be unlawful for the owner or owners of any swine to allow them to run at large in any county in the state. [L. '90, p. 454, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2488.]

For former laws on this subject see L. '69, pp. 362, 363; L. '83, p. 54; L. '88, pp. 55—57.

If any swine shall be suffered to run at large in any county of this state contrary to the provisions of this act, and shall trespass upon the land of any person, the owner or person having possession of such swine shall be liable for all damages the owner or occupant of such land may sustain by reason of such trespass; and for a second or subsequent act of trespass by such swine, such owner or person shall be liable for treble the amount of damages done by the same; such damages may be recovered in a civil action before any justice of the peace. [L. '90, p. 454, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2489.]

Cited in 109 Wash. 383, 384, 386.

Treble damages for injuries committed by trespassing swine, "suffered to run at large," under this section, cannot be recovered on mere proof of the trespass, it being necessary to show that they were running at large with the consent or knowledge of the owner; "suffer" meaning to "permit": Willis v. Gerking, 108 Wash. 382, 186 Pac. 1064.

§ 3075. [3175.] Swine may be Restrained—Proceedings.

If any swine shall be found running at large contrary to the provisions of this act, it shall be lawful for any person to restrain the same forthwith and shall immediately give the owner notice in writing that he has restrained said swine, and the amount of damages he claims in the premises, and requiring the owner to take said swine away and pay such damages. If said owner fails to comply with the provisions of this section within three days after receiving such notice, such damages may be recovered in a civil action before any justice of the peace, and such person who sustains damages as aforesaid shall have a lien upon said swine for the damages sustained by the said swine, and for keeping same: Provided, that if the owner of such swine is unknown, the notice required in this act shall be published for two weeks in a

The persons so notified, or any two of them attending, shall take an oath that they will fairly and impartially assess the damages in controversy, and they shall make out, sign, and deliver to each party a written statement of their appraisal of damages in the premises, and upon the payment of the damages and expenses allowed by such appraisers the owner shall be entitled to take his swine away; and if refused, the same may maintain an action therefor, as in other cases of wrongful taking or detention of property. [L. '90, p. 455, § 5; 1 H. C., § 2492.]

§ 3078. [3178.] Fees of Justices, etc., How Collected.

The justice of the peace shall be allowed a fee of fifty cents for issuing the notice and swearing the appraisers, and the constable or person serving the notice shall be allowed a fee of one dollar for each appraiser notified, and mileage to and from the place of service; each appraiser shall be allowed a fee of one dollar, which fee shall be paid by the owner of such swine before he shall be entitled to take them away. Or if such owner fails to pay such fees, the person having such swine shall pay the same, and may add the same to the damages allowed him in premises. [L. '90, p. 455, § 6; 1 H. C., § 2493.]

§ 3079. [3179.] Unnecessary to Fence Against Swine.

Any person, persons, firm or corporation within this state who shall desire to move his or their sheep which are infected with scab or other infectious or contagious disease from place to place within this state, shall first obtain from the state veterinarian or one of his deputies a traveling permit. Upon receipt of the application for such a permit the state veterinarian or one of his deputies shall examine the sheep, and such permit shall only be granted for the purpose of removing said sheep to the nearest suitable point where there are available dipping works or where such works can be constructed, at which place said sheep shall be dipped under the direction of such official. In such removal only that route shall be used which such official shall designate in his permit, and before moving said sheep the owner or person in charge shall first notify all parties herding said sheep along or over said route that the infected sheep must travel, of the fact that they are to pass and the time at which they will pass over said route, and such route shall be considered as quarantined, and any person, persons, firm or corporation injured or damaged by reason of the moving of said sheep shall be entitled to recover from the owners thereof in civil action the amount of such damages: Provided, however, that no party shall be entitled to recover damages who shall voluntarily herd or cause to be herded any sheep on such quarantined ground, and any sheep so voluntarily herded on such ground shall be considered as affected as in this act provided for infected sheep within this state. Any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars. § 3138. [3226.] Importation—Inspection—Quarantine.

Any person, persons, firm or corporation, their agent or employees, who shall drive or herd, or cause to be driven or herded, or bring or cause to be brought, by road or trail, into the state of Washington from any other state, any sheep shall immediately upon crossing the said line and before proceeding into the state a distance greater than two miles, make written application to the state veterinarian or his nearest deputy, for the inspection of said sheep, and said application shall be delivered in person or by telegraph or telephone or registered letter. The notice must state the time and place when and where the said sheep crossed the line, the locality from which they came, the name and residence of the owner or owners thereof, and of the person in control of the same, the number, the brands and character of the animals. The state veterinarian on receiving such notice shall at once proceed, either by himself or his deputies to inspect the sheep, and if upon inspection he shall deem it necessary to prevent or avoid infection, he shall cause said sheep to be quarantined not more than three miles from where they entered the state for such period as may be necessary, not to exceed thirty days. And if he shall regard it necessary, shall cause said sheep to be dipped not to exceed three times if infected, or once if exposed, before they are released from such quarantine. Any person, persons, firm or corporation, their agent or employees, who shall ship into the state by railroad or steamboat lines from any other state any sheep, shall immediately upon unloading the same at any point within this state notify personally or by telephone or by telegraph or registered letter the state veterinarian; and thereupon the said official or one of his deputies shall proceed to inspect said animals, and if upon inspection he shall deem it necessary to prevent or avoid infection he shall cause said sheep to be quarantined not more than three miles from the point where they are unloaded for such period not to exceed thirty days as may be necessary, and if he shall deem it necessary shall cause said sheep to be dipped not to exceed three times if infected, or once if exposed, before they are released from such quarantine: Provided further, however, that such sheep are not for immediate slaughter or en route through the state on railroad trains or boat lines to other states, and that any sheep held in quarantine under this section may be released therefrom at any time for the purpose of immediate slaughter: And provided further, that if in the opinion of the state veterinarian it is unnecessary to inspect sheep coming into this state from certain districts or localities from other states he may issue an order dispensing with such inspection and restriction. Any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. Such fine shall be a lien upon the sheep and may be foreclosed as personal property liens are foreclosed under the existing laws of this state or may be enforced as a judgment against the offending party. [L. '09, p. 661, § 9.]

§ 3139. [3227.] Refusal of Owner to Dip—Powers of Inspectors.

Any transportation company which shall convey from point to point within this state any sheep infected with scab or any other contagious or infectious disease, knowing the condition of the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as in this section above provided. All corrals, yards, pens, sheds, chutes, cars or boats of such company which shall have been occupied by infected sheep shall immediately thereafter, and within forty-eight hours be disinfected by said company, and failure on its part so to do shall likewise be deemed a misdemeanor and punished as in this section above provided. Such disinfection shall be done in accordance with the rules of the United States bureau of animal industry relating to the disinfection of such places, boats and cars, and the state veterinarian, his deputy, and the officials of said bureau of animal industry shall each have authority to enforce the provisions of this section, and when such company shall neglect for a period of forty-eight hours to so disinfect, such officials may take possession of such corrals, yards, pens, sheds, chutes or boats, and proceed to disinfect them at the expense of such company, such expense to be recovered by an action in the name of the state veterinarian in any court of competent jurisdiction. In all cases where quarantine of sheep is authorized by the provisions of this act, the state veterinarian and his deputies and the officials of the United States bureau of animal industry are each and all empowered to designate and specify the place, limits and boundaries of any quarantine area or territory, and they are hereby given authority over the same until the purpose of such quarantine shall have been effected, and any person, persons, firm or corporation owning or having in his or their possession sheep within such quarantined area, who shall permit or allow any of such sheep to go beyond the limits of the same, without permit from the official in charge, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and all of the officials above named are hereby clothed with full authority to control sheep and territory in quarantine, and to take and hold possession thereof as provided by the terms of this act, and for all purposes thereof. Such lien shall be enforced at any time after ten days from the date when said charge shall be incurred and shall not be dependent upon possession of said sheep and may be foreclosed in the name of the state veterinarian in the manner provided for the foreclosure of other liens upon personal property; or in lieu of foreclosing such lien said state veterinarian may bring an action in his own name in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the amount of such charges and expenses: Provided, however, that when work is done by the state veterinarian in person he shall charge no fees. [L. '09, p. 667, § 19.]

§ 3149. [3237.] Disposition of Fines—Lien on Sheep.

All fines and penalties imposed under the provisions of this act shall be collected in behalf of and in the name of the state and shall become a part of the general fund thereof, and the offenses herein declared to be misdemeanors shall be prosecuted by the several prosecuting attorneys of the state in the superior courts thereof in the same manner that misdemeanors are prosecuted under the general laws of the state. And it is hereby made incumbent upon such prosecuting attorneys to foreclose liens herein provided, when necessary, and to act in either civil or criminal matters under this act when requested to do so by the veterinarian or his deputies. § 3152. [3240.] Spreading Disease—Liability of Owner—Lien—Actions.

Nothing in this act shall be construed as exempting any person owning sheep from liability in a civil action for damages for negligently or carelessly spreading scab, or scabies, or any other contagious or infectious diseases, but any person so spreading or causing said disease to be spread, either personally or through his agents in charge of sheep belonging to him, shall be liable in a civil action for damages sustained by any other person for injury to such other person's sheep by the infecting of such sheep with the scab or scabies or any other contagious or infectious disease, the same as if this act had not been passed, and no certificate issued under the provisions of this act shall be any defense or excuse in an action for damages of this character. Any damages that may be recovered in such a civil action for damages shall be a lien upon the sheep infected as stated herein by any other band or herd of sheep, for which infection such suit may have been brought, and the court in rendering judgment in any action brought for such damages shall declare such judgment to be a lien upon such sheep and direct them to be sold under special execution to pay such judgment. He may also employ other necessary assistance. In the case of the absence or inability to act, or vacancy in the office of the bank commissioner for thirty consecutive days, the deputy bank commissioner shall have all the powers and duties of bank commissioner until the inability of the bank commissioner shall be removed or

The dates designated by the bank commissioner shall be the dates designated by the comptroller of the currency of the United States for reports of national banking associations. Each such report in condensed form, to be prescribed by the bank commissioner, shall be published once in a newspaper of general circulation, published in a place where the corporation is located, or if there be no newspaper published in such place, then in some newspaper published in the same county.

Every such corporation shall also make such special reports as said bank commissioner shall call for. [L. '19, p. 729, § 4. Cf. L. '17, p. 272, § 5.]

He shall publish such other statements, reports and pamphlets as he shall deem advisable. [L. '17, p. 274, § 13.]

See note to § 3217.

§ 3222. Banks Excluded from Act—Federal Reserve Membership.

Cited in 103 Wash. 252; 104 Wash. 52—55.

This section did not impliedly repeal section 3810, authorizing corporations generally to hold stock in other corporations: Moore v. Fremont State Bank, 103 Wash. 249, 173 Pac. 1089.

A foreign corporation, whose articles designate trust or agency powers is not entitled to file its articles with the Secretary of State unless it is incorporated in compliance with the laws relating to trust companies: State ex rel. Amalgamated Republic Mines Co. v. Nichols, 47 Wash. 117, 91 Pac. 632.

The provision prohibiting the use of the word "trust" in the name of other corporations is germane to the general purposes of an act entitled "An act providing for the incorporation of trust companies, and defining their powers and duties": State ex rel. Osborne etc. Co. v. Nichols, 38 Wash 309, 80 Pac. 462.

§ 3223. National Banks Doing Trust Business.

A national bank located within this state and having a paid-up capital of fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars or more, when authorized or permitted so to do, by or under any act of the congress of the United States, may exercise any of the powers conferred upon trust companies by this act. [L. '17, p. 276, § 16.]

§ 3224. National Banks Subject to State Restrictions.

Before any such national bank shall engage in such trust business, it shall file a certificate with the state bank examiner, wherein it agrees to conform to all the regulations and restrictions of this act relating to trust companies and trust business, including the examination of its trust business by said examiner and the payment of the fees therefor, herein prescribed for the examination of banks and trust companies. Upon the filing of such a certificate in a form to be approved by said examiner, such national bank shall be subject to all the regulations and restrictions of this act relative to trust companies and trust business. [L. '17, p. 277, § 17.]

"Bank examiner" means bank commissioner. See § 3208, supra.

§ 3225. Use of Names "Bank" and "Trust"—Penalty.

The name of every bank shall contain the word "bank," and the name of every trust company shall contain the word "trust." No person except:

1. A national bank;
2. A bank or trust company authorized by the laws of this state;
3. A foreign corporation authorized by this act so to do, shall,

1. Use as a part of his or its name or other business designation or in any manner as if connected with his or its business or place of business any of the following words or the plural thereof, to wit: "bank," "banking," "banker," "trust."

2. Use any sign at or about his or its place of business or use or circulate any advertisement, letterhead, billhead, note, receipt, certificate, blank, form, or any written or printed or part written and part printed paper, instrument or article whatsoever, directly or indirectly indicating that the business of such person is that of a bank or trust company.

Every person who, and every director and officer of every corporation which, to the knowledge of such director or officer violates any provision of this section shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '17, p. 277, § 18.]

Cited in 104 Wash. 53, 57, 59, 60.

Under Rem. & Bal. Code, § 3346, a pre-existing corporation cannot change its name to include therein the word "trust," without complying with the other provisions of the act regulating trust companies, since the change in name is to that extent the creation of a new corporation: State ex rel. Osborne etc. Co. v. Nichols, 38 Wash. 309, 83 Pac. 462.

A corporation, the articles of which authorized it to engage in a trust business cannot lawfully use the word "trust" in its corporate name, although it does not actually engage in a trust business, without complying with this act; since the act was intended to put banks and trust companies in a distinct class with limited powers and new safeguards: Union Trust Co. v. Moore, 104 Wash. 50, 175 Pac. 565.

The words "Trust Company," in this section, are not ambiguous, and the phrase "authorized by laws of the state" was merely intended to differentiate between trust companies organized under the act and foreign trust companies authorized by the act to engage in a trust business, and not to authorize existing companies to continue the use of the trust name, if not engaged in a trust business without complying with the law: Union Trust Co. v. Moore, 104 Wash. 50, 175 Pac. 565.

§ 3226. Incorporators — Capital Paid in — Business Districts — Additional Subscriptions.

Five or more natural persons, citizens of the United States, may incorporate a bank or trust company in the manner herein prescribed. No bank shall incorporate for a less amount, nor commence business unless it have a paid-in capital, as follows:

Any such bank incorporated to be located outside the central business district of such a city shall not receive deposits to exceed in the aggregate ten times the amount of its paid-up and unimpaired capital stock and surplus.

No trust company shall incorporate for a less amount, nor commence business unless it has a paid-in capital as follows:

In addition to the foregoing, each bank and trust company shall before commencing business have subscribed and paid in to it in the same manner as is required for capital stock, an additional amount equal to at least ten per cent of the capital stock above required. Such additional amount shall be carried in the undivided profit account and may be used to defray organization and operating expenses of the company. Any sum not so used shall be transferred to the surplus fund of the company before any dividend shall be declared to the stockholders. [L. '17, p. 277, § 19.]

Under Rem. & Bal. Code, § 3346, the original incorporators are liable to a subscriber for the amount paid on his subscription upon their abandonment of the enterprise for failure to secure full subscriptions of the stock, regardless of fraud or conspiracy in the soliciting of the subscription, and although the same was solicited by and paid to only one of their number: Miller v. Denman, 49 Wash. 217, 95 Pac. 67, 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 348.

banks and placing the administration in the hands of the state bank examiner, with power to determine the necessity and amount of assessments and to liquidate its affairs, the state cannot claim a preference on assets in the hands of the examiner, especially in view of Id., § 3303-12, providing that, upon complete liquidation, proceeds shall be delivered to the stockholders, and the debtor bank is not re-vested therewith: Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. v. Moore, 107 Wash. 99, 181 Pac. 40.

§ 3227. Articles Executed in Quadruplicate.

[L. '17, p. 279, § 20.]

"Bank examiner" means bank commissioner. See § 3208, supra.
Duties devolve upon director of taxation and examination. See § 10812, infra.

§ 3228. Contents of Articles.

Articles of incorporation shall state:

2. The city, village or locality and county where such corporation is to be located.
3. The nature of its business, whether that of a commercial bank, a savings bank or both or a trust company.
4. The amount of its capital stock, which shall be divided into shares of $100.00 each.
5. The period for which such corporation is organized, which shall not exceed fifty years.

Such articles shall be acknowledged before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments. [L. '17, p. 279, § 21.]

§ 3229. Certificates of Authority—Refusal to Grant—Appeals.

When articles of incorporation, complying with the foregoing requirements, have been filed with the state bank examiner and the incorporators shall have notified him that all provisions of law authorizing such bank or trust company to commence business have been complied with, he shall investigate the proposed corporation. If he shall determine that any provision of law in the premises has not been complied with or that any of the incorporators are lacking in responsibility or general fitness, he shall refuse to grant a certificate of authority and shall forthwith so notify the incorporators; otherwise, he shall grant such certificate.

The refusal of the examiner to grant a certificate of authority shall be conclusive, unless the incorporators within ten days of the issuance of such notice of refusal shall appeal to the superior court of the county in which such corporation is proposed to be located, which said appeal shall be triable de novo in said court.

No bank or trust company shall transact any business except as is necessarily preliminary to its organization until it has received a certificate of authority. [L. '17, p. 280, § 22.]

See note to § 3227, supra.

§ 3230. Corporate Powers of Banks.

Upon the issuance of a certificate of authority to a bank, the persons named in the articles of incorporation and their successors shall thereupon become a corporation and shall have power:

- (3) To make contracts.
- (4) To sue and be sued, the same as a natural person.
- (5) To elect directors who, subject to the provisions of the corporation's by-laws, shall have power to appoint such officers as may be necessary or convenient, to define their powers and duties and to dismiss them at pleasure, and who shall also have general supervision and control of the affairs of such corporation.

(6) To prescribe by its stockholders by-laws not inconsistent with law, regulating the manner in which its stock shall be transferred, its directors and officers elected or appointed, its stockholders convened for general or special meetings, its property transferred, its general business conducted and the privileges granted to it by law exercised and enjoyed.

(7) To discount and negotiate promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange and other evidences of debt, to receive deposits of money and commercial paper, to lend money on real or personal security, to buy and sell bullion, coins and bills of exchange.

(8) To take and receive as bailee for hire upon terms and conditions to be prescribed by the corporation, for safekeeping and storage, jewelry, plate, money, specie, bullion, stocks, bonds, mortgages, securities and valuable paper of any kind and other valuable personal property, and to rent vaults, safes, boxes and other receptacles for safekeeping and storage of personal property.

(9) If the bank be located in a city of not more than five thousand inhabitants, to act as insurance agent. [L. '19, p. 731, § 8. Cf. L. '17, p. 280, § 23.]

§ 3231. Corporate Powers of Trust Companies.

Upon the issuance of a certificate of authority to a trust company, the persons named in the articles of incorporation and their successors shall thereupon become a corporation and shall have power:

(1) To execute all the powers and possess all the privileges conferred on banks.

(2) To act as fiscal or transfer agent of the United States or of any state, municipality, body politic or corporation and in such capacity to receive and disburse money.

(7) To accept trusts from and execute trusts for married women in respect to their separate property and to be their agent in the management of such property and to transact any business in relation thereto.

(8) To act as receiver or trustee of the estate of any person, or to be appointed to any trust by any court, to act as assignee under any assignment for the benefit of creditors of any debtor, whether made pursuant to statute or otherwise, and to be the depository of any moneys paid into court.

(9) To be appointed and to accept the appointment of executor of, or trustee under, the last will and testament, or administrator with or without the will annexed, of the estate of any deceased person, and to be appointed and to act as guardian of the estates of lunatics, idiots, persons of unsound mind, minors and habitual drunkards: Provided, however, the power hereby granted to trust companies to act as guardian or administrator, with or without the will annexed, shall not be construed to deprive parties of the prior right to have issued to them letters of guardianship, or of administration, as such right now exists under the law of this state: And, be it further provided, that no trust company or other corporation which advertises that it will furnish legal advice, construct or prepare wills, or do other legal work for its customers, shall be permitted to act as executor, administrator or guardian; and any trust company or other corporation whose officers or agents shall solicit legal business or personally solicit the appointment of such trust company or corporation as executor, administrator or guardian shall be ineligible for a period of one year thereafter to be appointed executor, administrator or guardian in any of the courts of this state.

Any trust company or other corporation which advertises that it will furnish legal advice, construct or prepare wills, or do other legal work for its customers, and any officer, agent or employee of any trust company or corporation who shall solicit legal business or personally solicit the appointment of such trust company or corporation as executor, administrator or guardian shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

(10) To execute any trust or power of whatever nature or description that may be conferred upon or intrusted or committed to it by any person or by any court or municipality, foreign or domestic corporation and any other trust or power conferred upon or intrusted or committed to it by grant, assignment, transfer, devise, bequest or by any authority and to receive, take, use, manage, hold and dispose of, according to the terms of such trusts or powers any property or estate, real or personal, which may be the subject of any such trust or power.

(11) Generally to execute trusts of every description not inconsistent with law.

(12) To purchase, invest in and sell stocks, promissory notes, bills of exchange, bonds, debentures and mortgages and other securities and when moneys are borrowed or received for investment, the bonds or obligations of the company may be given therefor, but no trust company hereafter organized shall issue such bonds: Provided, that no trust company which receives money for investment and issues the bonds of the company therefor shall engage in the business of banking or receiving of either savings or commercial deposits: And, provided, that it shall not issue any bond covering a period of more than ten years between the date of its issuance and its maturity date: And provided, further, that if, for any cause, the holder of any such bond upon which one or more annual rate installments have been paid, shall fail to pay the subsequent annual rate installments provided in said bond such holder shall, on or before the maturity date of said bond, be paid not less than the full sum which he has paid in on account of said bond. [L. '21, p. 245, § 1. Cf. L. '17, p. 281, § 24.]

§ 3232. Reports of Bond Liabilities—Deposits to Pay Bond Liabilities.

Any trust company receiving moneys for investment, and for which it shall give its bonds as in subdivision 12 of section 3231 provided, shall within ten days after any regular report is called for from banks or trust companies by the state bank examiner, make a statement of its total liability, on all bonds issued and then in force, certified by its board of directors, and shall at the same time deposit with the state treasurer, for the benefit of the holders of such bonds or obligations, sufficient securities or money so that it will have on deposit with said state treasurer a sufficient amount of said securities, which may be exchanged for other securities as necessity may require, or money to, at any time, pay all of said liability. In the event of its failure to make such deposits, it shall cease doing such business: Provided, that whenever money shall have been deposited with the treasurer, it may be withdrawn at any time upon a like amount of securities being deposited in its stead: And provided further, that the securities deposited shall consist of such securities as are by this act permitted for the investment of trust funds. [L. '17, p. 284, § 25.]

§ 3233. Capital Stock—Increase—Reduction.

Any bank or trust company may increase its capital stock or otherwise amend its articles of incorporation, in any manner not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, by a vote of the stockholders representing two-thirds of its capital, at any regular meeting, or special meeting duly called for that purpose, in the manner prescribed by its by-laws: Provided, that notice of a meeting called to increase capital stock shall first be published once a week for four weekly issues in a newspaper published in the county in which such corporation is located. A certificate of the fact and the terms of the amendment shall be executed by a majority of the directors and filed as required herein for articles of incorporation. No increase of capital stock shall be valid, until the amount thereof shall have been subscribed and actually paid in and a certificate of increase received from the state bank examiner. No reduction of the capital stock shall be made to an amount less than is required for capital, nor be valid, nor warrant the cancellation of stock certificates, nor diminish the personal liabilities of the stockholders until such reduction has been approved by said examiner, nor shall any reduction relieve any stockholder from any liability of the corporation incurred prior thereto. No amendment shall be made whereby a bank becomes a trust company unless such bank shall first receive permission from said examiner, nor unless such bank shall amend its name so that it shall include the word "trust" as a part thereof. [L. '17, p. 284, § 26.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3234. Extension of Existence—Application—Certificate of Authority—Amended Articles.

At any time not less than one year nor more than two years prior to the expiration of the time of the existence of any bank or trust company, it may by written application to the state bank examiner, signed and verified by a majority of its directors and approved in writing by the owners of not less than two-thirds of its capital stock, apply to the state bank examiner for leave to file amended articles of incorporation, extending its time of existence. The examiner shall forthwith make a complete examination of such applicant. If he determines that the applicant is in sound condition, that it is conducting its business in a safe manner and in compliance with law and that no reason exists why it should not be permitted to continue, he shall issue to the applicant a certificate authorizing it to file amended articles of incorporation extending the time of its existence for a term not longer than fifty years from the end of its original term. Otherwise he shall notify the applicant that he refuses to grant such certificate. The applicant may appeal from such refusal in the same manner as in the case of a refusal to grant an original certificate of authority. Otherwise the determination of the examiner shall be conclusive.

Upon receiving a certificate, as hereinabove provided, the applicant may file amended articles of incorporation, extending the time of its existence for the term authorized, to which shall be attached a copy of the certificate of the examiner. Such articles shall be filed in the same manner and upon payment of the same fees as for original articles of incorporation.

Should any bank or trust company fail to continue its existence in the manner herein provided and be not previously dissolved, the state bank examiner shall at the end of its original term of existence immediately take possession thereof and wind up the same in the same manner as in the case of insolvency. [L. '17, p. 285, § 27.]

§ 3235. State Bank—Reorganization as National Bank.

A state bank or trust company may, upon first notifying the bank commissioner of such intention, reorganize under the laws of the United States as a national bank. As soon as it shall have obtained a certificate authorizing it to commence business under the United States banking laws, it shall retain and hold all the assets, real and personal, which it acquired during its existence under this act, and shall hold the same subject to all existing liabilities against such bank or trust company at the time of its reorganization and it shall supply the bank commissioner with a copy of its certificate of authority as a national banking association certified to by its president and cashier. [L. '19, p. 732, § 10. Cf. L. '17, p. 286, § 28.]

§ 3236. State Organization of Dissolved National Bank.

Whenever any bank existing under the laws of the United States and located within this state is authorized to dissolve and shall have taken the necessary steps to effect dissolution, a majority of its directors, upon the authority in writing of the owners of three-fourths of its capital stock, and the approval of the state bank examiner, may execute and file articles of incorporation, as provided in this act, together with a certificate setting forth the authority derived from the stockholders as aforesaid. Upon the receipt of a certificate of authority from said examiner, such corporation shall become a bank or trust company under the laws of this state, and thereupon all assets of such dissolved national bank shall be vested in and become the property of such state bank or trust company, subject to all liabilities of such national bank not liquidated under the laws of the United States before such reorganization. [L. '17, p. 286, § 29.]

See note to § 3227, supra.

§ 3237. Directors, Election and Meetings—Stockholders' Meetings—Oath of Directors—Vacancies in Board.

Every bank and trust company shall be managed by not less than five directors, excepting that a bank having a capital of $50,000 or less may have only three directors. Directors shall be elected by the stockholders and hold office for one year and until their successors are elected and have qualified. In the first instance the directors shall be elected at a meeting held before the bank or trust company is authorized to do business by the state bank examiner and afterwards at the annual meeting of the stockholders to be held on the second Tuesday in January in each year. If for any cause no election is held at that time, it may be held at an adjourned meeting or at a subsequent meeting called for that purpose in the manner prescribed by the corporation's by-laws. The directors shall meet at least once each month and whenever required by the state bank examiner. A majority of the board of directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. At all stockholders' meetings, each share shall be entitled to one vote. Any stockholder may vote in person or by written proxy. Every director must be the beneficial owner of at least ten shares of stock, excepting that a director of a bank having a capital stock of $50,000 or less, need be the owner of only five shares of stock.

Immediately upon election, each director shall take, subscribe, swear to and file with the examiner an oath that he will, so far as the duty devolves upon him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such corporation and will not knowingly violate or willingly permit to be violated any provision of law applicable to such corporation and that he is the beneficial owner in good faith of the number of shares of stock required by this section, and that the same is fully paid, is not hypothecated or in any way pledged as security for any loan or debt. Vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled by the board. [L. '17, p. 287, § 30.]

§ 3238. Meeting of Directors and Stockholders — Stock Records — Corporate Books.

All meetings of the directors or stockholders of any bank or trust company, except organization meetings, must be held in the town or city in which the corporation is located. Every such corporation shall keep a book in which shall be recorded the names and residences of the stockholders thereof, the number of shares held by each, when each person became a stockholder and also the transfers of stock, showing the time when made, the number of shares and by whom transferred. In all actions, suits and proceedings, said book shall be prima facie proof of the facts shown therein. All of the corporate books, including the certificate book, stockholders' ledger and minute book shall be kept at the corporation's principal place of business and not elsewhere. [L. '17, p. 288, § 31.]

§ 3239. Surety Bonds of Officers and Employees.

The board of directors of each bank and trust company shall require its active officers and employees and such other officers as they shall designate, each to give a surety company bond, in such sum as the board shall specify and the state bank examiner shall approve, conditioned for the faithful and honest discharge of his duties and for the faithful application of all moneys, funds and valuables which shall come into his possession, or under his control. [L. '17, p. 288, § 32.]

§ 3240. Dividends—Surplus.

The directors of any bank or trust company may declare a dividend of so much of the net profits, after providing for all expenses, interest and taxes accrued, or due, as they shall judge expedient, but before any such dividend is declared not less than one-tenth of the net profits for the preceding half year or for such period as is covered by the dividend, shall be carried to a surplus, until such surplus shall amount to twenty per cent of its capital stock. Accrued and uncollected interest shall not be distributed as a part of the profits, nor carried on the books as such. [L. '17, p. 288, § 33.]

§ 3241. Stock—Levy of Assessments and Collection of Installments—Repairing Reductions.

Whenever the state bank examiner shall notify the board of directors of a bank or trust company to require the payment of an installment or to levy an assessment upon the stock of such corporation, such board shall within ten days from the issuance of such notice adopt a resolution for the collection of such installment or the levy of such assessment and shall immediately upon the adoption of such resolutions serve notice upon each stockholder personally or by mail at his last known address to pay such installment or assessment and that if the same be not paid within twenty days from the date of the issuance of such notice, his stock shall be subject to sale, and all amounts previously paid thereon will be subject to forfeiture. At any time after the expiration of said twenty-day period, the board may proceed by action at law or otherwise to collect the installment or assessment from any delinquent stockholder, or it may, whether any action has been commenced or not, at any time before the installment or assessment is actually paid, sell the stock of such stockholder and forfeit all amounts previously paid thereon. At any time after the expiration of sixty days from the expiration of said twenty-day period, the examiner may require any stock upon which the installment or assessment remains unpaid to be canceled and deducted from the capital of the corporation. If such cancellation shall reduce the capital of the corporation below the minimum required by this act, or its articles of incorporation, the capital shall, within thirty days thereafter, be increased to the required amount by original subscription, in default of which the examiner may take possession of such corporation in the manner provided by law in case of insolvency.

If any stock be sold prior to cancellation, there shall be returned to the original stockholder, his heirs or assigns, any surplus which remains after deducting from the amount realized at such sale, the amount of the installment or assessment due upon such stock, together with all costs incurred in connection with the sale of such stock, and interest upon the installment or assessment from the date of the notice to the stockholder. In the event of the failure of any board of directors to adopt the resolution herein required within the time specified, or to collect any installment or assessment, or to forfeit the stock of any delinquent stockholder, as herein provided, the examiner may, himself, in his discretion, at any time, issue the notice herein provided for on behalf of such corporation, and bring any appropriate action in his own name, but for the benefit of such corporation, for the collection of any installment or assessment, declare the forfeiture of any stock, or perform any other act herein referred to with the same force and effect as if such act were performed by the board of directors, and in the event that the examiner shall have brought any proceeding for the collection of any installment or assessment, the board of directors shall thereafter have no power to cancel the stock involved or continue such proceeding, except as permitted by said examiner. [L. '17, p. 288, § 34.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3242. Stockholders' Individual Liability—Enforcement.

The stockholders of every bank and trust company shall be individually and personally liable, equably and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts and engagements of such corporation accruing while they remain as stockholders, to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares. Persons holding stock as executors, administrators, guardians or trustees, if such relation of trust shall appear in the stock certificate and on the books of the corporation, or as collateral security or in pledge, shall not be personally liable as stockholders, but the assets and funds in the hands of such trustees constituting the trust shall be liable to the same extent as the testator, intestate, ward, or person interested in such funds would be, if living or competent to act, and the person pledging such stock shall be deemed a stockholder and liable under this section. Such liability may be enforced by the examiner as soon after taking possession of any bank or trust company as in his judgment the same may be necessary. The failure of the stockholders of any bank or trust company immediately upon possession being taken by the examiner to make good all impairment of its assets shall be conclusive evidence that the enforcement of double liability is necessary. [L. '17, p. 290, § 35.]

Under Rem. Code, § 3327, of the banking act, which provides that the state bank examiner may if necessary to pay debts, enforce the individual liability of stockholders, the bank examiner has authority to determine the necessity and amount of an assessment upon stockholders of an insolvent bank without resorting to a judicial inquiry: Hanson v. Soderberg, 105 Wash. 255, 177 Pac. 827.

The same would be true of this section, which gives the state bank examiner power to enforce the stockholders' liability as soon after taking possession as in his judgment may be necessary and making the failure of the stockholders to make good any impairment of the assets conclusive evidence that the double liability is necessary: Hanson v. Soderberg, 105 Wash. 255, 177 Pac. 827.

This section bears upon the remedy only, and is accordingly applicable to an assessment upon a bank in liquidation under the act of 1915: Hanson v. Soderberg, 105 Wash. 255, 177 Pac. 827.

Conferring authority upon the state bank examiner to make and enforce an assessment upon the stockholders of an insolvent bank is not objectionable as conferring judicial power upon a ministerial officer: Hanson v. Soderberg, 105 Wash. 255, 177 Pac. 827.

§ 3243. Purchase of Its Own Capital Stock—Other Bank Stock.

The shares of stock of every bank and trust company shall be deemed personal property. No such corporation shall make any loan or discount on the security of its own capital stock, or be the purchaser or holder of any such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith, and stock so purchased or acquired shall be sold at public or private sale or otherwise disposed of, within ninety days from the time of its purchase or acquisition. Nor shall any such corporation subscribe for or purchase the stock of any other banking-house or trust company, except a federal reserve bank, of which such corporation shall become a member, and then only to the extent required by such federal reserve bank. [L. '17, p. 291, § 36.]

Banking corporations could purchase and hold stock in general corporations, under § 3810, infra, which was not impliedly repealed, except as to certain classes named by § 3222, supra, prohibiting a banking corporation from holding its own stock or the stock of any other banking corporation, excepting the stock of federal reserve banks and trust companies: Moore v. Fremont State Bank, 103 Wash. 249, 173 Pac. 1089.

§ 3244. Real Estate Holdings of Banks.

A bank or trust company may purchase, hold and convey real estate for the following purposes and no other:

(1) Such as shall be necessary for the convenient transaction of its business, including with its banking offices other apartments in the same building to rent as a source of income: Provided, that as to any corporation hereafter organized not to exceed thirty per cent of its capital and surplus and undivided profits may be so invested: And provided further, any bank or trust company heretofore organized shall not hereafter invest in the aggregate to exceed thirty per cent of its capital, surplus and undivided profits in a bank building without the approval of the state bank examiner.

(2) Such as shall be purchased or conveyed to it in satisfaction, or on account of, debts previously contracted in the course of its business.

(3) Such as it shall purchase at sale under judgments, decrees, liens or mortgage foreclosures, against securities held by it.

(4) Such as a trust company receives in trust or acquires pursuant to the terms or authority of any trust.

No real estate specified in subdivision four shall be considered an asset of the corporation holding the same in trust nor shall any real estate except that specified in subdivision one be carried as an asset on the corporation's books for a longer period than five years from the date title is acquired thereto, unless an extension of time be granted by the state bank examiner. [L. '17, p. 291, § 37.]

Cited in 104 Wash. 52—55.

It being unlawful, under Rem. & Bal. Code, § 3330, for a bank to carry real estate on its books longer than three years, the value of such real estate cannot be considered and deducted from the value of its capital stock, in fixing its assessment for taxation pursuant to section 11143, and a bank seeking a deduction must allege and prove the status of the realty: Scandinavian American Bank of Tacoma v. Pierce County, 93 Wash. 671, 161 Pac. 469.

§ 3245. Savings Deposits—Repayment.

Any bank or trust company which shall do business as a savings bank shall repay all deposits to the depositor or his lawful representative when required, at such time or times and with such interest as the regulations of the corporation shall prescribe. A pass-book shall be issued to each savings depositor, containing the rules and regulations prescribed by the corporation governing such deposits, in which shall be entered each deposit by and each payment to such depositor. No payment to such depositor, and no payment or checks against any savings account shall be made, unless accompanied by and entered in the pass-book issued therefor, except for good cause and assurance satisfactory to the corporation. [L. '17, p. 292, § 38.]

§ 3246. Separate Accounts for Savings and Commercial Business.

Any bank or trust company combining the business of a commercial bank and a savings bank shall keep with the respective depositors separate books of account for each kind of business. [L. '17, p. 292, § 39.]

§ 3247. Foreign Companies—Banking or Trust Business.

A foreign corporation, whose name contains the words "bank," "banker," "banking," or "trust," or whose articles of incorporation empower it to do a banking or trust business and which desires to engage in the business of loaning money on mortgage securities or in buying and selling exchange, coin, bullion or securities in this state may do so, but only upon filing with the bank commissioner and with the secretary of state a certified copy of a resolution of its governing board to the effect that it will not engage in banking or trust business in this state, which copy shall be duly attested by its president and secretary. Such corporation shall also comply with the general corporation laws of this state relating to foreign corporations doing business herein. [L. '19, p. 733, § 14. Cf. L. '17, p. 292, § 40.]

§ 3248. Foreign Bank Branches—Regulations—Forfeiture for Violations.

A branch of any foreign bank or banker actually and publicly engaged in banking in this state in full compliance with the laws hereof, which were in force immediately prior to the time when this law becomes operative and which branch has a capital not less in amount than that required for the organization of a state bank as provided in this act at the time and place when and where such branch was established, may continue its said business, subject to all of the regulations and supervision provided for banks. The amount upon which it pays taxes shall be prima facie evidence of the amount and existence of such capital. No such bank or banker shall set forth on its or his stationery or in any manner advertise in this state a greater capital, surplus and undivided profits than are actually maintained at such branch. Every foreign corporation, bank and banker, and every officer, agent and employee thereof who violates any provision of this section or which violates the terms of the resolution filed as required by the preceding section, shall for each violation forfeit and pay to the state of Washington the sum of one thousand dollars. A civil action for the recovery of any such sum may be brought by the attorney general in the name of the state. [L. '17, p. 293, § 41.]

§ 3249. Joint Deposits—Payment.

When a deposit has been or shall hereafter be made, in any bank or trust company in the name of two or more persons, payable to any of such persons, such deposit or any part thereof, or any interest, or dividend thereon, may be paid to any of said persons, whether the other be living or not, and the receipt or acquittance of the person so paid shall be valid and sufficient release and discharge of such corporation for any payment so made. [L. '17, p. 293, § 42.]

When any deposit has been or shall hereafter be made in any bank or trust company in his or her own name, by any minor, married woman or person under disability, such corporation may disregard such disability and pay such money on a check or order of such person, the same as in other cases. [L. '17, p. 293, § 43.]

§ 3251. Checks—Certification.

No director, officer, agent or employee of any bank or trust company shall certify a check unless the amount thereof actually stands to the credit of the drawer on the books of such corporation and when certified must be charged to the account of the drawer. Every violation of this provision shall be a gross misdemeanor. Any such check so certified by a duly authorized person shall be a good and valid obligation of the bank or trust company in the hands of an innocent holder. [L. '17, p. 294, § 44.]

In view of this section, limiting a bank's liability to depositors on forged checks, unless notice be given the bank within sixty days, a shorter limitation by contract will not be assumed from the fact of printed notice on the pass-book requiring notice to be given within ten days, where the same was not specially called to the depositor's attention: Denbigh v. First Nat. Bank, 102 Wash. 546, 174 Pac. 475.

A judgment held by a bank or trust company shall not be considered an asset of the corporation after two years from the date of its rendition unless with the written permission of the bank commissioner specifying an additional period: Provided, that time consumed by any appeal shall be excluded. [L. '19, p. 733, § 15. Cf. L. '17, p. 294, § 47.]

(b) Direct and general obligation bonds or notes issued by any municipality or political subdivision of the state of Washington having the power to levy taxes for the payment of principal and interest thereof.

(c) Direct and general obligation bonds or notes issued by any municipality or political subdivision of any other state of the United States having the power to levy taxes for the payment of principal and interest thereof: Provided, that such bonds are acceptable by the United States government as security for deposits of postal savings funds.

(d) In the first mortgage bonds listed on the New York stock exchange of any railroad corporation: Provided, that at no time within five years last preceding the date of any such investment such railroad corporation shall have failed regularly and punctually to pay the maturing principal and interest on all its indebtedness, and in addition thereto regularly and punctually to have paid in dividends to its stockholders, during each of said five years, an amount at least equal to four per cent upon all its outstanding capital stock: And provided further, that at the date of every such dividend the outstanding capital stock of such railroad corporation shall have been equal to at least one-third of the total mortgage indebtedness of such railroad corporation, including all bonds issued, or to be issued under any mortgage securing any bonds in which investment shall be made.

(e) In the legally issued bonds and mortgages on improved unincumbered real property in this state: Provided, that such encumbrance does not exceed fifty per cent of the reasonable cash value of such real property at the time of said loan; and where buildings or other improvements constitute a material part of the value of the mortgaged premises, they shall be kept insured against loss or damage by fire in a reasonable amount for the benefit of the mortgagee. Such loan shall be accompanied by an application therefor signed by the borrower and an abstract of title and a legal opinion showing good title, or by a certificate of title; also by a signed report of the officer or officers approving the loan certifying to the value of the premises mortgaged according to his or their judgment, all of which shall be filed and preserved among the records of the corporation.

(f) Such other securities of a character possessing a substantial market value and general circulation among state and national banks within this state having an approving legal opinion as to their issuance, and having the approval of the state bank examiner: Provided, however, that none of the bonds, notes or other securities hereinbefore mentioned shall be eligible for purchase for trust funds during any default in payment of either principal or interest thereof: And provided further, that nothing herein shall prevent investment of trust funds in any manner specifically authorized by the instrument creating the trust, or create a greater liability upon the part of the corporation than assumed under such instrument. [L. '17, p. 294, § 48.]

§ 3256. Separate Books for Trust Business—Securities Labeled—Penalty for Commingling Funds.

Every corporation doing a trust business shall maintain in its office a trust department in which it shall keep books and accounts of its trust business, separate and apart from its other business. Such books and accounts shall specify the cash, securities and other properties, real and personal, held in each trust, and such securities and properties shall be at all times segregated from all other securities and properties. Such corporation shall also cause each bond, warrant, note, mortgage, deed or other security of any nature to be labeled to indicate the trust to which it belongs. Any person connected with a bank or trust company who shall commingle any funds or securities of any kind held by such corporation in trust, for safekeeping or as agent for another, with the funds or assets of the corporation shall be guilty of a felony. [L. '19, p. 734, § 16. Cf. L. '17, p. 296, § 49.]

§ 3258. Loans to One Person—Limit—Discounts.

The total liability to any bank or trust company of any person for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a firm or association the liabilities of the several members thereof shall not at any time exceed twenty per cent of the capital stock and surplus of such bank or trust company, actually paid in and unimpaired; but the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actually existing values, and the discount of commercial or business paper upon solvent parties and actually owned by the person negotiating the same, shall not be considered as money borrowed: Provided, that loans secured by collateral security having an ascertained market value of at least fifteen per cent more than the amount of the loans secured, shall not be limited by this section. [L. '17, p. 297, § 51.]

§ 3259. Loans to Officers or Employees—Liability and Penalty.

No bank or trust company shall, nor shall any officer or employee thereof on behalf of such corporation, directly or indirectly, loan any sum of money to any director, officer or employee of such corporation, unless a resolution authorizing the same and approved by a majority of the directors, at a meeting at which no director, officer or employee to whom the loan is to be made shall be present, shall be entered in the corporate minutes.

Every director and officer of any bank or trust company who shall borrow or shall knowingly permit any of its directors, officers or employees to borrow, any of its funds in an excessive amount or in violation of the provisions of this section, shall be personally liable for any loss or damage which the corporation, its shareholders or any person may sus-

No bank or trust company shall pledge or hypothecate any of its securities to any depositor or creditor except that it may qualify as depository for United States deposits, postal savings funds or other public funds deposited by any public officer by virtue of his office and may give such security for such deposits as are required by law or by the officer making the same: Provided, that any bank or trust company may borrow, for temporary purposes, not to exceed in the aggregate amount the paid-in capital and surplus thereof, and may pledge, as security therefor, assets of such corporation, not exceeding one and one-half times the amount borrowed. When it shall appear to the state bank examiner that any bank or trust company is habitually borrowing for the purpose of re-lending, he may require such corporation to pay off such borrowed money. Nothing herein shall prevent any bank or trust company from rediscounting in good faith and indorsing any of its negotiable notes, but all such moneys borrowed and all such rediscounts shall at all times show on its books and in its reports. No certificates of deposit shall be issued for the purpose of borrowing money. No officer of any bank or trust company shall issue the note of such corporation for money borrowed or rediscount any of its notes except when authorized by resolution of its board of directors or by an authorized committee thereof. § 3265. Rules for Bank Examinations and Reports—Court Review.

The state bank examiner shall have the power to adopt and promulgate uniform rules and regulations to govern the examination and reports of banks and trust companies and the form in which such corporations shall report their assets and liabilities and reserves, charge off bad debts and otherwise keep their records and accounts and otherwise to govern the administration of this act. Every such rule and regulation shall be served upon each bank and trust company by mailing a copy thereof to each such corporation at its principal place of business. The person making such service shall file an affidavit thereof in the office of the examiner. Any such corporation deeming any such rule or regulation unreasonable or contrary to law may within thirty days after the service thereof, as aforesaid, apply to the superior court of Thurston county for a writ of review for the purpose of having its reasonableness or lawfulness inquired into and determined. In every such hearing the burden shall be upon the corporation to establish the rule or regulation to be unreasonable or unlawful. Appeal shall lie from such court to the supreme court, as in other actions. The pendency of such a writ of review shall not of itself stay the operation of the rule or regulation, but the superior court may in its discretion restrain or suspend the same in whole or in part. Any rule or regulation promulgated by the examiner shall be effective and conclusive at the expiration of thirty days from the mailing thereof, as aforesaid, except as it may be restrained or suspended, as herein provided.

Every bank or trust company and every director, officer, agent and employee thereof shall comply with every rule and regulation promulgated, as aforesaid, so long as the same shall remain in force.

Every violation of this section shall, in addition to any other penalty provided in this act, subject the offender to a penalty of $100 for each offense, to be recovered by the attorney general in a civil action in the name of the state. In case of a continuing violation, every day's con-

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3266. Possession Taken by Examiner for Delinquencies.

Whenever it shall in any manner appear to the state bank examiner that any bank or trust company has violated any provision of law or is conducting its business in an unsafe manner or that it refuses to submit its books, papers, or concerns to lawful inspection or that any director or officer thereof refuses to submit to examination on oath touching its concerns, or that it has failed to carry out any authorized order or direction of an examiner, the state bank examiner may give notice to the bank or trust company so offending or delinquent or whose director or officer is thus offending or delinquent to correct such offense or delinquency and if such bank or trust company fails to comply with the terms of such notice within thirty days from the date of its issuance or within such further time as said examiner may allow, then the examiner may take possession of such bank or trust company as in case of insolvency. [L. '17, p. 300, § 59. Cf. L. '15, p. 279, § 1.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3267. Levy of Assessment Ordered by Examiner.

Whenever it shall in any manner appear to the state bank examiner that any offense or delinquency referred to in the preceding section renders a bank or trust company in an unsound or unsafe condition to continue its business or that its capital or surplus is reduced or impaired below the amount required by its articles of incorporation or by this act, or that it has suspended payment of its obligations or is insolvent, said examiner may notify such bank or trust company to levy an assessment on its stock or otherwise to make good such impairment or offense or other delinquency within such time and in such manner as he may specify or if he deem necessary he may take possession thereof without notice. [L. '17, p. 301, § 60.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

Upon taking possession of any bank or trust company, the examiner shall forthwith give written notice thereof to all persons having possession of any assets of such corporation. Upon taking possession of any bank or trust company, the examiner shall proceed to collect the assets thereof and to preserve, administer and liquidate the business and assets of such corporation. With the approval of the superior court of the county in which such corporation is located, he may sell, compound or compromise bad or doubtful debts and upon such terms as the court shall direct sell all real estate and personal property of such corporation. He shall deliver to each purchaser an appropriate deed or other instrument of title. If real estate is situated outside of said county, a certified copy of the orders authorizing and confirming the sale thereof shall be filed for record in the office of the auditor of the county in which such property is situated. He may appoint special deputy examiners and other necessary agents to assist in the administration and liquidation of such corporation, a certificate of such appointment to be filed with the clerk of the county in which such corporation is located. He shall require each special deputy to give a surety company bond, conditioned as he shall provide, the premium of which shall be paid out of the assets of such corporation. He may also employ an attorney for legal assistance in such administration and liquidation. [L. '17, p. 301, § 62. Cf. L. '15, p. 280, § 3.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3270. Notice to Creditors—Rejection of Claims—Delayed Claims.

The examiner shall publish once a week for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper which he shall select, a notice requiring all persons having claims against such corporation to make proof thereof at the place therein specified not later than ninety days from the date of the first publication of said notice, which date shall be therein stated. He shall mail similar notices to all persons whose names appear as creditors upon the books of the corporation. He may approve or reject any claim, but shall serve notice of rejection upon the claimant by mail or personally. An affidavit of service of such notice shall be prima facie evidence thereof. No action shall be brought on any claim after three months from the date of service of notice of rejection.

Claims may be presented after the expiration of the time fixed in the notice, and if approved, shall be entitled to their proportion of prior dividends, if there be funds sufficient therefor, and shall share in the distribution of the remaining assets. [L. '17, p. 302, § 63. Cf. L. '15, p. 281, § 4.]

§ 3271. Examiner's Expenses a Charge on Assets.

All expenses incurred by the examiner in taking possession, administering and winding up any such corporation, including the expenses of deputies and other assistance and reasonable fees for any attorney who may be employed by him in connection therewith, and the reasonable compensation of any special deputy placed in charge of such corporation shall be a first charge upon the assets thereof. Such charges shall be fixed by the examiner, subject to the approval of the court. [L. '17, p. 302, § 64. Cf. L. '15, p. 282, § 5.]

§ 3272. Inventory of Assets and List of Claims.

Upon taking possession of such corporation, the examiner shall make an inventory of the assets thereof in duplicate and file one in his office and one in the office of the county clerk. Upon the expiration of the time fixed for the presentation of claims, he shall make a duplicate list of claims presented, segregating those approved and those rejected, to be filed as aforesaid. He shall also make and file a supplemental list of claims at least fifteen days before the declaration of any dividend, and in any event at least every six months. [L. '17, p. 303, § 65. Cf. L. '15, p. 282, § 6.]

§ 3274. Objections to Approved Claims.

Objection may be made by any interested person to any claim approved by the examiner, which objection shall be determined by the court upon such notice to the claimant and objector as the court shall prescribe. [L. '17, p. 303, § 67. Cf. L. '15, p. 283, § 8.]

§ 3275. Court Review of Examiner's Right to Possession.

Within ten days after the examiner takes possession thereof, a bank or trust company may serve a notice upon said examiner to appear before the superior court of the county wherein such corporation is located at a time to be fixed by said court, which shall not be less than five nor more than fifteen days from the date of the service of such notice, to show cause why such corporation should not be restored to the possession of its assets. Upon the return day of such notice, or such further day as the matter may be continued to, the court shall summarily hear said cause and shall dismiss the same, if it be found that possession was taken by the examiner in good faith and for cause, but if it find that no cause existed for the taking possession of such corporation, it shall require the examiner to restore such bank or trust company to possession of its assets and enjoin him from further interference therewith without cause. [L. '17, p. 303, § 68.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3276. Receiverships and Assignments for Creditors Prohibited.

No receiver shall be appointed by any court for any bank or trust company nor shall any assignment of any bank or trust company for the benefit of creditors be valid, excepting only that a court otherwise having jurisdiction may in case of imminent necessity appoint a temporary receiver to take possession of and preserve the assets of such corporation. Immediately upon any such appointment, the clerk of such court shall notify the state bank examiner by telegraph and mail of such appointment and the examiner shall forthwith take possession of such bank or trust company, as in case of insolvency, and such temporary receiver shall upon demand of the examiner surrender up to him such possession and all assets which shall have come into the hands of such receiver. The examiner shall in due course pay such receiver out of the assets of such corporation such amount as the court shall allow. [L. '17, p. 304, § 69. Cf. L. '15, p. 283, § 9.]

§ 3277. Winding Up After Liquidation of Claims.

When all proper claims of depositors and creditors (not including stockholders) have been paid, as well as all expenses of administration and liquidation and proper provision has been made for unclaimed or unpaid deposits and dividends, and assets still remain in his hands, the examiner shall call a meeting of the stockholders of such corporation, giving thirty days' notice thereof, by one publication in a newspaper published in the county where such corporation is located. At such meeting, each share shall entitle the holder thereof to a vote in person or by proxy. A vote by ballot shall be taken to determine whether the examiner shall wind up the affairs of such corporation or the stockholders appoint an agent to do so. The examiner, if so required, shall wind up such corporation and distribute its assets to those entitled thereto. If the appointment of an agent is determined upon, the stockholders shall forthwith select such agent by ballot. Such agent shall file a bond to the state of Washington in such amount and so conditioned as the examiner shall require. Thereupon the examiner shall transfer to such agent the assets of such corporation then remaining in his hands, and be relieved from further responsibility in reference to such corporation. Such agent shall convert the assets of such corporation into cash and distribute the same to the parties thereunto entitled, subject to the supervision of the court. In case of his death, removal or refusal to act, the stockholders may select a successor with like powers. [L. '17, p. 304, § 70.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3278. Unclaimed Dividends and Deposits—Disposition.

Dividends and unclaimed deposits remaining in the hands of the examiner for six months after order of final distribution, shall be deposited in a bank or trust company to his credit in trust for the benefit of the person thereunto entitled, and, subject to the supervision of the court shall be paid by him to them upon receipt of satisfactory evidence of their right thereto. [L. '17, p. 305, § 71.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3279. Examiner's Possession—Posting Notice.

Any bank or trust company may place itself under the control of the examiner to be liquidated as herein provided by posting a notice on its door as follows: "This bank (trust company) is in the hands of the state bank examiner."

Immediately upon the posting of such notice, the officers of such corporation shall notify the examiner thereof by telegraph and mail. The posting of such notice or the taking possession of any bank or trust company by the examiner shall be sufficient to place all of its assets and property of every nature in his possession and bar all attachment proceedings. [L. '17, p. 305, § 72.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3280. Reopening Bank—Permit by Examiner.

Whenever the examiner shall have taken possession of a bank or trust company for any cause, he may wind up such corporation and cancel its certificate of authority, unless enjoined from so doing, as herein provided. Or if at any time within ninety days after taking possession, he shall determine that all impairment and delinquencies have been made good, and that it is safe and expedient for such corporation to reopen, he may permit such corporation to reopen upon such terms and conditions as he shall prescribe. Before being permitted to reopen, every such corporation shall pay all of the expenses of the examiner, as herein elsewhere defined. [L. '17, p. 305, § 73.]

See notes to § 3227, supra.

§ 3281. Voluntary Liquidation.

Any bank or trust company may, upon receipt of written permission from the examiner, go into voluntary liquidation by a vote of its stockholders owning two-thirds of its capital stock. When such liquidation is authorized, the directors of such corporation shall publish in a newspaper published in the place where such corporation is located, once a week for four consecutive weeks, a notice requiring creditors of such corporation to present their claims against it for payment. [L. '17, p. 306, § 74.]

§ 3282. Transfer of Assets and Liabilities—Revocation of Authority.

A bank or trust company may for the purpose of consolidation or voluntary liquidation transfer its assets and liabilities to another bank or trust company, by a vote of the stockholders owning two-thirds of its capital stock, but only with the written consent of the commissioner and upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe. Upon any such transfer being made, or upon the liquidation of any such corporation for any cause whatever, or upon its being no longer engaged in the business of a bank or trust company, the commissioner shall terminate its certificate of authority, which shall not thereafter be revived or renewed. When the certificate of authority of any such corporation shall have been revoked, it shall forthwith collect and distribute its remaining assets, and when that is done the bank commissioner shall certify the fact to the secretary of state, whereupon the corporation shall cease to exist and the secretary of state shall note that fact upon his records. [L. '19, p. 734, § 17. Cf. L. '17, p. 306, § 75.]

(1) That any such bank, which was by the state bank examiner lawfully permitted to operate, although its capital stock was not fully paid in, shall pay in the balance of its capital stock at such times and in such amounts as said examiner may require.

(2) That any bank or trust company which shall amend its articles of incorporation must in such event comply with all the requirements of this act.

(3) That the directors of trust companies at the time this act becomes operative may continue to hold such office for the terms for which elected, but the terms of all directors hereafter elected shall be governed by this act. [L. '17, p. 306, § 78.]

§ 3286. Corporate Name—Change.

Any corporation existing at the time this act becomes operative, the name of which contains any word, the use of which by such corporation is prohibited by this act, may nevertheless continue the use of such name for a period of time not exceeding ninety days from the time this act becomes operative. Any such corporation may file supplemental articles of incorporation within such period changing its corporate name to comply with the requirements of this act without the payment of any filing fee for so doing but such supplemental articles shall contain no other amendment. § 3297. Duty of Bank Examiner.

Immediately upon the organization of the board and the adoption of the rules and regulations as provided in the preceding section, it shall be the duty of the examiner to cause to be printed in pamphlet form, this act and the rules and regulations adopted by the board, and to transmit a copy of such pamphlet, together with blank forms of application for membership in the fund, to each bank in the state. [L. '17, p. 311, § 5.]

All applications for membership in the fund shall be made by resolution of the board of directors of the bank applying, duly certified by its president and secretary, in the form prescribed by the guaranty fund board, and shall contain an agreement on the part of the applicant, that, in case the application is approved and the bank admitted to membership in the fund, it will comply with all the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations adopted by the board, and shall be filed with the state bank examiner as secretary of the board. Upon the filing of any such application, the examiner, if it shall appear therefrom that the applicant is apparently eligible to membership in the fund under the provisions of this act, shall make a complete and rigid examination of the affairs of such bank in the manner provided by law, and at the expense of such bank, and submit such application, together with a report of the result of his examination, to the board at its next regular meeting, or at a called meeting, in case no regular meeting is to be held within thirty (30) days from the date of such application: Provided, however, that in case the examiner has within ninety (90) days prior to the receipt of any such application, made a complete examination of the affairs of the applicant bank in the manner provided by law, he may submit such application, together with the report of the result of such previous examination, without further examination, unless directed by the board to make a further examination. [L. '17, p. 311, § 6.]

See notes to § 3297, supra.

§ 3299. Records of Bank Examiner—Penalty for Divulging Information.

The state bank examiner, as secretary of the board, shall keep proper books of record of all acts, matters and things done by him under the provisions of this act, as records of his office as secretary of the board. It shall be unlawful for any member of the board, or any deputy or clerk of the examiner, or any assistant examiner appointed by the board under the provisions of this act, to disclose any fact or information with reference to the affairs of any bank, obtained in the performance of his duties under the provisions of this act, to any other person than a member of the board, the state bank examiner, or his deputies, or a United States or clearing house bank examiner, except so far as the law makes it his duty to make public records and publish the same, and any violation of the provisions of this section shall subject the state bank examiner, or any appointive member of the board, or any deputy or clerk of the examiner, or any assistant examiner appointed by the board under the provisions of this act, to prosecution for misdemeanor in any court of competent jurisdiction, and to punishment by a fine of not exceeding one thousand dollars, with imprisonment in the county jail until the same is paid; and such conviction shall subject the offender to the forfeiture of his office or employment. [L. '17, p. 312, § 7.]

§ 3300. Approval of Application.

If the board shall be satisfied with the report of the director of taxation and examination and with the condition and management of said bank and shall find that said applicant bank is conducting its business in strict accordance with the law under which it is organized, and the provisions of this act, and has an unimpaired surplus equal to ten per cent of its capital, it shall cause the secretary of the board to notify the applicant bank that its application has been approved, and that it will be admitted to membership in the fund, upon making with the board the deposits required by this act, and complying with all requirements made by the board, but no bank shall be eligible for membership in the fund unless it shall have been actively engaged in the banking business for at least one year prior to the date of its application for membership. [L. '21, p. 285, § 3. Cf. L. '17, p. 312, § 8.]

§ 3301. Admission Withheld Until Compliance With Conditions—Appeal to Courts.

If the board shall find from any such application for membership, and from the report of the director of taxation and examination that the applicant has not the required unimpaired surplus, or is not in sound financial condition, or is not conducting its business in accordance with the provisions of this act or that its method of conducting its business is, in the opinion of the board, reckless or unsafe, the board shall cause the secretary to notify the applicant of the conditions upon which it may be admitted to membership. Any bank which shall fail or neglect for a period of sixty days, to comply with the conditions imposed by the board and furnish proof of such compliance to the satisfaction of the board, may have its application for membership rejected. Any bank which has been refused membership in the fund may within thirty days from the date of such refusal by the board, appeal therefrom to the superior court of Thurston County, by filing with the clerk of said court a notice of appeal, and serving a copy thereof upon the secretary of the board, and such appeal shall be heard de novo by said court. [L. '21, p. 285, § 4; L. '17, p. 314, § 9.]

§ 3302. Certificate of Guaranty—Extent.

Upon the admission of any bank to membership in the fund, the secretary of the board shall issue to such bank a certificate stating in substance that said bank has complied with the provisions of this act, and that its deposits not otherwise secured are guaranteed by the Washington bank depositors' guaranty fund, and from and after the issuance of such certificate such bank shall be governed by the rules and regulations adopted by the board, prescribing the duties of guaranteed banks, and shall be entitled to participate in the benefits of the guaranty fund, and to advertise that it is a member of said fund, and that its deposits are guaranteed thereby, but no such bank shall advertise that its deposits are guaranteed by the state of Washington. The guaranty provided for in this act shall not apply to a bank's obligation as an indorser upon bills rediscounted, nor to bills payable, nor to money borrowed from its correspondents or others, nor deposits of public funds in excess of its capital and surplus. Every such guaranteed bank shall be entitled to act as a depository of any public funds of, or under the control of, the state, or any county or municipality within the state, and the guaranty of the guaranty fund shall extend to such public funds, so deposited to an amount equal to, but not in excess of, the capital and surplus of such bank, if the custodian of such funds shall elect to deposit the same under the guaranty of such fund, but as to any amount of such public funds deposited in excess of the capital and surplus of such bank, and as to any public funds deposited, in case the custodian making the deposit shall so elect, such guaranteed bank shall be required to give a surety company bond, in the amount provided by law as security therefor. [L. '17, p. 315, § 10.]

See notes to § 3297, supra.

§ 3303. Annual Bank Reports as to Deposits—Adjustments—Losses Recovered Credited.

On or before the tenth day of January of each year, each guaranteed bank shall certify under oath to the secretary of the board, the amount of deposits eligible to guaranty under the provisions of this act, and the amount of deposits not eligible to guaranty, in such bank at the close of business as of the dates during the preceding year, upon which official calls for reports were made by the director of taxation and examination and the average deposits eligible to guaranty, and the average deposits not eligible to guaranty, for the preceding calendar year shall be based upon the average of the amounts shown upon call dates. On or before the 30th of January of each year, the guaranty fund board shall determine the amount which shall be deposited to the credit of the board for the current calendar year which amount shall be equal to one (1%) per cent of the average eligible deposits for the preceding calendar year, unless such fund has been impaired by losses which are not replaced by assessments as hereinafter provided. When the member bank shall be advised of the amount which it shall deposit to the credit of the guaranty fund board, it shall at once enter such credit to the account of the guaranty fund board upon its individual ledger and shall charge a like amount on its general ledger, which account shall be known as Interest in Guaranty Fund, and shall be so shown and reported at all times. The guaranty fund shall be adjusted each year, the member banks being charged or credited according to the amount of increase or decrease in deposits eligible to guaranty for the preceding year. Should this fund be impaired through losses or otherwise, the board may in its discretion levy an assessment of not to exceed one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of one per cent per annum of the deposits eligible for guaranty for the preceding year; such assessments for the benefit of the guaranty fund may be made only for the purpose of making good impairments of such fund. Any funds in the guaranty fund may be used in paying the owners of guaranteed deposits in member banks, but not until the contingent fund shall have been depleted.

Any losses which may be recovered from the converting of the assets of failed banks into cash, shall be credited first to the contingent fund, until the amount of such fund shall have reached the proportions it would have reached at that time, had there been no payments made from said fund on account of losses, the balance of such sums so realized from the assets of failed banks shall be credited to the guaranty fund: Provided, that no bank shall receive a benefit from any recoveries made from the collection of assets of failed banks in excess of the amount which such bank shall have contributed to the guaranty fund because of such failure. [L. '21, p. 286, § 5. Cf. L. '17, p. 316, § 11.]

§ 3304. Cancellation of Membership—Forfeiture of Deposits—Penalty.

If after the passage of this act, any guaranteed bank, or the board of directors, or any officer thereof, shall pay interest on any form of deposits on different terms than those, or at a rate in excess of that, approved by the guaranty fund board from time to time, and that shall be uniform within each district; shall be deemed to be reckless, and its certificate as a member of the guaranty fund, may, in the discretion of the board, be canceled: Provided, however, that any existing contract for higher rates of interest, entered into before the passage of this act, may be carried out unimpaired, and such existing contract shall not disqualify such bank from becoming a member of the fund, if it is, in the opinion of the board, otherwise eligible. If any managing officer of any guaranteed bank, or any person acting in its behalf or for its benefit, shall pay, or promise to pay any depositor in such bank, either directly or indirectly, any interest, on different terms than those, or a rate in excess of, or in addition to the maximum rate, approved by the board for the district in which such bank is engaged in business, or shall, with intent to evade any of the provisions of this act, pledge the time certificate, or other obligation of such bank, as security for the personal obligation of himself or any other person, or shall display or publish any card or other advertisement, tending to convey the impression that the deposits of such bank are guaranteed by the state of Washington, either directly or indirectly, the certificate of such bank as a member of the guaranty fund shall be canceled, and its cash deposited for the benefit of the guaranty fund shall be forfeited. Any managing officer of any bank or any person acting in its behalf or for its benefit, who shall display any card, or publish any advertisement, or make any statement, to the effect that its depositors are guaranteed by the Washington bank depositors' guaranty fund, when such bank is not a member of such fund, or is not authorized so to do under the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred, nor more than one thousand dollars. [L. '21, p. 287, § 6. Cf. L. '17, p. 318, § 13.]

§ 3305. Violations of Act by Member Bank.

If at any regular or special examination of a guaranteed bank made by or under the direction of the director of taxation and examination or the board, it shall be found that such bank is violating any of the provisions of this act, the laws relating to banks, or any of the rules and regulations, that the guaranty fund board may from time to time adopt, the director of taxation and examination shall notify such bank of such violations, and require the same to comply with the provisions of this act within thirty days from the date of such notice; and if at the expiration of thirty days, such provisions have not been complied with, the certificate of membership of such bank in the guaranty fund, may in the discretion of the board be canceled and all or any part of its deposits with the guaranty fund board forfeited. Any deposits so forfeited shall be collected by the director of taxation and examination and shall be transferred to the contingent fund. [L. '21, p. 289, § 7. Cf. L. '17, p. 319, § 14.]

§ 3306. Failure of Bank to Remit Assessments Due—Withdrawal—Public Notice.

If any guaranteed bank shall fail or neglect, for a period of thirty days after any assessment has been made against such bank, as provided in this act, to remit or credit, as the case may be, the amount of such assessment to the secretary of the guaranty fund board, there shall be added to such assessment a penalty of not to exceed fifty per cent of the amount thereof, and such assessments shall constitute a first lien on all of the assets of said bank. Upon the failure of any guaranteed bank to remit, or credit, as the case may be, any assessment made against it in accordance with the provisions of this act, the director of taxation and examination shall immediately cause such bank to be examined, and if it is found to be insolvent, he shall take charge of and liquidate such bank according to law. Whenever the certificate of any guaranteed bank, as a member of the guaranty fund, shall be canceled as hereinabove provided, the secretary of the board shall cause to be displayed in a conspicuous place in the banking rooms of such bank, continuously for six months, a card not smaller than twenty by thirty inches, containing in large plain type the following words: "This bank has withdrawn from the bank depositors' guaranty fund, and the guaranty of its deposits will cease on and after the — day of —, 19—." The date on such card shall be a date six months after the first posting of such card. [L. '21, p. 289, § 8. Cf. L. '17, p. 319, § 15.]

§ 3307. Increase of Capital Stock.

Whenever the deposits in a guaranteed bank shall have, for a period of ninety days continuously, exceeded twenty times its capital and surplus the secretary of the board shall notify such bank that it must within ninety days from the date of such notice, increase its capital to such an amount that its combined capital and surplus shall equal or exceed one-twentieth of its average daily deposits for the preceding ninety days, and in case such bank shall fail and neglect for a period of ninety days from and after such notice to so increase its capital, its certificate as a member of the guaranty fund shall be canceled. [L. '17, p. 321, § 16.]

§ 3308. Voluntary Withdrawal.

Any guaranteed bank may withdraw from the guaranty fund upon giving notice to that effect in writing to the secretary of the guaranty fund board; upon displaying a card in a conspicuous place in its banking rooms as provided in section 3306, for a period of six months from the date of notice of withdrawal; upon paying all assessments and obligations made against it for the benefit of the guaranty and contingent funds, and upon depositing with the secretary of the guaranty fund board, in addition to the amount to the credit of the guaranty fund board in said bank, an amount equal to one-half of one per cent of its annual average deposits eligible to guaranty for the preceding year, which sum shall be retained as a guaranty for the payment of any assessments made for the benefit of the guaranty fund, for a period of twelve months from and after the date notice of withdrawal shall have been received by the secretary of the guaranty fund board, for which said assessments said bank shall be liable. Upon the expiration of the said twelve months' period, said bank shall be entitled to a refund of any unused portion of any deposits made for the benefit of the guaranty fund. [L. '21, p. 290, § 9; L. '17, p. 321, § 17.]

§ 3309. Guaranty Warrants to Depositors in Insolvent Banks.

Whenever the state bank examiner shall take charge of and proceed to wind up the affairs of any guaranteed bank, as provided by law, he shall as soon as possible issue to each guaranteed depositor, upon proof of claim, a warrant, drawn upon and payable out of the guaranty fund, for the amount of the depositor's claim, which warrant, if there be not sufficient money in the guaranty fund to pay the same, shall bear interest at the rate of five per cent per annum from date until called. [L. '17, p. 322, § 18.]

CHAPTER III.

Such persons must be citizens of the United States; at least four-fifths of them must be residents of this state, and at least two-thirds of them must be residents of the county where the bank is to be located and its business transacted, they shall subscribe and acknowledge an incorporation certificate in triplicate which shall specifically state:

(3) The name, occupation, residence and postoffice address of each incorporator;

(4) The sums which each incorporator will contribute in cash to the initial guaranty fund, and to the expense fund respectively, as provided in sections 3319 and 3320.

(5) A declaration that each incorporator will accept the responsibilities and faithfully discharge the duties of a trustee of the savings bank, and is free from all the disqualifications specified in section 3357. [L. '15, p. 549, § 1. Cf. L. '05, p. 245, § 2.]

"State bank examiner" means bank commissioner. See supra, § 3208.

Duties devolve upon director of taxation and examination. See infra, § 10812.

§ 3314. [3345-2.] Notice of Intention.

At the time of executing the incorporation certificate, the proposed incorporators shall sign a notice of intention to organize the mutual savings bank, which shall specify their names, the name of the proposed corporation, and its location as set forth in the incorporation certificate. The original of such notice shall be filed in the office of the state examiner within sixty days after the date of its execution, and a copy thereof shall be published at least once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper designated by the state bank examiner, the publication to be commenced within thirty days after such designation. At least fifteen days before the incorporation certificate is submitted to the examiner for examination, as provided in the section next following, a copy of such notice shall be served upon each savings bank doing business in the city or town named in the incorporation certificate, by mailing such copy (postage prepaid) to such bank. [L. 15, p. 550, § 2.]

§ 3315. [3345-3.] Submission of Certificate—Proof of Notice.

After the lapse of at least twenty-eight days from the date of the first due publication of the notice of intention to incorporate, and within ten days after the date of the last publication thereof, the incorporation certificate executed in triplicate shall be submitted for examination to the state examiner at his office in Olympia, with affidavits showing due publication and service of the notice of intention to organize prescribed in section 3314. [L. '15, p. 550, § 3.]

§ 3316. [3345-4.] Examination—Approval—Appeal—Filing Certificates.

When any such certificate shall have been filed for examination the state examiner shall thereupon ascertain from the best source of information at his command, and by such investigation as he may deem necessary, whether the character, responsibility and general fitness of the person or persons named in such certificate are such as to command confidence and warrant belief that the business of the proposed bank will be honestly and efficiently conducted in accordance with the intent and purpose of this act, and whether the public convenience and advantage will be promoted by allowing such proposed bank to be incorporated and engage in business, and whether greater convenience and access to a savings bank would be afforded by any considerable number of depositors by opening a mutual savings bank in the place designated, whether the population in the neighborhood of such place, and in the surrounding country, affords a reasonable promise of adequate support for the proposed bank, and whether the contributions to the initial guaranty fund and expense fund have been paid in cash. After the state examiner shall have satisfied himself by such investigation whether it is expedient and desirable to permit such proposed bank to be incorporated and engage in business, he shall within sixty days after the date of the filing of such certificate for examination indorse upon each of the triplicates thereof over his official signature the word "Approved" or the word "Refused," with the date of such indorsement. In case of refusal he shall forthwith return one of the triplicates so indorsed to the proposed incorporators from whom such certificate was received. Any officer, agent, or employee of any savings bank who refuses or neglects to obey any such order shall be punished as hereinafter provided. [L. '15, p. 564, § 16.]

§ 3346. [3345-17.*] Limit on Individual Deposits.

(1) When the aggregate amount of deposits and dividends to the credit of any individual, including in such aggregate all deposits and dividends credited to him as trustee or beneficiary of any trust and all deposits and dividends credited to him and another or others in either joint or several form, is five thousand dollars ($5,000) or more, such aggregate shall not be increased by the receipt from him of any deposit but may be increased to not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) by the crediting of dividends. Additional accounts may, however, be maintained in the name of a parent as trustee for a dependent or minor child, and in the name of a child as trustee for a dependent parent, but not more than five hundred dollars ($500) shall be deposited to any such additional account during any six month period.

(2) When the aggregate amount of deposits and dividends to the credit of any society or corporation is five thousand dollars ($5,000) or more, such aggregate shall not be increased by the receipt of any deposit not made pursuant to order of a court of competent jurisdiction, but may be increased to not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) by the crediting of dividends.

(3) Every such bank may further limit the aggregate amount which an individual or any corporation or society may have to his or its credit to such sum as such bank may deem expedient to receive; and may in its discretion refuse to receive a deposit, or may at any time return all or any part of any deposits or require the withdrawal of any dividend. [L. '21, p. 617, § 2. Cf. L. '19, p. 699, § 2; L. '15, p. 565, § 17.]

§ 3347. [3345-18.*] Payment of Deposits and Dividends.

The sums deposited with any such bank, together with any dividends credited thereto, shall be repaid to the depositors thereof respectively, or to their legal representatives, after demand in such manner, and at such times, and under such regulations, as the board of trustees shall prescribe, subject to the provisions of this and the next following section. Such regulations shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the room where the business of such savings bank shall be transacted, and shall be printed in the pass-books or other evidence of deposit furnished by it, and shall be evidence between such bank and the depositors holding the same of the terms upon which the deposits therein acknowledged are made.

(1) Such bank may at any time by a resolution of its board of trustees require a notice of not more than six months before repaying deposits, in which event no deposit shall be due or payable until the required notice of intention to withdraw the same shall have been personally given by the depositor: Provided, that such bank at its option may pay any deposit or deposits before the expiration of such notice. But no bank shall agree with its depositors or any of them in advance to waive the requirement of notice as herein provided.

(2) Except as provided in subdivision (3) of this section the savings bank shall not pay any dividend, or deposit, or portion thereof, or any cheque drawn upon it by a depositor unless the pass-book of the depositor be produced, and the proper entry be made therein at the time of the payment.

(3) The board of trustees of any such bank may by its by-laws provide for making payments in cases of loss of pass-book, or other exceptional cases where the pass-books cannot be produced without loss or serious inconvenience to depositors, the right to make such payments to cease when so directed by the state examiner upon his being satisfied that such right is being improperly exercised by any such bank; but payments may be made at any time upon the judgment or order of a court.

(4) If any person shall die leaving in any such bank an account on which the balance due him shall not exceed $500 and no executor or administrator of his estate shall be appointed, such bank may in its discretion pay the balance of his account to his widow (or if the decedent was a married woman, then to her husband), next of kin, funeral director or other creditor who may appear to be entitled thereto. As a condition of such payment such bank may require proof by affidavit as to the parties in interest, the filing of proper waivers, the execution of a bond of indemnity with surety or sureties by the person to whom the payment is to be made, and a proper receipt and acquittance for such payment. For any such payment pursuant to this section such bank shall not be liable to the decedent's executor or administrator thereafter appointed, unless the payment shall have been made within six months after the decedent's death, and an action to recover the amount shall have been commenced within six months after the date of payment. [L. '21, p. 618, § 3; L. '15, p. 566, § 18.]

Duties of savings banks to their depositors. 105 Am. St. Rep. 728.

§ 3348. [3345-19.] Deposits of Minors—Joint Deposits—Payment.

(1) When any deposit shall be made by or in the name of any minor, the same shall be held for the exclusive right and benefit of such minor, and free from the control or lien of all other persons, except creditors, and shall be paid, together with dividends thereon, to the person in whose name the deposit shall have been made, and his receipt or acquittance shall be a valid discharge.

(2) After any deposit shall be made by any person in the names of such depositor and another person and in form to be paid to either or the survivor of them, such deposit and any additions thereto made by either of such persons after the making thereof, shall become the property of such persons as joint tenants, and the same, together with all dividends thereon, shall be held for the exclusive use of such persons and may be paid to either during the lifetime of both or to the survivor after the death of one of them, and such payment and the receipt or acquittance of the one to whom such payment is made shall be a valid and sufficient release and discharge to such savings bank for all payments made on account of such deposit prior to the receipt by such savings bank of notice in writing not to pay such deposit in accordance with the terms thereof. The making of the deposit in such form shall, in the absence of fraud or undue influence, be conclusive evidence, in any action or proceeding to which either such savings bank or the surviving depositor is a party, of the intention of both depositors to vest title to such deposit and the additions thereto in such survivor. [L. '15, p. 567, § 19.]

§ 3349. [3345-20.] Reserve Fund—Deposit of Reserves.

(1) The trustees of every such bank shall as soon as practicable invest the moneys deposited with them in the securities prescribed in sections 3323 to 3340, except as hereinafter provided. For the purpose of paying withdrawals in excess of receipts, and meeting accruing expenses, or for the purpose of awaiting a more favorable opportunity for judicious investment, any such bank may keep on hand, or on deposit in any bank or trust company in this state organized under any law of this state, or of the United States, an available fund not exceeding twenty per centum of the aggregate amount credited to its depositors, but the sum deposited by any such savings bank in any one bank or trust company shall not exceed twenty-five per centum of the paid up capital and surplus of the bank or trust company in which the deposit is made, and no more than five per centum of the aggregate amount credited to the depositors of any such savings bank shall be deposited in a bank or trust company of which a trustee of such savings bank is a director. [L. '15, p. 568, § 20.]

§ 3350. [3345-21.] Guaranty Fund—Purpose.

The contributions of the incorporators or trustees of any such savings bank under the provisions of section 3319, and the sums credited thereto from its net earnings under the provisions of section 3353 shall constitute a guaranty fund for the security of its depositors, and shall be held to meet any contingency or loss in its business from depreciation of its securities or otherwise, and for no other purpose except as provided in section 3321, hereof, and subdivision 5 of section 3354. [L. '15, p. 569, § 21.]

§ 3351. [3345-22.] Determination of Amount.

(1) To determine the amount of the guaranty fund of a savings bank its total liabilities due and accrued, its undivided profits and its net earnings since the last declaration of dividends shall be subtracted from its total assets. The value of its assets for the purpose of this calculation shall be stated as follows:

(a) Its interest bearing bonds, or other obligations shall not be valued above the estimated market value thereof as last determined by the state examiner.

(b) The value of its real estate shall not in any event be estimated above cost, and if such real estate has been acquired by foreclosure, judgment or decree the value of such real estate so acquired shall not be estimated above its actual cash value as determined by written appraisal signed by at least three trustees of such savings bank and filed with it.

(c) Such assets shall be excluded as have been disallowed by the state examiner or the trustees of such bank and also any debts owing to it which shall have remained due without prosecution and upon which no interest shall have been paid for more than one year, or on which a judgment has been recovered which shall have remained unsatisfied for more than two years, unless the state examiner upon application by such savings bank shall have fixed a valuation at which such debts may be carried as an asset, or unless such debts are secured by first mortgage upon real estate, in which latter case they may be carried at the actual cash value of such real estate as determined by written appraisal signed by at least three trustees of such savings bank and filed with it.

(2) The amount of the guaranty fund of a savings bank at the close of any dividend period may be determined by adding to the guaranty fund at the beginning of such period any appreciation in the estimated market value of its securities resulting from a revaluation thereof by the state examiner, the sums recovered on items previously charged to it and any amounts allowed by the state examiner on account of assets previously disallowed and charged to it, and deducting therefrom all losses sustained by the savings bank during such period. In the computation of losses all items shall be included which shall have been disallowed by its board of trustees or by the state examiner, together with any depreciation in the value of its securities below their estimated market value as last fixed by the state examiner, and all debts owing to it upon which no interest shall have been paid for one year or on which a judgment has been recovered which shall have remained unsatisfied for two years, unless the state examiner upon the application of the savings bank shall have fixed a value at which such debts may be allowed or unless such debts are secured by first mortgage upon real estate, in either of which events only the amounts by which such debts exceed the value allowed by the state examiner or the cash value of the real estate securing them as determined by written appraisal signed by at least three trustees of such savings bank and filed with it, need be so deducted. [L. '15, p. 569, § 22.]

§ 3352. [3345-23.] Earnings—Determination.

(1) Gross Earnings. To determine the amount of gross earnings of a savings bank during any dividend period the following items may be included:

(a) All earnings actually received during such period, less interest accrued and unpaid included in the last previous calculation of earnings;

(b) Interest accrued and unpaid upon debts owing to it secured by collateral as authorized by this article, upon which there has been no default for more than one year, and upon corporate bonds, or other interest bearing obligations owned by it upon which there is no default;

(c) The sums added to the cost of securities purchased for less than par as a result of amortization;

(d) Any profits actually received during such period from the sale of securities, real estate or other property owned by it.

(2) Net Earnings. To determine the amount of its net earnings for such dividend period the following items shall be deducted from gross earnings:

(a) All expenses paid or incurred, both ordinary and extraordinary, in the transaction of its business, the collection of its debts and the management of its affairs, less expenses incurred and interest accrued upon its debts deducted at the last previous calculation of net earnings for dividend purposes;

(b) Interest paid or accrued and unpaid upon debts owing by it;

(c) The amounts deducted through amortization from the cost of bonds or other interest bearing obligations purchased above par in order to bring them to par at maturity;

(d) Any losses that may have been sustained by it in excess of its guaranty fund and undivided profits.

The balance thus obtained shall constitute the net earnings of such savings bank for such period. [L. '15, p. 570, § 23.]

§ 3353. [3345-24.] Deficit in Guaranty Fund—Replacement—Dividends.

If at the close of any dividend period the guaranty fund of any savings bank be less than ten per centum of the amount due to depositors there shall be deducted from its net earnings for such period and credited to its guaranty fund not less than five per centum and not more than ten per centum of its net earnings during the calendar year next preceding, or so much of such percentages as will not compel it to reduce its dividends to depositors below the rate of three and one-half per centum per annum. The amount of net earnings remaining after such deduction for the guaranty fund and its undivided profits shall be available for the declaration of dividends for such period. While the trustees of such a savings bank are paying its expenses or any portion thereof the amounts to be credited to its guaranty fund shall be computed at the same percentage upon the total dividends credited to its depositors instead of upon its net earnings. If the guaranty fund accumulated from earnings shall equal or exceed ten per centum of the amount due to depositors, the minimum dividend shall be four per centum: Provided, that the net earnings for such period are sufficient therefor. [L. '15, p. 571, § 24.]

§ 3354. [3345-25.*] Dividends—Rate—Declaration—Liability.

Every savings bank shall regulate the rate of dividends not to exceed six per cent per annum upon the amounts to the credit of depositors therewith, in such manner that depositors shall receive as nearly as may be all the earnings of the savings bank after transferring the amount required by section 3353 and such further amounts as its trustees may deem it expedient and for the security of the depositors to transfer to the guaranty fund, which to the amount of ten per cent of the amount due its depositors the trustees shall gradually accumulate and hold. Such trustees may also deduct from its net earnings, and carry as undivided profits for the purpose of maintaining its rate of dividends, such additional sums as they may deem wise.

(2) Every savings bank may classify its depositors according to the character, amount or duration of their dealings with the savings bank, and may regulate the dividends in such manner that each depositor shall receive the same ratable portion of dividends as all others of his class.

(3) Unimpaired contributions to the initial guaranty fund and to the expense fund, made by the incorporators or trustees of such savings bank, shall be entitled to have dividends apportioned thereon, which may be credited and paid to such incorporators or trustees. Whenever the guaranty fund of any such savings bank is sufficiently large to permit the return of such contributions, the contributors may receive dividends thereon not theretofore credited or paid at the same rate paid to depositors.

(4) A savings bank shall not

(a) Declare, credit or pay any dividend except as authorized by a vote of a majority of the board of trustees duly entered upon their minutes, whereon shall be recorded the ayes and naves upon each vote.

(b) Pay any dividend other than the regular quarterly or semi-annual dividend, or the extra dividend prescribed in subdivision six of this section.

(c) Declare, credit or pay dividends on any amount to the credit of a depositor for a longer period than the same has been credited: Provided, however, that deposits made not later than the tenth business day of the month commencing any semi-annual or quarterly dividend period, or the fifth business day of any month, or withdrawn upon one of the last three business days of the month ending any quarterly or semi-annual dividend period, may have dividends declared upon them for the whole of the period or month when they were so deposited or withdrawn: And provided further, that, if the by-laws so provide, accounts closed between dividend periods may be credited with dividends at the rate of the last dividend, computing from the first dividend period to the date when closed.

(5) Whenever any dividend shall, except as provided in subdivision six of this section, be declared and credited in excess of profits earned and appearing to the credit of the savings bank since the last declaration of dividends, after making the deduction for expenses, for amortization and for the guaranty fund as provided in sections 3345, 3353 and 3354, the trustees voting for such dividend shall be jointly and severally liable to such savings bank for the amount of such excess so declared and credited.

(6) The trustees of any savings bank whose undivided profits and guaranty fund, determined in the manner prescribed in section 3352, amount to more than twenty-five per cent of the amount due its depositors, shall at least once in three years divide equitably the accumulation beyond such twenty-five per cent as an extra dividend to depositors in excess of the regular dividend authorized. A notice posted conspicuously in a savings bank of a change in the rate of dividends shall be equivalent to a personal notice. [L. '21, p. 620, § 4; L. '19, p. 700, § 3; L. '15, p. 572, § 25.]

§ 3355. [3345-26.] Surplus, How Determined.

In determining the per centum of par value surplus held by any savings bank, its interest bearing bonds shall not be estimated above their par value or above their market value if below par. Its bonds, notes and mortgages on which there are no arrears of interest for a longer period than six months shall be estimated at their face, and its real property at not above cost. But the value of such bonds, notes and mortgages, as are in arrears of interest for six months or more, and of all other investments not herein enumerated, shall be estimated according to the valuation placed thereon by the state examiner as provided in section 3351. [L. '15, p. 574, § 26.]

§ 3356. [3345-27.] Misleading Advertisement of Surplus or Guaranty.

No savings bank shall put forth any sign or notice or publish or circulate any advertisement or advertising literature upon which or in which it shall be stated that such savings bank has a surplus or guaranty fund in excess of its market value surplus or guaranty fund as determined under the provisions of this act, unless the nature of the same be clearly made to appear. [L. '15, p. 574, § 27.]

§ 3357. [3345-28.] Trustees—Qualifications.

(1) There shall be a board of trustees who shall have the entire management and control of the affairs of the savings bank. The persons named in the certificate of authorization shall be the first trustees. The board shall consist of not less than nine members nor more than thirty members.

(2) A person shall not be a trustee of a savings bank, if he

(1) Each trustee, whether named in the certificate of authorization or elected to fill a vacancy, shall, when such certificate of authorization has been issued, or when notified of such election, take an oath that he will, so far as it devolves on him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of the savings bank, and will not knowingly violate, or willingly permit to be violated any of the provisions of law applicable to such savings bank. Such oath shall be subscribed by the trustee making it and certified by the officer before whom it is taken, and shall be immediately transmitted to the state examiner and filed and preserved in his office.

(2) Prior to the first day of March in each year, every trustee of every savings bank shall subscribe a declaration to the effect that he is, at the date thereof, a trustee of the savings bank, and that he has not resigned, become ineligible, or in any other manner vacated his office as such trustee. Such declaration shall be acknowledged in like manner as a deed to be entitled to record and shall be transmitted to the state examiner and filed in his office prior to the tenth day of March in each year. [L. '15, p. 575, § 29.]

§ 3359. [3345-30.] Officers.

Regular meetings of the board of trustees shall be held at least once a month.

(2) The board of trustees shall by resolution duly recorded in the minutes, designate an officer or officers whose duty it shall be to prepare and submit to each trustee at each regular meeting of the board, or to an executive committee of not less than five members of such board, a written statement of all the purchases and sale of securities, and of every loan, made since the last regular meeting of the board, describing the collateral to such indebtedness as of the date of meeting at which such statement is submitted; but such officer or officers may omit from such statement loans of less than one thousand dollars, except as hereinafter provided. Such statement shall also contain a list giving the aggregate of loans to each individual partnership, unincorporated association or corporation whose liability to the savings bank has been increased one thousand dollars or more since the last regular meeting of the board, together with a description of the collateral to such indebtedness held by the savings bank at the date of the meeting at which such statement is submitted. A copy of such statement, together with a list of the trustees present at such meeting, verified by the affidavit of the officer or officers charged with the duty of preparing and submitting such statement shall be filed with the records of the savings bank within one day after such meeting, and shall be presumptive evidence of the matters therein stated. [L. '15, p. 575, § 31.]

(1) A trustee of a savings bank shall not directly or indirectly receive any pay or emolument for his attendance at meetings of the board, or for any other services as trustee, except as provided in this section.

(2) Trustees acting as officers of the savings bank, whose duties require and receive their regular and faithful attendance at the institution, and the trustees appointed as a committee to examine the vouchers and assets pursuant to section 3367, to perform the duties required by subdivision 2, of section 3360, or to render other special services as members of committees provided for in the by-laws, may receive such compensation as in the opinion of a majority of the board of trustees shall be just and reasonable; but such majority shall be exclusive of any trustee to whom such compensation shall be voted.

(3) An attorney for a savings bank, although he be a trustee thereof, may receive a reasonable compensation for his professional services, including examinations and certificates of title to real property on which mortgage loans are made by the savings bank; or if the savings bank requires the borrowers to pay all expenses of searches, examinations and certificates of title, including the drawing, perfecting and recording of papers, such attorney may collect of the borrower and retain for his own use and the usual fees for such services, excepting any commissions as broker or on account of placing or accepting such mortgage loans.

(4) If an officer or attorney of a savings bank shall receive, on any loan made by the savings bank, any commission which he is not authorized by this section to retain for his own use, he shall immediately pay the same over to the savings bank. [L. '15, p. 576, § 32.]

§ 3363. [3345-34.] Restrictions on Trustees.

(1) A trustee of a savings bank shall not

The trustees of every savings bank, by a committee of not less than three of their number, on or before the first days of January and July in each year, shall thoroughly examine books, vouchers and assets of such savings bank, and its affairs generally. The statement or schedule of assets and liabilities reported to the state examiner for the first of January and July in each year, as provided in the section next following, shall be based upon such examinations, and shall be verified by the oath of a majority of the trustees making it; and the trustees of any savings bank may require such examination at such other times as they shall prescribe. The trustees shall, as often as once in each six months during each year, cause to be taken an accurate balance of their depositors' ledgers, and in their semi-annual report to the state examiner they shall state the fact that such balance has been taken, and the discrepancies, if any, existing between the amount due depositors, as shown by such balance, and the amount so due as shown by the general ledger. of open accounts at the end of the period for which said report is made, and such other information as may be required by the state examiner.

(3) Verification. Every such report shall be verified by the oaths of the two principal officers in charge of the affairs of the savings bank at the time of such verification, which shall state that the report is true and correct in all respects to the best of the knowledge and belief of the persons verifying it, and that the usual business of the savings bank has been transacted at the location required by this act and not elsewhere.

(4) Special reports. Every savings bank shall also make such other special reports to the state examiner as he may from time to time require, which shall be in such form and filed at such date as may be prescribed by the state examiner and shall, if required by him, be verified in such manner as he may prescribe.

(5) Penalty. If any such savings bank shall fail to make any report mentioned by this section, on or before the day designated for the making thereof, or shall fail to include therein any matter required by the state examiner to be stated, such savings bank shall forfeit to the state the sum of one hundred dollars for every day that such report shall be delayed or withheld, and for every day that it shall fail to report any such omitted matter, unless the time therefor shall have been extended by the state examiner, which extension he may grant, by a written order only, for not exceeding twenty days. [L. '15, p. 580, § 39.]

See notes to § 3313, supra.

§ 3369. [3345-40.] Official Communications from Bank Examiner.

Each official communication directed by the state examiner or one of his deputies to such savings bank or to any officer thereof, relating to an investigation or examination conducted by the banking department or containing suggestions or recommendations as to the conduct of the business of the savings bank, shall be submitted by the officer receiving it to the board of trustees at the next meeting of such board, and duly noted in the minutes of the meetings of such board. [L. '15, p. 582, § 40.]

§ 3370. [3345-41.] Forfeiture for Delay in Organization—Extension.

Every corporation authorized by this act which shall not organize and commence business within one year after the certificate of authorization has been issued, shall forfeit its rights and privileges as a corporation, which fact the state examiner shall certify to the county auditor in whose office the certificate was filed, and to the secretary of state, and the certificate of forfeiture shall be filed in the office of the county auditor and filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state in the same manner as the certificate of authorization: Provided, that the state examiner may for satisfactory cause to him shown by an order under his hand and official seal extend for not more than one year the time within which such organization may be effected, and business commenced, such order to be transmitted to the offices of such county auditor and the secretary of state and filed and recorded therein. [L. '15, p. 583, § 41.]

See notes to § 3313, supra.

§ 3371. [3345-42.*] Excess Deposits—Notice to Reduce.

The secretary of every such bank shall at least once each year send notice by mail to each depositor who has to his credit a sum in excess of the maximum permitted by section 3346, stating the amount of such excess, and notifying the depositors that such excess will not participate in dividends, and requiring him to reduce the amount so that the same shall not exceed the maximum. [L. '19, p. 702, § 4. Cf. L. '15, p. 583, § 42.]

§ 3372. [3345-43.] Calling Deposit-books.

Within two years after organization, and each third year thereafter, every such bank shall call in the books of deposit for verification under rules to be prescribed in its by-laws. [L. '15, p. 583, § 43.]

§ 3373. [3345-44.] Expenditure for Management and Operation.

No such bank shall in the course of any fiscal year (which fiscal year shall be deemed to expire on the last day of December in each year) pay or become liable to pay either directly or indirectly for expenses of management and operation more than two and one-half per centum of its average assets during such year. [L. '15, p. 583, § 44.]

§ 3374. [3345-45.] Dissolution and Liquidation.

If the trustees of any solvent mutual savings bank shall deem it necessary or expedient to close the business of such bank, they may, by affirmative vote of not less than two-thirds of the whole number of trustees, at a meeting called for that purpose, of which one month's notice has been given, either personally or by mailing such notice to the postoffice address of each trustee, declare by resolution their determination to close such business and pay the moneys due depositors and creditors and to surrender the corporate franchise. Subject to the approval and under the direction of the state examiner, such savings bank may adopt any lawful plan for closing up its affairs, as nearly as may be in accordance with the original plan and objects. [L. '15, p. 584, § 45.]

§ 3375. [3345-46.] Unpaid Depositors and Creditors—Transfer of Balances—Dissolution.

When the trustees, acting under the provisions of the preceding section, shall have paid the sums due respectively to all creditors and depositors, who, after such notice as the state examiner shall prescribe, claim the money due and their deposits, the trustees shall make a transcript or statement from the books in the bank of the names of all depositors and creditors who have not claimed or have not received the balance of the credit due them, and of the sums due them, respectively, and shall file such transcript with the state examiner and pay over and transfer all such unclaimed and unpaid deposits, credits and moneys to the state examiner. The trustees shall then report their proceedings duly verified, to the superior court of the county wherein the bank is located, and upon such report and the petition of the trustees, and after notice to the attorney-general and the state examiner, and such other notice as the court may deem necessary, the court shall adjudge the franchise surrendered and the existence of the corporation terminated, certified copies of which judgment shall be filed in the offices of the secretary of state, state examiner and auditor of the county wherein the bank is located where the same shall be filed, and in the office of the secretary of state recorded.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent the superior court from appointing a receiver of any such corporation for any cause authorizing the appointment of such receiver under the laws of the state. [L. '15, p. 584, § 46.]

See notes to § 3313, supra.

§ 3376. [3345-47.] Certified Copies as Evidence.

Copies from the records, books and accounts of a mutual savings bank shall be competent evidence in all cases, equal with originals thereof, if there is annexed to such copies an affidavit taken before a notary public or clerk of a court under seal, stating that the affiant is the officer of the bank having charge of the original records, and that the copy is true and correct and is full so far as the same relates to the subject matter therein mentioned. [L. '15, p. 585, § 47.]

§ 3377. [3345-48.] Changing Place of Business—Approval.

Any savings bank may make a written application to the state examiner for leave to change its place of business to another place in the same county. The application shall state the reasons for such proposed change, and shall be signed and acknowledged by a majority of its board of trustees. If the proposed place of business is within the limits of the town or city in which the present place of business of the savings bank is located, such change may be made upon the written approval of the examiner; if beyond such limits, notice of intention to make such application, signed by two principal officers of the savings bank, shall be published once a week for two successive weeks immediately preceding such application in a daily newspaper published in the city of Olympia and shall be published in like manner in a newspaper to be designated by the state examiner, published in the county in which the present place of business of such savings bank is located. If the state examiner shall grant his certificate authorizing the change of location, which in his discretion he may do, the savings bank shall cause such certificate to be published once in each week for two successive weeks in the newspapers in which the notice of application was published. When the requirements of this section shall have been fully complied with, the savings bank may, upon or after the day specified in the certificate, remove its property and effects to the location designated therein, and thereafter its principal place of business shall be the location so specified; and it shall have all the rights and powers in such new location which it possessed at its former location. [L. '15, p. 585, § 48.]

See notes to § 3313, supra.

1. It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer;
2. Must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money;
3. Must be payable on demand, or at a fixed or determinable future time;
4. Must be payable to order or to bearer; and,
5. Where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. [L. '99, p. 340, § 1.]

An indorsement of a fictitious payment on the back of a note offered for discount, reducing the amount of the principal sum, as a condition precedent to discount or negotiation, is not made after "execution" of the note, and is therefore a material alteration, although the note had been signed, since it had not been delivered, and execution requires both signature and delivery of a note meeting all the requirements of the Negotiable Instruments Act, section 3392: Washington Finance Corporation v. Glass, 74 Wash. 653, 134 Pac. 480, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1043.

The discounting of a "wheat" note obligating the maker to grow and deliver certain wheat is not usurious, within section 7299, infra, providing that the discounting of "commercial" paper, shall be considered as a loan within the usury laws; since it is not commercial paper, within sections 3392, 3396: Thomson v. Koch, 62 Wash. 438, 113 Pac. 1110.

What are negotiable instruments. 14 Am. Dec. 421; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 4.

§ 3393. "Sum Certain" Defined.

The sum payable is a sum certain within the meaning of this act, although it is to be paid—

1. With interest; or
2. By stated installments; or
3. By stated installments, with a provision that upon default in payment of any installment or of interest, the whole shall become due; or
4. With exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or
5. With costs of collection or an attorney's fees, in case payment shall not be made at maturity. [L. '99, p. 340, § 2.]

Cited in 66 Wash. 263; 81 Wash. 445—447.

Under this section, conditions in a note that if default be made in the payment of any of certain interest notes, as the same mature, for the space of thirty days, the whole amount of the note will at once be due and payable, together with provisions for payment with exchange on New York and for a reasonable attorney's fee in case of suit, do not render the note non-negotiable: Bright v. Offield, 81 Wash. 442, 143 Pac. 159.

§ 3394. "Unconditional" Defined.

An unqualified order or promise to pay is unconditional within the meaning of this act, though coupled with—

1. An indication of a particular fund out of which reimbursement is to be made, or a particular account to be debited with the amount; or
2. A statement of the transaction which gives rise to the instrument.

But an order or promise to pay only out of a particular fund is not unconditional. [L. '99, p. 340, § 3.]

Cited in 66 Wash. 379; 81 Wash. 445—447; 91 Wash. 624; 93 Wash. 383, 111 Wash. 312.

This section is but declaratory of the common law, and a note is negotiable if the general credit of the maker accompanies the note: First National Bank v. Sullivan, 66 Wash. 375, 119 Pac. 820, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 930.

A recital in a note that it is of even date with a mortgage securing the note, but without expressly adopting the conditions of the mortgage, renders the mortgage ancillary thereto, the conditions of which alone do not change the character of the note as a negotiable instrument: Bright v. Offield, 81 Wash. 442, 143 Pac. 159.

Collateral Agreements and Securities: See Remington's Digest, Bills & N., §§ 26-1, 26-2; Westbrook v. Chapman, 1 W. T. 227; Greely v. Newcomb, 21 Wash. 357, 58 Pac. 216; *Pitt v. Reference to extrinsic agreements as affecting negotiability of bill or note. 14 A. L. R. 1126.

§ 3395. "Determinable Future Time" Defined.

An instrument is payable at a determinable future time, within the meaning of this act, which is expressed to be payable—

1. At a fixed period after date or sight; or
2. On or before a fixed or determinable future time specified therein; or

3. On or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event, which is certain to happen, though the time of happening be uncertain.

An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect. [L. '99, p. 341, § 4.]

Cited in 81 Wash. 445—447; 94 Wash. 511.

A provision in a note accelerating maturity by nonpayment of taxes and assessments on property mortgaged to secure the note does not render the note non-negotiable, when considered only with reference to the time of payment, and without regard to the amount thereof; but its negotiable character is destroyed by such a provision if there is an implication that the maker of the note is charged with the payment of the taxes, etc., the amount of which is uncertain, thereby rendering the amount of recovery under the note uncertain: Bright v. Offield, 81 Wash. 442, 143 Pac. 159.

This section, subdivision 2, applies to a note in which the only time of payment is "on or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event which is certain to happen," and not to a note payable at all events at a time certain, but accelerated in maturity on the happening of a contingency: Bright v. Offield, 81 Wash. 442, 143 Pac. 159.

The negotiability of a promissory note, due on or before four years after date, is not affected by a provision that "if we sell or remove the timber that we have bought on said Johan Joergenson's [payee] homestead claim, before the expiration of said four years, then this note shall be paid at the time of such sale or removal of said timber," since such provision does not change or destroy the maker's absolute liability to pay at the time designated: Joergenson v. Joergenson, 28 Wash. 477, 68 Pac. 913, 92 Am. St. Rep. 888.

§ 3396. Negotiability—Effect of Provisions.

An instrument which contains an order or promise to do any act in addition to the payment of money is not negotiable. But the negotiable character of an instrument otherwise negotiable is not affected by a provision which—

1. Authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity; or
2. Authorizes a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or
3. Waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of the obligor; or
4. Gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money.

But nothing in this section shall validate any provision or stipulation otherwise illegal. [L. '99, p. 341, § 5.]

§ 3397. Validity and Negotiability—When not Affected.

The validity and negotiable character of an instrument are not affected by the fact that—

1. It is not dated; or
2. Does not specify the value given, or that any value has been given therefor; or
3. Does not specify the place where it is drawn or the place where it is payable; or
4. Bears a seal; or
5. Designates a particular kind of current money in which payment is to be made.

But nothing in this section shall alter or repeal any statute requiring in certain cases, the nature of the consideration to be stated in the instrument. [L. '99, p. 341, § 6.]

§ 3398. When "Payable on Demand."

An instrument is payable on demand—

1. Where it is expressed to be payable on demand, or at sight, or on presentation; or
2. In which no time for payment is expressed.

Where an instrument is issued, accepted or indorsed when overdue, it is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting or indorsing it, payable on demand. [L. '99, p. 342, § 7.]

§ 3399. When "Payable to Order."

The instrument is payable to order where it is drawn payable to the order of a specified person or to him or his order. It may be drawn payable to the order of—

1. A payee who is not maker, drawer, or drawee; or
2. The drawer or maker; or
3. The drawee; or
4. Two or more payees jointly; or
5. One or some of several payees; or
6. The holder of an office for the time being.

Where the instrument is payable to order the payee must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. [L. '99, p. 342, § 8.]

§ 3400. When "Payable to Bearer."

The instrument is payable to bearer—

1. When it is expressed to be so payable; or
2. When it is payable to a person named therein or bearer; or
3. When it is payable to the order of a fictitious or nonexisting person, and such fact was known to the person making it so payable; or
4. When the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or
5. When the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank. [L. '99, p. 342, § 9.]

§ 3401. Intent to Conform to Requirements Sufficient.

The instrument need not follow the language of this act, but any terms are sufficient which clearly indicate an intention to conform to the requirements hereof. [L. '99, p. 342, § 10.]

Cited in 72 Wash. 611.

§ 3402. Date Prima Facie True.

Where the instrument or an acceptance or any indorsement thereon is dated, such date is deemed prima facie to be the true date of the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement as the case may be. [L. '99, p. 343, § 11.]

Cited in 96 Wash. 77.

In an action upon promissory notes made by a corporation, a prima facie case is established by evidence to the effect that the persons signing as officers were officers of the corporation at the time the notes bear date, that they were authorized to execute notes for the company, and that their signatures were genuine, in view of this section, providing that the date of a promissory note is deemed prima facie to be the true date of its execution; and it then devolves upon the defendant to establish its defense of forgery in that the note was not executed on its date, by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence: National City Bank v. Shelton Electric Co., 96 Wash. 74, 164 Pac. 933.

§ 3403. Effect of Ante or Post Date.

The instrument is not invalid for the reason only that it is ante-dated or post-dated, provided this is not done for an illegal or fraudulent purpose. The person to whom an instrument so dated is delivered acquires the title thereto as of the date of delivery. [L. '99, p. 343, § 12.]

§ 3404. Blank Date—Holder may Fill.

Where an instrument expressed to be payable at a fixed period after date is issued undated, or where the acceptance of an instrument payable at a fixed period after sight is undated, any holder may insert therein the true date of issue or acceptance, and the instrument shall be payable accordingly. The insertion of a wrong date does not avoid the instrument in the hands of a subsequent holder in due course; but as to him, the date so inserted is to be regarded as the true date. [L. '99, p. 343, § 13.]

§ 3405. Defects and Blanks—Holders' Right to Fill.

Where the instrument is wanting in any material particular, the person in possession thereof has a prima facie authority to complete it by filling up the blanks therein. And a signature on a blank paper delivered by the person making the signature in order that the paper may be converted into a negotiable instrument operates as a prima facie authority to fill it up as such for any amount. In order, however, that any such instrument when completed may be enforced against any person who became a party thereto prior to its completion, it must be filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. But if any such instrument, after completion, is negotiated to a holder in due course, it is valid and effectual for all purposes in his hands, and he may enforce it as if it had been filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. [L. '99, p. 343, § 14.]

§ 3406. Negotiation Without Delivery or Authority, Invalid.

Where an incomplete instrument has not been delivered it will not, if completed and negotiated, without authority, be a valid contract in the hands of any holder, as against any person whose signature was placed thereon before delivery. [L. '99, p. 343, § 15.]

§ 3407. Delivery, What Constitutes.

Every contract on a negotiable instrument is incomplete and revocable until delivery of the instrument for the purpose of giving effect thereto. As between immediate parties, and as regards a remote party other than a holder in due course, the delivery, in order to be effectual, must be made either by or under the authority of the party making, drawing, accepting or indorsing, as the case may be; and in such case the delivery may be shown to have been conditional, or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring the property in the instrument. But where the instrument is in the hands of a holder in due course, a valid delivery thereof by all parties prior to him so as to make them liable to him is conclusively presumed. And where the instrument is no longer in the possession of a party whose signature appears thereon, a valid and intentional delivery by him is presumed until the contrary is proved. [L. '99, p. 344, § 16.]

Under this section, a holder in due course of commercial paper may recover thereon, although the instrument was originally stolen from the maker thereof; this, under the maxim that, where one of two innocent persons must suffer by the wrong of another, he whose act made the loss possible must suffer: Angus v. Evidence is competent to show that the delivery and indorsement of a check to a bank by a depositor, without restriction, is in fact conditional, and for the purpose of collection without passing title, under this section: Morris-Miller Co. v. Van Presentin, 63 Wash. 74, 114 Pac. 912.

§ 3408. Construction of Ambiguities.

Where the language of the instrument is ambiguous, or there are omissions therein, the following rules of construction apply—

1. Where the sum payable is expressed in words and also in figures and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the sum payable; but if the words are ambiguous or uncertain, references may be had to the figures to fix the amount;

2. Where the instrument provides for the payment of interest, without specifying the date from which interest is to run, the interest runs from the date of the instrument, and if the instrument is undated, from the issue thereof;

3. Where the instrument is not dated, it will be considered to be dated as of the time it was issued;

4. Where there is a conflict between the written and printed provisions of the instrument, the written provisions prevail;

5. Where the instrument is so ambiguous that there is doubt whether it is a bill or note, the holder may treat it as either at his election;

6. Where a signature is so placed upon the instrument that it is not clear in what capacity the person making the same intended to sign, he is to be deemed an indorser;

7. Where an instrument containing the words "I promise to pay" is signed by two or more persons, they are deemed to be jointly and severally liable thereon. [L. '99, p. 344, § 17.]

§ 3410. Signature by Agent.

The signature of any party may be made by a duly authorized agent. No particular form of appointment is necessary for this purpose; and the authority of the agent may be established as in other cases of agency. [L. '99, p. 345, § 19.]

Cited in 68 Wash. 451.

§ 3411. Liability of Agent.

Where the instrument contains or a person adds to his signature words indicating that he signs for or on behalf of a principal, or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument if he was duly authorized; but the mere addition of words describing him as an agent, or as filling a representative character, without disclosing his principal, does not exempt him from personal liability. § 3412. Signature by "Procurator"—Notice.

A signature by "procurator" operates as notice that the agent has but a limited authority to sign, and the principal is bound only in case the agent in so signing acted within the actual limits of his authority. [L. '99, p. 345, § 21.]

§ 3413. Assignment by Corporation or Infant Passes Title.

The indorsement or assignment of the instrument by a corporation or by an infant passes the property therein, notwithstanding that from want of capacity the corporation or infant may incur no liability thereon. [L. '99, p. 345, § 22.]

§ 3414. Forgery—Effect of.

Where a signature is forged or made without authority of the person whose signature it purports to be, it is wholly inoperative, and no right to retain the instrument, or to give a discharge therefor, or to enforce payment thereof against any party thereto, can be acquired through or under such signature, unless the party, against whom it is sought to enforce such right, is precluded from setting up the forgery or want of authority. § 3423. Indorsement must be Entire.

The indorsement must be an indorsement of the entire instrument. An indorsement, which purports to transfer to the indorsee a part only of the amount payable, or which purports to transfer the instrument to two or more indorsee severally, does not operate as a negotiation of the instrument. But where the instrument has been paid in part, it may be indorsed as to the residue. [L. '99, p. 347, § 32.]

§ 3424. Same—May be Special, etc.

An indorsement may be either special or in blank; and it may also be either restrictive or qualified, or conditional. [L. '99, p. 347, § 33.]

Cited in 83 Wash. 83.

§ 3425. Special and Blank Indorsements, What are.

A special indorsement specifies the person to whom, or to whose order, the instrument is to be payable; and the indorsement of such indorsee is necessary to the further negotiation of the instrument. An indorsement in blank specifies no indorsee, and an instrument so indorsed is payable to bearer, and may be negotiated by delivery. [L. '99, p. 347, § 34.]

Indorsement of negotiable paper in blank by other than the payee or holder.
3 Am. Dec. 571; 29 Am. St. Rep. 297.

§ 3426. Blank Indorsement may be Changed to Special.

The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement. [L. '99, p. 347, § 35.]

§ 3427. Restrictive Indorsements.

An indorsement is restrictive, which either—

1. Prohibits the further negotiation of the instrument; or
2. Constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser; or
3. Vests the title in the indorsee in trust for or to the use of some other person.

But the mere absence of words implying power to negotiate does not make an indorsement restrictive. [L. '99, p. 347, § 36.]

Indorsement "To the order of any bank or banker" as a restrictive indorsement.

§ 3428. Rights of Restrictive Indorsee.

A restrictive indorsement confers upon the indorsee the right—

1. To receive payment of the instrument;
2. To bring any action thereon that the indorser could bring;
3. To transfer his rights as such indorsee, where the form of the indorsement authorizes him to do so.

But all subsequent indorsee acquire only the title of the first indorsee under the restrictive indorsement. [L. '99, p. 348, § 37.]

Cited in 83 Wash. 83.

§ 3429. Qualified Indorsement.

A qualified indorsement constitutes the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the instrument. It may be made by adding to the indorser's signature the words "without recourse" or any words of similar import. Such an indorsement does not impair the negotiable character of the instrument. [L. '99, p. 348, § 38.]

circumstance sufficient to put purchaser of negotiable paper on inquiry. L. R. A. 1918F, 1152.

§ 3430. Conditional Indorsement, Effect of.

Where an indorsement is conditional, a party required to pay the instrument may disregard the condition, and make payment to the indorsee or his transferee, whether the condition has been fulfilled or not. But any person to whom an instrument so indorsed is negotiated, will hold the same, or the proceeds thereof, subject to the rights of the person indorsing conditionally. [L. '99, p. 348, § 39.]

Without Recourse: American Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. Helgesen, 64 Wash. 54, 116 Pac. 837, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 390.

§ 3431. Special Indorsement, Payable to Bearer, Effect of.

Where an instrument, payable to bearer, is indorsed specially, it may nevertheless be further negotiated by delivery; but the person indorsing specially is liable as indorser to only such holders as make title through his indorsement. [L. '99, p. 348, § 40.]

§ 3432. Payable to Two or More—Indorsement.

Where an instrument is payable to the order of two or more payees or indorsees who are not partners, all must indorse, unless the one indorsing has authority to indorse for the others. [L. '99, p. 348, § 41.]

§ 3433. Indorsement to "Cashier," Effect of.

Where an instrument is drawn or indorsed to a person as "cashier" or other fiscal officer of a bank or corporation, it is deemed prima facie to be payable to the bank or corporation of which he is such officer; and may be negotiated by either the indorsement of the bank or corporation, or the indorsement of the officer. [L. '99, p. 348, § 42.]

§ 3434. Misspelled Name, How Indorsed.

Where the name of a payee or indorsee is wrongly designated or misspelled, he may indorse the instrument as therein described, adding, if he think fit, his proper signature. [L. '99, p. 349, § 43.]

§ 3435. Indorsement in Representative Capacity.

Where any person is under obligation to indorse in a representative capacity, he may indorse in such terms as to negative personal liability. [L. '99, p. 349, § 44.]

§ 3436. Presumption of Negotiation Before Indorsement.

Except where an indorsement bears date after the maturity of the instrument, every negotiation is deemed prima facie to have been effected before the instrument was overdue. [L. '99, p. 349, § 45.]

§ 3437. Indorsement Presumed Made When Dated.

Except where the contrary appears, every indorsement is presumed prima facie to have been made at the place where the instrument is dated. [L. '99, p. 349, § 46.]

§ 3438. Negotiability Continues.

An instrument negotiable in its origin continues to be negotiable until it has been restrictively indorsed or discharged by payment or otherwise. [L. '99, p. 349, § 47.]

§ 3439. Striking Indorsement.

The holder may at any time strike out any indorsement which is not necessary to his title. The indorser whose indorsement is struck out, and all indorsers subsequent to him, are thereby relieved from liability on the instrument. [L. '99, p. 349, § 48.]

§ 3440. Transfer Without Indorsement.

Where the holder of an instrument payable to his order transfers it for value without indorsing it, the transfer vests in the transferee such title as the transferor had therein, and the transferee acquires, in addition, the right to have the indorsement of the transferor. But for the purpose of determining whether the transferee is a holder in due course, the negotiation takes effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. [L. '99, p. 349, § 49.]

§ 3441. Transfer Back to Prior Party.

Where an instrument is negotiated back to a prior party, such party may, subject to the provisions of this act, reissue and further negotiate the same. But he is not entitled to enforce payment thereof against any intervening party to whom he was personally liable. [L. '99, p. 349, § 50.]

§ 3442. Holder may Sue in Own Name.

The holder of a negotiable instrument may sue thereon in his own name; and payment to him in due course discharges the instrument. [L. '99, p. 350, § 51.]

§ 3443. "Holder in Due Course," When.

A holder in due course is a holder who has taken the instrument under the following conditions:—

1. That it is complete and regular upon its face;
2. That he became the holder of it before it was overdue, and without notice that it had been previously dishonored, if such was the fact;
3. That he took it in good faith and for value;
4. That at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it. [L. '99, p. 350, § 52.]

§ 3447. Notice of Defect, What is.

To constitute notice of an infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same, the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect, or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith. [L. '99, p. 350, § 56.]

In an assignee's action on a mortgage note and to reform and foreclose the mortgage, findings that by mistake the mortgage fixed the due date one year in advance of the maturity of the note, and that plaintiff had notice of the mistake when he purchased at a large discount, are sustained where the discrepancy appeared on the face of the papers, and he was told of the two dates, and he admitted having had some intimation of it; the presumption of good faith attaching by virtue of this section, being in such case overcome by clear and satisfactory evidence: Naylor v. Lovell, 109 Wash. 409, 186 Pac. 855.

§ 3448. "Holder in Due Course"—Right to Full Payment.

A holder in due course holds the instrument free from any defects of title of prior parties, and free from defenses available to prior parties among themselves, and may enforce payment of the instrument for the full amount thereof against all parties liable thereon. [L. '99, p. 350, § 57.]

Payment of Less Than Face Value: See Remington's Digest, Bills & N., § 67-1; McNamara v. Jose, 28 Wash. 461, 68 Pac. 903; Moore & Co. v. Burling, 93 Wash. 217, 160 Pac. 420.

Under this section, a bona fide purchaser at a large discount may recover from the maker the full face of mortgage notes: Moore & Co. v. Burling, 93 Wash. 217, 160 Pac. 420.

§ 3449. Defenses Against One not a Holder in Due Course.

In the hands of any holder other than a holder in due course, a negotiable instrument is subject to the same defenses as if it were non-negotiable. But a holder who derives his title through a holder in due course, and who is not himself a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument, has all the rights of such former holder in respect of all parties prior to the latter. [L. '99, p. 351, § 58.]

Cited in 56 Wash. 630, 631, 632; 62 Wash. 538, 543; 69 Wash. 312; 83 Wash. 83.

Under this section, a bona fide holder in due course can pass a good title after maturity, although there has since been a failure of consideration as between the original parties, to the knowledge of the last assignee: Moyses v. Bell, 62 Wash. 534, 114 Pac. 193.

§ 3450. "Due Course" Presumed—Burden of Proof.

[Every] holder is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as holder in due course. But the last-mentioned rule does not apply in favor of a party who became bound on the instrument prior to the acquisition of such defective title. [L. '99, p. 351, § 59.]

§ 3451. Maker's Undertaking—Estoppel.

The maker of a negotiable instrument by making it engages that he will pay it according to its tenor, and admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. [L. '99, p. 351, § 60.]

Cited in 56 Wash. 630, 631, 632; 79 Wash. 190.

§ 3452. Drawer's Undertaking—Estoppel.

The drawer by drawing the instrument admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse; and engages that on due presentment the instrument will be accepted or paid, or both, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored, and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder, or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. But the drawer may insert in the instrument an express stipulation negating or limiting his own liability to the holder. [L. '99, p. 351, § 61.]

Cited in 56 Wash. 630, 631, 632.

§ 3453. Acceptor's Undertaking—Estoppel.

The acceptor by accepting the instrument engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance; and admits—

1. The existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature, and his capacity and authority to draw the instrument; and

2. The existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. [L. '99, p. 351, § 62.]

Cited in 56 Wash. 630, 631, 632; 109 Wash. 315, 322.

Where checks to fictitious payees with forged indorsements passed through the clearing house and were paid by the drawee bank, the payment admits the existence of the payees and their capacity to indorse, under this section; since payment includes acceptance: National Bank of Commerce of Seattle v. Seattle National Bank, 109 Wash. 312, 187 Pac. 342.

§ 3454. Signer, an Indorser, Unless Intention Clearly Indicated.

A person placing his signature upon an instrument otherwise than as maker, drawer or acceptor is deemed to be an indorser, unless he clearly indicates by appropriate words his intention to be bound in some other capacity. [L. '99, p. 352, § 63.]

§ 3455. Blank Signature by One not a Party—Liability.

Where a person, not otherwise a party to an instrument, places thereon his signature in blank before delivery, he is liable as indorser in accordance with the following rules:

1. If the instrument is payable to the order of a third person, he is liable to the payee and to all subsequent parties.

2. If the instrument is payable to the order of the maker or drawer, or is payable to bearer, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the maker or drawer.

3. If he signs for the accommodation of the payee, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the payee. [L. '99, p. 352, § 64.]

§ 3456. Warranties by Negotiator.

Every person negotiating an instrument by delivery or by a qualified indorsement, warrants—

1. That the instrument is genuine and in all respects what it purports to be;

2. That he has a good title to it;

3. That all prior parties had capacity to contract;

4. That he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the instrument or render it valueless.

But when the negotiation is by delivery only, the warranty extends in favor of no holder other than the immediate transferee.

The provisions of subdivision 3 of this section do not apply to persons negotiating public or corporate securities, other than bills and notes. [L. '99, p. 352, § 65.]

See, also, § 3460, infra.

§ 3457. Warranties by Indorser.

Every indorser who indorses without qualification, warrants to all subsequent holders in due course—

1. The matters and things mentioned in subdivisions 1, 2 and 3 of the next preceding section; and

2. That the instrument is at the time of his indorsement valid and subsisting.

And, in addition, he engages that on due presentment, it shall be accepted or paid, or both, as the case may be, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored, and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder, or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. [L. '99, p. 352, § 66.]

Cited in 62 Wash. 658; 90 Wash. 405; 100 Wash. 379; 109 Wash. 321.

Under this section, an indorsement in blank implies a promise to pay the note according to its purport, but only upon demand and notice: Bardshar v. Chaffee, 90 Wash. 404, 156 Pac. 388.

This section was not intended to define any obligation or liability to the drawee, who by acceptance, under the terms of Id., § 3453, admits the existence of the payee and his capacity to indorse; since the drawee paying a check is not a "holder" and acceptance and payment strips the instrument of all negotiability: National Bank of Commerce of Seattle v. Seattle National Bank, 109 Wash. 312, 187 Pac. 342.

§ 3458. Liability of Indorser—When Negotiable by Delivery.

Where a person places his indorsement on an instrument negotiable by delivery he incurs all the liabilities of an indorser. [L. '99, p. 353, § 67.]

Cited in 62 Wash. 658.

§ 3459. Order of Liability—Agreements Admissible—Joint Payees, etc.

As respects one another, indorsers are liable prima facie in the order in which they indorse; but evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves they have agreed otherwise. Joint payees or joint indorsees who indorse are deemed to indorse jointly and severally. [L. '99, p. 353, § 68.]

§ 3460. Liability of Broker Negotiating Without Indorsement.

Where a broker or other agent negotiates an instrument without indorsement, he incurs all the liabilities prescribed by section 3456 of this act, unless he discloses the name of his principal, and the fact that he is acting only as agent. [L. '99, p. 353, § 69.]

Cited in 57 Wash. 597; 85 Wash. 470.

§ 3461. Presentment—When Necessary.

Presentment for payment is not necessary in order to charge the person primarily liable on the instrument; but if the instrument is, by its terms, payable at a special place, and he is able and willing to pay it there at maturity, such ability and willingness are equivalent to a tender of payment upon his part. But except as herein otherwise provided, presentment for payment is necessary in order to charge the drawer and indorsers. [L. '99, p. 353, § 70.]

Presentment for payment, to be sufficient, must be made—§ 3466. Presentment at Bank, Time of.

Where the instrument is payable at a bank, presentment for payment must be made during banking hours, unless the person to make payment has no funds there to meet it at any time during the day, in which case presentment at any hour before the bank is closed on that day is sufficient. [L. '99, p. 354, § 75.]

See, also, infra, § 3477.

§ 3467. Same—To Personal Representative.

Where the person primarily liable on the instrument is dead, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment must be made to his personal representative if such there be, and if, with the exercise of reasonable diligence, he can be found. [L. '99, p. 354, § 76.]

When the cause of delay ceases to operate, presentment must be made with reasonable diligence. [L. '99, p. 355, § 81.]

See infra, § 3584, Sundays and holidays.

§ 3476. Computation of Time.

§ 3485. Sufficiency of Notice.

A written notice need not be signed, and an insufficient written notice may be supplemented and validated by verbal communication. A misdescription of the instrument does not vitiate the notice unless the party to whom the notice is given is in fact misled thereby. [L. '99, p. 357, § 95.]

§ 3486. Notice may be Written or Oral.

The notice may be in writing or merely oral and may be given in any terms which sufficiently identify the instrument, and indicate that it has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. It may in all cases be given by delivering it personally or through the mails. [L. '99, p. 357, § 96.]

Cited in 62 Wash. 660.

Where an indorser of a note had its custody for collection as agent for the owner it was his duty to present it for payment, and knowing that the maker was in the hands of a receiver and that presentment would be an idle ceremony he was not entitled to further notice as an indorser, under this section: Gleeson v. Lichty, 62 Wash. 656, 114 Pac. 518.

§ 3487. Notice, to Whom Given.

Notice of dishonor may be given either to the party himself or to his agent in that behalf. [L. '99, p. 357, § 97.]

§ 3488. Notice, When Party Deceased.

When any party is dead, and his death is known to the party giving notice, the notice must be given to a personal representative, if there be one, and if with reasonable diligence he can be found. If there be no personal representative, notice may be sent to the last residence or last place of business of the deceased. [L. '99, p. 357, § 98.]

§ 3489. Notice to One of Partners.

Where the parties to be notified are partners, notice to any one partner is notice to the firm even though there has been a dissolution. [L. '99, p. 357, § 99.]

See supra, § 3468, presentment to one partner.

§ 3490. Joint Parties, Notice to Each.

Notice to joint parties who are not partners must be given to each of them, unless one of them has authority to receive such notice for the others. [L. '99, p. 357, § 100.]

§ 3491. Insolvency—Notice to Whom.

Where a party has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent, or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, notice may be given either to the party himself or to his trustee or assignee. [L. '99, p. 358 § 101.]

§ 3492. Notice Immediately upon Dishonor.

Notice may be given as soon as the instrument is dishonored; and unless delay is excused as hereinafter provided, must be given within the times fixed by this act. [L. '99, p. 358, § 102.]

§ 3493. Parties Living in Same Place, Notice When.

Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in the same place, notice must be given within the following times—

1. If given at the place of business of the person to receive notice, it must be given before the close of business hours on the day following.

2. If given at his residence, it must be given before the usual hours of rest on the day following.

3. If sent by mail, it must be deposited in the postoffice in time to reach him in the usual course on the day following. [L. '99, p. 358, § 103.]

§ 3494. Living in Different Places, Notice When.

Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in different places, the notice must be given within the following times—

1. If sent by mail, it must be deposited in the postoffice in time to go by mail the day following the day of dishonor, or if there be no mail at a convenient hour on that day, by the next mail thereafter.

2. If given otherwise than through the postoffice, then within the time that notice would have been received in due course of mail, if it had been deposited in the postoffice within the time specified in the last subdivision. [L. '99, p. 358, § 104.]

§ 3495. Notice by Mail.

Where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the postoffice, the sender is deemed to have given due notice, notwithstanding any miscarriage in the mails. [L. '99, p. 358, § 105.]

Protest and Certificate Thereof—Notice by Mail: See Remington's Digest, Bills & N., § 79; Benedict v. Schmeig, 13 Wash. 476, 43 Pac. 374, 52 Am. St. Rep. 61, 36 L. R. A. 703.

§ 3496. Deposited in Postoffice, When.

Notice is deemed to have been deposited in the postoffice when deposited in any branch postoffice or in any letter-box under the control of the postoffice department. [L. '99, p. 358, § 106.]

§ 3497. Notice to Antecedent Parties.

Where a party receives notice of dishonor, he has, after the receipt of such notice, the same time for giving notice to antecedent parties that the holder has after the dishonor. [L. '99, p. 359, § 107.]

§ 3498. Notice, Where Addressed.

Where a party has added an address to his signature, notice of dishonor must be sent to that address; but if he has not given such address, then the notice must be sent as follows—

1. Either to the postoffice nearest to his place of residence, or to the postoffice where he is accustomed to receive his letters; or

2. If he live in one place, and have his place of business in another, notice may be sent to either place; or

3. If he is sojourning in another place, notice may be sent to the place where he is sojourning.

But where the notice is actually received by the party within the time specified in this act, it will be sufficient, though not sent in accordance with the requirements of this section. [L. '99, p. 359, § 108.]

§ 3499. Waiver of Notice.

Notice of dishonor may be waived, either before the time of giving notice has arrived, or after the omission to give due notice, and the waiver may be express or implied. [L. '99, p. 359, § 109.]

Waiver of Presentment, Protest or Notice: See Remington's Digest, Bills & N., § 80; Wilkie v. Chandon, 1 Wash. 355, 25 Pac. 464; Loveday v. Anderson, 18 Wash. 322, 51 Pac. 463; Bay View Brewing Co. v. Grubb, 31 Wash. 34, 71 Pac. 553.

§ 3500. What Parties Bound by Waiver of Notice.

§ 3501. Waiver of Protest Waives Notice of Presentment and Dishonor.

A waiver of protest, whether in case of a foreign bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, is deemed to be a waiver not only of a formal protest, but also of presentment and notice of dishonor. [L. '99, p. 359, § 111.]

§ 3502. Notice of Dishonor Dispensed With, When.

Notice of dishonor is dispensed with when, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, it cannot be given to or does not reach the parties sought to be charged. [L. '99, p. 359, § 112.]

§ 3503. Excusable Delay.

Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder, and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, notice must be given with reasonable diligence. [L. '99, p. 359, § 113.]

§ 3504. When Drawer not Entitled to Notice of Dishonor.

Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to the drawer in either of the following cases—

1. When the drawer and drawee are the same person;
2. Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract;
3. When the drawer is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment;
4. Where the drawer has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will honor the instrument;
5. Where the drawer has countermanded payment. [L. '99, p. 360, § 114.]

§ 3505. When Indorser not Entitled to Notice.

Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to an indorser in either of the following cases—

1. Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, and the indorser was aware of the fact at the time he indorsed the instrument;
2. Where the indorser is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment;
3. Where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation. [L. '99, p. 360, § 115.]

See supra, § 3479, notice when necessary.

§ 3506. Notice of Nonacceptance, Effect of.

Where due notice of dishonor by nonacceptance has been given notice of a subsequent dishonor by nonpayment is not necessary, unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted. [L. '99, p. 360, § 116.]

§ 3507. Omission of Notice.

An omission to give notice of dishonor by nonacceptance does not prejudice the rights of a holder in due course subsequent to the omission. [L. 99, p. 360, § 117.]

§ 3508. Protest Required Only on Foreign Bills.

Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for nonacceptance or nonpayment, as the case may be; but protest is not required except in the case of foreign bills of exchange. [L. '99, p. 360, § 118.]

See infra, § 9902, notaries may.

See, also, infra, § 3542.

§ 3509. Discharge of Instrument, How Effected.

A negotiable instrument is discharged—

1. By payment in due course by or on behalf of the principal debtor;
2. By payment in due course by the party accommodated, where the instrument is made or accepted for accommodation;
3. By the intentional cancellation thereof by the holder;
4. By any other act which will discharge a simple contract for the payment of money;
5. When the principal debtor becomes the holder of the instrument at or after maturity in his own right. [L. '99, p. 360, § 119.]

§ 3510. Discharge of Parties Secondarily Liable.

A person secondarily liable on the instrument is discharged—

1. By any act which discharges the instrument;
2. By the intentional cancellation of his signature by the holder;
3. By the discharge of a prior party;
4. By a valid tender of payment made by a prior party;
5. By a release of the principal debtor, unless the holder's right of recourse against the party secondarily liable is expressly reserved;
6. By any agreement binding upon the holder to extend the time of payment, or to postpone the holder's right to enforce the instrument, unless made with the assent of the party secondarily liable, or unless the right of recourse against such party is expressly reserved. [L. '99, p. 361, § 120.]

§ 3511. Renegotiation by Secondary Party.

Where the instrument is paid by a party secondarily liable thereon, it is not discharged; but the party so paying it is remitted to his former rights as regards all prior parties, and he may strike out his own and all subsequent indorsements, and again negotiate the instrument, except—

1. Where it is payable to the order of a third person, and has been paid by the drawer; and

2. Where it was made or accepted for accommodation, and has been paid by the party accommodated. [L. '99, p. 361, § 121.]

Cited in 78 Wash. 31.

§ 3512. Holder's Renunciation of Rights.

The holder may expressly renounce his rights against any party to the instrument, before, at, or after its maturity. An absolute and unconditional renunciation of his rights against the principal debtor made at or after the maturity of the instrument discharges the instrument. But a renunciation does not affect the rights of a holder in due course without notice. A renunciation must be in writing, unless the instrument is delivered up to the person primarily liable thereon. [L. '99, p. 361, § 122.]

Discharge by Renunciation: See Remington's Digest, Bills & N., § 88; Davis v. Gutheil, 87 Wash. 596, 152 Pac. 14; Hornburg v. Larson, 93 Wash. 74, 160 Pac. 11.

Under this section, a surety is not entitled to show that he had been released by parol: Baldwin v. Daly, 41 Wash. 416, 83 Pac. 724.

The maker cannot show an oral agreement to release him from liability when the note was not surrendered, as "renunciation" is used in the statute in the sense of "release": Pitt v. Little, 58 Wash. 355, 108 Pac. 941.

§ 3513. Unintentional Cancellation—Burden of Proof.

A cancellation made unintentionally, or under a mistake, or without the authority of the holder, is inoperative; but where an instrument or any signature thereon appears to have been canceled the burden of proof lies on the party who alleges that the cancellation was made unintentionally, or under a mistake or without authority. [L. '99, p. 362, § 123.]

Cited in 113 Wash. 316.

§ 3514. Material Alterations, Effect of.

Where a negotiable instrument is materially altered without the assent of all parties liable thereon, it is avoided, except as against a party who has himself made, authorized or assented to the alteration, and subsequent indorsers. But when an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder in due course, not a party to the alteration, he may enforce payment thereof according to its original tenor. [L. '99, p. 362, § 124.]

Cited in 57 Wash. 353; 58 Wash. 359; 74 Wash. 655, 662; 87 Wash. 598.

A bank to whom a note was offered for discount is not a holder in due course without notice of a material alteration, within this section, where it was a party to and participated in the alteration by insisting upon the indorsement of a fictitious payment reducing the principal sum as a condition to acceptance and discount: Washington Finance Corporation v. Glass, 74 Wash. 653, 134 Pac. 480, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1043.

The release from liability of one of the solvent makers of a mortgage note, and part of the security, is not "material alteration" of the note within this section: Davis v. Gutheil, 87 Wash. 596, 152 Pac. 14.

Effect of detaching contract or memorandum attached to bill or note on rights of subsequent bona fide purchaser. Ann. Cas. 1917E, 603; 22 L. R. A. (N. S.) 263.

§ 3515. Material Alterations, Defined.

Any alteration which changes—

1. The date;
2. The sum payable, either for principal or interest;
3. The time or place of payment;
4. The number or the relations of the parties;
5. The medium or currency in which payment is to be made;

Or which adds a place of payment where no place of payment is specified, or any other change or addition which alters the effect of the instrument in any respect, is a material alteration. [L. '99, p. 362, § 125.]

Cited in 57 Wash. 353; 58 Wash. 359; 71 Wash. 222; 74 Wash. 655.

Under this section, the addition of new signatures to procure their discount is a material alteration, which discharges an accommodation indorser who had no notice of the alteration: Handsaker v. Pedersen, 71 Wash. 218, 128 Pac. 230.

The indorsement upon the back of a note, offered for discount to a bank, of a fictitious payment, reducing the amount of the principal sum, as a condition precedent to discount or delivery to the original payee, without the knowledge of an accommodation maker, is a material alteration, within this section; and it is immaterial that the change was to the advantage of the maker: Washington Finance Corporation v. Glass, 74 Wash. 653, 134 Pac. 480, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1043.

Alteration of date of negotiable instrument as material alteration. Ann. Cas. 1913D, 725.

Addition of words "or bearer," "or order," or substitution of one expression for other as material alteration of negotiable instrument. Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1177.

Change in name of payee of negotiable instrument as material alteration. Ann. Cas. 1913C, 183.

§ 3516. Bill of Exchange, Defined.

A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. [L. '99, p. 362, § 126.]

Cited in 65 Wash. 672; 74 Wash. 329; 78 Wash. 125; 100 Wash. 379; 110 Wash. 442; 113 Wash. 456.

Under this section, an order requesting that sums due or to become due to the drawer from the drawee, be paid to a third person, does not amount to an equitable assignment of the funds or render the drawees liable thereon, until the order is accepted by them in writing: Frederick & Nelson v. Spokane Grain Co., 47 Wash. 85, 91 Pac. 570.

In an action by plaintiffs upon an unaccepted order for the payment of money, which, under this section, would not bind the drawee unless accepted in writing, it was error to refuse a directed verdict in defendant's favor, where the allegations of the complaint as to an agreement obviating the necessity for a written acceptance was wholly unsupported by evidence: Nelson v. Nelson Bennett Co., 31 Wash. 116, 71 Pac. 749.

§ 3517. Bill not an Assignment—Drawee Liable on Acceptance.

A bill of itself does not operate as an assignment of the funds in the hands of the drawee available for the payment thereof, and the drawee is not liable on the bill unless and until he accepts the same. [L. '99, p. 363, § 127.]

Cited in 74 Wash. 329; 78 Wash. 125; 110 Wash. 442; 113 Wash. 456.

The acceptance by a drawee of an order or bill of exchange must be in writing, under this section: Wadhams v. Portland etc. R. Co., 37 Wash. 86, 79 Pac. 597.

An order for the payment of money due on the sale of logs does not amount to an assignment of or pass title to the fund unless it is accepted in writing, as required by sections 3517 and 3522: Bleitz v. Bryant Lumber Co., 110 Wash. 437, 188 Pac. 509.

§ 3518. Joint Drawees.

A bill may be addressed to two or more drawees jointly, whether they are partners or not; but not to two or more drawees in the alternative or in succession. [L. '99, p. 363, § 128.]

§ 3519. Inland and Foreign Bills Defined.

An inland bill of exchange is a bill which is, or on its face purports to be, both drawn and payable within this state. Any other bill is a foreign bill. Unless the contrary appears on the face of the bill, the holder may treat it as an inland bill. [L. '99, p. 363, § 129.]

§ 3520. Bill may be Promissory Note.

Where in a bill drawer and drawee are the same person, or where the drawee is a fictitious person, or a person not having capacity to contract, the holder may treat the instrument, at his option, either as a bill of exchange or a promissory note. [L. '99, p. 363, § 130.]

Cited in 61 Wash. 421.

Where a sight draft is drawn by an agent upon his principal in payment of logs purchased for the drawee, the effect is that of a bill drawn upon the drawer himself, which the holder may treat as a promissory note, under this section: Clemens v. Stanton Co., 61 Wash. 419, 112 Pac. 494.

§ 3521. Referee in Case of Need.

The drawer of a bill and any indorser may insert thereon the name of a person to whom the holder may resort in case of need, that is to say in case the bill is dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. Such person is called the referee in case of need. It is in the option of the holder to resort to the referee in case of need or not as he may see fit. [L. '99, p. 363, § 131.]

§ 3522. Acceptance Defined.

The acceptance of a bill is the signification by the drawee of his assent to the order of the drawer. The acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawee. It must not express that the drawee will perform his promise by any other means than the payment of money. [L. '99, p. 363, § 132.]

§ 3523. Holder may Require Acceptance in Writing.

The holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill and, if such request is refused, may treat the bill as dishonored. [L. '99, p. 363, § 133.]

§ 3524. Acceptance on Separate Paper.

Where an acceptance is written on a paper other than the bill itself, it does not bind the acceptor except in favor of a person to whom it is shown and who, on the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. [L. '99, p. 364, § 134.]

Cited in 109 Wash. 467.

Under this section, a draft accompanying a bill of lading for a carload of shooks was not conditionally accepted or binding on the drawee, where the bank consigning the car received the draft several days prior to presentation and on presentation the drawee refused to accept it but requested that the bill of lading and shipment be forwarded to the purchaser for inspection until which no payment would be made; since the bank did not receive the draft for value on the faith of the acceptance, although it may have relied thereon in forwarding the bill: Citizens' Bank v. Willing, 109 Wash. 464, 186 Pac. 1072.

§ 3525. Promise to Accept, Effect of.

An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of every person who, upon the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. [L. '99, p. 364, § 135.]

§ 3526. Grace.

The drawee is allowed twenty-four hours after presentment in which to decide whether or not he will accept the bill; but the acceptance if given dates as of the day of presentation. [L. '99, p. 364, § 136.]

§ 3527. When Acceptance Presumed.

Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same, or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or nonaccepted to the holder, he will be deemed to have accepted the same. [L. '99, p. 364, § 137.]

Retention of, or refusal to return, bill of exchange as acceptance thereof. 8 Ann. Cas. 612; 17 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1266.

§ 3528. Time of Acceptance.

A bill may be accepted before it has been signed by the drawer, or while otherwise incomplete, or when it is overdue, or after it has been dishonored by a previous refusal to accept, or by nonpayment. But when a bill payable after sight is dishonored by nonacceptance and the drawee subsequently accepts it, the holder, in the absence of any different agreement, is entitled to have the bill accepted as of the date of the first presentment. [L. '99, p. 364, § 138.]

§ 3529. Acceptance Either General or Qualified.

An acceptance is either general or qualified. A general acceptance assents without qualification to the order of the drawer. A qualified acceptance in express terms varies the effect of the bill as drawn. [L. '99, p. 364, § 139.]

Cited in 78 Wash. 126.

§ 3530. General Acceptance Defined.

An acceptance to pay at a particular place is a general acceptance, unless it expressly states that the bill is to be paid there only and not elsewhere. [L. '99, p. 364, § 140.]

§ 3531. Qualified Acceptance Defined.

An acceptance is qualified, which is—

1. Conditional, that is to say, which makes payment by the acceptor dependent on the fulfillment of a condition therein stated;
 2. Partial, that is to say, an acceptance to pay part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn;
 3. Local, that is to say, an acceptance to pay only at a particular place;
 4. Qualified as to time;
 5. The acceptance of some one or more of the drawees, but not of all.

Construction of acceptance of bill of exchange conditional on possession or availability of funds. Ann. Cas. 1918A, 941.

§ 3532. Qualified Acceptance, Rights of Parties Under.

The holder may refuse to take a qualified acceptance, and if he does not obtain an unqualified acceptance, he may treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance. Where a qualified acceptance is taken, the drawer and indorsers are discharged from liability on the bill, unless they have expressly or impliedly authorized the holder to take a qualified acceptance, or subsequently assent thereto. When the drawer or an indorser receives notice of a qualified acceptance, he must, within a reasonable time, express his dissent to the holder, or he will be deemed to have assented thereto. [L. '99, p. 365, § 142.]

§ 3533. Presentment for Acceptance, When Necessary.

Presentment for acceptance must be made—

1. Where the bill is payable after sight, or in any other case, where presentment for acceptance is necessary in order to fix the maturity of the instrument; or
2. Where the bill expressly stipulates that it shall be presented for acceptance; or
3. Where the bill is drawn payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee.

In no other case is presentment for acceptance necessary in order to render any party to the bill liable. [L. '99, p. 365, § 143.]

§ 3534. Discharge of Drawer by Failure to Present.

Except as herein otherwise provided, the holder of a bill which is required by the next preceding section to be presented for acceptance must either present it for acceptance or negotiate it within a reasonable time. If he fail to do so, the drawer and all indorsers are discharged. [L. '99, p. 365, § 144.]

§ 3535. Presentment to Whom and When.

Presentment for acceptance must be made by or on behalf of the holder at a reasonable hour, on a business day and before the bill is overdue, to the drawer or some person authorized to accept or refuse acceptance on his behalf; and—

1. Where a bill is addressed to two or more drawees who are not partners, presentment must be made to them all, unless one has authority to accept or refuse acceptance for all, in which case presentment may be made to him only.

2. Where the drawee is dead, presentment may be made to his personal representative;

3. Where the drawee has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, presentment may be made to him or to his trustee or assignee. [L. '99, p. 365, § 145.]

Presentment for Acceptance: See Remington's Digest, Bills & N., § 75; Bartholomew v. First National Bank, 18 Wash. 683, 52 Pac. 239.

§ 3536. Presentment on What Days.

A bill may be presented for acceptance on any day on which negotiable instruments may be presented for payment under the provisions of sections 3463 and 3475½. [L. '15, p. 547, § 2. Cf. L. '99, p. 366, § 146.]

§ 3537. Failure to Present Excusable, When.

Where the holder of a bill drawn payable elsewhere than at the place of business or the residence of the drawee has not time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to present the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment on the day that it falls due, the delay caused by presenting the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment is excused and does not discharge the drawers and indorsers. [L. '99, p. 366, § 147.]

§ 3538. Presentment Excused, When.

Presentment for acceptance is excused and a bill may be treated as dishonored by nonacceptance, in either of the following cases—

1. Where the drawee is dead, or has absconded, or is a fictitious person, or a person not having capacity to contract by bill;

2. Where, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, presentment cannot be made;

3. Where, although presentment has been irregular, acceptance has been refused on some other ground. [L. '99, p. 366, § 148.]

§ 3539. Dishonor by Nonacceptance.

A bill is dishonored by nonacceptance,—

1. When it is duly presented for acceptance and such an acceptance as is prescribed by this act is refused or cannot be obtained; or

2. When presentment for acceptance is excused and the bill is not accepted. [L. '99, p. 366, § 149.]

§ 3540. Dishonored When not Promptly Accepted.

Where a bill is duly presented for acceptance, and is not accepted within the prescribed time, the person presenting it must treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance or he loses the right of recourse against the drawer and indorser. [L. '99, p. 367, § 150.]

§ 3541. Effect of Dishonor by Nonacceptance.

§ 3542. Protest Necessary on Foreign Bills.

Where a foreign bill appearing on its face to be such is dishonored by nonacceptance, it must be duly protested for nonacceptance, and where such a bill which has not previously been dishonored by nonacceptance is dishonored by nonpayment it must be duly protested for nonpayment. If it is not so protested, the drawer and indorsers are discharged. Where a bill does not appear on its face to be a foreign bill, protest thereof in case of dishonor is unnecessary. [L. '99, p. 367, § 152.]

§ 3543. What Protest must Specify.

The protest must be annexed to the bill, or must contain a copy thereof, and must be under the hand and seal of the notary making it, and must specify—

1. The time and place of presentment;
2. The fact that presentment was made and the manner thereof;
3. The cause or reason for protesting the bill;
4. The demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee or acceptor could not be found. [L. '99, p. 367, § 153.]

See infra, § 9905, record of protests.

§ 3544. Who may Make Protest.

Protest may be made by,—

1. A notary public; or
2. By any respectable [responsible] resident of the place where the bill is dishonored, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses. [L. '99, p. 367, § 154.]

See infra, § 9902, notaries may.

§ 3545. When Protest must be Made.

When a bill is protested, such protest must be made on the day of its dishonor, unless delay is excused as herein provided. When a bill has been duly noted, the protest may be subsequently extended as of the date of the noting. [L. '99, p. 367, § 155.]

§ 3546. Place of Protest.

A bill must be protested at the place where it is dishonored, except that when a bill drawn payable at the place of business, or residence, of some person other than the drawee, has been dishonored by nonacceptance, it must be protested for nonpayment at the place where it is expressed to be payable, and no further presentment for payment to, or demand on, the drawee is necessary. [L. '99, p. 368, § 156.]

§ 3547. Protest for Both Nonacceptance and Nonpayment.

A bill which has been protested for nonacceptance may be subsequently protested for nonpayment. [L. '99, p. 368, § 157.]

§ 3548. Insolvency, Effect of.

Where the acceptor has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, before the bill matures, the holder may cause the bill to be protested for better security against the drawer and indorsers. [L. '99, p. 368, § 158.]

§ 3549. Protest Excused, When.

Protest is dispensed with by any circumstances which would dispense with notice of dishonor. Delay in noting or protesting is excused when delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct, or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, the bill must be noted or protested with reasonable diligence. [L. '99, p. 368, § 159.]

§ 3550. Lost Bill.

Where a bill is lost or destroyed or is wrongly detained from the person entitled to hold it, protest may be made on a copy or written particulars thereof. [L. '99, p. 368, § 160.]

§ 3551. Acceptance for Honor.

Where a bill of exchange has been protested for dishonor by nonacceptance or protested for better security and is not overdue, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, intervene and accept the bill supra protest for the honor of any party liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account the bill is drawn. The acceptance for honor may be for part only of the sum for which the bill is drawn; and where there has been an acceptance for honor for one party, there may be a further acceptance by a different person for the honor of another party. [L. '99, p. 368, § 161.]

Cited in 110 Wash. 236.

§ 3552. How Made.

An acceptance for honor supra protest must be in writing and indicate that it is an acceptance for honor, and must be signed by the acceptor for honor. [L. '99, p. 369, § 162.]

§ 3553. Presumed for Honor of Drawer.

Where an acceptance for honor does not expressly state for whose honor it is made, it is deemed to be an acceptance for the honor of the drawer. [L. '99, p. 369, § 163.]

§ 3554. Liability of Acceptor for Honor.

The acceptor for honor is liable to the holder and to all parties to the bill subsequent to the party for whose honor he has accepted. [L. '99, p. 369, § 164.]

§ 3555. Acceptor for Honor's Undertaking.

The acceptor for honor by such acceptance engages that he will on due presentment pay the bill according to the terms of his acceptance: Provided, it shall not have been paid by the drawee: And provided also, that it shall have been duly presented for payment and protested for nonpayment and notice of dishonor given to him. [L. '99, p. 369, § 165.]

§ 3556. Maturity of Bill Accepted for Honor.

Where a bill payable after sight is accepted for honor, its maturity is calculated from the date of the noting for nonacceptance and not from the date of the acceptance for honor. [L. '99, p. 369, § 166.]

§ 3557. When Protest Necessary.

Where a dishonored bill has been accepted for honor supra protest or contains a reference in case of need, it must be protested for nonpayment before it is presented for payment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need. [L. '99, p. 369, § 167.]

§ 3558. Presentment for Payment to Acceptor for Honor.

Presentment for payment to the acceptor for honor must be made as follows:

1. If it is to be presented in the place where the protest for nonpayment was made, it must be presented not later than the day following its maturity.

2. If it is to [be] presented in some other place than the place where it was protested, then it must be forwarded within the time specified in section 3494. [L. '99, p. 369, § 168.]

§ 3559. Delay in Presentment Excused.

The provisions of section 3472 apply where there is delay in making presentment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need. [L. '99, p. 370, § 169.]

§ 3560. Protest Necessary.

When the bill is dishonored by the acceptor for honor it must be protested for nonpayment by him. [L. '99, p. 370, § 170.]

§ 3561. Payment for Honor.

Where a bill has been protested for nonpayment, any person may intervene and pay it supra protest for the honor of any person liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account it was drawn. [L. '99, p. 370, § 171.]

§ 3562. Attestation by Notary.

The payment for honor supra protest in order to operate as such and not as a mere voluntary payment must be attested by a notarial act of honor, which may be appended to the protest or form an extension to it. [L. '99, p. 370, § 172.]

§ 3563. Declaration Necessary.

The notarial act of honor must be founded on a declaration made by the payer for honor, or by his agent in that behalf, declaring his intention to pay the bill for honor and for whose honor he pays. [L. '99, p. 370, § 173.]

§ 3564. Preference Between Two Offering Payment.

Where two or more persons offer to pay a bill for the honor of different parties, the person whose payment will discharge most parties to the bill is to be given the preference. [L. '99, p. 370, § 174.]

§ 3565. Payer for Honor Subrogated.

Where a bill has been paid for honor, all parties subsequent to the party for whose honor it is paid are discharged, but the payer for honor is subrogated for, and succeeds to, both the rights and duties of the holder as regards the party for whose honor he pays and all parties liable to the latter. [L. '99, p. 370, § 175.]

§ 3566. Refusal to Receive Payment Supra Protest.

Where the holder of a bill refuses to receive payment supra protest, he loses his right of recourse against any party who would have been discharged by such payment. [L. '99, p. 370, § 176.]

§ 3567. Payer for Honor Entitled to Bill and Protest.

The payer for honor, on paying to the holder the amount of the bill and the notarial expenses incidental to its dishonor, is entitled to receive both the bill itself and the protest. [L. '99, p. 370, § 177.]

§ 3568. When Set Constitutes One Bill.

Where a bill is drawn in a set, each part of the set being numbered and containing a reference to the other parts, the whole of the parts constitutes one bill. [L. '99, p. 370, § 178.]

§ 3569. Negotiation of Parts to Different Holders.

Where two or more parts of a set are negotiated to different holders in due course, the holder whose title first accrues is as between such holders the true owner of the bill. But nothing in this section affects the rights of a person who in due course accepts or pays the part first presented to him. [L. '99, p. 371, § 179.]

§ 3570. Indorsement to Different Parties—Liability.

Where the holder of a set indorses two or more parts to different persons, he is liable on every such part, and every indorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself indorsed, as if such parts were separate bills. [L. '99, p. 371, § 180.]

§ 3571. Acceptance of Different Parts.

The acceptance may be written on any part and it must be written on one part only. If the drawee accepts more than one part, and such accepted parts are negotiated to different holders in due course, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill. [L. '99, p. 371, § 181.]

§ 3572. Payment, When a Part not Delivered.

When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a holder in due course, he is liable to the holder thereon. [L. '99, p. 371, § 182.]

§ 3573. Discharge of Part Discharges Whole.

Except as herein otherwise provided where any one part of a bill drawn in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise the whole bill is discharged. [L. '99, p. 371, § 183.]

§ 3574. Promissory Note Defined.

A negotiable promissory note within the meaning of this act is an unconditional promise in writing made by one person to another signed by the maker engaging to pay on demand, or at a fixed or determinable future time, a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. Where a note is drawn to the maker's own order, it is not complete until indorsed by him. [L. '99, p. 371, § 184.]

§ 3575. Check Defined.

A check is a bill of exchange drawn on a bank, payable on demand. Except as herein otherwise provided, the provisions of this act applicable to a bill of exchange payable on demand apply to a check. [L. '99, p. 371, § 185.]

Cited in 65 Wash. 672; 85 Wash. 467; 109 Wash. 315.

A prosecution for larceny of a check is supported by proof of the larceny of an instrument which in its original form was a certificate of deposit, stated on its face as not subject to check, but providing that the money was payable on the order of the depositor, where it was indorsed by him to the defendant, since it thereby became in legal effect a check, under this section, and section 3516: State v. Garland, 65 Wash. 666, 118 Pac. 907.

§ 3576. Presentment of Check.

A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay. [L. '99, p. 372, § 186.]

Cited in 85 Wash. 467, 471; 91 Wash. 624.

Under this section, a delay of one week in presenting a check capable of presentment in two days was so unreasonable as to relieve the drawer from liability for its nonpayment by reason of the suspension of the bank: Peninsula National Bank v. Pederson Construction Co., 91 Wash. 621, 158 Pac. 246.

Under this section, the taker of a stale check, although not an unqualified holder in due course, would be such holder, except in so far as the drawer of the check could show that he had been injured by the delay: German-American Bank of Seattle v. Wright, 85 Wash. 460, 148 Pac. 769.

§ 3577. Certification an Acceptance.

§ 3578. Certification Discharges Drawer.

Where the holder of a check procures it to be accepted or certified, the drawer and all indorsers are discharged from liability thereon. [L. '99, p. 372, § 188.]

Effect of certification of check on liability of drawer or indorser. 11 Ann. Cas. 245.

§ 3579. Check, not an Assignment.

A check of itself does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder unless and until it accepts or certifies the check. [L. '99, p. 372, § 189.]

§ 3588. [3369-2.] Form of Receipts—Essential Terms.

Warehouse receipts need not be in any particular form, but every such receipt must embody within its written or printed terms:

- (a) The location of the warehouse where the goods are stored.
- (b) The date of issue of the receipt.
- (c) The consecutive number of the receipt.
- (d) A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person or to a specified person or his order.
- (e) The rate of storage charges.
- (f) A description of the goods or of the packages containing them. If the same be issued for wheat it shall specifically state the variety of wheat by name.
- (g) The signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent.
- (h) If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and
- (i) A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made, or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

A warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby, for all damage caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required. [L. '13, p. 279, § 2.]

§ 3589. [3369-3.] Form of Receipt—What Terms may be Inserted.

A warehouseman may insert in a receipt, issued by him, any other terms and conditions: Provided, that such terms, and conditions shall not:

- (a) Be contrary to the provisions of this act.
- (b) In any wise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safekeeping of the goods intrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own; and any provisions so inserted contrary to the provisions of this act, shall, so far as they conflict with the provisions thereof be void. [L. '13, p. 280, § 3.]

§ 3590. [3369-4.] Definition of a Non-negotiable Receipt.

A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a non-negotiable receipt. [L. '13, p. 280, § 4.]

§ 3591. [3369-5.] Definition of a Negotiable Receipt.

A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt is a negotiable receipt.

No provision shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is non-negotiable. Such provision, if inserted, shall be void. [L. '13, p. 280, § 5.]

§ 3592. [3369-6.] Duplicate Receipts must be so Marked.

When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to anyone who purchased the subsequent receipt for value supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt. [L. '13, p. 281, § 6.]

§ 3593. [3369-7.] Failure to Mark "Not Negotiable."

A non-negotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it "non-negotiable" or "not negotiable." In case of the warehouseman's failure to do so, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value, supposing it to be negotiable, may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable. This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgment of an informal character. [L. '13, p. 281, § 7.]

§ 3594. [3369-8.] Obligation of Warehouseman to Deliver.

A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by this act, is bound to deliver the goods upon a demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with:

- (a) An offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien.
- (b) An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsements as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt; and
- (c) A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman. In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal. [L. '13, p. 281, § 8.]

See infra, § 11556, unlawful to deliver, except upon return of receipt.

Delivery by Warehouseman: See Remington's Digest, Wareh., § 5; Drasdo v. Beck, 37 Wash. 363, 79 Pac. 948; Union Elevator & Warehouse Co. v. Farmers' Warehouse Co., 69 Wash. 664, 125 Pac. 960; Northwestern Grain Co. v. Kerr- § 3595. [3369-9.] Justification of Warehouseman in Delivering.

A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is,

(a) The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or his agent.

(b) A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a non-negotiable receipt issued for the goods, or who has written authority from the person so entitled either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper; or

(c) A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee. [L. '13, p. 282, § 9.]

§ 3596. [3369-10.] Warehouseman's Liability for Misdelivery.

Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than is authorized by subdivisions (b) and (c) of the preceding section and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions he shall be so liable, if prior to such delivery he had either,

(a) Been requested, by or on behalf of the person lawfully entitled to right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery; or

(b) Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods. [L. '13, p. 282, § 10.]

§ 3597. [3369-11.] Negotiable Receipts must be Canceled When Goods Delivered.

Except as provided in section 3622, where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable to anyone who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver the goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman. [L. '13, p. 283, § 11.]

See infra, § 11556, duty to cancel.

§ 3598. [3369-12.] Negotiable Receipts must be Canceled or Marked When Part of Goods Delivered.

Except as provided in section 3622, where a warehouseman delivers part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel such receipt, or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered he shall be liable, to anyone who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure, to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman. [L. '13, p. 283, § 12.]

On the partial withdrawal of goods from a warehouse, held on a negotiable receipt, the warehouseman cannot, against the consent of the holder, after the old receipt by indorsing thereon a claim of lien for storage of other goods not originally enumerated; and this section does not authorize the warehouse to force an Carrier, when justified in delivering the goods to the consignee under this section: Citizens' Bank v. Willing, 109 Wash. 464, 186 Pac. 1072.

§ 3599. [3369-13.] Altered Receipts.

The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was:

- (a) Immaterial
- (b) Authorized, or
- (c) Made without fraudulent intent.

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt, as they were before alteration.

Material and fraudulent alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase. [L. '13, p. 283, § 13.]

§ 3600. [3369-14.] Lost or Destroyed Receipts.

Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties to be approved by the court to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense, which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The delivery of the goods under an order of the court, as provided in this section, shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods. [L. '13, p. 284, § 14.]

See infra, § 11561, duplicates in case of loss.

§ 3601. [3369-15.] Effect of Duplicate Receipts.

A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such a receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncanceled at the date of issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability. [L. '13, p. 284, § 15.]

§ 3602. [3369-16.] Warehouseman cannot Set up Title in Himself.

No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. [L. '13, p. 284, § 16.]

§ 3603. [3369-17.] Interpleader of Adverse Claimants.

If more than one person claim the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for nondelivery of the goods, or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead. [L. '13, p. 285, § 17.]

§ 3604. [3369-18.] Warehouseman has Reasonable Time to Determine Validity of Claims.

If someone other than the depositor or person claiming under him has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the warehouseman has information of such claim, the warehouseman shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods, either to the depositor or person claiming under him, or to the adverse claimant, until the warehouseman has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead. [L. '13, p. 285, § 18.]

§ 3605. [3369-19.] Adverse Title No Defense.

Except as provided in the two preceding sections and in sections 3595 and 3622, no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. [L. '13, p. 285, § 19.]

§ 3606. [3369-20.] Liability for Nonexistence or Misdescription of Goods.

A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt for damages caused by the nonexistence of the goods or by failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at the time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them, or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor. [L. '13, p. 285, § 20.]

§ 3607. [3369-21.] Liability for Care of Goods.

A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise, but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care. [L. '13, p. 286, § 21.]

Loss of or Injury to Goods: See Remington's Digest, Wareh., § 4; Oregon Imp. Co. v. Seattle Gas Light Co., 4 Wash. 634, 30 Pac. 672; Gannon v. Seehorn, 44 Wash. 87, 86 Pac. 1116; Patterson v. Where a storage company makes good the losses sustained through breach of its contract by improper storage, the effect is the same as a proper delivery, entitling the company to recover the storage charges: Diamond Ice & Storage Co. v. Klock Produce Co., 110 Wash. 689, 189 Pac. 257.

§ 3608. [3369-22.] Goods must be Kept Separate.

Except as provided in the following section, a warehouseman shall keep the goods so far separate from goods of other depositors, and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued, as to permit at all times the identification and redelivery of the goods deposited. [L. '13, p. 286, § 22.]

§ 3609. [3369-23.] Fungible Goods Commingled, if Authorized.

If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common, and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole. [L. '13, p. 286, § 23.]

§ 3610. [3369-24.] Liability of Warehouseman to Depositors of Commingled Goods.

The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and redelivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been kept separate. [L. '13, p. 286, § 24.]

§ 3611. [3369-25.] Attachment or Levy upon Goods for Which a Negotiable Receipt has Been Issued.

If goods are delivered to a warehouseman by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman, or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the courts. [L. '13, p. 287, § 25.]

§ 3612. [3369-26.] Creditors' Remedies to Reach Negotiable Receipts.

A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipts or in satisfying the claim by means thereof, as is allowed at law or in equity, in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. [L. '13, p. 287, § 26.]

§ 3613. [3369-27.] Claims Included in Warehouseman's Lien.

Subject to the provisions of section 3616, a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on the proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, cooping and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice, and advertisements of sale, and for sale of the goods, where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien. § 3614. [3369-28.] Against What Property the Lien may be Enforced.

Subject to the provisions of section 3616, a warehouseman's lien may be enforced:

(a) Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, and

(b) Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, if such person had been so intrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid. § 3615. [3369-29.] How the Lien may be Lost.

A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods,

(a) By surrendering possession thereof, or

(b) By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of this act. [L. '13, p. 288, § 29.]

§ 3616. [3369-30.] Negotiable Receipt must State Charges for Which Lien is Claimed.

If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerates other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms of section 3613, although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt. [L. '13, p. 288, § 30.]

This section was not intended simply for the protection of transferees and third parties, but forbids belated surcharging of a negotiable receipt as between the original parties to the receipt: Klock Produce Co. v. Diamond Ice & Storage Co., 90 Wash. 67, 155 Pac. 414.

subsequently be surcharged with liens for other goods not mentioned, upon making a partial withdrawal, by virtue of section 3614, providing for such a lien for charges on other goods belonging to the same depositor "wherever deposited," since the later section is expressly made "subject to the provisions of section 3616": Klock Produce Co. v. Diamond Ice & Storage Co., 90 Wash. 67, 155 Pac. 414.

Under this section, a receipt cannot § 3617. [3369-31.] Warehouseman Need not Deliver Until Lien is Satisfied.

A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods, may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied. [L. '13, p. 228, § 31.]

§ 3618. [3369-32.] Warehouseman's Lien Does not Preclude Other Remedies.

Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor, for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay. [L. '13, p. 288, § 32.]

§ 3619. [3369-33.] Satisfaction of Lien by Sale.

A warehouseman's lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain:

(a) An itemized statement of the warehouseman's claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due.

(b) A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists.

(c) A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice, if it is personally delivered, or from the time when the notice should reach its destination, according to the due course of post, if the notice is sent by mail; and

(d) A statement that unless the claim is paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed, an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held, and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein.

From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement, and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods.

At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of this act, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit. [L. '13, p. 289, § 33.]

§ 3620. [3369–34.] Perishable and Hazardous Goods.

If goods are of a perishable nature, or by keeping will deteriorate greatly in value, or by their odor, leakage, inflammability, or explosive nature, will be liable to injure other property, the warehouseman may give such notice to the owner, or to the person in whose name the goods are stored, as is reasonable and possible under the circumstances, to satisfy the lien upon such goods, and to remove them from the warehouse, and in the event of the failure of such person to satisfy the lien and to remove the goods within the time so specified, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertising. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort, is unable to sell such goods, he may dispose of them in any lawful manner, and shall incur no liability by reason thereof. The proceeds of any sale made under the terms of this section shall be disposed of in the same way as the proceeds of sales made under the terms of the preceding section. [L. '13, p. 290, § 34.]

§ 3621. [3369–35.] Other Methods of Enforcing Liens.

The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman's claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property. [L. '13, p. 291, § 35.]

§ 3622. [3369–36.] Effect of Sale.

After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman's lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the receipt given for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable. [L. '13, p. 291, § 36.]

§ 3623. [3369–37.] Negotiation of Negotiable Receipts by Delivery.

A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery,

(a) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer, or

(b) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank to the bearer.

(c) Where, by the terms of a negotiable receipt, the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee. [L. '13, p. 291, § 37.]

§ 3624. [3369–38.] Negotiation of Negotiable Receipts by Indorsement.

A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are, by the terms of the receipt, deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. [L. '13, p. 292, § 38.]

§ 3625. [3369-39.] Transfer of Receipts.

A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee.

A non-negotiable receipt cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right. [L. '13, p. 292, § 39.]

§ 3626. [3369-40.] Who may Negotiate a Receipt.

A negotiable receipt may be negotiated,

(a) By the owner thereof, or

(b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been intrusted by the owner, if, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been intrusted, or if at the time of such intrusting the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. [L. '13, p. 292, § 40.]

§ 3627. [3369-41.] Rights of Person to Whom a Receipt has Been Negotiated.

A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated acquires thereby,

(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and

(b) The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him. [L. '13, p. 292, § 41.]

Transfer of warehouse receipt as divesting vendor's lien. Ann. Cas. 1917D, 112.

§ 3628. [3369-42.] Rights of Persons to Whom a Receipt has Been Transferred.

A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated, acquires thereby, as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor.

If the receipt is non-negotiable such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods, for him according to the terms of the receipt.

Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable receipt, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor. [L. '13, p. 293, § 42.]

§ 3629. [3369-43.] Transfer of Negotiable Receipt Without Indorsement.

Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. [L. '13, p. 293, § 43.]

§ 3630. [3369-44.] Warranties on Sale of Receipt.

A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants,

- (a) That the receipt be genuine.
- (b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it.
- (c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt, and,
- (d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods, and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied, if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby. [L. '13, p. 293, § 44.]

§ 3631. [3369-45.] Indorser not a Guarantor.

The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the warehouseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfill their respective obligations. [L. '13, p. 294, § 45.]

§ 3632. [3369-46.] No Warranty Implied from Accepting Payment of a Debt.

A mortgagee, pledgee, or holder for security of a receipt who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described. [L. '13, p. 294, § 46.]

§ 3633. [3369-47.] When Negotiation not Impaired by Fraud, Mistake or Duress.

The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was induced by fraud, mistake or duress to intrust the possession or custody of the receipt to such person, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake or duress. [L. '13, p. 294, § 47.]

§ 3634. [3369-48.] Subsequent Negotiation.

Where a person having sold, mortgaged or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale, or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation. [L. '13, p. 294, § 48.]

§ 3635. [3369-49.] Negotiation Defeats Vendor's Lien.

Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transit shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated, whether such negotiations be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transit. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancellation. [L. '13, p. 295, § 49.]

§ 3636. [3369-50.] Issue of Receipt for Goods not Received.

A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 295, § 50.]

§ 3637. [3369-51.] Issue of Receipt Containing False Statement.

A warehouseman or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 295, § 51.]

§ 3638. [3369-52.] Issue of Duplicate Receipts not so Marked.

A warehouseman or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncanceled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word "duplicate" except in the case of lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings as provided for in section 3600, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 295, § 52.]

§ 3639. [3369-53.] Issue for Warehouseman's Goods of Receipts Which Do not State That Fact.

Where there are deposited with or held by a warehouseman goods of which he is the owner, either solely or jointly, or in common with others, such warehouseman or any of his officers, agents, or servants who, knowing this ownership issues or aids in issuing a negotiable receipt for such goods, which does not state such ownership, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 296, § 53.]

§ 3640. [3369-54.] Delivery of Goods Without Obtaining Negotiable Receipt.

A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods is outstanding and uncanceled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, shall, except in the cases provided for in sections 3600 and 3622, be found guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 296, § 54.]

§ 3641. [3369-55.] Negotiation of Receipt for Mortgaged Goods.

Any person who deposits goods to which he has not title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable receipt which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to deceive and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 296, § 55.]

§ 3642. [3369-56.] When Rules of Common Law Still Applicable.

In any case not provided for in this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law-merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause shall govern. [L. '13, p. 296, § 56.]

§ 3643. [3369-57.] Interpretation shall Give Effect to Purpose of Uniformity.

This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. [L. '13, p. 297, § 57.]

§ 3644. [3369-58.] Definitions.

(1) In this act, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires, "Action" includes counterclaim, setoff, and suit in equity.

"Delivery" means voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another.

"Fungible goods" means goods of which any unit is, from its nature or by mercantile custom, treated as the equivalent of any other unit.

"Goods" means chattels or merchandise in storage, or which has been or is about to be stored.

"Holder" of a receipt means a person who has both actual possession of such receipt and a right of property therein.

"Order" means an order by indorsement on the receipt.

"Owner" does not include mortgagee or pledgee.

“Person” includes a corporation or partnership or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To “purchase” includes to take as mortgagee or pledgee.

“Purchaser” includes mortgagee and pledgee.

“Receipt” means a warehouse receipt.

“Value” is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or pre-existing obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a receipt is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

“Warehouseman” means a person lawfully engaged in the business of storing goods for profit.

(2) A thing is done “in good faith” within the meaning of this act, when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. [L. '13, p. 297, § 58.]

Cited in 109 Wash. 469.

A company having no warehouse of its own and doing no business for the public, organized as a device by which a bank could furnish negotiable warehouse receipts as collateral security for loans to a manufacturing company, is not a “warehouseman” authorized to issue negotiable warehouse receipts, within this section;

hence the bank did not acquire title by virtue of its warehouse receipt denominated on its face as negotiable; since the carrier was justified, under section 3658, infra, in delivering the goods to the consignee named in a non-negotiable bill of lading: Citizens Bank v. Willing, 109 Wash. 464, 186 Pac. 1072.

§ 3645. [3369–59.] Prior Receipts.

The provisions of this act do not apply to receipts made and delivered prior to the taking effect of this act. [L. '13, p. 298, § 59.]

PART I.

THE ISSUE OF BILLS OF LADING.

Bills of lading issued by any common carrier shall be governed by this act. [L. '15, p. 462, § 1.]

“This act” refers to this chapter.

§ 3648. [3385–2.] Form of Bills—Essential Terms.

Every bill must embody within its written or printed terms:

- (a) The date of its issue,
- (b) The name of the person from whom the goods have been received,
- (c) The place where the goods have been received,
- (d) The place to which the goods are to be transported,

(e) A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to a specified person, or to the order of a specified person,

(f) A description of the goods or of the packages containing them which may, however, be in such general terms as are referred to in section 3669, and

(g) The signature of the carrier.

A negotiable bill shall have the words "order of" printed thereon immediately before the name of the person upon whose order the goods received are deliverable.

A carrier shall be liable to any person injured thereby for the damage caused by the omission from a negotiable bill of any of the provisions required in this section. [L. '15, p. 462, § 2.]

§ 3649. [3385-3.] Form of Bills—Terms Inserted.

A carrier may insert in a bill, issued by him, any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—

(a) Be contrary to law or public policy, or

(b) In anywise impair his obligation to exercise at least that degree of care in the transportation and safekeeping of the goods intrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own. [L. '15, p. 463, § 3.]

§ 3651. [3385-5.] Negotiable or Order Bill.

A bill in which it is stated that the goods are consigned or destined to the order of any person named in such bill, is a negotiable or order bill.

Any provision in such a bill that it is non-negotiable shall not affect its negotiability within the meaning of this act. [L. '15, p. 463, § 5.]

§ 3652. [3385-6.] Negotiable Bills not Issued in Sets.

Negotiable bills issued in this state for the transportation of goods to any place in the United States on the continent of North America, except Alaska, shall not be issued in parts or sets.

If so issued the carrier issuing them shall be liable for failure to deliver the goods described therein to anyone who purchases a part for value in good faith, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the carrier to a holder of one of the other parts. [L. '15, p. 463, § 6.]

§ 3653. [3385-7.] Duplicate Negotiable Bills Marked.

When more than one negotiable bill is issued in this state for the same goods to be transported to any place in the United States on the continent of North America, except Alaska, the word "duplicate" or some other word or words indicating that the document is not an original bill shall be placed plainly upon the face of every such bill, except the one first issued. A carrier shall be liable for the damage caused by his failure so to do to anyone who has purchased the bill for value in good faith as an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the carrier to the holder of the original bill. [L. '15, p. 464, § 7.]

See supra, § 2646, duplicates when misdemeanor.

§ 3654. [3385-8.] Non-negotiable Bills Marked.

A non-negotiable bill shall have placed plainly upon its face by the carrier issuing it "non-negotiable" or "not negotiable."

This section shall not apply, however, to memoranda or acknowledgments of an informal character. [L. '15, p. 464, § 8.]

The insertion in a negotiable bill of the name of a person to be notified of the arrival of the goods shall not limit the negotiability of the bill, or constitute notice to a purchaser thereof of any rights or equities of such person in the goods. [L. '15, p. 464, § 9.]

§ 3656. [3385-10.] Acceptance of Bill Indicates Assent to Its Terms.

Except as otherwise provided in this act, where a consignor receives a bill and makes no objection to its terms or conditions at the time he receives it, neither the consignor nor any person who accepts delivery of the goods, nor any person who seeks to enforce any provision of the bill, shall be allowed to deny that he is bound by such terms and conditions, so far as they are not contrary to law or public policy. [L. '15, p. 464, § 10.]

PART II.

OBLIGATIONS AND RIGHTS OF CARRIERS UPON THEIR BILLS OF LADING.

§ 3657. [3385-11.] Obligation of Carrier to Deliver.

A carrier, in the absence of some lawful excuse, is bound to deliver goods upon a demand made either by the consignee named in the bill for the goods, or if the bill is negotiable, by the holder thereof, if such demand is accompanied by—

(a) An offer in good faith to satisfy the carrier's lawful lien upon the goods,

(b) An offer in good faith to surrender, properly indorsed, the bill which was issued for the goods, if the bill is negotiable, and

(c) A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the carrier.

In case the carrier refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the consignee or holder so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the carrier to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal or failure. [L. '15 p. 465, § 11.]

§ 3658. [3385-12.] Justification of Carrier in Delivering.

A carrier is justified, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, in delivering goods to one who is

(a) A person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or

(b) The consignee named in a non-negotiable bill of the goods, or

(c) A person in possession of a negotiable bill for the goods by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to his order, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the consignee or by the mediate or immediate indorsee of the consignee. [L. '15, p. 465, § 12.]

Where a carrier delivers goods to one who is not lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the carrier shall be liable to anyone having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (b) and (c) of the preceding section; and, though he delivered the goods as authorized by either of said subdivisions, he shall be so liable if prior to such delivery he—

(a) Had been requested, by or on behalf of a person having a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or

(b) Had information at the time of the delivery that it was to a person not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods.

A request or information to be effective within the meaning of this section must be given to an officer or agent of the carrier, the actual or apparent scope of whose duties includes action upon such a request or information, and must be given in time to enable the officer or agent to whom it is given, acting with reasonable diligence, to stop delivery of the goods. [L. '15, p. 466, § 13.]

§ 3660. [3385-14.] Negotiable Bills Canceled When Goods Delivered.

Except as provided in section 3673, and except when compelled by legal process, if a carrier delivers goods for which a negotiable bill had been issued, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the bill, such carrier shall be liable for failure to deliver the goods to anyone who for value and in good faith purchases such bill, whether such purchaser acquired title to the bill before or after the delivery of the goods by the carrier, and notwithstanding delivery was made to the person entitled thereto. See supra, § 2647, penalty, failure to cancel, when.

§ 3661. [3385-15.] Negotiable Bills When Canceled or Marked.

Except as provided in section 3673, and except when compelled by legal process, if a carrier delivers part of the goods for which a negotiable bill had been issued and fails either—

(a) To take up and cancel the bill, or

(b) To place plainly upon it a statement that a portion of the goods has been delivered, with a description, which may be in general terms, either of the goods or packages that have been so delivered or of the goods or packages which still remain in the carrier's possession, he shall be liable for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the bill, to anyone who for value and in good faith purchases it, whether such purchaser acquired title to it before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the carrier, and notwithstanding such delivery was made to the person entitled thereto. [L. '15, p. 466, § 15.]

See note to last section.

§ 3662. [3385-16.] Altered Bills.

Any alteration, addition or erasure in a bill after its issue without authority from the carrier issuing the same either in writing or noted on the bill shall be void, whatever be the nature and purpose of the change, and the bill shall be enforceable according to its original tenor. [L. '15, p. 467, § 16.]

§ 3663. [3385-17.] Lost or Destroyed Bills.

Where a negotiable bill has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to be approved by the court to protect the carrier or any person injured by such delivery from any liability or loss, incurred by reason of the original bill remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the carrier's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

§ 3664. [3385-18.] Effect of Duplicate Bills.

A bill upon the face of which the word "duplicate" or some other word or words indicating that the document is not an original bill is placed plainly shall impose upon the carrier issuing the same the liability of one who represents and warrants that such bill is an accurate copy of an original bill properly issued, but no other liability. [L. '15, p. 467, § 18.]

§ 3665. [3385-19.] Carrier cannot Set Up Title in Himself.

No title to goods or right to their possession, asserted by a carrier for his own benefit, shall excuse him from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of a bill issued for them, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the consignor or consignee after the shipment, or from the carrier's lien. [L. '15, p. 468, § 19.]

§ 3666. [3385-20.] Interpleader of Adverse Claimants.

If more than one person claims the title or possession of goods, the carrier may require all known claimants to interplead, either as a defense to an action brought against him for nondelivery of the goods, or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate. [L. '15, p. 468, § 20.]

§ 3667. [3385-21.] Time to Determine Validity of Claims.

If someone other than the consignee or person in possession of the bill, has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the carrier has information of such claim, the carrier shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods either to the consignee or person in possession of the bill, or to the adverse claimant, until the carrier has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead. [L. '15, p. 468, § 21.]

§ 3668. [3385-22.] Adverse Title When No Defense.

Except as provided in the two preceding sections and in section 3658, no right or title of a third person unless enforced by legal process shall be a defense to an action brought by the consignee of a non-negotiable bill or by the holder of a negotiable bill against the carrier for failure to deliver the goods on demand. [L. '15, p. 468, § 22.]

§ 3669. [3385-23.] Liability for Nonreceipt or Misdescription.

If a bill of lading has been issued by a carrier or on his behalf by an agent or employee the scope of whose actual or apparent authority includes the issuing of bills of lading, the carrier shall be liable to

- (a) The consignee named in a non-negotiable bill, or
- (b) The holder of a negotiable bill,

Who has given value in good faith relying upon the description therein of the goods, for damages caused by the nonreceipt by the carrier or a connecting carrier of all or part of the goods or their failure to correspond with the description thereof in the bill at the time of its issue.

If, however, the goods are described in a bill merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind or quantity, or in a certain condition, or it is stated in the bill that packages are said to contain goods of a certain kind or quantity or in a certain condition, or that the contents or condition of the contents of packages are unknown, or words of like purport are contained in the bill, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the carrier issuing the bill, although the goods are not of the kind or quantity or in the condition which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind or quantity or in the condition they were said to be by the consignor. The carrier may, also, by inserting in the bill the words "shipper's load and count" or other words of like purport indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper and the description of them made by him; and if such statement be true, the carrier shall not be liable for damages caused by the improper loading or by the nonreceipt or by the misdescription of the goods described in the bill. [L. '15, p. 469, § 23.]

A railroad company, whose general agent, having power to receive shipments, issued an exchange bill of lading for a forged bill under a mistake of fact, without ascertaining, as he might, whether the goods had been received, is liable to an innocent purchaser for value of the exchange bill, under this section: Johnson Lumber Co. v. Great Northern R. Co., 104 Wash. 354, 176 Pac. 343.

§ 3670. [3385-24.] Attachment or Levy upon Goods.

If goods are delivered to a carrier by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser for value in good faith would bind the owner and a negotiable bill is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the carrier, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the bill be first surrendered to the carrier or its negotiation enjoined. The carrier shall in no such case be compelled to deliver the actual possession of the goods until the bill is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. [L. '15, p. 469, § 24.]

§ 3671. [3385-25.] Creditor's Remedies to Reach Negotiable Bills.

A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable bill shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such bill, or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. [L. '15, p. 470, § 25.]

§ 3672. [3385-26.] Statement of Charges for Which Lien is Claimed.

If a negotiable bill is issued the carrier shall have no lien on the goods therein mentioned, except for charges on those goods for freight, storage, demurrage and terminal charges, and expenses necessary for the preservation of the goods or incident to their transportation subsequent to the date of the bill, unless the bill expressly enumerates other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall also be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are allowed by law and the contract between the consignor and the carrier. [L. '15, p. 470, § 26.]

§ 3673. [3385-27.] Effect of Sale.

After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a carrier's lien, or because they have not been claimed, or because they are perishable or hazardous, the carrier shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the consignee or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the bill given for the goods when they were shipped, even if such bill be negotiable. [L. '15, p. 470, § 27.]

PART III.

NEGOTIATION AND TRANSFER OF BILLS.

§ 3674. [3385-28.] Negotiation of Negotiable Bills by Delivery.

A negotiable bill may be negotiated by delivery where, by the terms of the bill, the carrier undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the bill has indorsed it in blank. [L. '15, p. 471, § 28.]

Negotiability and Transfer: See Remington's Digest, Carr., §§ 14—14-2. In General: First Nat. Bank of Pullman v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 28 Wash. 439, 68 Pac. 965; Roy & Roy v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 42 Wash. 572, 85 Pac. 53, 7 Ann. Cas. 728, 6 L. R. A. (N. S.) 302.

§ 14-1. — Negotiability and Assignability: Bonds-Foster Lumber Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 53 Wash. 302, 101 Pac. 877.

§ 14-2. — Indorsement or Other Transfer: Bonds-Foster Lumber Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 53 Wash. 302, 101 Pac. 877.

§ 3675. [3385-29.] Negotiation of Negotiable Bills by Indorsement.

A negotiable bill may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are deliverable by the tenor of the bill. Such indorsement may be in blank or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be negotiated again by the indorsement of such person in blank or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. [L. '15, p. 471, § 29.]

§ 3676. [3385-30.] Transfer of Bills.

A bill may be transferred by the holder by delivery, accompanied with an agreement, express or implied, to transfer the title to the bill or to the goods represented thereby.

A non-negotiable bill cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a bill gives the transferee no additional right. [L. '15, p. 471, § 30.]

§ 3677. [3385-31.] Who may Negotiate a Bill.

A negotiable bill may be negotiated by any person in possession of the same, however such possession may have been acquired if, by the terms of the bill, the carrier undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of such person, or if at the time of negotiation the bill is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. [L. '15, p. 471, § 31.]

§ 3678. [3385-32.] Rights of Person to Whom a Bill has Been Negotiated.

A person to whom a negotiable bill has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the bill to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the consignee and consignor had or had power to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and

(b) The direct obligation of the carrier to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the bill as fully if the carrier had contracted directly with him. [L. '15, p. 471, § 32.]

§ 3679. [3385-33.] Rights of Person to Whom a Bill has Been Transferred.

A person to whom a bill has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor. If the bill is non-negotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the carrier of the transfer to him of such bill, and thereby to become the direct obligee of whatever obligations the carrier owed to the transferor of the bill immediately before the notification.

Prior to the notification of the carrier by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable bill, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the carrier may be defeated by garnishment or by attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to the carrier by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor.

A carrier has not received notification within the meaning of this section unless an officer or agent of the carrier, the actual or apparent scope of whose duties includes action upon such a notification, has been notified; and no notification shall be effective until the officer or agent to whom it is given has had time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to communicate with the agent or agents having actual possession or control of the goods. [L. '15, p. 472, § 33.]

Rights and liabilities of assignees of bills of lading. 105 Am. St. Rep. 332.

§ 3680. [3385-34.] Transfer of Negotiable Bill Without Indorsement.

Where a negotiable bill is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the bill, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. This obligation may be specifically enforced. [L. '15, p. 472, § 34.]

§ 3681. [3385-35.] Warranties on Sale of Bill.

A person who negotiates or transfers for value a bill by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a bill, unless, a contrary intention appears, warrants—

- (a) That the bill is genuine,
- (b) That he has a legal right to transfer it,
- (c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the bill, and
- (d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods, and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied, if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a bill the goods represented thereby.

In the case of an assignment of a claim secured by a bill, the liability of the assignor shall not exceed the amount of the claim. [L. '15, p. 473, § 35.]

§ 3682. [3385-36.] Indorser not a Guarantor.

The indorsement of a bill shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the carrier or previous indorsers of the bill to fulfill their respective obligations. [L. '15, p. 473, § 36.]

§ 3683. [3385-37.] No Warranty Implied from Accepting Payment of a Debt.

A mortgagee or pledgee, or other holder of a bill for security who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such bill is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not be deemed by so doing to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such bill or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described. [L. '15, p. 473, § 37.]

§ 3684. [3385–38.] When Negotiation not Impaired by Fraud, etc.

The validity of the negotiation of a bill is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the bill was deprived of the possession of the same by fraud, accident, mistake, duress or conversion, if the person to whom the bill was negotiated, or a person to whom the bill was subsequently negotiated, gave value therefor, in good faith, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, accident, mistake, duress or conversion. [L. '15, p. 473, § 38.]

§ 3685. [3385–39.] Subsequent Negotiation.

Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a carrier's possession and for which a negotiable bill has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable bill representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable bill, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or bill had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation. [L. '15, p. 474, § 39.]

§ 3686. [3385–40.] Form of the Bill as Indicating Rights of Buyer and Seller.

Where goods are shipped by the consignor in accordance with a contract or order for their purchase, the form in which the bill is taken by the consignor shall indicate the transfer or retention of the property or right to the possession of the goods as follows:

(a) Where by the bill the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to his agent, or to the order of the buyer or of his agent, the consignor thereby transfers the property in the goods to the buyer.

(b) Where by the bill the goods are deliverable to the seller or to his agent, or to the order of the seller or his agent, the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods. But if, except for the form of the bill, the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods, the seller's property in the goods shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract.

(c) Where by the bill the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent, but possession of the bill is retained by the seller or his agent, the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods, as against the buyer.

(d) Where the seller draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the draft and bill together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the draft, the buyer is bound to return the bill if he does not honor the draft, and if he wrongfully retains the bill he acquires no added right thereby. If, however, the bill provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer, or to the order of the buyer, or is indorsed in blank or to the buyer by the consignee named therein, one who purchases in good faith, for value, the bill or goods from the buyer, shall obtain the title to the goods, although the draft has not been honored, if such purchaser has received delivery of the bill indorsed by the consignee named therein, or of the goods, without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful. [L. '15, p. 474, § 40.]

§ 3687. [3385-41.] Demand or Sight Draft to be Paid When — Acceptance of Time Draft.

Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price of the goods and transmits the draft and a bill of lading for the goods either directly to the buyer or through a bank or other agency, unless a different intention on the part of the seller appears, the buyer and all other parties interested shall be justified in assuming:

(a) If the draft is by its terms or legal effect payable on demand or presentation or at sight, or not more than three days thereafter (whether such three days be termed days of grace or not), that the seller intended to require payment of the draft before the buyer should be entitled to receive or retain the bill.

(b) If the draft is by its terms payable on time, extending beyond three days after demand, presentation or sight (whether such three days be termed days of grace or not), that the seller intended to require acceptance, but not payment of the draft before the buyer should be entitled to receive or retain the bill.

The provisions of this section are applicable whether by the terms of the bill the goods are consigned to the seller, or to his order, or to the buyer, or to his order, or to a third person, or to his order. [L. '15, p. 475, § 41.]

§ 3688. [3385-42.] Negotiation Defeats Vendor's Lien.

Where a negotiable bill has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such bill has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier who issued such bill of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. Nor shall the carrier be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless such bill is first surrendered for cancellation. [L. '15, p. 476, § 42.]

§ 3689. [3385-43.] Rights and Remedies Under Mortgages and Liens.

Except as provided in section 3688, nothing in this act shall limit the rights and remedies of a mortgagee or lienholder whose mortgage or lien on goods would be valid, apart from this act, as against one who for value and in good faith purchased from the owner, immediately prior to the time of their delivery to the carrier, the goods which are subject to the mortgage or lien and obtained possession of them. [L. '15, p. 476, § 43.]

CHAPTER I. INCORPORATION AND POWERS.

§ 3716. [3601-1.] Creation of Building and Loan Associations, etc.

Ten or more persons, citizens of the state of Washington, may form a savings and loan association or savings and loan society for the purpose of accumulating the savings and funds of its members and lending its shareholders or others the funds so accumulated by the making and acknowledging in quadruplicate and by filing as hereinafter required articles or incorporation specifying:

(a) The name of the proposed association, which shall terminate with the words "Savings and Loan Association," or "Savings and Loan Society."

(b) The city, town or village and the county wherein the principal place of business of the association is to be located and which must be within the state of Washington.

(c) The number of its directors, which shall not be less than seven nor more than fifteen. The first board of directors shall hold office for a term to be specified in said articles of not less than two, and not more than six months from the time said association is authorized to do business.

(d) The names, occupation and postoffice addresses of its first directors.

(e) The names, occupation and postoffice addresses of the subscribers to the articles of incorporation, and a statement of the number of shares which each has agreed to take. The matured value of the total number of shares so subscribed shall be at least twenty-five thousand dollars.

(f) The limit of capital to be accumulated.

(g) The time of duration of said association, which shall not exceed fifty years.

Said articles shall be filed in the first instance in the office of the state auditor pending his approval thereof and of the by-laws of said association as hereinafter provided for.

The articles of incorporation may be amended by a vote of at least two-thirds in number of the shareholders voting at any general meeting, or by a special meeting called for that purpose, and a copy of the resolution making said amendment shall be certified in quadruplicate by the president and secretary under the seal of said corporation, and when so certified shall be so filed and kept the same as in the case of original articles, and from the time of said filing, said amendment shall have the same effect as if embraced in the original articles of incorporation: Provided, however, that no increase in the authorized capital shall be made unless three-fourths of the capital previously authorized has actually been issued. What is building and loan association. Ann. Cas. 1914A, 697.

§ 3717. [3601-2.*] By-laws—Approval by State Auditor.

Each association shall adopt by-laws for its government and therein describe the manner in which its business shall be transacted, which by-laws shall be in conformity with the provisions of this act, and the laws of this state, and at all times be open to the inspection of the state auditor and the members of the association at its home office. All by-laws shall be subject to the approval of the state auditor before going into effect, and in case any provision in such by-laws shall be contrary to the provisions of this act, or to the laws of this state, or be detrimental to the interests of the members of such organization, or against public policy, he shall require the same to be stricken out. [L. '19, p. 494, § 1. Cf. L. '13, p. 326, § 2.]

§ 3718. [3601-3.*] Responsibility of Incorporators—Certification by Auditor.

Whenever said articles of incorporation are in due form and regularly executed and the by-laws have been duly approved as above required, and it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the state auditor that at least $1500 have been actually paid in in cash upon the subscriptions for shares, the state auditor thereupon shall ascertain from the best source of information at his command the responsibility, character and general fitness of the incorporators. If he shall be satisfied concerning the several matters, specified above, he shall within a reasonable time, issue under his hand and official seal a certificate reciting in substance the filing in his office of the articles of incorporation and by-laws; that said articles and by-laws conform to all the requirements of law; that he has approved the same, and that he verily believes the incorporators are fit and proper to conduct the business of a savings and loan association as defined in this act and said by-laws. Said certificate shall be made in quadruplicate and attached to each copy of the articles of incorporation, one of which shall be retained by the state auditor and the other three shall be returned to the incorporators who shall forthwith file one copy thereof in the office of the secretary of state, one in the office of the auditor of the county in which the chief place of business of said association is located, and the other shall be retained by the association, whereupon the incorporation of said association shall be deemed complete. [L. '19, p. 494, § 2. Cf. L. '13, p. 328, § 3.]

§ 3719. [3601-4.*] Directors—Removal—Court Review—Oaths—Bond.

No person shall be a director of an association unless he shall have subscribed and paid in in cash at least $200 on his stock subscription, and such subscription shall not be reduced below the sum of $200, either by withdrawal or by pledge for a loan with the association, or in any other manner, so long as he remains a director of the association. Any officer or director may be removed by the state auditor for cause. Any officer or director so removed by the state auditor and feeling himself aggrieved by such removal shall have a right of appeal from the order of removal to the superior court of Thurston County by filing a written notice of appeal with the state auditor, who shall, upon the filing of such notice, certify to the court the causes upon which the order of removal was based, and all records and files in his office pertaining to the matter of the removal. The court shall hear the matter de novo and enter an order affirming or canceling the order of removal. Each officer and director, when appointed or elected, shall take an oath that he will, so far as the duty devolves upon him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such association, and will not knowingly violate the by-laws or any of the provisions of law applicable to such association.

Each officer or agent having the custody of money or securities of an association shall be required to give bond to such association in an amount to be determined by the board of directors of such association commensurate with his liability, and said bonds shall be deposited with the state auditor. [L. '19, p. 495, § 3. Cf. L. '13, p. 328, § 4.]

§ 3720. [3601-5.*] Fees and Fines.

The membership of the association shall consist of those persons holding shares therein.

A membership fee of not over $2 per share may be charged: Provided, however, that on all applications written in the state of Washington for more than fifteen shares, such fee shall be collected in one payment in cash, which shall accompany the application and shall in no case be more than one-half of such payment. No other fees, fines, penalties or forfeitures shall be charged against the shares of any association, except that serial associations declaring dividends to all stock and maturing same at one time may charge a fine which shall not exceed the earnings on the delinquent installments. [L. '19, p. 496, § 4. Cf. L. '13, p. 329, § 5.]

Fines by building and loan association. 35 L. B. A. 215.

§ 3721. [3601-6.*] Capital and Shares—Permanent and Serial Associations—Preferred Stock—Reserve Fund—Classified Shares.

The capital of every such association shall consist of the accumulated payments made by its members and dividends credited thereon, and shall be represented by shares. Every share issued shall have a matured value of one hundred dollars. Every such association shall be either permanent or serial in character as provided by the terms of its by-laws. A permanent association may issue shares at any time and credit its dividends upon the pass books of its members. A serial association may issue shares in series and credit its dividends equally upon each share issued in such series. No shares of a prior series shall be issued after the issuing of shares in a later series, when issued upon the serial plan, except at the book value at the last distribution of profits plus the dues and accumulated earnings thereon since such distribution. Shares which have not been transferred to the association as security for the repayment of a loan shall be called free shares. Shares that have been so transferred shall be called pledged shares.

No preferred stock shall be issued, i. e., stock upon which a different or stipulated rate of dividends shall be guaranteed or paid before or regardless of the amount of dividends distributed to other classes of shares, neither shall any shares be issued which shall be exempt from bearing their pro rata portion of loss: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be held to prohibit any association already having reserve stock outstanding from continuing to have an equal amount of such stock outstanding, and from issuing, if necessary, additional reserve fund stock so as to equal five per cent of the capital as defined in this section; and when so provided in its by-laws, such reserve fund stock may participate in all earnings equitably with the general stock and be chargeable with all real estate taken under foreclosure or otherwise in the adjustment of delinquent loans together with all direct losses of whatever nature sustained by the association in the general course of business and in consideration of such guaranty against loss, and when provided in the by-laws such stock may receive additional dividends, and such stock shall not be subject to withdrawal until all other classes of stock and all other liabilities of the association shall first have been liquidated, and any such association may agree to mature its other classes of stock at a fixed time, provided any deficiency arising therefrom shall be chargeable only to such reserve fund stock.

Any association may issue the shares classified below when so provided by its by-laws:

(a) Installment shares upon which a regular stipulated payment of dues shall be made at stated periods expressed in the by-laws.

(b) Savings shares, upon which payments shall be made in such sums and at such times as the holder thereof may elect until the shares reach their matured value or are withdrawn.

(c) Fully paid shares, upon which a single payment amounting to one hundred dollars per share shall be paid at the time of subscription.

Any association may issue shares to, or in the name of, any minor which shall be held for the exclusive right and benefit of such minor and free from the control or lien of all other persons; and the accumulated savings on these shares together with the dividends credited thereon shall be paid to the persons in whose name the shares have been issued and the receipt or acquittance of such minor shall be valid and sufficient discharge and release to the association for such accumulated savings, together with the dividends credited thereon or any part thereof.

Any association may issue shares to or in the name of two or more persons, whether husband or wife or otherwise, withdrawable by any one of such persons, and the receipt or acquittance of any one of such persons shall be valid and sufficient release and discharge to the association for such withdrawals, regardless of the death or disability of any other such joint shareholder. [L. '19, p. 497, § 5. Cf. L. '13, p. 329, § 6.]

§ 3722. [3601-7.*] Dividends—Undivided Earnings.

Profits and losses shall be ascertained and distributed semi-annually. Dividends shall be taken from the net earnings of the association and, subject to the provisions of section 3721 relating to reserve fund stock, shall be distributed ratably to all classes of shares and to each share in proportion to the accumulation made thereon. No dividends shall be credited or paid except by a vote of the board of directors duly entered upon the minutes, whereupon shall be recorded the vote by ayes and nays. It shall be lawful for the association, in addition to the contingent fund required by section thirteen of this act, to hold in its fund of undivided earnings such sum as the board of directors may from time to time deem necessary or wise: Provided, however, that when the undivided earnings, including the contingent fund, exceed fifteen per cent of the dues and dividends credited to members, the board of directors shall declare such extra dividend in excess of the dividend regularly apportioned, as may be necessary to distribute among the shareholders the accumulation in excess of such authorized surplus. [L. '19, p. 499, § 6. Cf. L. '13, p. 331, § 7.]

Cited in 107 Wash. 438.

§ 3723. [3601-8.] Loans, How Made—Investments.

For every loan made, except a loan from one association to another, a note or bond secured by first mortgage on improved real estate shall be taken, which security shall be conservatively worth at least twice the value of the loan. No mortgage loan shall be made except upon the report in writing of an appraiser or a committee of appraisers appointed by the board of directors, which report shall state the conservative value of the mortgage security. The directors in their discretion may also loan upon the security of the shares in the association to the amount of ninety per cent of their withdrawal value, and may loan upon or invest in bonds of the United States and of the state of Washington, and in such classes of bonds and warrants of the counties, school districts and other municipalities, as well as local improvement districts, in this state, as the state auditor may from time to time approve. Any association having a surplus for which there is no demand for loaning purposes or for the payment of withdrawals or matured shares, may loan the same to another domestic association, and such association may borrow from other associations or otherwise for loaning purposes or for the payment of withdrawals or matured shares: Provided, that no association shall borrow any amount or amounts which in the aggregate shall exceed twenty-five per cent of the actual value of mortgages on deposit with the state auditor, as shown by the last preceding semi-annual statement of the borrowing associations, as provided in section 3724.

In borrowing said amount or amounts for the purposes specified, any such association may, at its election, borrow the same or any part thereof upon its debenture bonds, maturing on or before five years after date and bearing interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, interest payable semi-annually. In no case shall such bonds be issued when there are sufficient funds on hand or receivable in time to meet approved applications for loans or for the payment of maturing stock or withdrawals of stock. Such debenture bonds may be retired by action of the board of directors at any time after one year from date of issue, by the secretary of the association giving notice in writing sixty days or more prior to the next interest date to the recorded holders thereof, and on return of said retired bonds, together with the coupons attached, said holders shall receive their par value. At the expiration of said interest period, the bonds so called shall cease to draw interest. Whenever the state auditor shall deem any indebtedness incurred under the provisions of this section to be detrimental to the interests of the shareholders of any such association, he shall notify such association to reduce its indebtedness to such amount as he shall consider reasonable, giving such association such reasonable time as may be necessary to effect such reduction of indebtedness. [L. '13, p. 332, § 8.]

§ 3724. [3601-9.] Securities Deposited With State.

Every savings and loan association heretofore or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state, and governed by this act, shall deposit and keep with the state auditor, or with a duly chartered trust company of this state, approved by the state auditor, in trust for all its members and creditors, all mortgages and notes secured thereby, received by it in the usual course of business. When deposited with a trust company such company shall certify to the state auditor the possession of such securities, and the same shall not be surrendered without the authority or sanction of the state auditor. All associations except such as confine their business operations wholly to the county in which such associations are incorporated and adjoining counties, not having or owning mortgages to the amount of twenty-five thousand dollars, shall deposit with the state auditor additional securities to make with the securities so owned and deposited a total value of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars. Such additional securities shall consist of bonds of the United States and of the state of Washington, and such classes of bonds and warrants of the counties, school districts and other municipalities, as well as local improvement districts, in said state, as the state auditor may from time to time approve, and such additional securities may be withdrawn from time to time when mortgage securities of corresponding value shall be deposited, as provided in this act, or when other securities of like character are substituted therefor, and it shall be the duty of the state auditor, from time to time, to examine said associations to ascertain whether all of its securities are deposited, as required by this act: Provided, that all securities heretofore taken in any other state, territory or nation, by any association organized under the laws of this state, and subject to the provisions of this act, and there deposited under the laws of such state, territory or nation, with some officer, authorized to receive the same, shall not be deposited with the auditor of the state of Washington. But in every such case a certificate of such deposit shall be filed with the auditor of this state, and renewed annually, together with a statement verified by the affidavit of some officer of such association, who has knowledge of the facts, showing all of the securities taken by such association, in such other state, territory or nation, at the time of the filing of such certificate; and in case any securities taken in any such state, territory or nation are not deposited there, then the same shall be deposited here, as required by this act.

Every foreign association doing business in this state and governed by this act shall deposit and keep with the auditor of this state, or with a duly chartered trust company of this state, approved by the state auditor, in trust for all its members and creditors in this state, all mortgages heretofore received by it in this state and now in effect, and all mortgages hereafter received by it in the usual course of its business in this state. Such securities shall be kept and dealt with by the state auditor or by such trust company in like manner as the securities deposited by savings and loan associations organized under the laws of this state. Every association governed by this act shall on or before the first day of February and on or before the first day of August in each year, file with the state auditor a verified statement of the total amount due to the association from the borrowers, upon the mortgage loans on deposit with the state auditor upon respectively the thirty-first day of December and the thirtieth day of June last preceding. Payments upon stock pledged to the association for a loan, which payments are accumulated for the purpose of meeting the loan at or prior to its maturity, shall be considered as payments upon such loan within the intent of this section. [L. '13, p. 333, § 9.]

§ 3725. [3601-10.*] Right to Earnings of Securities Deposited — Surrender of Mortgages.

All interest and dividends which may accrue on securities held by the state auditor or such trust company as provided for herein and all dues, or monthly payments, which may become payable on stock pledged as security for loans, the notes and mortgages for which are deposited in accordance with the provisions of this act, may be collected and retained by the association depositing such securities or mortgages, so long as such association remains solvent and faithfully performs all contracts with its members and when any mortgage shall have been fully paid to said association the same shall be surrendered by said state auditor, or upon his order, upon filing with him a certificate of the auditor of the county where the real estate is situated, to the effect that the satisfaction of said mortgage has been filed for record. Any mortgage may be surrendered to the association upon filing with the state auditor an affidavit sworn to by the president and secretary of the association owning the same, showing to the satisfaction of the state auditor that it would be to the advantage of the association to assign the said mortgage without recourse, or that such mortgage is in default and that it is withdrawn for the purpose of foreclosure. [L. '19, p. 500, § 7. Cf. L. '13, p. 335, § 10.]

§ 3726. [3601-11.] May Hold Real Estate—Limitation.

Any savings and loan association may purchase at any sale, public or private, any real estate upon which it may have a mortgage, judgment, lien, or other encumbrance or in which it may have any interest, and may sell, convey, lease or mortgage the same at pleasure to any person or persons, but shall not otherwise acquire or deal in real estate: Provided, that any such association may acquire such real estate or a leasehold interest therein as may be necessary or convenient for a location for the transaction of its business: Provided further, that no such association shall use more than ten per cent of its assets at any time in acquiring real estate for its business location: Provided further, that all real estate except that used for its business location shall be sold by said association within five years from and after the time that title thereto is acquired. [L. '13, p. 335, § 11.]

§ 3727. [3601-12.] Checking Accounts Prohibited.

No savings and loan association shall carry any demand, commercial or checking account and no such association shall receive any savings account or any sum of money on deposit without issuing shares of stock for the same. [L. '13, p. 336, § 12.]

§ 3728. [3601-13.] Contingent Fund.

At each periodical distribution of profits, unless such association already has issued paid-up reserve fund stock equal to five per cent of the amount credited to members to which losses may be chargeable as provided in section 3721, the board of directors shall reserve and carry to a contingent fund, a sum equal to at least five per cent of the net earnings during the period since the last previous dividend was declared, until such contingent fund shall be equal to at least five per cent of the amount credited to members. The directors may at any time carry to such contingent fund any further portion of the undivided earnings that in their discretion may seem wise, except as herein provided. Losses of the association may be paid therefrom, and whenever the contingent fund is reduced below five per cent the board of directors shall at each periodical distribution of profits carry to such contingent fund at least five per cent of the net earnings during the period since the last dividend was declared until such contingent fund shall again be equal to at least five per cent of the amount credited to members. [L. '13, p. 336, § 13.]

§ 3729. [3601-14.*] Charging Losses.

Whenever the losses of an association exceed the contingent fund, or the reserve fund, if reserve fund stock has been issued as provided in section 3721, they may be charged against the undivided earnings, if any, and in the event that they also exceed such undivided earnings, the state auditor may proceed to wind up the affairs of such association as hereinafter provided. [L. '19, p. 500, § 8. Cf. L. '13, p. 336, § 14.]

§ 3730. [3601-15.*] Expenses — Limit — Operating Expenses — Foreign Companies.

The expenses of such association shall be paid from its earnings, and no deduction from dues shall be made either directly or indirectly for that purpose. No such association shall pay or be or become liable to pay either directly or indirectly in the course of any calendar year as salaries, commissions, fees, or other compensation to its officers, directors, auditor, attorneys, agents, clerks and all other employees and for rent, advertising, and all other operating expenses, sums of money the aggregate of which shall exceed two and one-half per cent of the average amount of assets of such association during such year. The term "operating expenses" as used in this connection shall not be construed to include membership fees, taxes, assessments, repairs or insurance on real estate or commissions on the sale of real estate, or on the placing of loans, or any interest which the association may have paid or become liable to pay, proper legal charges for searching titles or the preparation of legal papers, expenses of foreclosure suits or other bona fide litigation, nor charges for state license. The provisions of this section, in so far as they limit the expenditure for expenses, shall not apply to any association whose accumulated capital is less than forty thousand dollars: Provided, however, that the annual expenses of every such latter association shall not exceed a total of one thousand dollars. The provisions of this section shall apply as well to foreign as to domestic corporations doing business under the permission and certificate of the state auditor and said auditor shall not renew such permission or issue such certificate to any corporation that shall have violated the provisions of this section. [L. '19, p. 501, § 9. Cf. L. '13, p. 337, § 15.]

§ 3731. [3601-16.*] Withdrawal of Shares—Payment.

Shares shall not be withdrawn until after a lapse of three months from the time of issuance of such shares and not then except at the option of the association; but shares may be withdrawn at any time after one year from the time of issuance. The withdrawing shareholder shall be paid the amount of the withdrawal value of the shares, as shown by the last prior distribution of profits together with all the dues paid thereon since such distribution: Provided, that upon withdrawal of shares pledged to the association for a stock loan, or stock loans, the association shall first deduct therefrom the indebtedness due the association. Withdrawals shall be paid in the order of their filing, except as hereinafter provided, and it shall be the duty of the secretary or other officer discharging such duties to enter upon each notice the order and date of such filing. Except as hereinafter provided, not more than two-thirds of the receipts of the association in any month shall be applied to the payment of withdrawals and matured shares without the consent of the board of directors. Whenever an application for withdrawal shall have been on file or the payment of matured shares demanded and either shall have remained unpaid for a period of six months, all the receipts of the association in any month from dues, loans repaid, and the proceeds of all other investments, shall, after the payment of expenses and general indebtedness, be applied toward the payment of withdrawals and matured stock; and the board of directors, or the state auditor, in his discretion, may direct that withdrawals be paid upon a ratable and proportionate basis. After filing the notice of withdrawal provided herein, the withdrawing member shall be entitled to the dividends credited to the same class of shares, until the final payment of his shares is made; and membership in the association shall remain unimpaired so long as any accumulation remains to his credit. No officer, director, attorney, clerk or agent of such association, and no person in any way interested or concerned in the management of its affairs shall discount or directly or indirectly purchase a share of any such association, whether filed for withdrawal or not, except by payment therefor of the withdrawal value of such share as determined herein. The board of directors of any association may retire all classes of free shares by enforcing withdrawals of the same: Provided, that the by-laws shall clearly state the manner in which such withdrawals may be enforced: And provided also, that the holders thereof shall be paid the full value of the shares, including, in such case, their proportion of the contingent fund. [L. '19, p. 502, § 10. Cf. L. '13, p. 337, § 16.]

§ 3732. [3601-17.] Exemption from Taxation.

Shares held by members shall be exempt from taxation and the association itself shall not be taxable, except that its tangible personal and real property shall be taxed as other tangible personal and real property is taxed. [L. '13, p. 339, § 17.]

§ 3733. [3601-18.*] Annual Reports—License Fees.

On or before the first day of September in each year every savings and loan association doing business in this state shall deposit with the state auditor a report of its affairs and operations for the year ending on the thirtieth day of June immediately preceding. Such report shall be verified under oath by the president and secretary or by three directors of the association, and shall contain such information as the state auditor from time to time requests. Upon filing such report, there shall be paid to the state auditor for the state general fund, in lieu of all other corporation fees or licenses, a fee determined as follows: If the assets of the association as shown by said report amount to one hundred thousand dollars or less a fee of twenty dollars; if more than one hundred thousand dollars and less than two hundred fifty thousand dollars, a fee of thirty dollars; if more than two hundred fifty thousand dollars and less than five hundred thousand dollars, a fee of forty dollars; if more than five hundred thousand dollars and less than one million dollars, a fee of sixty dollars; and if more than one million dollars, a fee of one hundred dollars; and in addition to the fees above specified there shall be further paid to the state auditor for the state general fund, a fee of twenty-five cents for each one thousand dollars of assets of the association up to three million dollars of assets, and ten cents for each one thousand dollars of assets above three million dollars of assets: Provided, however, that foreign associations doing business as a savings and loan association within the state of Washington shall pay a fee of three hundred dollars per annum and no more: Provided further, that foreign associations, doing a loan business only, in the state of Washington, shall pay a fee of $100 per annum and no more. If such association shall fail to furnish to the auditor of the state any report required by this act, at the time so required, it shall forfeit the sum of twenty-five dollars per day for every day such report shall be delayed or withheld; and an action shall be started in the name of the state to recover such penalty and the same shall be paid into the treasury of the state. After receiving such report, the auditor, if satisfied that such association has complied with all the provisions of this act and is entitled to do business in this state, shall issue a certificate stating the compliance with such provisions, and that such association is entitled to do business in this state, which certificate shall be in force for the period of one year unless sooner revoked. [L. '19, p. 503, § 11. Cf. L. '13, p. 339, § 18.]

See infra, § 10812, duties of state auditor devolve upon director of taxation and examination.

§ 3734. [3601-19.*] Examinations—Salary of Inspectors—Foreign Associations.

The state auditor shall have supervision of all such associations doing business in this state, and shall be charged with the execution of the laws of this state relating thereto. At least annually he shall make or cause to be made an examination into the affairs of all such associations doing business in this state. Such examinations shall be made by an inspector of savings and loan associations to be appointed by the state auditor, and who shall hold office during his pleasure. Such inspector shall be paid a salary of two hundred fifty dollars per month and actual traveling expenses from the state general fund. All examinations made by such inspector shall be full and complete, and in making the same he shall have full access to, and may compel the production of all books, papers, moneys, and records of the association under examination, and may administer oaths to and examine the officers of such association or any person connected therewith as to its business and affairs, and any willful false swearing shall be deemed perjury and be punishable as such: Provided, whenever by the laws of the state under which any foreign association is organized, annual examinations of such association are required and are made pursuant thereto, then such foreign association shall not be examined hereunder: Provided, such foreign association shall furnish to the auditor of this state annually a certificate of the proper officer of such other state that he has made an examination pursuant to the laws of such other state, and that the affairs of such association are in accord with the laws of such other state: And provided further, that the auditor of this state may, whenever he deems it advisable, cause examination of such foreign association to be made as is required in the case of associations organized under the laws of this state. [L. '19, p. 504, § 12. Cf. L. '13, p. 340, § 19.]

See infra, § 10812, duties of state auditor devolve upon director of taxation and examination.

Whenever it shall appear to the state auditor that the affairs of any savings and loan association are in an unsound condition or that it is conducting its business in an unsafe or unlawful manner, the state auditor may direct the inspector of savings and loan associations to take possession of all books, records and assets of every description of such association and hold and retain the possession of same pending the further proceedings herein specified. Should the board of directors, secretary or person in charge of such association refuse to permit the said inspector to take possession as aforesaid, the state auditor shall communicate such fact to the attorney general, whereupon it shall become the duty of the attorney general at once to institute such proceedings as may be necessary to place such inspector in immediate possession of the property of such association. Upon taking possession of the effects of the association as aforesaid said inspector shall prepare a full and true statement of the affairs and condition of such association, including an itemized statement of its assets and liabilities, and shall receive and collect all debts, dues and claims belonging to it and pay the immediate and reasonable expenses of his trust. Such inspector shall be required to execute to the state auditor a good and sufficient bond in a sum required by the state auditor conditioned upon the faithful discharge of his duties as custodian of such association, which said bond shall be approved by the state auditor, and the expenses of which shall be borne by the association under examination.

When the condition of such association has been fully ascertained, and it shall appear that the affairs of said association are in fact in an unsound condition, the state auditor shall at once notify in writing the board of directors of such association of his decision, giving them twenty days in which to restore the affairs of such association to a sound condition. Meanwhile, the auditor shall remain in charge of the books, records and assets of every description of such association, attend or be represented at all directors' and stockholders' meetings held, suggest such steps as he may deem necessary to restore such association to a sound condition; and if same is not done within the twenty days allowed by the statute he shall report the facts to the attorney general and it shall thereupon become the duty of the attorney general to institute proceedings in the superior court of the proper county for the appointment of the state auditor as receiver and for the dissolution of such association, or such other proceedings as the occasion may require. [L. '19, p. 505, § 13. Cf. L. '13, p. 41, § 20.]

§ 3735½. Division of Banking Assumes Powers and Duties.

That from and after the first day of April, 1921, the director of taxation and examination shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, through and by means of the division of banking, to exercise all the powers and perform all the duties in relation to the organization, inspection, supervision and dissolution of savings and loan associations, now vested in and required to be performed by the state auditor. [L. '21, p. 226, § 1.]

§ 3736. [3601-21.] Foreign Associations — Disbarred from State — Re-entry.

Any savings and loan association organized under the laws of any other state or territory that shall remove any action that shall be commenced against it in a court of this state to a United States court, or that shall fail to pay any judgment rendered against it upon a suit in any court in this state within sixty days after the rendition of final judgment in such case, or that shall fail to make reports to the state auditor as provided in this act, or to do any other act to be done or performed as required by law, and after the continued failure to do such act for twenty days after notice in writing from the state auditor of such failure, shall have no right or authority to do or transact any further business within the limits of this state, and the state auditor shall thereupon cause notice of the termination of such authority to do business to be mailed to such association, and to be published in some newspaper of general circulation at the capital of the state, and shall communicate the facts to the attorney general of this state; who shall institute such proceedings in the matter as the case may require: Provided, any such corporation may be again authorized to commence business upon such terms as the state auditor may deem just and proper, and upon full compliance with the provisions of this act. [L. '13, p. 342, § 21.]

See note, § 3734, supra.

§ 3737. [3601-22.] Penalties.

Any officer, director or agent of any savings and loan association or any other person who shall sell or issue or knowingly cause to be sold or issued to any resident of this state, any stock of said association while said association does not have on deposit with the state auditor as required by this act, securities of the value and at the time herein prescribed, or while such association shall not have the certificate of the state auditor authorizing it to do business as herein prescribed shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. An information charging the defendant, as an agent and employee, with conducting a savings and loan business in this state when the company he represented was not authorized to do business in this state, by then and there selling and knowingly causing to be sold and issued to one L. one certain contract and share of his said company, then and there being a foreign building and loan association not theretofore or then lawfully engaged in said business in this state, does not state an offense under this section, since the sale of "capital stock" was not charged, but only the sale of a contract certificate share, and the doing of business in this state without authority: State v. Merrill, 83 Wash. 8, 144 Pac. 925.

Under Rem. Code, § 3601-27, which made it a misdemeanor for any officer or agent of a savings and loan association to "willfully" violate or fail to comply with the provisions of the act, an information was insufficient to sustain a conviction unless it charged that the act complained of was "willfully" done; since the elements of scienter and bad purpose was involved and constituted the gravamen of the offense: State v. Shuey, 107 Wash. 437, 181 Pac. 890.

§ 3738. [3601-23.*] Act Exclusive as to New Organizations—Foreign Companies.

After the passage and approval of this act, it shall be unlawful for any person, association or persons or domestic associations not already organized and doing business under sections 3601 to 3638, both inclusive, of Remington & Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, to conduct a business in the form or of a character similar to that authorized by this act without first incorporating under this act. After the passage and approval of this act no foreign association not already lawfully engaged in the state of Washington in the business of a savings and loan association shall be permitted to conduct such a business in this state. [L. '19, p. 507, § 14. Cf. L. '13, p. 343, § 23.]

§ 3739. [3601-24.*] Deceptive Advertising.

It shall be unlawful for any savings and loan association to make, publish, or circulate any advertisement, sign, circular or statement intended or calculated to misrepresent in any way any of the powers or liabilities of such association, and any person who violates any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '13, p. 344, § 25.]

§ 3741. [3601-26.] Act Exclusive—Existing Contracts not Impaired.

The powers, rights, duties, privileges and obligations of every association heretofore or hereafter organized and doing business in the form or of a character similar to that authorized by this act, shall be governed, controlled, construed, extended, limited and determined by the provisions of this act, to the same extent and effect as if said association had been organized and incorporated under or pursuant to the provisions of this act, and the articles of incorporation, by-laws, and rules of every such association heretofore made or existing are hereby modified, altered and amended to conform with the provisions of this act and the same are declared void where such articles of incorporation, by-laws or rules are inconsistent with the provisions of this act; except that the obligations of any existing association, whether between such association and its shareholders or any one of them or any other person or persons or any valid contract between the shareholders of such association existing at the time this act takes effect shall not be in any way impaired by the provisions of this act; and with such exceptions every savings and loan association shall possess the powers, rights, duties and privileges, and be subject to the obligations, restrictions and liabilities conferred and imposed by this act, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in its articles of incorporation, by-laws or rules. All obligations to any such association heretofore contracted shall be enforceable by it and in its name, and demands, claims and rights of action against any such association may be enforced against it as fully and completely as they might have been enforced before. § 3742. Dissolution of Associations.

Any savings and loan association incorporated under the laws of the State of Washington may dissolve itself voluntarily in the following manner:

A majority of the board of directors shall publish a notice in some newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein is the principal place of business of the association once each week for eight consecutive weeks calling a meeting of the shareholders to determine whether said savings and loan association shall voluntarily dissolve. If at such meeting two-thirds of the shareholders then present and voting shall vote to dissolve, and the state auditor shall approve of such dissolution, the officers of the association, under the direction of the directors of the association, shall thereupon proceed to liquidate the affairs of the association and reduce the assets thereof to cash, and, after paying all indebtedness and expenses, distribute the same among the shareholders in proportion to the withdrawal value of the holdings of each shareholder at the time of the passage of the resolution to dissolve. § 3743. Falsification of Records—Penalty.

Every person who shall knowingly subscribe to or make or cause to be made any false statement or false entry in the books of any savings and loan association or shall knowingly subscribe to or exhibit any false or fictitious paper or security, instrument or paper, with the intent to deceive any person authorized to examine into the affairs of any savings and loan association or shall make, state or publish any false statement of the amount of the assets or liabilities of any savings and loan association shall be guilty of a felony. [L. '19, p. 508, § 18.]

§ 3744. Suppression of Evidence—Penalty.

Every officer, director or employee or agent of any savings and loan association who, for the purpose of concealing any fact or suppressing any evidence against himself, or against any other person, abstracts, removes, mutilates, destroys or secretes any paper, book or record of any savings and loan association, or of the state auditor, shall be guilty of a felony. [L. '19, p. 509, § 19.]

CHAPTER II.

CONVERSION OF BUILDING, LOAN AND SAVINGS ASSOCIATIONS INTO MUTUAL SAVINGS BANKS.

§ 3749. Authority for Change.

Any going building and loan or savings and loan association or society organized under the laws of this state, may, if its contingent fund regularly accumulated, exclusive of any reserve fund stock, amounts to not less than five thousand dollars ($5,000), be converted into a mutual savings bank in the following manner. [L. '17, p. 622, § 1.]

This section is superseded. See the following sections.

§ 3750. Resolution by Board of Directors—Publication.

The board of directors of such association shall pass a resolution declaring their intention to convert the association into a mutual savings bank, and shall cause a copy thereof, certified by the secretary of the association, to be filed in the office of the state auditor, and a like copy to be delivered to the state bank examiner, and shall cause a copy thereof to be published once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper to be designated by the state bank examiner, such publication to be commenced within thirty (30) days after such designation. [L. '17, p. 622, § 1(a).]

"Bank examiner" means bank commissioner. See § 3208, supra.

§ 3751. Investigation by Bank Examiner—Appeal.

Within ten (10) days after the date of the last publication of such resolution, the board of directors shall file with the state bank examiner proof of the publication thereof and of the filing of a copy with the state auditor, and shall apply to the state bank examiner for leave to submit to the shareholders of the association the question whether the same shall be converted into a mutual savings bank. Thereupon the state bank examiner shall make the same investigation and determine the same questions that he would be required by law to make and determine in case of the submission to him of a certificate of incorporation of a proposed new mutual savings bank, and he shall also determine, after conference with the state auditor, whether by the proposed conversion the business needs and conveniences of the shareholders of such association would be served with facility and safety: Provided, that if the association's contingent fund be five thousand dollars ($5,000) or more, the applicants shall create an initial guaranty fund and an initial expense fund and shall also enter into such an agreement or undertaking with the state bank examiner as trustee for the depositors with the savings bank as he may require to make such further contributions in cash to the expense fund of such savings bank as may be necessary and as is required from the incorporators of mutual savings banks. The contingent fund of such building and loan or savings and loan association may be applied to the creation of such guaranty fund and expense fund. After the state bank examiner shall have satisfied himself by such investigation whether it is expedient and desirable to permit the proposed conversion, he shall, within sixty (60) days after the filing of said application, indorse thereon over his official signature the word "granted," or the word "refused," with the date of such indorsement, and shall immediately notify the secretary of such association of his decision. In case of refusal, said board of directors, or a majority of the members thereof, may, within thirty (30) days after receiving the notice of such refusal, appeal to a board of appeal composed of the governor, the attorney general and the state bank examiner, in the same manner and under the same procedure as that prescribed by law for an appeal to such board from the state bank examiner's refusal to permit the original organization of a mutual savings bank. [L. '17, p. 622, § 1(b).]

See notes to § 3750, supra.

§ 3752. Submission to Vote of Shareholders—Notice of Meeting—Vote.

If such application be granted by the state bank examiner or by the board of appeal, as the case may be, the board of directors of such association shall, within sixty (60) days thereafter, submit the question of the proposed conversion to the shareholders of the association at a special meeting called for that purpose. Notice of such meeting shall be given in the manner prescribed by the by-laws of the association and also by the mailing of a copy of such notice to each shareholder at his last known postoffice address at least fifteen (15) days before the date of the meeting, and also by publication of such notice in ten (10) successive issues of a daily, or if there be no daily, then in two successive issues of a weekly newspaper published and of general circulation in the county wherein the principal office of such association is located, the last insertion to be not less than five (5) nor more than fifteen (15) days before the date of the meeting. Such notice shall state the time, place and purpose of the meeting, and that the only question to be voted upon will be, "shall the (naming the association) be converted into a mutual savings bank under the laws of the state of Washington?" The vote on said question shall be by ballot. Any shareholder may vote by proxy or may transmit his ballot by mail if the by-laws provide a method for so doing. If two-thirds ($\frac{2}{3}$) or more in number of the shareholders voting on the question vote affirmatively, then the board of directors shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to proceed to convert such association into a mutual savings bank; otherwise, the proposed conversion shall be abandoned and shall not be again submitted to the shareholders within three (3) years from the date of said meeting. [L. 17, p. 623, § 1 (c).]

See notes to § 3750, supra.

§ 3753. Certificate of Reincorporation—Contents.

If authority for the proposed conversion has been voted by the shareholders as hereinabove required, the directors shall, within thirty (30) days thereafter, subscribe and acknowledge and file with the state bank examiner in quadruplicate a certificate of reincorporation, stating:

(1) The name by which the converted corporation is to be known, which name shall include the words "mutual savings bank."

(2) The place where the bank is to be located and its business transacted, naming the city or town and county, which city or town shall be the same as that where the principal place of business of the corporation has theretofore been located.

(3) The name, occupation, residence and postoffice address of each signer of the certificate.

(4) The amount of the assets of the corporation, the amount of its liabilities and the amount of its contingent fund as of the first day of the then calendar month, and if the contingent fund be less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000), the amount which each signer has contributed in cash to the initial expense fund.

(5) A declaration that each signer will accept the responsibilities and faithfully discharge the duties of a trustee of the savings bank, and is free from all the disqualifications specified in the laws applicable to mutual savings banks. [L. '17, p. 624, § 1 (d).]

§ 3754. Authorization Certificate—Filing of Articles and Certificates.

Upon the filing of said certificate in quadruplicate the state bank examiner shall, within thirty (30) days thereafter, if satisfied that all the provisions of this act have been complied with, issue in quadruplicate an authorization certificate stating that the corporation has complied with all the requirements of law, and that it has authority to transact at the place designated in its certificate of incorporation the business of a mutual savings bank. One of the examiner's quadruplicate certificates of authorization shall be attached to each of the quadruplicate certificates of reincorporation, and one set of these shall be filed and retained by the state bank examiner, one set shall be filed in the office of the county auditor of the county in which such bank is located, one set shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and one set shall be transmitted to the bank for its files. Upon the receipt from the corporation of the same fees as are required for filing and recording other incorporation certificates or articles the county auditor and secretary of state shall file said certificates in their respective offices and the secretary of state shall record the same; whereupon the conversion of such association shall be deemed complete, and the signers of said reincorporation certificate and their successors shall thereupon become and be a corporation having the powers and being subject to the duties and obligations prescribed by the laws of this state applicable to mutual savings banks, and the time of existence of such corporation shall continue for the period of fifty (50) years from the date of the filing of such certificate, unless sooner terminated pursuant to law. [L. '17, p. 625, § 1 (e).]

See notes to § 3750, supra.

§ 3755. Association Shareholder as Bank Depositor—Withdrawal.

Upon the conversion of any association into a mutual savings bank, every person who was a shareholder of the association at the time of the conversion shall become and be deemed to be a depositor of the bank in a sum equal to the withdrawal value of his shares as of the day on which the conversion was consummated, and every such depositor shall share in the earnings of the corporation to that day as though the conversion had not been effected: Provided, however, that any person who was a shareholder shall be entitled at any time within sixty (60) days after the conversion was consummated to withdraw the value of his shares including his portion of the contingent fund as though no conversion had taken place, and in such case the value of the shares shall not be diminished by any fee, fine, forfeiture or penalty charged, imposed or incurred within one (1) year before the conversion or upon withdrawal. [L. '17, p. 626, § 2.]

§ 3756. Return of Securities—Guaranty Fund of Bank.

All mortgages, notes and other securities of any association that has been converted into a mutual savings bank, shall on request of the bank, be delivered to it by the state auditor or under his direction by any trust company or other depository having possession thereof. The contingent fund of the association shall become the guaranty fund of the bank; and every such bank shall, as soon as practicable and within such time and by such methods as the state bank examiner may direct, cause its organization, its securities and investments, the character of its business and its methods of transacting the same to conform to the laws applicable to mutual saving banks. [L. '17, p. 626, § 3.]

NATURE AND ESSENTIALS OF TRANSFERS OF CHATTELS AS SECURITY: See Remington's Digest, Chat. Mtg., §§ 1—11.

§ 1. Mortgage Distinguished from Other Transactions—Sale: Miller v. Auserig, 2 W. T. 22, 3 Pac. 111; Sayward v. Nunan, 6 Wash. 87, 32 Pac. 1022.

Where an automobile was consigned to the purchaser subject to payment of draft attached to the bill of lading, one who advanced money to pay the draft, immediately delivering the bill of lading to the consignee who took possession of the car, cannot secure the advance by the giving and recording of a conditional bill of sale to the consignee, under the fiction of a sale to and resale by him; since it is not the office of a conditional bill of sale to secure money loaned without the formalities required of a chattel mortgage: Lyon v. Nourse, 104 Wash. 309, 176 Pac. 359.

A bill of sale to a bank cashier of a donkey engine, purchased for the use of loggers, was not intended as a chattel mortgage to secure the loggers' note for $300 advanced by the bank, where the agreement gave the makers of the note an option to pay it and take title to the engine, or to pay a sum agreed upon as rental for the engine and take back the note; since there was no obligation to pay the note, and there could be no security for a debt when there was no debt: Hays v. Bashor, 108 Wash. 491, 185 Pac. 814.

§ 2. — Pledge: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538, 20 Pac. 578.

Wagner*, 89 Wash. 429, 154 Pac. 819; German-American State Bank v. Seattle Grain Co., 89 Wash. 376, 154 Pac. 443.

A chattel mortgage for an antecedent debt upon a crop of wheat, executed by purchasers in possession under an executory contract of sale, the mortgagee having at the time knowledge of the vendor's right to take and retain all growing crops on the land by reason of defaults, is subject to the rights of the vendors, there being, as to them, no constructive severance of the crop by the giving of the mortgage: Union Farm Land Co. v. Isaacs, 106 Wash. 168, 179 Pac. 84.

§ 3-1. — Chose in Action: Heermans v. Blakeslee, 93 Wash. 595, 161 Pac. 489 (overruling on rehearing, Id., 93 Wash. 595; Heermans v. Blakeslee, 97 Wash. 647, 167 Pac. 128).

§ 3780. [3660.] Affidavit of Good Faith—Acknowledgment—Recording.

A mortgage of personal property is void as against all creditors of the mortgagor, both existing and subsequent, whether or not they have or claim a lien upon such property, and against all subsequent purchasers, pledgees, and mortgagees and encumbrancers for value and in good faith, unless it is accompanied by the affidavit of the mortgagor that it is made in good faith, and without any design to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, and unless it is acknowledged and filed within ten days from the time of the execution thereof in the office of the county auditor of the county in which the mortgaged property is situated as provided by law. A chattel mortgage by a corporation without an affidavit of good faith is void as to a receiver for creditors, who was appointed on insolvency and took possession of the mortgaged property before the mortgagee or any person had acquired a valid lien thereon; as the property is a trust fund for creditors in custodia legis, and no creditor could thereafter obtain a preference over others: Mutual Investment Co. v. Walton Machine Co., 91 Wash. 298, 157 Pac. 682.

A chattel mortgage will not be held void as to creditors by reason of failure of the notary taking the acknowledgment and affidavit of good faith to impress his notarial seal upon the certificate to the affidavit of good faith, where such seal was duly affixed to his certificate to the acknowledgment, made by the same person who swore to the affidavit which immediately followed the acknowledgment, all constituting one instrument executed in all its parts at the same time: Woods v. Young Lumber Co., 107 Wash. 432, 181 Pac. 865.

A mortgage of a stock of goods is valid, although it leaves the mortgagor in possession with power to sell in the course of trade under an agreement to apply a portion of receipts to a discharge of the mortgage indebtedness: Simpson v. Combes, 107 Wash. 575, 182 Pac. 566.

A chattel mortgage upon a shifting stock of merchandise, leaving the mortgagors to sell in the course of trade, to be valid as against creditors, should identify the property and must provide for application of the proceeds on the mortgage debt and for accounting and payments; and is void as to creditors where the mortgagors were permitted to dispose of the stock and apply the proceeds to their own use, without making agreed payments on the debt: Miller v. Scarborough, 108 Wash. 646, 185 Pac. 625.

Notwithstanding a chattel mortgage creates a lien only and conveys no title, a mortgagor of abstract books has no right to impair the security by taking and selling photographic reproductions of the books, in view of section 1111, supra, giving the mortgagee the right to maintain an immediate action for foreclosure, if there is reasonable cause to believe that the property will be destroyed, lost or removed, and section 3789, making injury to the same a misdemeanor; since making the secret information public must be considered an unlawful destruction of the security: Wintler Abstract & Loan Co. v. Sears, 108 Wash. 461, 184 Pac. 309, 7 A. L. R. 152.

§ 3781. [3661.] Must be Filed Within Ten Days.

Every such instrument within ten days from the time of the execution thereof shall be filed in the office of the county auditor of the county in which the mortgaged property is situated, and such auditor shall file all such instruments when presented for the purpose, upon the payment of the proper fees therefor, indorse thereon the time of reception, the number thereof, and shall enter in a suitable book to be provided by him at the expense of his county, with an alphabetical index thereto, used exclusively for that purpose, ruled into separate columns with appropriate heads: "The time of filing," "Name of mortgagor," "Name of mortgagee," "Date of instrument," "Amount secured," "When due," and "Date of release." An index to said book shall be kept in the manner required for indexing deeds to real estate, and the county auditor shall receive for the services required by this act the sum of fifteen cents for every instrument, and the moneys so collected shall be accounted for as other fees of his office. Such instrument shall remain on file for the inspection of the public. [L. '99, p. 158, § 2.]

"Every such instrument," refers to the mortgages mentioned in § 3779.

§ 3782. [3662.] Constructive Notice.

Every mortgage filed and indexed in pursuance of this act shall be held and considered to be full and sufficient notice to all the world, of the existence and conditions thereof, but shall cease to be notice, as against creditors of the mortgagors and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith after the expiration of the time such mortgage becomes due, unless before the expiration of two years after the time such mortgage becomes due, the mortgagee, his agent or attorney, shall make and file as aforesaid an affidavit setting forth the amount due upon the mortgage, which affidavit shall be annexed to the instrument to which it relates and the auditor shall indorse on said affidavit the time it was filed. This mortgage made this — day of — in the year — by A. B., of —, mortgagor, to C. D., of —, mortgagee.

Witnesseth: That the mortgagor mortgages to the mortgagee (here describe the property) as security for the payment to him of — dollars, on (or before) the — day of — in the year —, with interest thereon (or security for the payment of a note or obligation, describing it, etc.).

§ 3787. [3667.] Certificate of Satisfaction.

Whenever any mortgage, filed under the provisions of this act, has been paid, or the conditions thereof satisfied, the mortgagee, or his assignee or personal representatives, shall make to the mortgagor, his assignee or personal representatives a certificate in writing, under his hand, stating the date of the mortgage and a description of the property thereby mortgaged, and that the same has been discharged in full; and on delivering said certificate in writing to the officer with whom such mortgage is filed, the said officer shall deliver said mortgage to the person producing such certificate on payment of the sum of ten cents for filing said certificate, and shall file said certificate in his office, indorsing thereon the true date of filing the same, and shall keep and preserve said certificate among the records in his office, and shall write the word "satisfied" with the date opposite to such mortgage, in the index in which such mortgages are entered under the heading "release." 1. The mortgagee within thirty days after such removal causes the mortgage to be recorded in the county to which the property has been removed; or

2. The mortgage be recorded in the custom-house; or

3. The mortgagee within thirty days after such removal takes possession of the property: Provided, that a mortgage on any vessel or boat, or part of a vessel or boat, over twenty tons burden, shall be recorded in the office of the collector of customs, where such vessel is registered, enrolled, or licensed, and need not be recorded elsewhere. CONDITIONAL SALES.

§ 3790. [3670.] Contracts to be Filed, When.

That all conditional sales of personal property, or leases thereof, containing a conditional right to purchase, where the property is placed in the possession of the vendee, shall be absolute as to all bona fide purchasers, pledgees, mortgagees, encumbrancers and subsequent creditors, whether or not such creditors have or claim a lien upon such property, unless within ten days after the taking of possession by the vendee, a memorandum of such sale, stating its terms and conditions and signed by the vendor and vendee, shall be filed in the auditor's office of the county, wherein, at the date of the vendee's taking possession of the property, the vendee resides. Under Rem. Code, § 3790, requiring all conditional sales contracts to be signed by the vendor and vendee, a contract is not sufficiently signed by the vendor by appending at the foot in typewriting as follows: "Times Square Garage, By —, Vendor": Kennery v. Northwestern Junk Co., 108 Wash. 656, 185 Pac. 636, 190 Pac. 330.

Constructive notice by recording a conditional sales contract is not essential to protect the vendor's title, where the city had actual notice, prior to installation, that the machinery for a power plant was sold to the contractor under a conditional sales contract reserving title in the vendor, and that the purchase price was not paid: Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. v. Ellensburg, 108 Wash. 533, 185 Pac. 811.

Where a substantial part of machinery sold under a conditional bill of sale, and constituting when put together a complete sawmill, was not furnished until after the bill of sale was filed for record, the filing was within time: Mentzer v. Commercial Lumber Co., 110 Wash. 155, 188 Pac. 9.

Where a conditional sales contract provided that the vendor could assign the contract, his assignee for value becomes entitled to all his rights, notwithstanding the assignee had guaranteed the payments and the contract was for security only: Western Lumber Exchange v. Johnson, 110 Wash. 200, 188 Pac. 388.

See, also, State Bank of Black Diamond v. Johnson, 104 Wash. 550, 177 Pac. 340.

Since "creditors" under this section (prior to amendment in 1915) included only those who have acquired a specific lien against the property, a receiver for creditors having no specific lien has no right to property conditionally sold under an unrecorded contract, as against the vendor claiming the same on account of the vendee's default in the payment of the purchase price (overruling Id., on rehearing): Eilers Music House v. Ritner, 88 Wash. 218, 152 Pac. 1008, 154 Pac. 787.

S.) 71; Eilers Music House v. Oriental Co., 69 Wash. 618, 125 Pac. 1023; Thompson Co. v. Murphine, 79 Wash. 672, 140 Pac. 1073; Kohler & Chase v. Turner, 84 Wash. 192, 146 Pac. 393; Winton Motor Carriage Co. v. Blomberg, 84 Wash. 451, 147 Pac. 21; Carabin v. Wilhelm, 87 Wash. 52, 151 Pac. 87; Sunel v. Wexler, 99 Wash. 610, 170 Pac. 133; Jordon v. Peek, 103 Wash. 94, 173 Pac. 726.

The expenses of a visit by the vendor to the vendee in a conditional sales contract, in an endeavor to adjust the claim, and expenses in returning the property, are not recoverable as expenses incurred in collecting the claim or returning the property as stipulated in the contract, in the absence of any proof that the expenses were reasonable or necessary:

Union Machinery & Supply Co. v. McCush, 104 Wash. 62, 175 Pac. 559.

Under a conditional sales contract expressly agreeing to repay freight and the cost of insurance, advanced by the vendor, such items are recoverable as being in addition to the purchase price, whether there was a forfeiture of the contract or not: Union Machinery & Supply Co. v. McCush, 104 Wash. 62, 175 Pac. 559.

Damages for detention after default of machinery conditionally sold cannot be recovered until lapse of a reasonable time for its return: Union Machinery & Supply Co. v. McCush, 104 Wash. 62, 175 Pac. 559.

Damages stipulated in a conditional sales contract for wrongful detention after demand cannot be allowed as a claim against an insolvent vendee's estate, where the property has passed into the hands of a receiver and the default was that of the receiver: Union Machinery & Supply Co. v. McCush, 104 Wash. 62, 175 Pac. 559.

In an action to recover property conditionally sold, upon an issue as to the amount due, the construction of a hauling contract and the state of the account thereon is properly excluded where it involved the rights and interests of an additional party on each side of that contract other than the parties to the suit: Western Lumber Exchange v. Johnson, 110 Wash. 200, 188 Pac. 388.

The vendors in a conditional sales contract providing that they may retake the property if they "shall at any time deem themselves insecure," cannot retake possession unless they have reasonable cause to believe that they are insecure: Hines v. Pacific Car Co., 110 Wash. 75, 188 Pac. 29.

Before the vendor in a conditional sales contract can take possession of the property under the insecurity clause in the contract, it must show that the vendee had committed or was about to commit some act tending to impair the security, and it is not sufficient to show unpaid storage charges which did not impair the security: Richardson v. Great Western Motors, 109 Wash. 324, 187 Pac. 333.

Where a conditional sales contract retaining title in the vendor embodied a promissory note for the balance due, all as part of one instrument, an assignment of the conditional bill of sale and note guaranteeing its payment and fulfillment, merely renders the assignor liable as a guarantor should the assignee elect to seek recovery of the balance of the debt, and does not constitute an election that would vest title to the article sold in the conditional sales vendee: State Bank of Black Diamond v. Johnson, 104 Wash. 550, 177 Pac. 340.

The weight of the evidence sustains findings that the purchaser of a sawmill under a conditional sales contract was in default, entitling the vendors to forfeit the contract, notwithstanding conflicting evidence as to a verbal extension of time, there being evidence that the extension was for but two weeks, and that the purchaser defaulted on demand made thereafter: Johnson v. Clements, 108 Wash. 332, 184 Pac. 318.

Where machinery was conditionally sold by plaintiff to a contractor to be installed in a municipal power plant, a complaint primarily seeking recovery of the machinery after it was installed, but alleging that the city agreed and assumed to pay the balance due, and in the prayer presenting an alternative for the recovery of the balance due upon the purchase price, does not show an election on the part of plaintiff to waive title to the machinery and sue for the price: Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. v. Ellensburg, 108 Wash. 533, 185 Pac. 811.

§ 3791. [3671.] Auditor to Index.

It shall be the duty of the county auditor wherein any such memorandum is presented to him for that purpose, to file all such instruments, upon payment of proper fees therefor, indorse thereon the time of reception, the number thereof, and he shall enter in a suitable book to be provided by him at the expense of his county, with an alphabetical index thereto, and exclusively for that purpose, ruled into separate columns with appropriate heads, "The time of filing," "Name of vendor," "Name of vendee," "Date of instrument," "Amount of purchase price," and "Date of release." An index of said book shall be kept in the manner required for indexing deeds to real estate, and the county auditor shall receive for the services required by this chapter the sum of twenty-five cents for each instrument, and the money so collected shall be accounted for as other fees of his office. Such instrument shall remain on file for the inspection of the public until full payment has been made thereon, and shall be satisfied or canceled in the same manner and upon payment of same fees as chattel mortgages are satisfied or canceled. Any two or more persons, who may desire to form a company for one or more of the purposes specified in section 3803, shall make and subscribe written articles of incorporation in triplicate, and acknowledge the same before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and file one of such articles in the office of the secretary of state, and another in the office of the county auditor of the county in which the principal place of business of the company is intended to be located, and retain the third in the possession of the corporation. Said articles shall state the corporate name of the company, the objects for which the same shall be formed, the amount of its capital stock, the time of its existence, not to exceed fifty years: Provided, that this limit of existence shall not apply to any life, accident and health insurance company, the number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, the number of trustees and their names, who shall manage the concerns of the company for such length of time (not less than two nor more than six months) as may be designated in such certificate, and the name of the city, town, or locality and county in which the principal place of business of the company is to be located. Amendments may be made to the articles of incorporation by a majority vote of its trustees and the vote or written assent of two-thirds of the capital stock of such corporation. If the written assent of two-thirds of the capital stock has not been obtained then the vote of said stock may be taken at any regular meeting of the stockholders, or at any special meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose in the manner provided in the by-laws of such corporation for special meetings of the stockholders. The president and secretary of said corporation shall certify said amendments in triplicate under the seal of said corporation to be correct and file and keep the same as in the case of original articles and from the time of filing said amendments such corporation shall have the same powers and it and the stockholders thereof shall be subject to the same liabilities as if such amendments had been embraced in the original articles of incorporation. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to cure or amend any defect existing in any original articles of incorporation in that such articles did not set forth the matters required to make the same valid at the time of filing, nor to cure or amend any defect in the execution thereof. The time of existence of such corporation shall not be extended by amendments beyond the time fixed in the original articles of incorporation:

Provided, that when valid articles of incorporation have heretofore been duly filed with the secretary of state and errors have been made in the duplicate filed with the county auditor, such defects may be cured by filing with said county auditor, a certified copy of the original articles filed with the secretary of state, and when said certified copy is filed, it shall have the same force and effect as though the duplicate had been filed with the county auditor at the same time the original was filed with the secretary of state. The mere fact that a corporation had power under its articles to engage in other business than that of loaning money would not deprive it of the right to do business before the whole amount of its capital stock had been subscribed, if in fact its business was confined to the loaning of money upon real estate, such corporations being expressly excepted from the restriction of the statute: Brown v. Elwell, 17 Wash. 442, 49 Pac. 1068.

The articles of incorporation of a corporation constitute a contract entered into by all the stockholders, whose terms cannot be abrogated without the consent of all: Parsons v. Tacoma Smelting & Refining Co., 25 Wash. 492, 65 Pac. 765.

This section does not make a domestic corporation, organized by aliens, an alien or foreign corporation, except as to holding lands under Const., Art. II, § 33: Hastings v. Anacortes Packing Co., 29 Wash. 224, 69 Pac. 776.

The fact that a fishing company had its real and active place of business outside of the state during certain seasons of the year would not make it a nonresident, where it had otherwise fully complied with the requirements of our corporation laws, nor would such fact justify the seizure of its fishing site by a stranger: Id.

Under this section, expressly limiting the term of the first trustees of a corporation to six months, there is no presumption that they hold over after such term: Barnard Mfg. Co. v. Ralston Milling Co., 93 Wash. 111, 160 Pac. 309.

§ 3806. [3680.] Duplication of Corporate Names Prohibited.

Private corporations may be formed in the manner prescribed by the laws of this state governing corporations for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate. No corporation shall take the name of a corporation theretofore organized under the laws of this state, nor of any foreign corporation having complied with the laws of this state, nor one so nearly resembling the name of such other corporation as to be misleading. The secretary of state shall refuse to file said articles of incorporation of any association or corporation violating the provisions of this section. [L. '03, p. 124, § 1.]

Use of Similar Name by Others: See Remington's Digest, Corp., § 24; State ex rel. Baker River & Shuiksan R. Co. v. Nichols, 51 Wash. 619, 99 Pac. 876; State ex rel. Harper v. Howell, 56 Wash. 694, 106 Pac. 470; State ex rel. Collins v. Howell, 80 Wash. 649, 141 Pac. 1157.

Under this section, the secretary of state has no authority to file articles and issue a license to a foreign corporation upon allegations and proof to the effect that a domestic corporation of the same name had theretofore unlawfully and fraudulently appropriated the foreign corporation's trade name, and wrongfully filed its articles and procured a license; since the secretary of state has no authority to determine the right to the trade name in question: State ex rel. Progressive Motion Picture Co. v. Howell, 96 Wash. 163, 164 Pac. 917.

Under this section the discretion of the secretary of state in allowing a filing will not be interfered with; but the courts can by injunction prevent the second company from continuing the use of a name in violation of the statute: Diamond Drill Contracting Co. v. International Diamond Drill Contracting Co., 106 Wash. 72, 179 Pac. 120.

The name "International Diamond Drill Contracting Company" is not so similar to "Diamond Drill Contracting Company" as to be misleading, within this section, in view of the evidence indicating a limited field of activities and a remoteness of the chance of any persons being misled: Diamond Drill Contracting Co. v. International Diamond Drill Contracting Co., 106 Wash. 72, 179 Pac. 120.

§ 3807. [3681.] Change of Name—Procedure.

Whenever any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this state (including such as were organized under the laws of the territory of Washington) shall execute and file in the office of the secretary of state and in the office of the county auditor of the proper county supplemental articles of incorporation changing its corporate name, such corporation shall file in the office of such county auditor, at the time of filing such supplemental articles or within ten days thereafter, a written notice, signed by its president, vice-president or secretary, setting forth its former corporate name and its corporate name as changed and stating that supplemental articles making such change of name have been filed in the office of the secretary of state and in the office of the county auditor of the county (naming it). It shall be the duty of the county auditor, on payment of the proper recording fee, to record such notice as deeds are recorded and to index such notice in the general index in his office under the former corporate name as grantor and under the changed corporate name as grantee. A like notice may at the option of such corporation be filed in the office of the county auditor of any other county, and the county auditor of such other county shall record and index the same in the manner hereinbefore provided. Corporations which have heretofore filed supplemental articles changing their corporate names shall file the notice herein provided for within six months after the taking effect of this act. [L. '05, p. 215, § 1.]

A copy of any certificate of incorporation filed in pursuance of this chapter, and certified by the auditor of the county in which it is filed, or his deputy, or by the secretary of state, shall be received in all the courts and places as prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. § 3809. [3683.] Corporate Powers Enumerated.

When the certificate shall have been filed, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same, and their successors, shall be a body corporate and politic in fact and in name, by the name stated in their certificate, and by their corporate name have succession for the period limited, and shall have power,—

1. To sue and be sued in any court having competent jurisdiction;
2. To make and use a common seal, and to alter the same at pleasure;
3. To purchase, hold, mortgage, sell, and convey real and personal property;

4. To appoint such officers, agents, and servants as the business of the corporation shall require, to define their powers, prescribe their duties, and fix their compensation;

5. To require of them such security as may be thought proper for the fulfillment of their duties, and to remove them at will; except that no trustee shall be removed from office unless by a vote of two-thirds of the stockholders, as hereinafter provided;

6. To make by-laws not inconsistent with the laws of this state or the United States;

7. The management of its property, the regulation of its affairs, the transfer of its stock, and for carrying on all kinds of business within the objects and purposes of the company as expressed in the articles of incorporation. A domestic corporation is expressly authorized by this section to hold, sell and convey real estate; and where the articles authorize it to hold real estate for specific purposes, a properly executed deed vests it fully with title, even though the property is acquired for other purposes: Milton v. Crawford, 65 Wash. 145, 118 Pac. 32.

Although corporations in this state have power under this section to mortgage real and personal property, such power must be confined within the purposes for which the corporation was created, and does not authorize corporations to mortgage their property to secure the debt of any, or all, of its stockholders, to the injury of its creditors: Washington Mill Co. v. Sprague Lumber Co., 19 Wash. 165, 52 Pac. 1067.

A "Merchants Protective Corporation" ostensibly organized to "collect accounts" due its members, but whose sole operation is to solicit legal business for attorneys through the issuance of membership cards which directly challenge its articles and engage, in consideration of a fee, to attend to certain legal business of its members free of charge, is engaged in the practice of law, which is not open to a commercial corporation, and has no right to do business in this state or legal excuse for existence: State ex rel. Lundin v. Merchants Protective Corporation, 105 Wash. 12, 177 Pac. 694.

In an action on promissory notes made by a corporation, the defense of ultra vires is not available where the defendant has accepted and enjoyed the benefit of the services and expenses for which the note was given: Flanagan v. American Minerals Producing Co., 108 Wash. 569, 185 Pac. 609.

The issuance of certificates of "preferred rights," under the corporation's general power to borrow money and incur indebtedness, is not ultra vires: Biel v. Union Fuel & Ice Co., 105 Wash. 41, 177 Pac. 813.

§ 132. Lawful acts ratified by majority: Logie v. Mother Lode Copper Mines Co., 106 Wash. 208, 179 Pac. 835.

The defense of ultra vires not being favored in law or allowed when it defeats the ends of justice, an industrial corporation not organized for the purpose of becoming a surety, is estopped to plead ultra vires in indemnifying a surety company against loss as surety for contractors, where it appears that its officers represented that it was interested in the contract indemnified, and the corporation had protected itself by securing indemnity from the contractors, and allowed the obligee to proceed and pay out shortages to its detriment: United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Cascade Construction Co., 106 Wash. 478, 180 Pac. 463.

Under this section, the term "servants" includes an "assistant horticulturalist" employed for one year by an "orchards" company, and is not to be restricted to employees in a fiduciary capacity: Barager v. Arcadia Orchards Co., 91 Wash. 294, 157 Pac. 675.

Under this section, the term "servants" includes one employed by a railroad company as a switchman, and is not restricted to employees in a fiduciary capacity: Williams v. Great Northern Railway Co., 108 Wash. 344, 184 Pac. 340.

§ 3810. [3684.] May Own Stock of Other Corporations.

That any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this state or of any other state or territory of the United States and doing business in this state shall have power and authority to subscribe for, acquire by purchase or otherwise and to own, hold, sell, assign and transfer shares of the capital stock of any other corporation and by its duly authorized officer or proxy to vote such shares at any and all stockholders' meetings of the corporation whose shares are so held, and to have and exercise all the rights, powers and privileges of any other stockholder, except that such corporate owner cannot be a member of the board of trustees. All existing holdings by any such corporation in the shares of the capital stock of any other corporation are hereby validated. [L. '05, p. 51, § 1.]

are hereby authorized to hold, acquire, own, and possess real and personal property to the extent and to such an amount as to said corporations may seem meet, anything in the acts incorporating said private corporations to the contrary notwithstanding. [L. '91, p. 73, § 1; 1 H. C., § 1501.]

§ 3812. [3686.*] Corporate Powers, How Exercised — By-laws — Voting Powers of Stock, etc.

The corporate powers of a corporation shall be exercised by a board of not less than two trustees, who shall be stockholders in the company, and at least one of whom shall be a resident of the state of Washington, and a majority of them citizens of the United States, who shall, before entering upon the duties of their office, respectively take and subscribe to an oath, as provided by the laws of this state, and who shall, after the expiration of the term of the trustees first elected, be actually elected by the stockholders, at such time and place, within this state, and upon such notice and in such manner, as shall be directed by the by-laws of the company; but all elections shall be by ballot, and each stockholder, either in person or by proxy, shall be entitled to as many votes as he may own, or represent by proxy, shares of stock, and the person or persons receiving the greatest number of votes shall be trustee or trustees: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any corporation, by its by-laws, limiting such bona fide shareholder to a single vote, or one vote for every full share of paid-up stock, or its equivalent in assessable stock, disregarding the number of shares of stock he may own: Provided further, that any corporation issuing preferred stock in accordance with the provisions hereinafter contained applicable thereto may provide that such preferred stock shall have no voting power or shall have only such limited or conditional voting power as may be specified. It shall be competent, at any time, for two-thirds of the stockholders of any corporation organized under this chapter to expel any trustee from office, and to elect another to succeed him. In all cases where a meeting of the stockholders is called for the purpose of expelling a trustee and electing his successor, such notice shall be given of the meeting as the by-laws of the company may require. Whenever any vacancy shall happen among the trustees by death, resignation or otherwise, except by removal and the election of his successor as herein provided, it shall be filled by appointment of the board of trustees. Every such corporation shall at all times keep at its principal place of business in this state an officer or officers, agent or agents, upon whom service of legal process may be made, in conformity with the law: Provided, that service of such process may be made at any time upon any resident trustee of such corporation. Every corporation may issue, in addition to its common stock, preferred stock or different classes of preferred stock in any of the following cases:

- (1) If the articles of incorporation so provide, or
- (2) By the unanimous consent of the stockholders expressed in writing and filed in the office of the secretary of state and in the office of the county auditor of the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is located, or
- (3) By the consent of the holders of record of two-thirds of the capital stock given at a meeting called for that purpose upon notice such as is required by section 3831. In case this third method is pursued, a certificate of the proceedings of such meeting shall be made and filed as required by section 3832.

(4) In the case of corporations heretofore organized where provisions regarding preferred stock have received either formally or informally the unanimous approval or acquiescence of the stockholders, preferred stock may be issued in accordance with such provisions, all preferred stock heretofore issued not inconsistent with the provisions of this act is hereby validated.

Where the provisions heretofore or hereafter adopted by the corporation under which preferred stock is issued provide for the calling in or redemption of such preferred stock or any part thereof, it shall be lawful for the corporation to call in and redeem the same in accordance with such provisions by filing in the offices designated in subdivision 2, a certificate signed and sworn to by the president or a vice-president, and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation, showing compliance with the provisions adopted by the corporation concerning the calling in or redemption of such preferred stock, and also showing the amount of capital actually paid in, the whole amount of debts and liabilities of the corporation and the amount to which the capital stock is to be diminished: Provided, that no calling in or redemption of preferred stock shall be made which would have the effect of reducing the capital stock in violation of the provisions of section 3830. § 107. Actions to enforce liability—Defenses: Benner v. Billings, 107 Wash. 1, 181 Pac. 19.

This section, prior to amendment required a vote of two-thirds of the shares of stock instead of two-thirds of the stockholders, in order to expel a trustee from office: State ex rel. Mitchell v. Horan, 22 Wash. 197, 60 Pac. 135.

A trustee of a corporation, by a sale of all his stock therein, ipso facto ceases to be a trustee, in view of this section requiring trustees to be stockholders: Oudin & Bergman etc. Min. Co. v. Conlan, 34 Wash. 216, 75 Pac. 798.

A voting trust agreement does not contravene this section in the absence of fraud or any unlawful purpose: Clark v. Foster, 98 Wash. 241, 167 Pac. 908.

The action of a majority of a board of trustees is voidable upon the complaint of a stockholder, where the vote of a trustee interested adversely to the corporation was necessary to effect such action; and this section is inapplicable in such cases, since the policy of the law forbids a trustee to assume a double function where there are adverse interests to be considered: Parsons v. Tacoma Smelting etc. Co., 25 Wash. 492, 65 Pac. 765.

§ 3813. [3687.] Not to be Dissolved Because Trustees were not Elected, etc.

If it shall happen at any time that an election of trustees shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws of the company, the corporation shall not, for that reason, be dissolved; but it shall be lawful on any other day to hold an election for trustees, in such manner as shall be provided for in the by-laws of the company, and all acts of the trustees shall be valid and binding upon the company until their successors are elected and qualified. [Cf. L. '66, p. 59, § 6; L. '69, p. 333, § 6; L. '73, p. 400, § 6; Cd. '81, § 2426; 1 H. C., § 1503.]

Under this section, trustees of a corporation do not hold over as a matter of law, in the absence of any evidence on the subject: Barnard Mfg. Co. v. Ralston Milling Co., 93 Wash. 111, 160 Pac. 309.

§ 3814. [3688.] Decision of Majority as Quorum is Valid as Corporate Act.

A majority of the whole number of trustees shall form a board for the transaction of business, and every decision of a majority of the persons duly assembled as a board shall be valid as a corporate act. [L. '66, p. 59, § 7; L. '69, p. 333, § 7; L. '73, p. 401, § 7; Cd. '81, § 2427; 1 H. C., § 1504.]

§ 3815. [3689.] Notice of First Meeting, How to be Given.

The first meeting of the trustees shall be called by a notice, signed by one or more persons named as trustees in the certificate, setting forth the time and place of the meeting, which notice shall be delivered personally to each trustee, or published at least twenty days in some newspaper in the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation, or if no newspaper is published in the county, then in some newspaper nearest thereto in the state. [L. '66, p. 59, § 8; L. '69, p. 333, § 8; L. '73, p. 401, § 8; Cd. '81, § 2428; 1 H. C., § 1505.]

It is not essential to legality of unstated meeting of the board of trustees of a corporation, that proof of notice of such meeting be spread upon its records. Such proof may be supplied aliunde: Budd v. Walla Walla Printing & Pub. Co., 2 W. T. 347, 7 Pac. 896.

§ 3816. [3690.] Place of Meetings.

Meetings of the stockholders of a corporation shall be held at its principal place of business within this state. Meetings of the board of trustees or directors of corporations, organized and existing under the laws of this state, may be held at such place or places within or without the state as may be designated in the articles of incorporation or by-laws. In case the meetings of the board of directors or trustees of a corporation shall be held outside of the state of Washington, either the original or full and complete copies or duplicate of all proceedings had at such meeting or meetings certified by the secretary under the corporate seal shall be sent to and kept at the principal office or place of business of the corporation in this state and shall be part of the records of the corporation in this state. [L. '07, p. 205, § 1.]

§ 3817. [3691.] Duty to File Statement.

Every corporation heretofore organized under the laws of the territory or state of Washington, and every corporation which may hereafter be organized under the laws of this state, shall, on or before the second Tuesday of January of each year, and at such other times as such corporations may elect so to do, file with the county auditor of the county in which such corporation has its principal place of business, a statement, sworn to by its president and attested by its secretary and sealed with its corporate seal, containing a list of all its officers and their respective titles of office, names and addresses, and the term of office for which they have been chosen. [L. '95, p. 355, § 1.]

Failure to comply with this and the next section does not prevent the corporation from moving to set aside a judgment secured on service upon one who was not an officer of the corporation: Lushington v. Seattle Auto & Driving Club, 60 Wash. 546, 111 Pac. 785.

§ 3818. [3692.] Corporations Hereafter Formed to File Statement.

Every corporation which shall be hereafter organized under the laws of this state shall, within thirty days after it shall have filed its certificate of incorporation with the county auditor of the county in which it has its principal place of business, file with such county auditor a statement, sworn to by its president and attested by its secretary and sealed with its corporate seal, containing a list of all of its officers and their respective titles of office, names and address, and the term of office for which they have been chosen. § 3819. [3693.] Stock Personal Estate—Transfer of.

The stock of the company shall be deemed personal estate, and shall be transferable in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the company; but no transfer shall be valid except between the parties thereto, until the same shall have been entered upon the books of the company, so as to show the names of the parties, by and to whom transferred, the numbers and designation of the shares, and the date of the transfer. § 3820. [3694.] Subscriptions, Assessments, Sale of Shares, etc.

The stockholders of any corporation formed under this chapter may, in the by-laws of the company prescribe the times, manner and amounts in which payments of the sums subscribed by them respectively shall be made; but in case the same shall not be so prescribed, the trustees shall have the power to demand and call in from the stockholders the sums by them subscribed, at such time and in such manner, payments or installments, as they may deem proper. In all cases notice of each assessment shall be given to the stockholders personally, or by publication in some newspaper published in the county in which the principal place of business of the company is located; and if none be published in such county, then in the newspaper nearest to said principal place of business in the state. If after such notice has been given, any stockholder shall make default in the payment of assessments upon the shares held by him, so many of said shares may be sold as will be necessary for the payment of the assessment upon all the shares held by him, her, or them. The sale of said shares shall be made as prescribed in the by-laws by the company, but shall in no case be made at the office of the company. No sale shall be made except at public auction, to the highest bidder, after a notice of four weeks, published as above directed in this section, and at such sale the person who shall pay the assessment so due, together with the expenses of advertising and sale for the smallest number of shares, or portion of a share as the case may be, shall be deemed the highest bidder: Provided, that the amount of the capital stock of any bank incorporated under this act shall not be less than twenty-five thousand dollars, to be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, all of which shares shall be subscribed, and three-fifths of such capital stock shall be paid in before commencement of business, the remainder to be subject to the call of the trustees; and it shall be the duty of the trustees of any such bank to file with their articles of incorporation their affidavit that three-fifths of the capital stock of such bank has been actually paid in. § 3823. [3697.] Dividends — Capital Stock — Reduction — Liability of Trustees.

It shall not be lawful for the trustees to make any dividend except from the net profits arising from the business of the corporation, nor divide, withdraw, or in any way pay to the stockholders, or any of them, any part of the capital stock of the company, nor to reduce the capital stock of the company unless in the manner prescribed in this chapter, or the articles of incorporation or by-laws; and in case of any violation of the provisions of this section, the trustees, under whose administration the same may have happened, except those who may have caused their dissent therefrom to be entered at large on the minutes of the board of trustees at the time, or were not present when the same did happen, shall, in their individual or private capacities, be jointly or severally liable to the corporation and the creditors thereof in the event of its dissolution, to the full amount so divided, or reduced, or paid out: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to prevent a division and distribution of the capital stock of the company which shall remain after the payment of all its debts upon the dissolution of the corporation or the expiration of its charter. The assets of a dissolved corporation, authorized by the board of directors to be distributed according to law, are not a dividend, but are capital assets: Rossi v. Rex Consolidated Mining Co., 108 Wash. 296, 183 Pac. 120.

Where a corporation sells all of its assets to a corporation newly organized by part of the trustees, which assumed the old indebtedness, the balance of the consideration passing directly to the trustees and for their benefit, a trustee who participated therein and received benefits from the transaction is liable to the creditors of the corporation, under this section: Carstensen & Earles v. Hofius, 44 Wash. 456, 87 Pac. 631.

The transaction of business by a corporation before all of its capital stock is subscribed, contrary to Laws of 1895, page 338, does not render its officers individually liable for the debts upon the insolvency of the corporation, since the liability of officers is restricted to certain other cases by this and the next section: American Radiator Co. v. Kinnear, 56 Wash. 210, 105 Pac. 630, 35 L. R. A. (N. S.) 453.

An agreement by a corporation, in consideration of the sale of stock, to guarantee the payment of $1,000 in dividends within eighteen months, is void, where there were no net profits, since to enforce it would contravene public policy and violate this section: Jorguson v. Apex Gold Mines Co., 74 Wash. 243, 133 Pac. 465, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 637.

A contract whereby a corporation sold part of its capital stock agreeing to repurchase the same if the stockholder should become dissatisfied, is against public policy and void, in view of this section: Kom v. Cody Detective Agency, 76 Wash. 540, 136 Pac. 1155, 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1073.

As against creditors, under this section, the capital stock of a corporation cannot be classified as common and preferred, so that there could be an overissue of either class and any person could hold a share of either kind, within the limit of the authorized stock, without meeting the responsibilities and liabilities attached by law; since all but a nominal number of shares might be made unresponsive to the liability put upon the stock by law: Gordon v. Cummings, 78 Wash. 515, 139 Pac. 489.

The directors of a corporation are not individually liable for the fraud of the president and general manager of which they had no knowledge, where the only allegation of negligence was that they failed to discharge him for other fraudulent acts under this section, making the directors liable for unlawful dividends or withdrawals of the capital stock, and section 3803 providing that they shall be subject to the liabilities imposed by the act and "to none others," and no provision of the statute makes them liable for the acts of the president or general manager: *Northern Codfish Co. v. § 3824. [3698.] Restrictions upon Issuing Notes, etc.—Liability.

No corporation organized under this chapter shall, by any implication or construction, be deemed to possess the power of issuing bills, notes or other evidence of debt for circulation as money. Each and every stockholder shall be personally liable to the creditors of the company, to the amount of what remains unpaid upon his subscription to the capital stock, and not otherwise: Provided, that the stockholders of every bank incorporated under this act or the territory of Washington shall be held individually responsible, equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts and engagements of such association accruing while they remain such stockholders, to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares; and all such banking corporations shall file, on the first Monday in June, each year, with the state auditor, a report sworn to by its president, vice-president, or cashier, of the resources and liabilities, stating the amount of deposits, the aggregate of loans, and the amount upon each class of securities, the names and residence of the shareholders and number of their shares, the directors or officers for the time being, and any other matters affecting the safety of their deposits or the interest of their creditors; and such banking corporations shall have power to exercise, by its board of trustees, or duly authorized officers or agents, all such incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking by discounting and negotiating promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and other evidences of debt; by receiving deposits, buying and selling, exchange, coin and bullion, by loaning money on real estate or personal security; to accept and execute all trusts, fiduciary or otherwise, as may be committed to such bank or corporation, by any person, persons, or corporation, or by the order or direction of any court; and may do any other business pertaining to banking. § 3826. [3700.] Liability of Executor, etc., Holding Stock as Collateral.

No person holding stock as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee, or holding it as collateral security or in pledge, shall be personally subject to any liability as a stockholder of the company; but the person pledging the stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder, and the estate and funds in the hands of the executor, administrator, or guardian or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator, or intestate, or the ward or person interested in the trust fund would have been if he or she had been living and competent to act and hold the stock in his or her name. The pledgee of corporate stock, holding the same as collateral security for a loan made by him to the corporation, the stock being represented to him as issued to another and fully paid for, is not liable upon the statutory liability of stockholders to creditors for unpaid subscriptions, although the stock was reissued in his name and stands on the books as his absolute property, in view of this section: Johnstone v. Black, 59 Wash. 144, 109 Pac. 367.

§ 3827. [3701.] Books of Corporation to Show What.

It shall be the duty of the trustees of every company incorporated under this chapter, to keep a book containing the names of all persons, alphabetically arranged, who are or shall be stockholders of the corporation, and showing the number of shares of stock held by them respectively, and the time when they became the owners of such shares, which book, during the business hours of the day, on every day excepting Sunday and the legal holidays, shall be open for the inspection of stockholders and creditors of the company at the office or principal place of business of the company; and any stockholder or creditor of the company shall have the right to make extract from such book, or to demand and receive from the clerk or other officer having the charge of such book, a certified copy of any entry therein, or to demand and receive from any clerk or officer a certified copy of any paper placed on file in the office of the company, and such book and certified copy shall be presumptive evidence of the fact therein stated in any action or proceeding against the company or any one or more of the stockholders. The creditor of an insolvent corporation cannot claim that his right of action against stockholders upon their unpaid stock subscriptions does not accrue until notice that there were unpaid subscriptions was brought home to him, in the absence of fraud or concealment, since under this section the creditor had access to the corporate books and opportunity to ascertain the facts: Chilberg v. Siebenbaum, 41 Wash. 663, 84 Pac. 598.

§ 3828. [3702.] Official Acts—Misdemeanor as to Books and Papers.

If at any time the clerk or other officer having charge of such book shall make any false entry, or neglect to make any proper entry therein, or having the charge of any papers of the company shall refuse or neglect to exhibit the same or allow the same to be inspected, or extracts to be taken therefrom, or to give a certified copy of any entry, as provided in the preceding section, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall forfeit and pay to the injured party a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and all damages resulting therefrom, to be recovered in any action of debt in any court having competent jurisdiction; and for neglecting to keep such book for inspection as aforesaid, the corporation shall forfeit to the people the sum of one hundred dollars for every day it shall so neglect, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the people in the superior court of the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is located. [L. '66, p. 62, § 19; L. '69, p. 336, § 19; L. '73, p. 404, § 17; Cd. '81, § 2437; 1 H. C., § 1514.]

Construing strictly that portion of this section imposing a penalty in favor of the "injured party," there must be a demand for inspection of the book named or a designated paper or papers lodged with and kept by the corporation pertaining to the corporate business, and the demand must be made by a party having an interest in such inspection; a demand to inspect the "books and papers," not being sufficient; and this is a penal statute in so far as the penalty is concerned, and to be strictly construed; since the penalty is not given as compensation for any injury, and was intended as a punishment, allegation and proof of actual injury being unnecessary: Brown v. Kildea, 58 Wash. 184, 108 Pac. 452, 1135.

§ 3829. [3703.] Officer's Misrepresentations to Stockholders or Persons Dealing in Stock—Penalty.

or give, or having a tendency to produce or give, to the shares of stock in such corporation a greater value than they really possess, or with the intention of defrauding any particular person or persons, or the public or persons generally, shall be deemed guilty of an offense against the laws of the state of Washington, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary, not less than one nor more than five years, or in the county jail not more than one year, or by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars or by both. [L. '03, p. 141, § 1.]

§ 3830. [3704.] Capital Stock, How Increased or Diminished.

Any company incorporated under this chapter may, by complying with the provisions herein contained, increase or diminish its capital stock to any amount which may be deemed sufficient and proper for the purposes of the corporation; but before any corporation shall be entitled to diminish the amount of its capital stock, if the amount of its debts and liabilities shall exceed the sum to which the capital is proposed to be diminished, such amount shall be satisfied and reduced so as not to exceed the diminished amount of the capital: Provided, that the deposits in any trust company or banking corporation shall not be included in ascertaining the debts and liabilities of such trust company or banking corporation for the purposes of this section: Provided further, that this act shall not relieve such trust company or banking corporation or the stockholders of any such trust company or banking corporation from liability, although contingent, or remote, incurred or entered into by such trust company or banking corporation prior to the reduction of its capital, including liability for deposits: Provided further, that before any banking corporation, or trust company, can reduce its capitalization, a notice, in writing, must be mailed to the last known postoffice address of its depositors setting forth the fact that the said banking corporation, or trust company, intends to decrease its capitalization, showing the amount of its capitalization and the amount to which it intends to decrease same; and proof of the mailing of such notices shall be made by affidavit of the party mailing the same, showing the names and addresses of the persons to whom mailed. Notice of the meeting stating the time, place and object of the meeting and the increase or reduction proposed, signed by at least a majority of the trustees, shall be published once a week for at least two successive weeks in a newspaper in the county where the principal place of business of the company is located, and a copy of such notice shall be duly mailed to each stockholder at his last known postoffice address at least two weeks before the meeting, or shall be personally served on him at least five days before the meeting. Unanimous consent of the stockholders expressed in writing and specifying the increase of capital stock agreed upon shall be equivalent to a meeting, and in case of such written consent no notice or actual meeting shall be required, in the case of a company a part of whose stock has no voting power on the question of an increase of capital stock, the proposition for such increase shall not be deemed authorized by the vote of the holders of two-thirds or more of the stock entitled to vote thereon, unless (1) those voting therefor are the holders of a majority in par value of the aggregate of all the shares of stock of the company of all classes, or else (2) there be filed with the company the written consent of the holder or holders of stock having no voting power sufficient, when added to the stock already voting affirmatively, to make such majority. See supra, § 3219, fees, banks and trust companies.

§ 3841. [3714.] Annual License Fee.

Every corporation incorporated under the laws of this state, and every foreign corporation having its articles of incorporation on file in the office of the secretary of state shall, on or before the first day of July of each and every year, pay to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, the following license fees: Every corporation having a capital stock, fifteen dollars. Every corporation failing to pay the said annual license fee, on or before the first day of July of each and every year, and desiring to pay the same thereafter, and before the first day of January next following, shall pay to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, in addition to the said license fees, the following further fee, as a penalty for such failure: The sum of two dollars and fifty cents: Provided, however, that building and loan companies paying special fees provided for in this [the] act under which same are incorporated shall not be required to pay the regular fee provided herein. [L. '07, p. 271, § 6. Cf. L. '97, p. 135, § 5.]

§ 3842. [3715.] Actions—Payment of Fee Condition Precedent—Prima Facie Evidence of Payment.

No corporation shall be permitted to commence or maintain any suit, action or proceeding in any court of this state, without alleging and proving that it has paid its annual license fee last due. A certificate of the payment of such annual license fee, or any duplicate of such certificate under the seal of the secretary of state, shall be prima facie evidence of such payment; and the secretary of state is hereby required to issue such duplicate certificates, upon request, at a charge of twenty-five cents for each thereof. The state board of tax commissioners may institute suits to enforce the payment of any license fee, due from any corporation under this or any other law. Failure upon the part of any corporation to pay its annual license fee for a period of one year, from and after the date when such payment first became due, shall be prima facie evidence of the insolvency of such corporation, and the fact of such insolvency may be shown by the state or by any private person or corporation: Provided, that as to corporations now delinquent in the payment of their annual license fees for a period of one or more years, such presumption of insolvency shall not exist until after one year from the date of the passage of this act and the continuation of such delinquency. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to strike from the records of his office the names of all incorporations which have neglected for a period of two years to pay their annual license fees; and any corporation thereafter organized may take and shall have the exclusive right to use the corporate name of any corporation so stricken from the records: Provided, that no corporate name shall be so stricken from the records for a period of one year, from the date of the passage of this act. [L. '07, p. 271, § 7.]

Braund, 89 Wash. 593, 154 Pac. 1098; Washington Printing Co. v. Osner, 99 Wash. 537, 169 Pac. 958.

See, also, Erickson v. Perica, 113 Wash. 510, 194 Pac. 963.

This section is not unconstitutional as violative of the due process clauses of the state or federal constitutions: Peck v. Linney, 97 Wash. 103, 165 Pac. 1080.

Since this section is a revenue measure, the objection that there was no proof of such payment is waived if not specifically pointed out at the trial; and is not saved by a general motion to dismiss for failure of the evidence to make out a prima facie case: Commercial Bank & Trust Co. v. Wenatchee Park Land & Irr. Co., 106 Wash. 181, 179 Pac. 798.

Necessity of Judicial Proceedings: See Remington's Digest, Corp., § 235; Hawley v. Bonanza Queen Min. Co., 61 Wash. 90, 111 Pac. 1073.

The insolvency of a corporation is prima facie shown, under this section, by failure to pay its annual license fee for one year after due date: Barnard Mfg. Co. v. Ralston Milling Co., 71 Wash. 659, 129 Pac. 389.

A foreign corporation is not doing business in this state, within this section, when: Smith & Co. v. Dickinson, 81 Wash. 465, 142 Pac. 1133.

§ 3843. [3715a.] Striking Delinquent Corporations—Reinstatement.

Every corporation whose name has been, or shall hereafter be, stricken from the records of the office of the secretary of state in pursuance of law for failure to pay its annual license fee for two years is hereby authorized and permitted to apply to the secretary of state for reinstatement at any time after its name has been stricken from the records of the office of the secretary of state. Any corporation stricken from the records and dissolved, as provided in this chapter may at any time thereafter hold a meeting of stockholders, in the same manner as provided during its corporate existence, and pass such resolutions as may be necessary to close out its affairs and wind up the business of such corporation, and where such stricken and dissolved corporation has heretofore held such meetings of stockholders for the purpose of passing resolutions to wind up their affairs, such method of procedure is hereby validated and approved. [L. '11, p. 135, § 1; L. '09, Ex. Sess., p. 57, § 1.]

Violation of Statute: See Remington's Digest, Corp., § 234; Hawley v. Bonanza Queen Min. Co., 61 Wash. 90, 111 Pac. 1073; Peck v. Linney, 97 Wash. 103, 165 Pac. 1080.

See, also, Yates Machine Co. v. Lakin, 113 Wash. 45, 192 Pac. 982.

This section modifies the former act, section 3846, infra, and the stockholders may meet and dispose of all assets by a sale to another company assuming the indebtedness, in consideration of an exchange of its shares, and are not limited to the statutory procedure for a dissolution: Grant v. Monterey Gold Mining Co., 93 Wash. 1, 159 Pac. 895.

This act does not violate constitution, article XII, section 3, prohibiting the legislature from remitting the forfeiture of any corporate franchise or charter, the striking of delinquent names for failure to pay license fees not being the forfeiture of a franchise or charter within the meaning of the constitution: State ex rel. Preston Mill Co. v. Howell, 67 Wash. 377, 121 Pac. 861.

§ 3844. [3715b.] Condition—Prepayment of Fees and Penalty.

Any corporation so applying for reinstatement shall at the time of its application pay to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, all license fees and penalties then due from it and the sum of one hundred dollars as additional penalty: Provided, that this shall apply to the reinstatement of corporations, the names of which shall have been stricken at the present time, and hereafter whenever any corporation shall have its name stricken from the records by the secretary of state it shall, in applying for reinstatement, pay all license fees and penalties then due from it and the additional sum of twenty dollars for each and every year that its name has been stricken from the records, and upon the making of such application and such payment, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to enter upon his records a notation that such corporation is reinstated. [L. '11, p. 135, § 2; L. '09, Ex. Sess., p. 57, § 2.]

Cited in 67 Wash. 381.

§ 3845. [3715c.] Rights Restored.

Thereafter such corporation shall have and enjoy the same rights and powers as if its name had never been stricken from the records, and all things done by it in the exercise of its corporate powers before such reinstatement are hereby validated and confirmed. [L. '09, Ex. Sess., p. 57, § 3.]

§ 3846. [3715d.] Dissolution for Nonpayment.

If, however, within the period named within which a corporation may make application to be reinstated such corporation shall not have made such application, the secretary of state shall enter upon his records a notation that such corporation is dissolved, and it shall thereupon be dissolved and the trustees of such corporation shall hold the title to the property of the corporation for the benefit of its stockholders and creditors to be disposed of under appropriate court proceedings. [L. '09, Ex. Sess., p. 57, § 4.]

§ 239. — By State: State ex rel. Fishback v. Globe Casket & Undertaking Co., 82 Wash. 124, 143 Pac. 878, L. R. A. 1915B, 976.

Where the secretary of state has dissolved a corporation for nonpayment of its license fees, it is deemed effective until set aside, and an action to recover its property may be maintained by the only trustee who is a stockholder, in view of this section: Soderberg v. McRae, 70 Wash. 235, 126 Pac. 538.

Under this section, a dissolution is not invalid from the fact that the secretary of state made the notation one day too soon, where the record was left standing subsequent to the time when it ought to have been made, since the making of the notation was a ministerial act: Peck v. Linney, 97 Wash. 103, 165 Pac. 1080.

Where a corporation was stricken from the records and dissolved under this section, for failing to pay its license fees or apply for reinstatement within six months, prior to the amendment of that act by the act of 1911, which authorized a reinstatement of stricken corporations at any time and rendered the former provision for dissolution inoperative, such dissolution is effectual while the corporation remains in a dormant condition, so that it cannot be sued in the absence of any steps for its reinstatement: Peck v. Linney, 97 Wash. 103, 165 Pac. 1080.

Officers or Other Trustees for Purpose of Winding Up: See Remington's Digest, Corp., § 241; New York Nat. Exchange Bank v. Metropolitan Sav. Bank, 28 Wash. 553, 68 Pac. 905; Conlan v. § 3847. [3715e.] Adoption of Name of Delinquent Corporation.

The name of no corporation which has been stricken from the records of the office of the secretary of state for nonpayment of its annual license tax shall be adopted by another corporation until the expiration of the time within which such delinquent corporation is allowed in which to apply for reinstatement, or while such application for reinstatement is pending. [L. '09, Ex. Sess., p. 58, § 5.]

§ 3848. [3716.] Fee for Certifying to Corporation Laws.

The fee for furnishing and certifying to a printed compilation of the corporation laws of this state shall be five dollars. [L. '07, p. 272, § 8.]

§ 3849. [3717.] Certain Corporations Excepted.

This act shall not apply to domestic corporations organized for religious, social, charitable or educational purposes, or to foreign corporations organized for like purposes, when not engaged in this state in the loaning of money or the conducting of any other business pursuits for profit. [L. '07, p. 272, § 9. Cf. L. '97, p. 135, § 6.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 3836—3842, 3848—3851.

§ 3850. [3718.] Fees Due in Advance.

All fees provided for in this act are due in advance and shall be paid to the secretary of state before the services desired are performed. [L. '07, p. 272, § 10.]

See note to last section

§ 3851. [3719.] Disposition of Fees.

All fees received by the secretary of state under the provisions of this act shall be by him paid into the state treasury as provided by law. [L. '07, p. 273, § 11.]

See note to § 3849.

Any corporation incorporated under the laws of any state or territory in the United States, or of any foreign country, state, or colony, for any of the purposes for which domestic corporations are authorized to be formed under the laws of this state, shall have full power and is hereby authorized to sue and to be sued in any court having competent jurisdiction, to acquire, purchase, hold, mortgage, sell, convey, or otherwise dispose of, in the corporate name, all real estate or personal property necessary or convenient to carry into effect the objects and purposes of its corporation, and also any interest in real estate, by mortgage or otherwise do [due] to or loans made by such foreign corporations within the boundaries of this state, either prior to or after the passage of this act, and generally do and perform every act and transact every kind of business within this state in the same manner and to the same extent as corporations incorporated and organized under the laws of this state are authorized to do under the laws of this state, by a compliance with all the conditions prescribed by the next two succeeding sections of this chapter: Provided, however, that this chapter shall not be [so] construed as to allow such foreign corporation to transact business within the state on more favorable conditions than are prescribed by law for a similar corporation organized under the laws of this state: And provided further, that no corporation, the majority of the capital stock of which is owned by aliens other than those who in good faith have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, shall acquire the ownership of any lands in this state other than lands containing valuable deposits of minerals, metals, iron, coal, or fireclay, and the necessary land for mills and machinery to be used in the development thereof, and the manufacture of the products therefrom, except where acquired under mortgage, or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts: Provided, further, that no foreign corporation which is hereafter organized which has among its other powers the business of dealing in real estate, and buying and selling the same, and for the purpose of carrying on a real estate brokerage business, shall be permitted to transact such business of buying and selling and dealing in real estate, and carrying on a brokerage business therein in this state; but this prohibition shall not extend to any other business for the transaction of which such corporation may be organized. [Cf. L. '71, p. 101, § 1; L. '75, p. 109, § 1; Cd. '81, § 2479; L. '86, p. 87, § 1; L. '90, p. 288, § 1; 1 H. C., § 1524.]

The liability to personal service of a foreign corporation doing business in this state rests entirely upon statute; and where, under this section, a corporation had authority to do business and such authority had been formally revoked and forfeited for failure to pay its annual license fees, personal service cannot be made upon its former statutory agent, in an action which accrued subsequent to the forfeiture; and it is immaterial that his designation as agent had not been formally revoked: Gerrick & Gerrick Co. v. Llewellyn Iron Works, 105 Wash. 98, 177 Pac. 692.

The requirement that a foreign corporation pay a license fee and secure a certificate prior to its doing business in this state is a matter exclusively between the state and corporation, and cannot be raised by private citizens: State ex rel. Ami Co. v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 675, 85 Pac. 669.

The purpose of this section is to protect parties dealing with foreign corporations from being imposed upon, and to provide means of obtaining service upon them in the courts of the state: Dearborn Foundry Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67, 31 Pac. 327.

Such corporations shall cause to be filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state a certified copy of its charter, articles of incorporation, memorandum of association, or certificate of incorporation, certified to by the officer who is the custodian of the same according to the laws of the state or territory, country or colony, where such corporation is incorporated, or who is authorized to issue certificates of incorporation according to the laws of such state, territory, or foreign country or colony. The instruments herein required to be filed and recorded shall be attested by such certifying officer under his hand and seal of office, which attestation shall be prima facie proof of the facts therein stated, and of the genuineness of the certificate. If such officer has no official seal, his certificate shall state that fact over his signature, and thereupon the secretary of state, or of the territory, in case of corporations within the United States, and the consul general, consul, vice-consul, deputy consul, consular agent, or commercial agent of the United States, at or nearest to the place where such certificate is made, in the case of corporations not within the United States, shall certify under his hand and seal of office to the genuineness of the signature of the officer making the certificate, and to the fact that at the time of making such certificate the person making the same held the office described in the certificate. § 3854. [3722.] Appointment of Agent to be Filed and Recorded.

Such corporations shall also constitute and appoint an agent, who shall reside at the place in the state where the principal business of the corporation is to be carried on, to be designated as hereinafter required. Such appointment shall be in writing, signed by the president or chief officer of such corporation, and shall be attested by its corporate seal, and shall contain the name of the agent, his place of residence and the place where the principal business of such corporation is to be carried on, and shall authorize such agent to accept service of process in any action or suit pertaining to the property, business or transactions of such corporation within this state in which such corporation may be a party. The signature of such president or chief officer, attested by the corporate seal to such written appointment, shall be sufficient proof of the appointment of such agent. Such appointment, when duly executed, shall be filed for record in the office of the secretary of state by such corporation, and shall be there recorded; and such corporation shall have and keep continually some resident agent, empowered as aforesaid during all the time such corporation shall conduct or carry on any business within this state, and service of any process, pleading, notice or other paper shall be taken and held as due service on such corporation. Such corporation may change its agent or its principal place of business, from time to time, by filing and recording with the secretary of state a new appointment, stating the change of such agent or the change in the principal place of business; and in the event such foreign corporation shall withdraw from this state and cease to transact business therein it shall continue to keep and maintain such agent within this state upon whom service of process, pleadings and papers may be made, until the statute of limitations shall have run against anyone bringing an action against said corporation, which accrued prior to its withdrawal from this state. In case said corporation shall revoke the authority of its designated agent after its withdrawal from this state and prior to the time when the statutes of limitations would have run against causes of action accruing against it, then in that event service of process, pleadings and papers in such actions may be made upon the secretary of state of the state of Washington, and the same shall be held as due and sufficient service upon such corporation. The statute authorizing service of process upon the statutory agent of a foreign corporation is only cumulative, and service may be made under the general statute: Barrett Mfg. Co. v. Kennedy, 73 Wash. 503, 131 Pac. 1161.

This section, making a foreign corporation subject to service in actions arising upon its contracts after revocation of its authority, does not apply to a cause of action accruing upon a foreign contract after its withdrawal from this state: Gerrick & Gerrick Co. v. Llewellyn Iron Works, 105 Wash. 98, 177 Pac. 692.

A sheriff's return of service of summons reciting merely that he personally served same on a certain individual, "as agent of the defendant corporation," is insufficient to show jurisdiction over a foreign corporation, under the statute providing for the appointment of a statutory agent residing in the county of its principal place of business; since the sheriff's return must describe an agent within the meaning of the statute, where words of description are employed therein: Cunningham v. Spokane H. Co., 18 Wash. 524, 52 Pac. 235.

Any foreign corporation doing business in this state which shall fail to comply with the provisions of the two preceding sections, shall be subject to a penalty of two hundred and fifty dollars to be recovered in a civil action to be instituted by the attorney general in the name of the state of Washington, upon his being furnished with a sworn statement of facts sufficient to justify such action. [L. '99, p. 100, § 1.]

Where the statutory description of county boundaries is ambiguous and doubtful, it is admissible to show the contemporaneous construction placed thereon by the assumption and continuous exercise of jurisdiction over the territory by the officers of one county, in relation to roads, road districts, election precincts, school districts, and the candidacy for county offices and the voting of inhabitants of the territory, and the return and assessment of its property for taxation; evidence of such long continued, undisputed control being sufficient to show that the territory was included in such county: Puget Sound National Bank v. Fisher, 52 Wash. 246, 100 Pac. 724, 17 Ann. Cas. 526.

§ 3965. [3805.] Before Whom Tried.

Said suit shall be tried before a judge of the superior court who is not a resident of a county, a party to such suit, or of a judicial district embracing any such county. [L. '97, p. 204, § 2.]

§ 3966. [3806.] Residents of Disputed Territory may Intervene.

A majority of the voters living in the territory embracing such disputed, lost, obscure or uncertain boundary line may, by petition, duly verified by one or more of them, intervene in said suit, and thereupon said court shall have jurisdiction and power, in locating and establishing said boundary line or lines, to strike or transfer from one county to another a strip or portion of such territory not exceeding two miles in width. [L. '97, p. 204, § 3.]

§ 3967. [3807.] "Territory" Defined.

The term "territory," as used in this chapter, shall be held and construed to mean and include that part or section of said counties lying along said line and within one mile on either side thereof. [L. '97, p. 204, § 4.]

§ 3968. [3808.] Boundaries, etc., Questions of Fact.

The boundaries of such territory, the number of voters living therein, and the sufficiency of such petition are questions of fact to be determined by said court. [L. '97, p. 204, § 5.]

§ 3969. [3809.] Court may Move Boundary Line, etc.

The court shall have power to move or establish such boundary line on any government section line or subdivisional line thereof, of the section in or through which said disputed, lost, obscure or uncertain boundary line may be located, or if such boundary line is in unsurveyed territory, then the court shall have power to move or establish such boundary line so it will conform to extensions of government section lines already surveyed in that vicinity. [L. '97, p. 204, § 6.]

§ 3970. [3810.] Practice.

The practice, proceedings, rules of evidence and appeals to the supreme court as in civil actions, is preserved under this chapter. [L. '97, p. 205, § 7.]

§ 3971. [3811.] Copies of Decree to be Furnished Certain Officials.

The clerk of the court in whose office a decree is entered under the provisions of this chapter, shall forthwith furnish certified copies thereof to the secretary of state, and to the auditors of the counties, which are parties to said suit; and said secretary of state, and said county auditors, shall file and record said copies of said decree in their respective offices. [L. '97, p. 205, § 8.]

§ 3972. [3812.] Petition and Notices of Election—Requisites of.

Where a port, harbor, inlet, bay, or mouth of river shall be embraced within two adjoining counties, and upon the shore of said harbor, bay, inlet, or mouth of river an incorporated city shall have been or may hereafter be located, and the harbor of the said city shall lie in such two counties, and it shall become necessary, in order to place the said harbor or port within the limits of one county, or to extend the corporate limits of such city, to embrace the full extent of said shore line of such harbor, port, or bay, and the waters of said harbor, together with a strip of the adjacent and contiguous upland territory not exceeding three miles in width (to be measured back from highwater mark) and six miles in length, and not being at a greater distance in any part of said strip from the courthouse in the county seat of the county to which said territory is proposed to be annexed, as said county seat and courthouse are now situated, than the distance of ten miles. In all such cases, when a majority of the qualified electors living upon any territory in any county of this state within which said harbor shall partly be embraced shall desire to have such territory stricken from the county of which it shall then be a part, and added to and made a part of the county contiguous thereto, they may present a petition describing with proper certainty the bounds and area of such territory, with the reasons for making such application, to the board of county commissioners of the county in which such territory shall be, who shall proceed to ascertain if such petition contains the requisite number of petitioners, who shall be bona fide residents of the territory sought to be stricken off and transferred to the contiguous county, and if satisfied that the petition is signed by a majority of the bona fide electors of such territory, and that there will remain in the county from which such territory is taken more than four thousand inhabitants, the said board shall make an order that a special election shall be held within the limits of the territory described in the petition, upon a date to be named in the said order. Notices of such election shall contain a description of the territory proposed to be transferred, the names of the counties from and to which such transfer is intended to be made, and shall be posted and published as required for general elections. [L. '91, p. 330, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2467.]

See infra, § 3986 et seq., new county constructed out of old—debts and property.

This section was amended by L. '03, p. 228, § 1, which also repealed § 10, only, of the Law of 1891; but the act of 1903 was repealed by L. '05, p. 58, § 1. It seems clear that the intent of the Law of 1905 was to revive this section.

§ 3973. [3813.] Conduct of Election, etc.

The said election shall be conducted in all respects as general elections are conducted under the law governing general elections, so far as they may be applicable, except that there shall be triplicate returns made, one to each of the respective county auditors, another to the office of the secretary of state. The ballots used at such election shall contain the words "For transferring territory," or "Against transferring territory." The votes shall be canvassed, as by law required, within twenty days, and if three-fifths of the votes cast in said territory at such election are "For transferring territory," the territory described in such petition shall become a part of and be added to and made a part of the county contiguous thereto, and within thirty days after the canvass of the returns of the elections held under the provisions of this chapter the governor shall issue his proclamation of the change of said county lines. [L. '91, p. 331, § 2; 1 H. C. § 2468.]

§ 3974. [3814.] Proceedings not to be Disturbed by Change.

All assessments and collection of taxes, and all judicial or other official proceedings commenced prior to the said governor's proclamation transferring such territory of the contiguous county, shall be continued, prosecuted and completed in the same manner as if no such transfer had been made. [L. '91, p. 332, § 3; 1 H. C., § 2469.]

§ 3975. [3815.] Certain Officers to Continue.

All township, precinct, school, and road district officers within such transferred territory shall continue to hold their respective offices within the county to which they may be transferred until their respective terms of office expire, and until their successors are elected and qualified. [L. '91, p. 332, § 4; 1 H. C., § 2470.]

§ 3976. [3816.] Liability for Existing Debts.

Every county which shall thus be enlarged from territory taken from another county shall be liable for a just proportion of the existing debts of the county from which such territory shall have been stricken, which such proportion of indebtedness shall be paid by the county to which such territory shall have been transferred at such time and in such manner as may be agreed upon by the boards of county commissioners of both counties interested. Provided, that the county to which such territory may be transferred and attached shall not be liable for any portion of the debt of the county from which such territory has been taken, incurred in the purchase of any county property, or the construction of any county building then in use or under construction, which shall fall within and be retained by the county from which such territory shall have been taken. § 3977. [3817.] Appraisement of Property and Indebtedness.

The county auditors of the respective counties interested in the transfer of territory, as in this chapter provided, are hereby constituted a board of appraisers and adjusters, to appraise the property, both real and personal, owned by the county from which such territory shall have been taken, and to adjust the indebtedness of such county with the county to which such territory shall have been transferred, in proportion to the amount of taxable property within the territory taken from the one county and transferred to the other. [L. '91, p. 332, § 6; 1 H. C., § 2472.]

§ 3978. [3818.] Arbitration of Differences.

If the board of appraisers and adjusters provided for in this chapter shall not agree on any subject, value, or settlement as herein stated, they shall choose a third man from an adjoining county to settle their differences, and the decision thus arrived at shall be final. [L. '91, p. 333, § 7; 1 H. C., § 2473.]

§ 3979. [3819.] Expense of Proceedings.

The expense of proceedings and election provided for in this chapter shall be paid by the county to which the territory shall be attached, after such election. [L. '91, p. 333, § 8; 1 H. C., § 2474.]

§ 3980. [3820.] Transcript of Records, etc.

The county auditor of the county to which any territory may be transferred and attached under the provisions of this chapter is hereby authorized and empowered to take transcripts of all records, books, papers, etc., on file in the office of the county auditor of the county from which said territory has been transferred, which may be necessary to perfect the records of the county to which such territory may be attached, and for this purpose he shall have access to the records of the county from which such territory is stricken, free of cost. [L. '91, p. 333, § 9; 1 H. C., § 2475.]

§ 3981. [3821.] Construction—Limitations.

Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to authorize the annexing of territory of one county to a neighboring county where the territory proposed to be annexed, or any part thereof, is at a greater distance than ten miles from the courthouse in the county seat of the county to which said territory is proposed to be annexed, as said courthouse is now located, nor to authorize the annexation of any territory at a greater distance than three miles from high-water mark of tide water, but such annexation shall be strictly confined within said limits. [L. '91, p. 333, § 10; 1 H. C., § 2476.]

This section was repealed by Laws of 1903, chapter 121, p. 229, § 2; but the latter act was repealed by Laws of 1905, chapter 34, p. 58, § 1.

§ 3988. [3828.] Disagreement Between Auditors—Third Person.

In case the two auditors cannot agree, they shall call a third person, not a citizen of either county, or in any other manner interested, whose decision shall be binding. In case they cannot agree upon such third person, they shall each name one and decide by lot which it shall be. [L. '54, p. 330, § 3; Cd. '81, § 2659; 1 H. C., § 2443.]

§ 3990. [3830.] Survey of Boundary—Costs of.

All common boundaries and common corners of counties not adequately marked by natural objects or lines, or by surveys lawfully made, must be definitely established by surveys jointly made by the surveyors of all the counties affected thereby, and approved by the board of county commissioners of such counties, or by a survey made by the surveyor general, on application by the board of county commissioners of any county affected thereby. The cost of making such surveys must be apportioned equally among the counties interested, and the board of county commissioners must audit the same, and the amounts must be paid out of the general county fund. [Cd. '81, § 2661; 1 H. C., § 2445.]

§ 3991. [3831.] Collection of Taxes Levied—Apportionment.

And the auditor or auditors of the county or counties so divided or having boundaries changed, shall apportion the amount of the real property taxes so collected after division or change of boundary to the old county or counties and the new county or counties, in the ratio of the assessed value of such property situated in the territory of each county or counties respectively, and the old county that may have been divided or whose boundaries may have been changed, shall retain all of the personal property taxes on the said tax-rolls, as compensation for cost of collection of the entire taxes: Provided, that in such accounting neither county shall be charged with any debt or liability then existing incurred in the purchase of any county property, or in the purchase or construction of any county buildings then in use or under construction, which shall fall within and be retained by the county: Provided further, that this shall not be construed to affect the rights of creditors: And provided further, that any such county property or buildings shall be the property of and owned by the county wherein the same is situated. CHAPTER V.

SALE OR DISPOSAL OF COUNTY PROPERTY.

§ 4007. [3841.] Commissioners may Sell and Convey, How.

Whenever it shall appear to the board of county commissioners of any county in this state that it is for the best interests of such county and the people thereof that any part or parcel, or portion of such part or parcel, of the property, whether real, personal, or mixed, belonging to said county should be sold, it shall be the duty of such board, and they are hereby authorized and empowered, to sell and convey such property, under the limitations and restrictions and in the manner hereinafter provided. [L. '91, p. 145, § 1; 1 H. C., § 3059.]

See infra, § 4015, sale of granted lands to city.

See infra, § 4016 et seq., sale of escheated property.

See infra, § 4019, leases of county property.

See infra, § 11310, resale of lands acquired by county at tax sale.

See infra, § 11312, mining claims.

Cited in 33 Wash. 575.

§ 4008. [3842.] Notice of Sale—Hearing.

The board of county commissioners so desiring to sell shall first give notice of their intention to make such sale, by publication at least once a week for the term of four weeks in three different newspapers of such county, if there are three published in such county, and also place a notice in a conspicuous place in the courthouse for the same length of time. Such notice so published shall particularly designate and describe the property or portion thereof which it is proposed to sell, and shall contain full notice that the board of county commissioners will meet on a certain day and hour of such day at their usual place of meeting to hear and determine the advisability of making such sale: Provided, that such meeting shall be held at a time not more than one week after the expiration of the time hereinbefore designated for the publication of the notice of such meeting. The board shall at such meeting hear evidence and take testimony, should any be offered, as to the propriety and advisability of making such proposed sale, and any taxpayer in the county, either in person or by counsel, shall have the right to be heard for or against such proposition: Provided, that the board may limit the number to be heard to not less than three on either side, for or against the proposed sale. [L. '91, p. 145, § 2; 1 H. C., § 3060.]

This section must be strictly complied with, and when the body of the notice designates the wrong block the sale is invalid, although the caption of the notice correctly states the block, since the caption is no part of the notice, and it is impossible to say that no one was misled by the error: State ex rel. Willars v. McConnaughey, 33 Wash. 571, 74 Pac. 678.

In such a case the sale cannot be rendered valid by any act of the officers at the time of making the sale, or by an agreement with the purchaser that the notice was erroneous and that a different tract was intended and sold: State ex rel. Willars v. McConnaughey, 33 Wash. 571, 74 Pac. 678.

§ 4009. [3843.] Finding of Board, and Record Thereof.

The board shall within three days after such meeting make their findings as to the propriety and advisability of making such sale and their determination thereon, which said finding and determination shall be spread upon their minutes and be made matter of record. [L. '91, p. 146, § 3; 1 H. C., § 3061.]

§ 4010. [3844.] Effect of Determination—Notice of Sale.

If the findings and determination of the board shall be against such sale, all proceedings in that regard shall then and there terminate without further action or order; but if the board shall find and determine in favor of such sale, they shall then enter an order on their minutes directing the auditor of the county to give notice that such sale will be made, and the auditor shall give such notice in the manner prescribed in section 4008, of this chapter: Provided, that such sale shall not be made in less than thirty nor more than forty-five days from the date of the first publication of notice thereof; and such notice shall designate the hour and day when such sale shall take place. And the sale shall be made by the sheriff by public auction and at the door of the courthouse of the county, to the highest and best bidder. Such sale may be postponed by the board of commissioners, but in no case for longer than thirty days. [L. '91, p. 146, § 4; 1 H. C., § 3062.]

§ 4011. [3845.] Terms of Sale.

If the property to be sold be personal or mixed, or both, the sale thereof shall be for cash, in case such property be real, then the sale thereof shall be on such terms as the board may designate: Provided, that any and all deferred payments shall be secured by such good and sufficient means as may to the board seem necessary; but no conveyance of the property so sold shall be made until full payment be made therefor: Provided, that in any case where any building, bridge, or other structure belonging to any county in this state shall have been torn down or destroyed, either by accident or by order of the board of county commissioners of such county, said board of county commissioners shall by order entered on their journal, determine the advisability of selling all or any part of the material which was formerly a part of the building, bridge or other structure so destroyed or torn down, or other personal property of any kind whatever, not exceeding two hundred dollars ($200) in value, and if it be determined that such sale is advisable the board may make such sale, either with or without public notice, and in such manner as the board may determine will be most beneficial to the county. The proceeds of such sale shall be paid by the purchaser to the county treasurer who shall issue his receipt therefor to the purchaser, and which receipt shall be evidence of the title of the purchaser. [L. '15, p. 22, § 1. Cf. L. '91, p. 146, § 5; 1 H. C., § 3063.]

§ 4012. [3845½.] Validating Sales of Materials.

That any sale of property made in accordance with the terms of the proviso contained in the preceding section between the date of the approval by the governor of this act and the time when this act goes into effect, which is made in all respects in accordance with the terms of this act, shall be, and the same is, hereby approved and confirmed and this section shall be printed in any revision of the code of the state of Washington. [L. '15, p. 23, § 2.]

§ 4013. [3846.] Receipt of Proceeds—Conveyance.

The county treasurer shall attend at such sale and receive all proceeds of the same, and on full and entire payment he shall make, execute, and deliver to the purchaser of the property so sold a deed for the same, which deed shall fully set out all the proceedings had in relation to the said sale of the property therein described, and shall be attested by the county auditor, and when so executed and delivered it shall vest all the title which the county had in the property so sold in the grantee. [L. '91, p. 147, § 6; 1 H. C., § 3064.]

§ 4014. [3847.] Application of Various Provisions.

The provisions of this chapter shall be held to apply to all property now owned by any county in this state and to all property hereafter acquired by any county. [L. '91, p. 147, § 7; 1 H. C., § 3065.]

§ 4015. Granted Lands—Conveyance to City.

Whenever any county shall hold title to lands, for county purposes, acquired by grant, patent or other conveyance from the United States executed under and pursuant to an act of congress, and the board of county commissioners of such county shall by resolution find and determine that any portion of said lands is not required for county purposes and that it would be for the best interest of the county to have such portion of said lands devoted to use by a municipality lying within said county and including said lands for municipal purposes, the board of county commissioners of said county shall have power, by and with the consent of the congress of the United States, to, by a proper instrument of conveyance executed by the board of county commissioners on behalf of the county, convey such lands to such municipality for municipal purposes, either with or without consideration, and shall not be required to advertise or offer said lands for sale or lease in the manner provided by law for the sale or lease of county property. [L. '17, p. 232, § 1.]

§ 4016. [3848.] Sale of Escheated Property.

The county commissioners of the several counties of this state be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to sell and convey at public sale, for cash or on credit, in such manner as they may deem advantageous, any real estate or other property, which may have escheated to the county by operation of law. [L. '83, p. '57, § 1.]

This and the two following sections appear to be impliedly repealed by §§ 1358, 1362, supra, at least in so far as it relates to real estate, which now escheats to the state, under § 1356.

See supra, § 1364, subd. 8, and § 1341.

Such conveyance shall refer to the order of the board directing such sale and shall be deemed to convey all the estate, right, title and interest of the county in and to the property sold. [L. '83, p. 57, § 3.]

§ 4019. [3851.] Leases of County Property.

The board of county commissioners of any county in this state, wherever it shall appear that it is for the best interests of such county and the people thereof, that any part, parcel or portion of the real property and its appurtenances to said county belonging, should be leased for a year or term of years, are hereby authorized and empowered to lease such property under the limitations and restrictions and in the manner hereinafter provided. [L. '01, p. 183, § 1.]

See infra, § 11312, lease of mining claim acquired at tax sale.

This section has no application to a contract by the county for the lease of its ferry: State ex rel. Jackson v. King County, 29 Wash. 359, 69 Pac. 1106.

§ 4020. [3852.] Application in Writing—Deposit—Forfeiture.

In case the lands so applied for shall be leased at the time they are offered, then such deposit shall be returned to such applicant by the board of county commissioners, but if the party making such application shall fail or refuse to comply with the terms of his application and to execute such lease, then such deposit shall be forfeited to the county, and the board of county commissioners shall pay the said deposit over to the county treasurer, who shall place the same to the credit of the current expense fund of the county. lished and posted shall designate and describe the property which is proposed to be leased, together with the improvements thereon and appurtenances thereto, and shall contain a notice that the board of county commissioners will meet at the county courthouse on a day and at an hour, in such notice designated, for the purpose of leasing said property which day and hour for such leasing shall be at a time not more than a week after the expiration of the time required by this act for the publication of the notice of such meeting. All leases when executed shall provide that the same shall be canceled by failure of the lessee to construct such building or buildings or other improvements for such purposes within two years from date of such lease, and in case of failure so to do the lease and all improvements thereon, including the rentals paid, shall thereby be forfeited to the county. No change or modification of said plans shall be made unless same be first approved by the board of county commissioners. If at any time during the life of said lease the lessee shall fail to use the same for the purposes leased, without first obtaining permission in writing from the board of county commissioners so to do, said lease shall be forfeited. Any lease made for a longer period than ten (10) years shall contain provisions requiring the lessee to permit the rentals for every five-year period thereafter, or part thereof, at the commencement of such period, to be readjusted and fixed by the board of county commissioners. See Const., Art. XI, § 6.

This section seems to govern precinct officers. See last section for county offices.

Section 308 et seq., 1 Hill's Code, providing that a vacancy in the office of justice of the peace shall be filled by an election, is superseded by Article XI, § 6, of the Constitution, providing that vacancies in precinct offices shall be filled by the county commissioners: State ex rel. Moody v. Cronin, 5 Wash. 398, 31 Pac. 864.

§ 4061. [3894.] May Compound Debt Due County, When.

The county commissioners of their respective counties shall have power to compound and release in whole or in part any debt due to their county, when in their opinion the interest of their county will not be prejudiced thereby, except in cases where they or either of them are personally interested. [Cf. L. '54, p. 422, § 20; Cd. '81, § 2681; 1 H. C., § 289.]

See Const., Art. XI, § 9, no commutation authorized for state taxes.

§ 4062. [3895.] May Order Prisoners to Work.

The county commissioners in their respective counties may order all persons who shall be confined in the county jails of their respective counties, convicted of any crime or misdemeanor, to work on the roads of their respective counties, under the direction of the sheriff; but such convicts shall not be put to labor at a greater distance from the jail or place of confinement than five miles: Provided, that if any such convict shall refuse to perform such labor he shall be kept in close confinement on bread and water. The sheriff having the custody of such convicted persons may, to secure them from escape, attach a ball and chain to said convicts. [L. '67, p. 56, § 24; Cd. '81, § 2685; 1 H. C., § 290.]

This section is in part superseded by the next two sections. See, also, § 2279, supra. See supra, §§ 1933, 2209, fines how worked out.

See infra, § 6761, highways constructed by.

See infra, § 10190, prisoners compelled to work when and how.

See infra, § 10207, county and city prisoners may be worked.

§ 4063. [3896.] Same.

The board of county commissioners of any county, may in their discretion, order the sheriff to cause all persons under sentence of imprisonment in the county jail, except females and persons incapable of performing manual labor, to be put to work and perform labor on the public roads and highways within such counties. [L. '07, p. 55, § 1.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, the force of which is doubtful. See note to preceding section.

§ 4064. [3897.] Supervision of Work of Convicts.

All work done by prisoners as herein provided shall be under the direction of the county commissioners: Provided, that when the work is done on any of the roads or highways leading to and within the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town it shall be done according to the directions of the proper authorities of such city or town. [L. '07, p. 55, § 2.]

As to repeal of this section, see § 2304, the force of which is doubtful. See note to § 4062. Query, whether this repeal revives section 4062, supra.

§ 4065. [3898.] Transcribing Mutilated Records.

It shall be the duty of the county commissioners of any county in this state, when any of the county records of their county become so mutilated that the handling of the same becomes dangerous to the public safety of said records, and in the judgment of said county commissioners it may become necessary to order the transcribing of said records at a sum not exceeding eight cents per folio of one hundred words, in books to be provided for that purpose by said county. [L. '93, p. 23, § 1.]

§ 4066. [3899.] Auditor to Certify.

The books containing the records so transcribed shall be certified by the county auditor under whose direction said transcribing was done, as being a true copy of the original book in the same number and class. [L. '93, p. 24, § 2.]

§ 4067. [3900.] Original Records Preserved.

All the original record books shall after the transcribing thereof be filed away in the auditor's office and only be used in case of contest on the correctness of the transcribed records. [L. '93, p. 24, § 3.]

§ 4068. [3901.] Legalizing Former Transcripts.

All the records heretofore transcribed by order of any board of county commissioners in this state shall be and are hereby declared the legal records of said county the same as if transcribed under the provisions of sections 4065—4067. [L. '93, p. 24, § 4.]

§ 4069. [3902.] Seal of Commissioners—Evidence.

The county commissioners of each county shall have and use a seal for the purpose of sealing their proceedings, and copies of the same, when signed and sealed by the said county commissioners and attested by their clerk, shall be admitted as evidence of such proceedings in the trial of any cause in any court in this state; and until such seal shall be provided, the private seal of the chairman of such board of county commissioners shall be adopted as a seal. [Cf. L. '54, p. 421, § 10; Cd. '81, § 2672; 1 H. C., § 294.]

See infra, § 4103, seal of the county commissioners' court.

§ 4070. [3903.] Examination of Accounts, etc.

At the July session, the board of county commissioners shall examine and compare the accounts and statements of the county auditor and county treasurer, aside from the regular settlement with such treasurer, and shall enter upon their record a summarized statement of the receipts and expenditures of the preceding year. At the January, April, July and October sessions, the board of county commissioners, together with the auditor, shall count the funds in the county treasury, and ascertain whether it contains the proper amount of funds. [Cf. L. '54, p. 422, § 16; Cd. '81, § 2678; 1 H. C., § 295; L. '93, p. 253, § 2.]

§ 4071. [3904.] Power to Administer Oaths.

The county commissioners are authorized and empowered to administer all oaths or affirmations necessary in discharging the duties of their office, and have the same power as justices of the peace to commit for contempt any witness refusing to testify before them. [Cf. L. '54, p. 423, § 22; L. '69, p. 308, § 26; Cd. '81, § 2687; 1 H. C., § 296.]

§ 4072. [3905.] Record of Proceedings.

The board of county commissioners shall cause to be recorded, in a book to be kept for that purpose, all their proceedings and determinations touching all matters properly cognizable before them; and all books, accounts, vouchers, papers, and (accounts) touching the business or property of the county shall be carefully kept by the clerk, and open to the inspection of every person. § 4073. [3906.] Reduction of County Expenses.

It shall be the duty of every board of county commissioners to reduce the expenditures of their respective counties to the lowest practicable sum consistent with law. [L. '93, p. 427, § 1.]

§ 4074. [3907.] Limitations on.

No deputies or assistance of any kind shall be allowed to any officer or person receiving compensation from a county unless the same is necessary. No higher compensation shall be allowed for any deputy of, or assistance for, such officer or person than is necessary. No other expenditure for or connected with such officer or person, or his office or employment, or the performance of his official duties, or any of them, than shall be necessary. In case the payment of any fee or fees is required for the performance of any duty of such officer or person, the total amount allowed and expended by any board of county commissioners for, on account of, or connected with such person or officer, his office or employment, and the performance of the duties thereof, including the salary allowed by law to such officer or person, shall not exceed the amount of the legal fees collected on account of such office or employment and the performance of the duties thereof: Provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the office of county attorney: Provided further, that the fees properly chargeable to counties shall be included in the total of the earnings of such officers. [L. '93, p. 427, § 2.]

See note to § 7571, infra.

§ 4075. [3908.] Employment of Special Attorneys.

It shall be unlawful for any board of county commissioners in any county in this state to employ, contract with or pay any special attorney or counsel to perform any duty which the attorney general or any prosecuting attorney is authorized or required by law to perform, unless the contract of employment of said special attorney or counsel shall have been first reduced to writing and approved by the superior judge of said county or a majority of the judges thereof, in writing indorsed thereon: Provided, this section shall not prohibit the appointment of deputy prosecuting attorneys in the manner provided by law. [L. '05, p. 50, § 1.]

Power to employ attorneys, see supra, § 4056, and infra, § 4130, and note.

§ 4076. [3909.] Appeals—When and How Taken.

Any person may appeal from any decision or order of the board of county commissioners to the superior court of the proper county. Such appeal shall be taken within twenty days after such decision or order, and the party appealing shall within said time serve notice on the county commissioners that the appeal is taken, which notice shall be in writing and shall be delivered to at least one of the county commissioners personally, or left with the clerk of the board, the party appealing shall, within ten days after the service of the notice of appeal give a bond to the county with one or more sureties, to be approved by the clerk of the board, conditioned for the payment of all costs which shall be adjudged against him on such appeal in the superior court. The practice regulating appeals from and writs of certiorari to justice's courts shall, so far as the same may be applicable, govern in matters of appeal from the decision or order of the board of county commissioners.

Nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent a party having a claim against any county in this state from enforcing the collection thereof by civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction, after the same may have been presented and disallowed in whole or in part by the board of county commissioners of the proper county: Provided, that such action be brought within three months after such claim has been acted upon by such board. This section does not give the right of appeal from an order of township supervisors legalizing a county road, notwithstanding township supervisors are given concurrent jurisdiction with county commissioners over the subject, no appeal being given by the township act, sections 11360—11484. infra; Duncan Township v. Stavr, 106 Wash. 514, 180 Pac. 476.

This section is limited to cases requiring the exercise of purely judicial power; and hence has no application to, and no appeal lies from, an order fixing the salary of a court commissioner: State ex rel. Yeargin v. Maschke, 90 Wash. 249, 155 Pac. 1064.

This section does not prevent the recovery in an action by the county for money paid under an illegal order, without the taking of any appeal: Pacific County v. Willapa Harbor Publishing Co., 88 Wash. 562, 153 Pac. 360.

A taxpayer not a party to the proceeding cannot appeal from the order of county commissioners allowing a claim against the county, as this section applies only to parties to the proceeding: Morath v. Gorham, 11 Wash. 577, 40 Pac. 129.

An order of the board of county commissioners awarding a lease of county property is not reviewable by writ of certiorari, since there is an adequate remedy by appeal under this section: Sweeney v. County Commissioners, 43 Wash. 138, 86 Pac. 200.

Where the commissioners refused to act within a reasonable time, the claim will be considered rejected as of the time the claimant elected to sue, and the county could not take advantage of its own wrong and claim an earlier rejection barring the right of action; and it will be conclusively presumed, after the commissioners have failed to act within a reasonable time, that they rejected the claim, and claimant may sue at law without resorting to mandamus to force the commissioners to act; and seven months is more than a reasonable time: Bullock v. Yakima Valley Transportation Co., 108 Wash. 413, 184 Pac. 641, 187 Pac. 410.

Under the express provision of this section, the remedy by appeal from the county commissioners' rejection of a claim, does not prevent a party from enforcing his claim by direct action in the courts: State ex rel. Clapp v. Urquhart, 108 Wash. 299, 183 Pac. 121.

§ 4077. Claims Against Counties—Presentation—Verification.

That all claims for damages against any county must be presented before the county commissioners of such county and filed with the clerk thereof within sixty days after the time when such claim for damages accrued. All such claims for damages must locate and describe the defect which caused the injury, describe the injury, and contain the amount of damages claimed, together with a statement of the actual residence of such claimant at the time of presenting and filing such claim and for a period of six months immediately prior to the time such claim for damages accrued, and be sworn to by the claimant. No action shall be maintained for any claim for damages until the same has been presented to the board of county commissioners and sixty days have elapsed after such presentation: Provided, that if the claimant shall be incapacitated from verifying and filing his claim for damages within the time prescribed, or if the claimant be a minor, or in case the claim is for damages to real or personal property, and if the owner of such property is a nonresident of such county or is absent therefrom during the time within which a claim for damages to said property is required to be filed, then the claim may be verified and presented on behalf of said claimant by any relative or attorney or agent representing the injured person, or in case of damages to property, representing the owner thereof, and no action for damages now pending or hereafter brought shall be defeated by the failure of the person to verify or file the claim in person if action be brought within three years after the taking effect of this act where a claim has heretofore been verified and filed within the time and in compliance with the terms of this act if said claim has been rejected. [L. '19, p. 414, § 1.]

See infra, § 4086, audit and allowance of claims.

Cited in 111 Wash. 388; 112 Wash. 660.

The last part of the proviso to this section does not make the act retroactive, but applies to claimants who shall be incapacitated, and not to causes that accrued prior to its passage: Horner v. Pierce County, 111 Wash. 386, 191 Pac. 396.

This action does not bar claims sustained prior to taking effect of the act, if presented within sixty days thereafter: Hanford v. King County, 112 Wash. 659, 192 Pac. 1013.

CLAIMS AGAINST COUNTY: See Remington's Digest, Counties, §§ 88—95. Nature of Claims Required to be Presented: *State ex rel. Banks v. See, also, Bullock v. Yakima Valley Transportation Co., 108 Wash. 413, 184 Pac. 641, 187 Pac. 410.

Under this section, and section 4136, it is the duty of the county auditor to draw warrants in payment of costs in misdemeanor cases, which have been approved by the prosecuting attorney and certified by the judge trying the case, without having such cost bills presented to the county commissioners for examination and allowance: State ex rel. Crawford v. Evenson, 18 Wash. 609, 52 Pac. 230.

Under this section, a claim for salary as justice of the peace must be presented to the board of county commissioners for their examination and allowance and upon their refusal to allow same, mandamus will not lie to compel payment, since there is a remedy by appeal from the action of the board of commissioners: State v. Snohomish County, 18 Wash. 160, 51 Pac. 368.

CHAPTER VIII.

COUNTY BLANKS AND PRINTING.

§ 4078. [3910.] State Auditor to Compile Uniform Blanks.

The state auditor, with the aid and advice of the attorney general, shall compile the forms for all public blanks used in the counties of this state in conformity with the general statutes thereof. The various blanks for each county shall be uniform throughout the state. [L. '97, p. 47, § 1.]

§ 4079. [3911.] Material Provided by the State.

The material used in said blank forms and the printing and binding thereof shall be provided for by the state printing board in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations as other public printing is now provided for under the general statutes of this state. [L. '97, p. 48, § 2.]

"The state printing board" is obsolete.

§ 4080. [3912.*] Contracting for Public Printing.

In all counties where two or more weekly, semi-weekly or daily newspapers are published, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, at their April meeting each year, to let the advertising and official publication of all notices to the publisher thereof who is the best and lowest responsible bidder: Provided, that in all cases the county commissioners shall consider the question of circulation in awarding the county printing contract, with a view to giving said printing the widest publicity; and no newspaper shall be eligible as a competitor, nor shall a contract be let to any newspaper, unless the same shall have been established, published and circulated in the county for at least six months, and has a general and bona fide circulation throughout the county in which it is published: Provided, further, that in counties where there is no newspaper published, the commissioners of such county shall cause the printing of said county to be done in some newspaper in the state, of general circulation in the county, having no resident newspaper, and the newspaper to which such contract is let, shall be designated as the official newspaper of the county: Provided further, that the county commissioners shall require a bond in double the amount involved in the contract, for the correct and faithful performance of all such contracts and the work to be done thereunder: Provided, further, that the term of the successful bidder shall not commence until the first day of July succeeding the letting of such contract. [L. '17, p. 419, § 1. Cf. L. '73, p. 478, § 1; Cd. '81, § 2692; L. '86, p. 108, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2936.]

§ 4081. [3913.*] County Auditor to Advertise for County Printing.

It shall be the duty of the county auditor, at least five weeks before, and not more than eight weeks before the meeting of the county commissioners in April of each year, to advertise for proposals for the public printing, for the term of one year, beginning on the first day of July following, which advertisement shall be inserted for four consecutive weeks in the official newspaper of the county, or if there be no official newspaper, then in some other newspaper published in the county, or in a county, adjacent to said county, and having a general circulation in said county: Provided, that the county commissioners shall not be compelled in any event to accept any bid for a greater price than one dollar per square, of two hundred and fifty ems, nonpareil, for the first insertion, straight matter, and fifty cents per square for each subsequent insertion: Provided further, that the county auditor, when calling for bids, shall state how the matter shall be set, what kind of type, and whether solid or leaded. [L. '17, p. 420, § 2; L. '07, p. 565, § 1. Cf. L. '73, p. 478, § 2; Cd. '81, § 2693; L. '86, p. 108, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2937.]

Newspapers: See Remington's Digest, Newsp., §§ 1—3; Puget Sound Pub. Co. v. Times Printing Co., 33 Wash. 551, 74 Pac. 802; North Yakima v. Scudder, 41 Wash. 15, 82 Pac. 1022; Brown's Estate v. Co., 51 Wash. 667, 99 Pac. 1040, 16 Ann. Cas. 414; State ex rel. Lewis v. Hodge, 90 Wash. 487, 156 Pac. 404.

The provision requiring notice for bids to be published for a certain time prior to the May session is merely directory: Baum v. Sweeny, 5 Wash. 712, 32 Pac. 778.

The order of the board of county commissioners in accepting the bid for county printing under this section does not constitute a contract nor conclude the board from rescinding its order and making another award: State ex rel. De Rackin v. Allen, 8 Wash. 168, 35 Pac. 609.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the county commissioners to make an award for county printing, as there is an adequate remedy by appeal from their orders in such cases: State ex rel. De Rackin v. Allen, supra, citing Baum v. Sweeny, 5 Wash. 712, 32 Pac. 778.

In an action on a contract for county printing, the plaintiff should be nonsuited, when the evidence shows that he had sold the paper in which he had contracted to do the county printing to another, and that the county commissioners had refused to furnish him with any more notices for publication: Rathbun v. Thurston County, 8 Wash. 238, 35 Pac. 1102; compare Norton v. Roslyn, 10 Wash. 44, 38 Pac. 878.

This section specially confers authority upon the county treasurer to select

For claims allowed by the county commissioners, as also for cost bills and other lawful claims duly approved by the competent tribunal designated by law for their allowance, he shall draw a warrant on the county treasurer, made payable to the claimant or his order, bearing date from the time of and regularly numbered in the order of their issue, and he shall carefully keep proper warrant books, and when a warrant is issued

Nothing herein contained shall prevent claimants at the time of issuing said warrants, from having the same broken, or issued in smaller warrants by the said auditor, using two or more warrants in lieu of one. In all such cases, however, when broken warrants are issued, the auditor issuing the same is required to preserve as many stub entries as he issues broken warrants, noting upon such stub the claim for which issued, the same as in other cases, together with a note of the number of broken warrants which aggregate the amount of the entire claim allowed: Provided, no single warrant shall be issued for a greater amount than five hundred dollars: Provided, further, that the above restrictions shall not apply to warrants issued when there is cash on hand in the county treasury to pay the same on presentation. All claims of the county auditor against the county for services shall be audited and allowed by the board of county commissioners as other claims are audited and allowed. Said warrants shall in all respects be audited, approved, issued, numbered, registered and paid the same as any other county warrant. The words "county warrant," as herein designated, shall be synonymous with "county order" or "county scrip." In this as well as in all other laws of this state, such terms are convertible, and shall be considered to mean one and the same thing. [Cf. L. '54, p. 425, § 5; L. '69, p. 310, § 5; Cd. Duty to Prisoners—Negligence: See Remington's Digest, Sheriffs, § 12-1; Kusah v. McCorkle, 100 Wash. 318, 170 Pac. 1023.

The sheriff is liable for injuries sustained by a prisoner at the hands of other prisoners acting as a "Kangaroo Court," where his want of reasonable care is shown by the character of the other prisoners and knowledge of a prior case of brutal treatment, and he had approved rules warranting "severe punishment" for failure to pay fines, the other prisoners knew the exact amount of money taken from him by the sheriff, who on releasing plaintiff, withheld the amount of a fine exacted under a threat of further punishment: Eberhart v. Murphy, 110 Wash. 158, 188 Pac. 17.

Actions on Official Bonds: See Remington's Digest, Sheriffs, §§ 34—37. Right of Action: Magnus v. Woolery, 14 Wash. 43, 44 Pac. 130.

See infra, § 9944, coroner to act on sheriff's failure to file bond.

Under this section, where the sheriff of a county is disqualified from acting by reason of being a party to the action, a writ of garnishment may be served upon him by a private individual: Russell v. Millett, 20 Wash. 212, 55 Pac. 44.

§ 4171. [4002.] Sheriff or Coroner not to Practice Law.

§ 4172. [4003.] May Demand Fees and Indemnifying Bond.

See supra, § 505, fees payable in advance.

Cited in 1 Wash. 96; 26 Wash. 258; 57 Wash. 139; 70 Wash. 588, 591.

This section is not superseded by sections 573—577, which authorize the sheriff to proceed with the sale of property levied upon unless a claimant thereto shall make affidavit of ownership and give bond to make good his title, since the latter sections are not intended to prescribe the sheriff's duties, but merely to give the claimant of property levied upon an additional remedy for its recovery: Carpenter v. Barry, 26 Wash. 255, 66 Pac. 393.

Under this section, the officer has the unqualified right to demand a bond in any case requiring a levy on personal property involving the taking of actual possession, and not merely in cases where the bond "is required by law," as in sections 573 and 1888, supra, relating to adverse claims to property levied upon: Canfield-Caulkins Implement Co. v. Cowden, 70 Wash. 587, 127 Pac. 216, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 857.

This section applies to constables when their duties in connection with process are exactly the same as the duties of sheriffs; the terms "sheriff, deputy sheriff, or coroner" being used in a generic sense: Canfield-Caulkins Implement Co. v. Cowden, 70 Wash. 587, 127 Pac. 216, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 857.

§ 4173. [4004.] Sheriff and Constable to Complain of Violation.

It shall be the duty of all constables and all sheriffs to make complaint of all violations of the criminal law which shall come to their knowledge within their respective jurisdictions. [L. '69, p. 260, § 311; Cd. '81, § 2801; 1 H. C., § 326.]

§ 4174. [4005.] Sheriffs, etc., to Surrender Writs to Successors.

All sheriffs, constables and coroners in the state of Washington, upon the completion of their term of office and the qualification of their successors, shall deliver and turn over to such successors all writs and other processes in their possession not wholly executed, and all personal property in their possession or under their control held under such writs or processes, and take receipts therefor in duplicate, one of which shall be filed in the office from which such writ or process issued as a paper in the action, which receipt shall be a good and sufficient discharge to such officer of and from further charge of the execution of such writs and processes; and shall also deliver to their successors all papers and property in their possession or under their control as such officers. And it shall be the duty of such successors to execute or complete the execution of all such writs and processes so delivered to them, and to finish and complete any and all business pertaining to such offices so turned over to them. [L. '95, p. 22, § 1.]

Authority of Successor as to Pending Proceedings in Hands of Former Officer: Lewis v. Bartlett, 12 Wash. 212, 40 Pac. 934, 50 Am. St. Rep. 885.

§ 4175. [4006.] Successor to Complete Process.

§ 4176. [4007.] Election—Term—Bond.

There shall be elected at each biennial election, in every county in this state, a coroner, who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor shall be elected and qualified, and shall take an oath of office and file a copy thereof. He shall execute a bond to his county in the sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office. [Cf. L. '54, p. 436, § 1; Cd. '81, § 2775; 1 H. C., § 245.]

Such appointment shall be in writing and signed by the coroner. [L. '05, p. 112, § 1.]

§ 4178. [4009.] Oath of Deputy.

Each deputy shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation, in like form as required of the coroners, which shall be filed in the office of the county clerk. [L. '05, p. 112, § 2.]

§ 4179. [4010.] Deputy's Power and Compensation.

[Cf. L. '54, p. 436, § 2; Cd. '81, § 2776; 2 H. C., § 81; L. '97, p. 21, § 1.]

See supra, § 4170, service when sheriff disqualified.

See infra, § 9944, on failure of sheriff to file bond.

The statute of 1854, allowing a coroner, in certain cases, to perform the duties of a sheriff, is still in force: Rodolph v. Mayer, 1 W. T. 133.

The duties and powers of deputy sheriffs, under this section, are such only as are usually incident to the office of sheriff, and are to be performed by him in his official capacity as sheriff, and do not include the execution of duties which are unofficial in character, and which may by law be performed as well by any other county officer who may be properly requested to perform them: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 34 Pac. 317.

This section was amended by Laws of 1897, whereby any person who is otherwise qualified and appointed by the person desiring the writ may serve a writ of garnishment upon a sheriff: Russell v. Millett, 20 Wash. 212, 55 Pac. 44.

CHAPTER I.

DIKING DISTRICTS.

Assessments on state lands, see §§ 4478—4482, and 8125—8136, infra.

§ 4236. [4091.*] Organization—Authorized.

Any portion of a county requiring diking may be organized into a diking district, and when so organized, such district, and the board of commissioners hereinafter provided for, shall have and possess the power herein conferred or that may hereafter be conferred by law upon such district and board of commissioners, and said district shall be known and designated as diking district No. — (here insert number) of the county of — (here insert the name of county) of the state of Washington, and shall have the right to sue and be sued by and in the name of its board of commissioners hereinafter provided for, and shall have perpetual succession, and shall adopt and use a seal. The commissioners hereinafter provided for, and their successors in office, shall, from the time of the organization of such diking district, have the power, and it shall be their duty, to manage and conduct the business and affairs of the district; make and execute all necessary contracts, employ and appoint such agents, officers and employees as may be required, and prescribe their duties, and perform such other acts as hereinafter provided, or that may hereafter be provided by law. [L. '21, p. 548, § 1. Cf. L. '95, p. 304, § 1.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 316; 19 Wash. 205; 20 Wash. 91, 518; 63 Wash. 332; 81 Wash. 482; 82 Wash. 32; 84 Wash. 253; 105 Wash. 241; 108 Wash. 150.

In General: See Remington's Digest, Drains, §§ 1—22, and cases cited.

The act contained in this chapter is not unconstitutional under Article VII, § 9, of the Constitution: Hansen v. Hammer, 15 Wash. 315, 46 Pac. 332.

Chapter 2, Title XXI (1 Hill's Code, § 1928 et seq.), relating to public dikes and dams, is unconstitutional, for the reason that it is in violation of Article I, § 16, which provides that no private property shall be taken or damaged for public or private use without just compensation having been first made or paid into court for the owner: Snohomish County v. Hayward, 11 Wash. 429, 39 Pac. 652.

Dike and ditch taxes levied subsequent to the adoption of the state constitution by a district organized prior thereto are illegal and void, when the dike and drainage laws are in conflict with provisions of the constitution, since the effect of the adoption of the constitution was to abrogate and annul all territorial laws repugnant to it: Pickering v. Ball, 19 Wash. 185, 52 Pac. 1022.

That portion of the act (L. '90, p. 652) providing for taking of lands for right of way for construction of ditches being unconstitutional, the whole of the act must fall with it, as the remaining provisions are so closely connected therewith that full effect cannot be given them independent of that which is unconstitutional: Skagit County v. Stiles, 10 Wash. 388, 39 Pac. 116; Askham v. King County, 9 Wash. 1, 36 Pac. 1097.

A diking district under this act is an organized public entity distinct from and free of all control by the county: Whitten v. Silverman, 105 Wash. 238, 177 Pac. 737; Columbia River Timber & Logging Co. v. Diking Dist. No. 2, 108 Wash. 148, 183 Pac. 134.

§ 4237. [4092.*] Districts, How Formed.

For the purpose of the formation of such diking districts a petition shall be presented to the board of county commissioners of the county in which said proposed diking district is located, which petition shall set forth the object for the creation of said district; shall designate the boundaries thereof and set forth therein the number of acres of land to be benefited by the proposed diking system, and shall also contain the names of all the record owners of land within said proposed district (so far as known), and shall contain a brief description of the proposed system of diking, the route over which the same is to be constructed, together with the proposed spurs or branches, if any there may be, and the termini thereof, and set forth the further fact that the establishment of said district and the proposed system of diking will be conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, and increase the public revenue, and that the establishment of said district and said system of diking will be of special benefit to the property included therein. Said petition shall be signed by such a number as own at least a majority of the acreage in the proposed district, and shall pray that the same be organized under the provisions of this chapter. Said petitioners shall, at the time of the filing of said petition, file a bond with said commissioners, running to the state of Washington, in the penal sum of five hundred dollars, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, conditioned that they will pay all costs in case said district, for any reason, shall not be established. [L. '21, p. 549, § 2. Cf. L. '95, p. 304, § 2.]

§ 4238. [4093.*] Petition to be Published—By Whom Filed.

Said petition shall be presented at a regular or special meeting of the board of county commissioners of said county, and shall be published for at least two weeks in two successive issues of some weekly newspaper printed and published in said county, and in case no such newspaper be printed or published in such county, then in some such newspaper of general circulation therein, before the time at which the same is to be presented, together with a notice stating the time of the meeting at which the same shall be presented. When such petition is presented for hearing, the board of county commissioners shall hear the same, or may adjourn said hearing from time to time, not exceeding one month in all; and any person or corporation may appear before said board of county commissioners and make objections to the establishment of said district, or the proposed boundary lines thereof, and upon a final hearing said board of county commissioners shall make such changes in the proposed boundaries as they deem to be proper, and shall establish and define such boundaries, and shall ascertain and determine the number of acres of land that will be benefited by said proposed system of dikes, and shall find whether the proposed diking system will be conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, increase the public revenue, and be of special benefit to the majority of the land included within the said boundaries of said proposed district so established by said board of county commissioners: Provided, that no changes shall be made by said board of county commissioners in said boundary lines to include any territory outside of the boundaries described in said petition: Provided further, that any person or persons owning land within the proposed boundaries and who did not sign said petition, or any person, persons, or corporations owning land not included within the proposed boundaries, may file a petition with the board of county commissioners asking that the proposed boundaries be extended to include other lands described therein; setting forth in said petition the reason therefor; but no person, persons, or corporations not owning lands included within the boundaries, as originally petitioned for, shall have the right to file such petition unless they ask therein to have their own lands included within the proposed boundaries: Provided, any corporation owning land included within the boundaries described in the original petition, may also petition the board of county commissioners for an extension of the proposed boundaries: Provided further, that the boundaries of any diking district heretofore or hereafter established may be extended by the board of county commissioners to include other lands in said county, upon petition signed by the owners of a majority of the acreage of said land within the proposed extension; which said petition for extension shall set forth and contain, with reference to the extension, such matters and things and data so far as applicable, as is provided for in the petition required for presentation to the board of county commissioners for the purpose of the formation of the original diking district: Provided further, that all necessary expense incident to making such extension, together with a proportionate share of the first cost of any system of dikes existing in the original diking district at the time of making such extension, shall be levied against and apportioned to the land included in such extension, as in this act provided. In such case, the board of county commissioners shall give like notice as provided for in this section of the hearing of the original petition, and the final hearing thereof may, in such case, be continued from time to time, for a period of not exceeding sixty days; and if, upon final hearing, the board of county commissioners deem it advisable and to the best interests of all concerned, they may grant the prayer of said petitioners in whole or in part, and said board of county commissioners of such county shall enter an order on the records of their office setting forth all facts found by them upon the final hearing of said petition, and which may be adduced by them from the evidence heard upon the final hearing thereof. [L. '21, p. 550, § 3. Cf. L. '05, p. 177, § 1; L. '95, p. 305, § 3.]

§ 4239. [4094.] Election to Establish Districts—Commissioners—Notices—Costs.

Upon the entry of the findings on the final hearing of said petition as set forth in the last preceding section, said board of county commissioners of said county, if they find said proposed system of dikes will be conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience and will increase the public revenue and be of special benefit to the majority of the lands included within said boundaries, shall give notice of an election to be held in such proposed diking district for the purpose of determining whether the same shall be organized under the provisions of this chapter as a diking district of the state of Washington, and for the further purpose of choosing at such election three commissioners who shall be known and designated as "dike commissioners" for said district proposed to be organized, which said three commissioners shall, upon their election, be the district authorities of said diking district; and such notice shall particularly describe the boundaries as established by the board of county commissioners on its final hearing of said petition, and shall state the name of such proposed diking district and approximately the number of acres of land in said district to be benefited thereby, and the same shall be published for at least two weeks prior to such election in a weekly newspaper printed and published within the county within which said district is located, and in case no such newspaper be printed or published in such county, then in some such newspaper of general circulation therein, for two successive issues thereof, and shall be posted for the same period in at least four public places within the boundaries of said proposed district, which notice shall designate the place within the proposed district where the said election shall be held, and require the voters to cast ballots which shall contain the words "Diking district, yes," or "Diking district, no," and also the names of the persons voted for for commissioners of said diking district. The board of county commissioners shall appoint two judges, one inspector and two clerks for such election, whose compensation shall be the same as in other elections for the election of county and state officers, and shall be a charge upon said district, in case the same be established, and shall be paid in the same manner as other expenses are paid which are incurred in the establishment and construction of said improvement. In case said district be not established, then all costs and expenses shall be collectable from the bond hereinbefore provided for, and any person having a charge against said district shall have a right of action thereon. [L. '95, p. 307, §4.]

Upon the formation of a diking district under this act, personal service upon every person within the district of notice of the petition to organize the district is unnecessary, and failure to give such personal service would not constitute a taking of private property without due process of law: Hansen v. Hammer, 15 Wash. 315, 46 Pac. 332.

§ 4240. [4095.] Election, When Held—Commissioners, Qualification of.

Said election shall be held on the day designated in such notice, and shall be conducted in accordance with the general election laws of the state, and no person shall be entitled to vote at such election or at the elections of commissioners hereinafter provided for unless he shall be a qualified elector of the county in which such district is located, and shall own land in the district. It shall be the duty of the county auditor, upon the request of the board of county commissioners, to certify to the election officers of any such election the names of all persons owning land in the district as shown by the records of his office, and at any such election the election officers may require any such land owner, offering to vote, to take an oath that he is a qualified elector of the county before he shall be allowed to vote: Provided, that at any election held under the provisions of this act, an officer or agent of any corporation owning land in the district, duly authorized thereto in writing may cast a vote on behalf of said corporation; when so voting he shall file with the election officers such written instrument of his authority. Said board shall cause a copy of the order entered of record, duly certified, to be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and from and after the date of such filing, said organization shall be deemed complete; and the members of said board of commissioners, so chosen at said election, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, shall qualify as county officers are required to qualify, and each shall enter into a bond, payable to the state of Washington, for the benefit of said district, with two or more sureties, in a penal sum of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties as dike commissioners, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, and to be filed with the county clerk, of the county in which said district is situated. The said dike commissioners shall hold office until the next general election at which officers of said dike district are to be elected, and until such further time as their successors are elected and qualified. The members of each successive board of dike commissioners, whether elected or appointed, shall, before entering upon their duties, enter into a bond as herein provided, and after being approved by the board of county commissioners, shall be filed in the office of the county clerk, of the county in which said district is situated. [L. '15, p. 483, § 1.]

The time so fixed shall be not less than thirty days or more than sixty days from the date said resolution shall be adopted. Such resolution may be adopted by the commissioners upon their own motion and it shall be their duty to adopt such resolution at any time when a petition signed by the owners of sixty per cent or more of the acreage within such diking district is presented, requesting them to do so. Notice of such hearing shall be given by posting in three (3) public places within such district a true copy of said resolution signed by the commissioners of the diking district and attested with the seal thereof, which notice shall be posted for at least ten (10) days prior to the day fixed in said resolution for said hearing. § 4247. [4097-5.] Consideration of Objections.

But if objections in writing are filed either to the proposed improvement or to the proposed method of paying the costs thereof, the commissioners shall proceed to hear and consider the same and may, thereupon, order that such proposed improvement be abandoned for the time being or may direct such improvement to be constructed and the order of the commissioners in that regard shall be final and conclusive on all parties interested: Provided, however, that no such proceeding shall be abandoned unless the owners of at least twenty-five per cent of the acreage within said district shall have at or prior to said hearing, filed protests against the same. But nothing contained in this act shall be held to forbid the commissioners in their discretion overruling all protests and directing the construction of such improvement.

Commissioners shall likewise hear and consider all objections that may be filed to the proposed method of paying the costs of such improvement. [L. '15, p. 443, § 5.]

§ 4248. [4097-6.] Assessment of Benefits.

In all cases wherein it is finally determined that the assessments for the system of drainage differ from the assessment theretofore made, as to any tract or parcel of land within said diking district, the diking commissioners in making their annual estimate shall segregate the amount necessary to be raised for the construction, repair and maintenance of the system of drainage or for the payment of the principal or interest of any bonds issued for drainage purposes from the amount necessary to be raised for all other diking purposes and the county auditor in apportioning said estimate for drainage purposes to the lands in such district shall base such apportionment upon the assessment fixed for drainage purposes and shall apportion the remainder of such estimate upon the basis fixed in the original or any subsequent proceeding for all other diking purposes. But in all other cases, the estimate and apportionment shall be made in accordance with existing laws. [L. '15, p. 445, § 8.]

The provisions of this section as regards said system of dikes to be located within the boundaries of any incorporated city or town shall apply to the extension or enlargement of any dike or dikes already existing upon, over and across any street, avenue, alley or public place of any city or town, as well as the original construction thereof. [L. '07, p. 176, § 2.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 4243, 4253—4256.

§ 4254. [4099.] Organization—Matters to be Set Forth in Proceedings.

In all proceedings hereafter had to organize diking districts, all notices, petitions or proceedings shall contain and set forth all matters and things required by existing law, and in addition thereto shall contain and set forth, so far as is necessary or applicable, all matters and things required by the provisions of this act, and all diking districts now existing, which may exercise any of the rights, powers or authority conferred by the provisions of this act, the proceedings to obtain the benefits hereof, must contain such allegations, and such steps and proceedings must be taken, as is rendered necessary by the provisions of this act; and the commissioners of existing diking districts are hereby given the right, power and authority to institute all proceedings and to take all necessary steps to secure the benefits of the provisions of this act, and all proceedings to secure the benefits thereof and all judgments to be rendered in such proceedings, including the filing of transcripts and the making of levies, and all other proceedings, shall be in addition to proceedings, assessments or levies, theretofore made in any prior proceedings. [L. '07, p. 177, § 3.]

The proceeds of such sales are to be used for the benefits of such diking district in the payment of any expenses connected with the construction of such dikes or maintenance thereof: Provided, however, that the commissioners of such diking district may, in their discretion, exchange such abandoned beds and shores for other property needed in the straightening, deepening or widening of such rivers, watercourses or streams; and which exchange may be made upon such terms, conditions and in such areas as in the discretion of such commissioners they may deem advisable and for the best interests of such diking district, without any notice or other formality of proceedings whatever. [L. '07, p. 178, § 4.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 4243, 4253—4256.

See Const., Art. XV, § 1, no right to sell tide lands within harbor areas.

§ 4256. [4101.] County Auditor Authorized to Sign Petition for County.

Whenever the county owns any land situated within the boundaries of a proposed diking district, the county auditor, when so directed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which such lands are situated, is hereby authorized to sign the petition praying for the formation of such diking district for and on behalf and as the act and deed of such county, and when so signed the same shall be considered in determining the question of a majority signature in acreage to the petition for the formation of such district. [L. '07, p. 178, § 5.]

Said board of dike commissioners hereinbefore provided for shall have the exclusive charge of the construction and maintenance of all dikes or dike systems which may be constructed within the said district, and shall be the executive officers thereof, with full power to bind said district by their acts in the performance of their duties, as provided by law. In case of vacancy or vacancies occurring in said board by the death, failure to elect, failure to qualify, resignation or removal of one or more of the members thereof from said district, such vacancy or vacancies shall be filled at once from the freeholders and qualified electors of the county owning land in the district by the judge of the superior court of said county, and said appointee shall serve the unexpired term, or until the next general election or until a successor is elected and qualified: Provided, that in counties where there may be more than one superior judge, the judge eldest in age shall make such appointment. § 4258. [4103.] Diking, Method of Procedure—Estimates—Right of Way.

Whenever it is desired to prosecute the construction of a system of dikes within said district, said district, by and through its board of commissioners, shall file a petition in the superior court of the county in which said district is located, setting forth therein the route over which the same is to be constructed, with a complete description thereof, together with specifications for its construction, with all necessary plats and plans thereof, together with the estimated cost of such proposed improvement, showing therein the names of the land owners whose lands are to be benefited by such proposed improvement; the number of acres owned by each land owner, and the maximum amount of benefits per acre to be derived by each land owner set forth therein from the construction of said proposed improvement, and that the same will be conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, and increase the value of all of said property for purposes of public revenue. Said petition shall further set forth the names of the land owners through whose land the right of way is desired for the construction of said dikes; the amount of land necessary to be taken therefor, and an estimate of the value of said lands so sought to be taken for such right of way, and the damages sustained by any person or corporation interested therein, if any, by reason of such appropriation, irrespective of the benefits to be derived by such land owners by reason of the construction of said system. Such estimate shall be made, respectively, to each person through whose land said right of way is sought to be appropriated. Said petition shall set forth as defendants therein all the persons or corporations to be benefited by said improvement, and all persons or corporations through whose land the right of way is sought to be appropriated, and all persons or corporations having any interest therein, as mortgagee or otherwise, appearing of record, and shall set forth that said proposed system of dikes is necessary for the protection of all the lands from overflow described in said petition, and that all lands sought to be appropriated for said right of way are necessary to be used as a right of way in the construction and maintenance of said improvements; and when the proposed improvement will protect or benefit the whole or any part of any public or corporate road or railroad, so that the traveled track or roadbed thereof will be improved by the construction of said dikes, such fact shall be set forth in said petition, and such public or private corporations owning said road or railroad shall be made parties defendant therein, and the maximum amount of benefits to be derived from such proposed improvement shall be estimated in said petition against said road or railroad. In the preparation of the facts and data to be inserted in said petition and filed therewith for the purpose of presenting the matter to the said superior court, the board of commissioners of said diking district may employ one or more good and competent surveyors and draughtsmen to assist them in compiling data required to be presented to the court with said petition as hereinbefore provided, and such legal assistance as may be necessary, with full power to bind said district for the compensation of such assistants or employees employed by them, and such services shall be taxed as costs in the suit. [L. '95, p. 311, § 10.]

A diking district organized under this act, becomes a legal entity as a public corporation, and its commissioners, under sections 4259, 4277, have discretionary powers which will not be reviewed by the courts in the absence of fraud: Columbia River Timber & Logging Co. v. Commissioners of Diking District No. 2, 108 Wash. 148, 183 Pac. 134.

It cannot be said that the commissioners abused their discretion in employing an attorney for $3,000 to do all the legal work in connection with the construction of an improvement costing $168,000, including the assessment of benefits and damages in eminent domain proceedings: Columbia River Timber & Logging Co. v. Commissioners of Diking District No. 2, 108 Wash. 148, 183 Pac. 134.

§ 4260. [4105.] Summons to Contain, What—Service of.

A summons stating briefly the objects of the petition and containing a description of the land, real estate, premises or property sought to be appropriated, and those which it is claimed will be benefited by such improvement, and stating the court wherein said petition is filed, the date of the filing thereof and when the defendants are required to appear (which shall be ten days, exclusive of the day of service, if served within the county in which the petition is pending, and if in any other county, then twenty days after such service, and if served by publication, then within thirty days from the date of the first publication), shall be served on each and every person named therein as owner, encumbrancer, tenant or otherwise interested therein. Said summons must be subscribed by the commissioners, or their attorney running in the name of the state of Washington and directed to the defendants; and service thereof shall be made by delivering a copy of such summons to each of the persons or parties so named therein, if a resident of the state, or in case of the absence of such person or party from his or her usual place of abode, by leaving a copy of such notice at his or her usual place of abode; or in case of a foreign corporation, at its principal place of business in this state with some person of more than sixteen years of age; in case of domestic corporation said service shall be made upon the president, secretary or other director or trustee of such corporation; in case of minors, on their guardian, or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person who has the care and custody of such minor; in case of idiots, lunatics or insane persons, on their guardian, or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person in whose care or charge they are found. In case the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated, or which it is claimed will be benefited by such improvement, is state, tide, school or county land, the summons shall be served on the auditor of the county in which the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated, or which it is claimed will be benefited, is situated. In all cases where the owner or person claiming an interest in such real or other property is a nonresident of this state, or where the residence of such owner or person is unknown, and an affidavit of one or more of the commissioners of said district shall be filed that such owner or person is a nonresident of this state, or that after diligent inquiry his residence is unknown or cannot be ascertained by such deponent, service may be made by publication thereof in a newspaper published in the county where such lands are situated once a week for three successive weeks; and in case no newspaper is published in such county, then such publication may be had in a newspaper published in the county nearest to the county in which lies the land sought to be appropriated, or which it is claimed will be benefited by said improvement. Such publication shall be deemed service upon each nonresident person or persons whose residence is unknown. Such summons may be served by any competent person over twenty-one years of age. Due proof of service of such summons by affidavit of the person serving the same, or by the printer's affidavit of publication, shall be filed with the clerk of such court before the court shall proceed to hear the matter. Want of service of such notice shall render the subsequent proceedings void as to the person not served; but all persons or parties having been served with summons as herein provided, either by publication or otherwise, shall be bound by the subsequent proceedings. In all cases not otherwise provided for, service of notice, order and other papers in the proceeding authorized by this chapter may be made as the superior court, or the judge thereof, may direct: Provided, that personal service upon any party outside of the state shall be of like effect as service by publication. [L. '95, p. 312, § 11.]

§ 4261. [4106.] Appearance of Defendants—Jury—Verdict—Decree.

Any or all of said defendants may appear jointly or separately, and admit or deny the allegations of said petition, and plead any affirmative matter in defense thereof, at the time and place appointed for hearing said petition, or to which the same may have been adjourned. If the court or judge thereof shall have satisfactory proof that all of the defendants in said action have been duly served with said summons, as above provided, and shall be further satisfied by competent proof that said improvement is practicable, and conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, and will increase the value of said lands for the purpose of public revenue, and that the contemplated use for which the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated is really a public use, and that the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated are required and necessary for the establishment of said improvement, the court or judge thereof shall cause a jury of twelve qualified persons to be impaneled to assess the damages and benefits as herein provided, if in attendance upon his court; and if not, he may, if satisfied that the public interests require the immediate construction of said improvement, direct the sheriff of his county to summon from the citizens of the county in which said petition is filed as many qualified persons as may be necessary in order to form a jury of twelve persons, unless the parties to the proceedings consent to a less number, such number to be not less than three, and such consent shall be entered by the clerk in the minutes of the trial. If necessary to complete the jury in any case, the sheriff, under direction of the court or judge thereof, shall summon as many qualified persons as may be required to complete the jury from the citizens of the county in which the petition is filed. In case a special jury is summoned, the cost thereof shall be taxed as part of the costs in the proceeding, and paid by the district seeking to appropriate said land, the same as other costs in the case; and no person shall be competent as a juror who is a resident of, or land owner in, the district seeking to appropriate said land. The jurors at such trial shall make in each case a separate assessment of damages which shall result to any person, corporation or company, or to the state, by reason of the appropriation and use of such land, real estate, premises or other property for said improvement, and shall ascertain, determine and award the amount of damages to be paid to said owner or owners, respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers and others interested, for the taking or injuriously affecting such land, real estate, premises or other property for the establishment of said improvement; and shall further find the maximum amount of benefits, per acre, to be derived by each of the land owners from the construction of said improvement. And upon a return of the verdict into court, the same shall be recorded as in other cases; whereupon a decree shall be entered in accordance with the verdict so rendered, setting forth all the facts found by the jury, and decreeing that said right of way be appropriated, and directing the commissioners of said drainage [diking] district to draw their warrant on the county treasurer for the amount awarded by the jury to each person, for damages sustained by reason of the establishment of said improvement, payable out of the funds of said diking district. § 4262. [4107.] Assessment of Benefited Lands Formerly Omitted—Procedure—Appeals.

If at any time it shall appear to the board of diking commissioners that any lands within or without said district as originally established are being benefited by the diking system of said district and that said lands are not being assessed for the benefits received, or that any lands within said district are being assessed out of or not in proportion to the benefits which said lands are receiving from the maintenance of the diking system of said district, and said board of diking commissioners shall determine that certain lands, either within or without the boundaries of the district as originally established, should be assessed for the purpose of raising funds for the future maintenance of the diking system of the district, or that the assessments on land already assessed should be equalized by diminishing or increasing the same so that said lands shall be assessed in proportion to the benefits received, said commissioners shall file a petition in the superior court in the original cause, setting forth the facts, describing the lands not previously assessed and the lands the assessments on which should be equalized, stating the estimated amount of benefits per acre being received by each tract of land respectively, giving the name of the owner or reputed owner of each such tract of land, and praying that such original cause be opened for further proceedings for the purpose of subjecting new lands to assessment or equalizing the assessments upon lands already assessed, or both.

Upon the filing of such petition, summons shall issue thereon and be served on the owners of all lands affected, in the same manner as summons is issued and served in original proceedings, as near as may be, and if such new lands lie within the boundaries of any other diking district, said summons shall also be served upon the commissioners of such other diking district.

In case any of the new lands sought to be assessed in said proceeding lie within the boundaries of any other diking district, and the diking commissioners of such other district believe that the maintenance of the dike or dikes of such other district is benefiting lands within the district instituting the proceedings, said diking commissioners of such other districts shall intervene in such proceedings by petition, setting forth the facts, describing the lands in the district instituting the proceeding which they believe are being benefited by the maintenance of the diking system of their district, and praying that the benefits to such lands may be determined and such lands subjected to assessment for the further maintenance of the diking system of their district, to the end that all questions of benefits to lands in the respective districts may be settled and determined in one proceeding, and such petitioners in intervention shall cause summons to be issued upon such petition in intervention and served upon the commissioners of the diking district instituting the proceeding and upon the owners of all lands sought to be affected by such petition in intervention.

In case the owner of any such new lands sought to be assessed in said proceedings shall be maintaining a private dike against salt or fresh water for the benefit of said lands, and shall believe that the maintenance of such private dike is benefiting any lands within or without the district instituting the proceedings, or in case any such new lands sought to be assessed are included within the boundaries of some other diking district and are being assessed for the maintenance of the dikes of such other district, and the owner of such lands believes that the maintenance of the dike or dikes of such other district is benefiting lands included within the district instituting said proceedings, such owner or owners may by answer and cross-petition set forth the facts and pray that at the hearing upon said petition and cross-petition the benefits accruing from the maintenance of the respective dikes may be considered, to the end that a fair and equitable adjustment of the benefits being received by any lands from the maintenance of the various dikes benefiting the same, may be determined for the purpose of fixing the assessments for the future maintenance of such dikes, and may interplead in said proceeding such other diking district in which his lands sought to be assessed in said proceeding are being assessed for the maintenance of the dike or dikes of such other district.

No answer to any petition or petition in intervention shall be required, unless the party served with summons, desires to offset benefits or to ask other affirmative relief, and no default judgment shall be taken for failure to answer any petition or petition in intervention, but the petitioners or petitioners in intervention shall be required to establish the facts alleged by competent evidence.

Upon the issues being made up, or upon the lapse of time within which the parties served are required to appear by any summons, the court shall impanel a jury to hear and determine the matters in issue, and the jury shall determine and assess the benefits, if any, which the respective tracts of land are receiving or will receive from the maintenance of the dike or dikes to be maintained, taking into consideration any and all matters relating to the benefits, if any, received or to be received from any dike, structure or improvement, and to credit, or charge, as the case may be, to each tract so situated as to affect any other tract or tracts, or having improvements or structures thereon or easements granted in connection therewith affecting any other tract or tracts included in such proceedings, and shall specify in their verdict the respective amount of benefits per acre, if any, assessed to each particular tract of land, by legal subdivisions. Upon the return of the verdict of the jury, the court shall enter its judgment in accordance therewith, as supplemental to the original decree, or in case a petition in intervention be filed by the diking commissioners of some other district than that instituting the proceeding, such judgment to be supplemental to all such original decrees, and thereafter, all assessments and levies for the future maintenance of any dike or dikes described in said judgment shall be based upon the respective benefits determined and assessed against the respective tracts of land as specified in said judgment. Every person or corporation feeling himself or itself aggrieved by any such judgment may appeal to the supreme court within thirty days after the entry thereof, and such appeal shall bring before the supreme court the propriety and justness of the verdicts of the jury in respect to the parties to the appeal. No bonds shall be allowed on such appeals. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed as affecting the right of diking districts to consolidation in any manner provided by law. [L. '13, p. 267, § 1. Cf. L. '95, p. 315, § 13; L. '01, p. 226, § 1.]

Under this section, errors going to the validity of the organization of the district or regularity of the proceedings leading up to the judgment of condemnation cannot be considered on appeal from the final judgment: Calispel Diking District v. McLeish, 63 Wash. 331, 115 Pac. 508.

This section is not unconstitutional in that it authorizes the exercise of extra-territorial jurisdiction and enables the taxing of land outside the district which may be within another district, since the charges are measurable only by the benefits resulting to the land charged: State ex rel. Conner v. Superior Court, 81 Wash. 480, 143 Pac. 112.

This section is not unconstitutional as authorizing the diking district to levy taxes on land outside its boundaries, in violation of constitution, article XI, section 12, providing that the legislature shall have no power to impose taxes upon counties, cities, towns, or other municipal corporations, since it is a special tax levied according to the benefits resulting to the land to be charged therewith, and not according to value, as is required in the levying of general taxes; and it is not a violation of legislative power that the tax is imposed by officers in whose election the owners of land have no voice: State ex rel. Conner v. Superior Court, 81 Wash. 480, 143 Pac. 112.

Certiorari, and not appeal, is the proper method of reviewing a judgment in the original proceeding awarding damages or assessing benefits for the appropriation of land for diking purposes, since under this section the only appeal allowed is in case of supplemental proceedings to subject new lands to assessment, the statute providing that judgment therein shall be supplemental to all original decrees, and that any party aggrieved may appeal from "any such judgment": State ex rel. Davis v. Superior Court, 82 Wash. 31, 143 Pac. 168.

§ 4263. [4108.] Proceedings, When may be Dismissed.

In case the damages or amount of compensation for such right of way, together with the estimated cost of the improvement, amount to more than the maximum amount of benefits which will be derived from said improvement, or if said improvement is not practicable, or will not be conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, or will not increase the public revenue, the court shall dismiss such proceedings, and in such case a judgment shall be rendered for the costs of said proceedings against said district, and no further proceedings shall be had or done therein; and upon the payment of the costs, said organization shall be dissolved by decree of said court. [L. '95, p. 315, § 14.]

§ 4264. [4109.] Damages, How Paid.

Any person or corporation claiming to be entitled to any money ordered paid by the court, as provided in this chapter, may apply to the court therefor, and upon furnishing evidence satisfactory to the court that he is entitled to the same, the court shall make an order directing the payment to such claimant of the portion of such money as he or it may be found entitled to; but if, upon application, the court or judge thereof shall decide that the title to the land, real estate or premises specified in the application of such claimant is in such condition as to require that an action be commenced to determine the title of claimants thereto, it shall refuse such order until such action is commenced and the conflicting claims to such land, real estate or premises be determined according to law. [L. '95, p. 315, § 15.]

§ 4265. [4110.] Transcript to Contain, When—Assessments, When Due.

Upon the entry of the judgment upon the verdict of the jury, the clerk of said court shall immediately prepare a transcript, which shall contain a list of the names of all the persons and corporations benefited by said improvement and the amount of benefit derived by each, respectively, and shall duly certify the same, together with a list of the lands benefited by said improvements belonging to each person or corporation, and shall file the same with the auditor of the county, who shall immediately enter the same upon the tax-rolls of his office, as provided by law for the entry of other taxes, against the land of each of the said persons named in said list, together with the amounts thereof, and the same shall be subject to the same interest and penalties in case of delinquency as in case of general taxes, and shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes and subject to the same right of redemption and the lands sold for the collection of said taxes shall be subject to the same right of redemption as in the sale of lands for general taxes: Provided, that said assessment shall not become due and payable except at such time or times and in such amount as may be designated by the board of commissioners of said dike district, which designation shall be made to the county auditor by said board of commissioners of said diking district, by serving a written notice upon the county auditor designating the time and the amount of the assessment, said assessment to be in proportion to benefits, to become due and payable, which amount shall fall due at the time of the falling due of general taxes, and the amount so designated shall be added by the auditor to the general taxes of said person, persons or corporations, according to said notice, upon the assessment-rolls in his said office, and collected therewith: And provided further, that no one call for assessments by said commissioners shall be in an amount to exceed twenty-five per cent of the actual amount necessary to pay the costs of the proceedings, and the establishment of said district and system of dikes and the cost of construction of said work. [L. '95, p. 316, § 16.]

Cited in 81 Wash. 484.

§ 4266. [4111.] Conditional Tax, How Levied.

In the event of the dismissal of said proceedings and the rendition of judgment against said district, as hereinbefore provided, said diking commissioners shall levy a tax upon all of the real estate within said district, taking as a basis the last equalized assessment of said real estate for state and county purposes, sufficient to pay said judgment, and the cost of levying said tax, and shall cause said tax-roll to be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court in which such judgment was rendered. If said tax is not paid within sixty days after the filing of said tax-roll, the court shall, upon the application of any party interested, direct said real estate to be sold in payment of said tax, said sale to be made in the same manner and by the same officer, as is or may be provided by law for the sale of real estate for taxes for general purposes; and the same rate of redemption shall exist as in the sale of real estate for the payment of taxes for general purposes. [L. '95, p. 317, § 17.]

§ 4267. [4112.] Improvements, When Ordered—Contractor's Bond.

After the filing of said certificate said commissioners of such diking district shall proceed at once in the construction of said improvements, and in carrying on said construction or any extension thereof they shall have full charge and management thereof, and shall have the power to employ such assistance as they may deem necessary, and purchase all material that may be necessary in the construction and carrying on of the work of said improvement, and shall have power to let the whole or any portion of said work to any responsible contractor, and shall in such case enter into all necessary agreements with such contractor that may be necessary in the premises: Provided, that in case the whole or any portion of said improvement is let to any contractor, said commissioners shall require such contractor to give a bond in double the amount of the contract price of the whole or of such portion of said work covered by such contract, with two or more good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the board of commissioners of said diking district and running to said district as obligee therein, conditioned for the faithful and accurate performance of said contract by said contractor, his executors, administrators or assigns, according to the terms and conditions of said agreement, and shall cause said contractor to enter into a further and additional bond in the same amount, with two or more good and sufficient sureties to be approved by said board of commissioners of said diking district in the name of said district as obligee therein, conditioned that said contractor, his executors, administrators or assigns, or subcontractor, his executors, administrators or assigns, shall perform the whole or any portion of said work under contract of said original contractor; shall pay or cause to be paid all just claims of all persons performing labor or rendering services in the construction of said work, or furnishing materials, merchandise or provisions of any kind or character used by said contractor or subcontractor, or any employee thereof in the construction of said improvement: Provided further, that no sureties on said last-mentioned bond shall be liable thereon unless the persons or corporations performing said labor and furnishing said materials, goods, wares, merchandise and provisions, shall, within ninety days after the completion of such improvement, file their claim, duly verified, that the amount is just and due and remains unpaid, with the commissioners of said diking district. [L. '95, p. 317, § 18.]

§ 4268. [4113.] Work, When to Begin—Changes, How Made.

The work on said improvement shall begin without delay, and shall be carried on with all expedition possible, and said board of commissioners of said diking district, or any contractor thereunder, shall have no power whatever to change the location of the dikes or the system of improvement or the manner of doing the work therein so as to make any radical changes in said improvement, without the written consent of all the land owners to be benefited thereby, and the land owners which may be damaged thereby. And in case any substantial changes in said system of improvement or the manner of the construction thereof shall be deemed necessary by said board of commissioners at any time during the progress thereof, and if the written consent to such changes cannot be procured from said land owners, then said commissioners, for and on behalf of said district, shall file a petition in the superior court of the county within which said district is located, setting forth therein the changes which they deem necessary to be made in the plans or manner of the construction of said improvement, and praying therein to be permitted to make such changes, and upon the filing thereof, the commissioners [clerk] shall cause a summons to be served, setting forth the prayer of said petition, under the seal of said court, which summons shall be served in the same manner as the service of summons in the case of the original petition, upon all the land owners or others claiming any lien thereon or interest therein appearing of record in said district, and any or all of such parties so served may appear in said cause and submit their objections thereto, and after the time for the appearance of said parties has expired, the court shall proceed to hear said petition at once without further delay, and if it appears during the course of such proceedings that the property rights of any of said land owners will be affected by such proposed change in said improvement, then the court, after having passed upon all preliminary questions as in the original proceedings, shall cause a jury to be impaneled as in the case of the original proceedings for the establishment of said improvement, and upon the final hearing of said cause the jury shall return a verdict finding the amount of damages, if any, sustained by all persons and corporations the same as upon the original petition, by reason of such proposed change, and the amount of compensation to be paid to any persons or corporations therefor, and for any additional right of way that may be necessary to be appropriated by reason of said proposed change, and shall readjust the amount of benefits claimed to have been increased or diminished by any of said land owners by reason of such proposed change in said improvement, and the proceedings thereafter shall be the same as to rendering judgment, appeal therefrom, payment of compensation and damages, and filing of the certificate with the auditor, as hereinbefore provided for in the proceedings under the original petition, and said commissioners shall have a right thereafter to proceed with the construction of said improvement according to the changes made therein. [L. '95, p. 318, § 19.]

There is no sufficient evidence of fraud or arbitrary action by commissioners of a diking district to warrant interference by the courts, where it merely appears that there was a difference of opinion as to the necessity for the more elaborate improvements decided upon by the commissioners and increasing the cost, and a conflict in the evidence: Columbia River Timber & Logging Co. v. Commissioners of Diking District No. 2, 108 Wash. 148, 183 Pac. 134.

§ 4269. [4114.] Contractors, When Paid.

During the construction of said improvement said commissioners shall have the right to allow payment thereof, in installments as the work progresses, in proportion to the amount of work completed: Provided, that no allowance or payment shall be made for said work to any contractor or subcontractor to exceed seventy-five per cent of the proportionate amount of the work completed by such contractor or subcontractor, and twenty-five per cent of the contract price shall be reserved at all times by said board of commissioners until such work is wholly completed, and shall not be paid upon the completion of said work until ninety days have expired for the presentation of all claims for labor performed and materials, goods, wares, merchandise and provisions furnished or used in the construction of said improvement; and upon the completion of said work and the payment of all claims hereinbefore provided for, according to the terms and conditions of said contract, said commissioners shall accept said improvement and pay the contract price therefor. [L. '95, p. 320, § 20.]

§ 4270. [4115.] Private Dikes, How Connected—Additional Plans—Costs.

In case any diking district organized under the provisions of this chapter desires to connect its system of dikes with the system of dikes of any other district theretofore organized or constructed, said last-mentioned diking district shall be made a party defendant in the proceedings in the superior court for the establishment of the improvement proposed to be constructed by such first-mentioned diking district, and the petition to be filed in said court, in addition to the facts to be set forth therein as hereinbefore provided for, shall set forth the further fact that said district is desirous of connecting its said system of dikes with the system of such other diking district, and shall set forth an estimate of the additional cost per annum, if any, for the future maintenance of the diking system so sought to be connected with, and also an estimate of the cost of any additional improvement in said system so sought to be connected with, if any, by reason of such connection, and shall also set forth the amount of compensation which should be made by said diking district for the privilege of connecting with the said system of dikes: and in case it shall be deemed necessary to enlarge or strengthen the system of dikes to be connected with by reason of such connection, there shall be filed with said petition, in addition to the plans, specifications and data hereinbefore provided to be filed, plans and specifications and the estimated cost of the proposed improvement to be made in the system sought to be connected with by reason of such connection, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as in other cases for the establishment of diking districts under the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that the jury shall, in addition to the other findings provided for in other cases under the provisions of this chapter, find the amount of compensation to be paid said district with whose system connection is sought to be made, for any additional cost, if any, which may be thrown upon said district by reason of the increased cost of maintenance by reason of such connection, and shall estimate the amount of such increased cost of maintenance per annum, and also the amount of compensation to be made to said district for the privilege of joining on to its system of dikes; the compensation to be made for the increased cost of maintenance shall be paid per annum out of the revenue derived from the assessments to be levied as in other cases, and the compensation to be made as may be found by the jury to said district whose system is sought to be connected with for the privilege thereof, shall be paid such district as damages are paid in other cases under the provisions of this act; and all amounts so paid to said district sought to be connected with as compensation for the cost of maintenance, shall be used as an additional fund for the maintenance of said diking system of such district, and the amount of compensation paid for the privilege of connecting with the system of such district shall also be added to the general fund of said district, to be used for the payment of the cost of maintenance of the system of such district sought to be connected with. [L. '95, p. 320, § 21.]

§ 4271. [4116.] Enlarging Dikes, Costs of.

In case it shall be found necessary to enlarge or strengthen the system of dikes sought to be connected with, by reason of such connection, the jury shall determine the cost of such enlarging or strengthening, and said petitioner district shall have the right, by and through its representatives, assistants and employees, to make such improvement on the system of such other district as may have been found necessary upon the hearing of said petition, and the costs thereof shall be assessed against the land owners of said petitioner district to be benefited by the construction of said entire system, and no additional cost or burden, by reason of such improvement, shall be thrown upon the land owners of said district sought to be connected with. [L. '95, p. 321, § 22.]

§ 4272. [4117.] Dikes, Protection Against Injury from Rivers.

Where any diking system is sought to be constructed by any district organized under the provisions of this chapter along any river or watercourse to prevent overflow therefrom, and it shall become necessary to provide against the washing away of the banks of said river or watercourse so as to prevent injury to such proposed diking system, or any system which may have already been completed, such district, by and through its boards of commissioners, may make such portions of lands lying along said dikes which are threatened to be washed away by said river or watercourse part of the right of way of said dike system, and may construct along the banks of said river or watercourse, as a part of said diking system, such protection as may be necessary to protect said dike, and in such cases such tract or parcel of land may be condemned and appropriated under the law of eminent domain as provided herein as a part of the right of way of such dike system; and when not condemned or appropriated at the time said system is established and constructed, said diking district, by and through its board of commissioners, may, at any time thereafter, when any portion of said system is threatened to be washed away by such river or watercourse, file their petition with the court condemning and appropriating for the use of said district so much of the land lying along said river or watercourse as may be necessary to be used for the protection of said diking system, and the proceedings therein for the making of compensation therefor and the payment of damages by reason of such appropriation shall be the same, or as near as may be applicable, as other proceedings, for the condemnation of right of way provided for in this chapter. [L. '95, p. 322, § 23.]

§ 4273. [4118.] Condemnation — Appropriation of Banks — Cost, How Paid.

Whenever any land is appropriated along the bank of any river or watercourse, as provided for in the last preceding section, the expenses of such appropriation, including the costs and damages to be paid therefor—when such appropriation is taken subsequently to the construction of any system of dikes under the provisions of this chapter—shall be added to the annual cost of the maintenance of said system and be paid as such, as provided herein. [L. '95, p. 323, § 24.]

§ 4274. [4119.] Public Highways—Construction on.

In the construction of any diking system under the provisions of this chapter, where it is desired to construct the same along the right of way of any public road which has theretofore been legally established, said district shall have a right to construct its dikes along such road: Provided, that the dikes so constructed along such road shall not destroy or impair the same for the use of the public convenience as a public highway; and in case of the construction or improvement of any dike along any public highway, such dike shall be constructed of sufficient width and in such manner as will be conducive to the public as a public highway. [L. '95, p. 323, § 25.]

§ 4275. [4120.] Incorporated Towns may be Included.

Any town or city already incorporated, or which may hereafter be incorporated, may exercise the functions of a diking district under the provisions of this chapter, or the whole or any portion of any such town or city may be included with other territory in a common district under the provisions for the establishment thereof as provided for herein. [L. '95, p. 323, § 26.]

§ 4276. [4121.] Maintenance, Cost of to be Certified to County Auditor.

The board of commissioners of any diking district organized under the provisions of this act shall, on or before the first day of November of each year, make an estimate of the cost of maintenance of the diking system in such district, which estimate shall include the cost of making any necessary repairs that it might become necessary to make in the maintenance of such system. Such estimate shall be for the succeeding year, and the amount so estimated shall be certified by the board of — commissioners to the auditor of the county in which such district is located, on or before said date, and the amount thereof shall be levied against and apportioned to the land in such district benefited by said improvement, in proportion to the maximum benefit originally assessed, and such amount shall be added to the general taxes against said lands and collected therewith: Provided, however, that in case of emergency not in contemplation at the time of making such annual estimate the diking commissioners may incur additional obligations and issue valid warrants therefor in excess of such estimate, and all such warrants so issued shall be valid and legal obligations of such district; and all warrants heretofore issued for such purposes under the provisions of this act, are hereby declared to be valid and legal obligations of the district so issuing the same. [L. '13, p. 271, § 2. Cf. L. '95, p. 323, § 27; L. '05, p. 179, § 2.]

§ 4277. [4122.] Organization of Board—Warrants, How Issued.

The board of commissioners of such district shall elect one of their number chairman and one secretary, and shall keep minutes of all their meetings, and may issue warrants of such district in payment of all claims of indebtedness against such district. Such warrants shall be in form and substance the same as county warrants, or as near the same as may be practicable and shall draw the legal rate of interest from the date of their presentation to the treasurer for payment, as hereinafter provided, and shall be signed by the chairman and attested by the secretary of said board: Provided, that no warrants shall be issued by said board of commissioners in payment of any indebtedness of such district for less than the face or par value. When such petition is presented for hearing the board of county commissioners shall hear the same, or may adjourn said hearing from time to time, not exceeding one month in all; and any person or corporation may appear before said board of county commissioners and make objections to the establishment of said district, or the proposed boundary lines thereof, and upon final hearing said board of county commissioners shall make such changes in the proposed boundaries as they may deem to be proper, and shall establish and define such boundaries, and shall ascertain and determine the number of acres of land that will be benefited by said proposed drainage system, the number of freeholders residing within said boundaries of the said proposed district, and shall find whether the proposed drainage system will be conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, increase the public revenue, and be of special benefit to the majority of the lands included within said boundaries of the said proposed district so established by said board of county commissioners: Provided, that no changes shall be made by said board of county commissioners in said boundary lines so as to include any territory outside of the boundaries described in said petition: Provided, further, that any person or persons owning land within the proposed boundaries, and who did not sign said petition, or any person, persons or corporations owning land not included within the proposed boundaries, may file a petition with the board of county commissioners asking that the proposed boundaries be extended so as to include other lands described therein; setting forth in said petition the reasons therefor: Provided, however, that no person, persons or corporations not owning lands included within the proposed boundaries, as originally petitioned for, shall have the right to file such petition unless they ask therein to have their own lands included within the proposed boundaries: Provided, further, that any corporation owning land included within the boundaries described in the original petition, may also petition the board of county commissioners for an extension of the proposed boundaries: Provided, further, that the boundaries of any drainage district heretofore or hereafter established may be extended by the board of county commissioners so as to include other lands in said county upon petition signed by the owners of a majority of the acreage of said land within the proposed extension; which said petition for extension shall set forth and contain with reference to the extension such matters and things and data so far as applicable, as is provided for in the petition required for presentation to the board of county commissioners for the purpose of the formation of the original drainage district: Provided, further, that all necessary expense incident to making such extension, together with a proportionate share of the first cost of any drainage system existing in the original district at the time of making such extensions, shall be levied against and apportioned to the lands included in such extension, as in this chapter provided. In such case the board of county commissioners shall give the like notice as provided for in this section of the hearing of the original petition, and the final hearing thereof may, in such case, be continued from time to time for a period not exceeding sixty days, and if upon final hearing the board of county commissioners deem it advisable, and to the best interest of all concerned, they may grant the prayer of such petitioner or petitioners in whole or in part. And said board of county commissioners of such county shall enter an order on the records of their office setting forth all facts found by them upon the final hearing of said petition, and which may be adduced by them from the evidence heard on the final hearing thereof: And provided, further, that any drainage system constructed in the original drainage district may be extended into the said extension by the board of drainage commissioners of said drainage district, in the same manner, and by the same method of procedure as is provided by law for the construction of said drainage system within the said original drainage district. A general election for the election of a board of drainage commissioners of such district shall be held upon the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March, 1922, and annually thereafter. The term of office of commissioners shall be for three years and until their successors are elected and qualified, but of the commissioners elected at the first election held under the provisions of this act the commissioner receiving the highest number of votes shall hold office for three years. The commissioner receiving the second highest number of votes shall hold office for two years, and the commissioner receiving the third highest number of votes shall hold office for one year. The term of office shall begin on the first Monday of the following April, and such election shall be held in accordance with the general election laws of the state of Washington for the election of county and state officers, and the expenses thereof shall be defrayed by said district, and the judges, clerks and inspectors of said election shall each receive as compensation for the services rendered at such election the sum of two dollars per day: Provided, that at least thirty days' notice immediately preceding any such general election shall be given thereof by the board of commissioners of such drainage district, by posting the same in four public places within said district. Said notice shall contain the names of two electors of said district as judges of said election and the name of one elector of said district as inspector thereof, the same to be chosen by said board of commissioners. Said board of commissioners shall be a canvassing board to canvass the vote of each election, and they shall meet the day following such election and canvass said votes and declare the result thereof and issue certificates of election. § 4304. Additional Powers of District.

That whenever it shall appear to the board of commissioners of any drainage district now organized or that may be hereafter organized under the laws of the state of Washington, that existing drainage systems or improvements are inadequate or insufficient to properly drain the lands within said district or any portion or portions thereof, such commissioners shall have the power and they are hereby authorized to construct such additional system or systems or to extend, add to, or enlarge any existing system as in their judgment is necessary. In such event the procedure for the establishment of such additional system or extension of existing system and the manner and method of the payment of the cost of construction and maintenance of the same by the assessment of the lands particularly benefited thereby, as well as the obtaining of necessary rights of way shall be the same as that provided by existing laws for the establishment of the original drainage system within said district. In the exercise of any of the powers herein granted it shall be immaterial whether the outlet of any of the ditches, drains, or other necessary structures or appliances are to be located within or without the boundaries of said district. This section is intended to grant supplemental and additional powers to such drainage districts and shall not be construed to limit or repeal any existing powers of such districts, nor to repeal any existing laws relating thereto. [L. '19, p. 525, § 1.]

§ 4305. [4143.*] Eminent Domain.

All drainage districts organized or that may hereafter be organized under the provisions of this chapter or the acts amendatory thereof shall have the right of eminent domain, with the power by and through its board of commissioners, to cause to be condemned and appropriated private property for the use of said corporation in the construction and maintenance of a system or systems of drainage, and make just compensation therefor, and such right of eminent domain may be exercised either within or without the boundaries of such districts, and may be exercised with respect to rights of way for ditches, drains, dams, outlets or any other necessary appliances or structures and whether for the original system or any additions, enlargements or extensions thereof or for additional outlets or systems of drainage: Provided, that the property of private corporations may be subjected to the same rights of eminent domain as that of private individuals: Provided, further, that the said board of commissioners shall have the power to acquire by purchase all the real property necessary to make the improvements herein provided for. [L. '19, p. 526, § 2; L. '95, p. 277, § 7.]

The drainage law (L. '90, p. 652) is unconstitutional, as it provides for the taking of private property without just compensation; and cannot be upheld as an exercise of police power for the abatement of a nuisance, when the act does not declare the nuisance to be in such imminent danger to the public welfare as to require the private property of others than those maintaining the nuisance to be taken without compensation: Askham v. King County, 9 Wash. 1, 36 Pac. 1097; see Peterson v. Smith, 6 Wash. 163, 32 Pac. 1050.

That portion of said act providing for taking land for right of way for ditches being unconstitutional, the whole act falls with it: Skagit County v. Stiles, 10 Wash. 388, 39 Pac. 116.

Right of Way and Other Interests in Land: Skagit County v. Stiles, 10 Wash. 388, 39 Pac. 116; Skagit County v. McLean, 20 Wash. 92, 54 Pac. 781; Bice v. Brown, 98 Wash. 416, 167 Pac. 1097.

A drainage district has the power to condemn a right of way outside of the district for the purpose of an outlet for the main ditch, under this section, and § 4299, supra: State ex rel. Hardesty v. Superior Court, 82 Wash. 497, 144 Pac. 708.

§ 4306. [4144.] Commissioners, Duties of.

Said board of drainage commissioners hereinbefore provided for, shall have exclusive charge of the construction and maintenance of all drainage systems which may be constructed by said district and shall be the executive officers thereof, with full power to bind said district by their acts in the performance of their duties as provided by law. In case of vacancy or vacancies occurring in said board by the death, failure to elect, failure to qualify, resignation or removal of one or more of the members thereof from said district such vacancy or vacancies shall be filled at once from the freeholders and qualified electors of said district by the judge of the superior court of said county, and said appointee shall serve the unexpired term or until the next general election: Provided, that in counties where there may be more than one superior judge, the judge eldest in age shall make such appointment. [L. '13, p. 264, § 3; L. '95, p. 277, § 8.]

§ 4307. [4145.] Drainage—Method of Procedure.

Whenever it is desired to prosecute the construction of a system of drainage by said drainage district, said district, by and through its board of commissioners, shall file a petition in the superior court of the county in which said district is located, setting forth therein the route and termini of said system, with a complete description thereof, together with specifications for its construction, with all necessary plats and plans thereof, with drafts of any artificial appliances or equipment necessary in aid thereof together with the estimated cost of such proposed improvement, showing therein the names of the land owners whose lands are to be benefited by such proposed improvement; the number of acres owned by each land owner, and the maximum amount of benefits per acre to be derived by each land owner set forth therein from the construction of said proposed improvement, and that the same will be conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, and increase the value of all of said property for purposes of public revenue. Said petition shall further set forth the names of the land owners through whose land the right of way is desired for said improvement; the amount of land necessary to be taken therefor, and an estimate of the value of said lands so sought to be taken for such right of way, and the damages sustained by any person or corporation interested therein, if any, by reason of such appropriation, irrespective of any benefits to be derived by such land owners by reason of the construction of said improvement. Such estimate shall be made, respectively, to each person through whose land said right of way is sought to be appropriated. Said petition shall set forth as defendants therein all the persons or corporations to be benefited by said improvement, and all persons or corporations through whose land the right of way is sought to be appropriated, and all persons or corporations having any interest therein, as mortgagee or otherwise, appearing of record, and shall set forth that said proposed system of drainage is necessary to drain all of said lands described in said petition, and that all lands sought to be appropriated for said right of way are necessary to be used as a right of way in the construction and maintenance of said improvement; and when the proposed improvement will protect or benefit the whole or any part of any public or corporate road or railroad, so that the traveled track or roadbed thereof will be improved by its construction, such fact shall be set forth in said petition, and such public or private corporations owning said road or railroad shall be made parties defendant therein, and the maximum amount of benefits to be derived from said proposed improvement shall be estimated in said petition against said road or railroad: Provided, however, that all maps, plats, field-notes, surveys, plans, specifications, or other data heretofore made, ascertained or prepared under laws heretofore enacted on the subject of this chapter, may be used under the provisions of this chapter. In condemnation for an irrigation ditch, the quantity of land required is sufficiently stated in the petition when the route is definitely described and the dimensions of the ditch stated: Fulton v. Methow Trading Co., 45 Wash. 136, 88 Pac. 17.

§ 4308. [4146.] Surveyors and Draftsmen.

In the preparation of the facts and data to be inserted in said petition and filed therewith for the purpose of presenting the matter to the superior court, the board of commissioners of said drainage district may employ one or more good and competent surveyors and draftsmen to assist them in compiling data required to be presented to the court with said petition, as hereinbefore provided, and such legal assistance as may be necessary, with full power to bind said district for the compensation of such assistants or employees employed by them, and such services shall be taxed as costs in the suit. [L. '95, p. 279, § 10.]

§ 4309. [4147.] Summons—How Served.

A summons stating briefly the objects of the petition and containing a description of the land, real estate, premises or property sought to be appropriated, and those which it is claimed to be benefited by such improvement, and stating the court wherein said petition is filed, the date of the filing thereof and when the defendants are required to appear (which shall be ten days, exclusive of the day of service, if served within the county in which the petition is pending, and if in any other county, then twenty days after such service, and if served by publication, then within thirty days from the date of the first publication), shall be served on each and every person named therein as owners, encumbrancer, tenant or otherwise interested therein. Said summons must be subscribed by the commissioners, or their attorney, running in the name of the state of Washington and directed to the defendants; and service thereof shall be made by delivering a copy of such summons to each of the persons or parties so named therein, if a resident of the state, or in case of the absence of such person or party from his or her usual place of abode, by leaving a copy of such notice at his or her usual place of abode, or in case of a foreign corporation, at its principal place of business in this state with some person of more than sixteen years of age; in case of domestic corporations, said service shall be made upon the president, secretary or other director or trustee of such corporation; in case of minors, on their guardians; or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person who has the care and custody of such minor; in case of idiots, lunatics or insane persons, on their guardian; or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person in whose care or charge they are found. In case the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated, or which it is claimed will be benefited by such improvement, is state, tide, school or county land, the summons shall be served on the auditor of the county in which the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated, or which it is claimed will be benefited, is situated. In all cases where the owner or person claiming an interest in such real or other property is a nonresident of this state, or where the residence of such owner or person is unknown, and an affidavit of one or more of the commissioners of said district shall be filed that such owner or person is a nonresident of this state, or that after diligent inquiry his residence is unknown or cannot be ascertained by such deponent, service may be made by publication thereof in a newspaper published in the county where such lands are situated, once a week for three successive weeks; and in case no newspaper is published in such county, then such publication may be had in a newspaper published in the county nearest to the county in which lies the land sought to be appropriated, or which it is claimed will be benefited by said improvement. Such publication shall be deemed service upon each nonresident person or persons whose residence is unknown. Such summons may be served by any competent person over twenty-one years of age. Due proof of service of such summons by affidavit of publication shall be filed with the clerk of such court before the court shall proceed to hear the matter. Want of service of such notice shall render the subsequent proceedings void as to the person not served; but all persons or parties having been served with summons as herein provided, either by publication or otherwise, shall be bound by the subsequent proceedings. In all cases not otherwise provided for service of notice, order and other papers in the proceedings authorized by this chapter may be made as the superior court, or the judge thereof, may direct: Provided, that personal service upon any party outside of the state shall be of like effect as service by publication. [L. '95, p. 279, § 11.]

§ 4310. [4148.] Appearance — Jury—Verdict — Assessment of Damages and Benefits—Decree.

Any or all of said defendants may appear jointly or separately and admit or deny the allegations of said petition and plead any affirmative matter in defense thereof at the time and place appointed for hearing said petition, or to which the same may have been adjourned. If the court or judge thereof shall have satisfactory proof that all of the defendants in said action have been duly served with said summons, as above provided, and shall be further satisfied by competent proof that said improvement is practicable and conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, and will increase the value of said lands for the purpose of public revenue, and that the contemplated use for which the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated is really a public use, and that the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated are required and necessary for the establishment of said improvement, and that said improvement has a good and sufficient outlet, the court or judge thereof shall cause a jury of twelve qualified persons to be impaneled to assess the damages and benefits, as herein provided, if in attendance upon his court; and if not he may, if satisfied that the public interests require the immediate construction of said improvement, direct the sheriff of his county to summons from the citizens of the county in which petition is filed as many qualified persons as may be necessary in order to form a jury of twelve persons, unless the parties to the proceedings consent to a less number, such number to be not less than three, and such consent shall be entered by the clerk in the minutes of the trial. If necessary, to complete the jury in any case, the sheriff, under the directions of the court or the judge thereof shall summon as many qualified persons as [may] be required to complete the jury from the citizens of the county in which the petition is filed. In case a special jury is summoned the cost thereof shall be taxed as part of the cost in the proceedings and paid by the district seeking to appropriate said land, the same as other costs in the case; and no person shall be competent as a juror who is a resident of, or land owner in, the district seeking to appropriate said land. The jurors at such trial shall make in each case a separate assessment of damages which shall result to any person, corporation or company, or to the state, by reason of the appropriation and use of such land, real estate, premises or other property for said improvements and shall ascertain, determine and award the amount of damages to be paid to said owner or owners, respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers and others interested, for the taking or injuriously affecting such land, real estate, premises or other property for the establishment of said improvement; and shall further find a maximum amount of benefits per acre to be derived by each of the land owners, and also the maximum amount of benefits resulting to any municipality, public highway, corporate road, or district from construction of said improvement. And upon a return of the verdict into court the same shall be reported as in other cases; whereupon, a decree shall be entered in accordance with the verdict so rendered setting forth all the facts found by the jury, and decreeing that said right of way be appropriated, and directing the commissioners of said drainage district to draw their warrant on the county treasurer for the amount awarded by the jury to each person for damages sustained by reason of the establishment of said improvement, payable out of the funds of said drainage district. [L. '95, p. 281, §12; L. '09, p. 564, § 2.]

This section is not unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative authority; since the court does not originate or devise the system or plan but simply approves those proposed by the county commissioners: State ex rel. Matson v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 491, 85 Pac. 264.

The failure of ditch commissioners to qualify by filing a bond in the required amount, does not invalidate an assessment made by them as de facto officers: State ex rel. Matson v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 491, 85 Pac. 264.

Benefit to Property: See Remington's Digest, Drains, § 16-1; State ex rel. Espy Estate Co. v. Board of Commrs. Pacific

County, 48 Wash. 230, 93 Pac. 326; Oregon-Wash. R. & Nav. Co. v. Commissioners of Yakima County, 103 Wash. 480, 175 Pac. 37.

The finding of the jury as to the maximum benefits is conclusive that the property was not benefited to a greater extent; and a judgment showing that the full amount of the original assessment was collected is res adjudicata and a bar to a proceeding for a supplemental assessment to cover a deficiency, the improvement having cost more than the original estimate, and more than the amount of the award of the jury: Poolman v. Langdon, 94 Wash. 448, 162 Pac. 578.

§ 4311. [4149.*] Omitted Lands—Petition — Summons — Parties — Jury Trial—Appeals.

If at any time it shall appear to the board of drainage commissioners that any lands within or without said district as originally established are being benefited by the drainage system of said district and that said lands are not being assessed for the benefits received, or if after the construction of any drainage system, it appears that lands embraced therein have in fact received or are receiving benefits different from those found in the original proceedings, and which could not reasonably have been foreseen before the final completion of the improvement, or that any lands within said district are being assessed out of or not in proportion to the benefits which said lands are receiving from the maintenance of the drainage system of said district, and said board of drainage commissioners shall determine that certain lands, either within or without the boundaries of the district as originally established, should be assessed for the purpose of raising funds for the future maintenance of drainage system of the district, or that the assessments on land already assessed should be equalized by diminishing or increasing the same so that said lands shall be assessed in proportion to the benefits received, said commissioners shall file a petition in the superior court in the original cause, setting forth the facts, describing the lands not previously assessed and the lands the assessment on which should be equalized, stating the estimated amount of benefits per acre being received by each tract of land respectively, giving the name of the owner or reputed owner of each such tract of land and praying that such original cause be opened for further proceedings for the purpose of subjecting new lands to assessments or equalizing the assessments upon lands already assessed, or both. Upon the filing of such petition, summons shall issue thereon and be served on the owners of all lands affected, in the same manner as summons is issued and served in original proceedings, as near as may be, and if such new lands lie within the boundaries of any other drainage district, said summons shall also be served upon the commissioners of such other drainage district. In case any of the new lands sought to be assessed in said proceeding lie within the boundaries of any other drainage district, and the drainage commissioners of such other district believe that the maintenance of the drain or drains of such other district is benefiting lands within the district instituting the proceeding, said drainage commissioners of such other districts shall intervene in such proceedings by petition, setting forth the facts, describing the lands in the district instituting the proceeding which they believe are being benefited by the maintenance of the drainage system of their district, and praying that the benefits to such lands may be determined and such lands subjected to assessment for the further maintenance of the drainage system of their district, to the end that all questions of benefits to lands in the respective districts may be settled and determined in one proceeding, and such petitioners in intervention shall cause summons to be issued upon such petition in intervention and served upon the commissioners of the drainage district instituting the proceeding and upon the owners of all lands sought to be affected by such petition in intervention. In case the owner of any such new lands sought to be assessed in said proceedings shall be maintaining a private drain against salt or fresh water for the benefit of said lands, and shall believe that the maintenance of such private drain is benefiting any lands within or without the district instituting the proceedings, or in case any such new lands sought to be assessed are included within the boundaries of some other drainage district and are being assessed for the maintenance of the drains of such other district, and the owner of such lands believes that the maintenance of the drain or drains of such other district is benefiting lands included within the district instituting said proceedings, such owner or owners may by answer and cross-petition set forth the facts and pray that at the hearing upon said petition and cross-petition the benefits accruing from the maintenance of the respective drains may be considered, to the end that a fair and equitable adjustment of the benefits being received by any lands from the maintenance of the various drains benefiting the same, may be determined for the purpose of fixing the assessments for the future maintenance of such drains, and may interplead in said proceeding such other drainage district in which his lands sought to be assessed in said proceeding are being assessed for the maintenance of the drain or drains of such other district. No answer to any petition or petition in intervention shall be required, unless the party served with summons desires to offset benefits or to ask other affirmative relief, and no default judgment shall be taken for failure to answer any petition or petition in intervention, but the petitioners or petitioners in intervention shall be required to establish the facts alleged by competent evidence. Upon the issues being made up, or upon the lapse of time within which the parties served are required to appear by any summons, the court shall impanel a jury to hear and determine the matters in issue, and the jury shall determine and assess the benefits, if any, which the respective tracts of lands are receiving or will receive from the maintenance of the drain or drains to be maintained, taking into consideration any and all matters relating to the benefits, if any, received or to be received from any drain, structure or improvement, and to credit or charge, as the case may be, to each tract so situated as to affect any other tract or tracts, or having improvements or structures thereon or easements granted in connection therewith, affecting any other tract or tracts included in such proceedings, and shall specify in their verdict the respective amount of benefits per acre, if any, assessed to each particular tract of land, by legal subdivisions. Upon the return of the verdict of the jury, the court shall enter its judgment in accordance therewith, as supplemental to the original decree, or in case a petition in intervention be filed by the drainage commissioners of some other district than that instituting the proceeding, such judgment to be supplemental to all such original decrees, and thereafter, all assessments and levies for the cost of construction or future maintenance of any drain or drains described in said judgment shall be based upon the respective benefits determined and assessed against the respective tracts of land as specified in said judgment. Every person or corporation feeling himself or itself aggrieved by any such judgment may appeal to the supreme court within thirty (30) days after the entry thereof, and such appeal shall bring before the supreme court the propriety and justness of the verdicts of the jury in respect to the parties to the appeal. No bonds shall be required on such appeals. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed as affecting the right of drainage districts to consolidation in any manner provided by law. [L. '17, p. 564, § 1; L. '95, p. 282, § 13; L. '01, p. 181, § 1.]

Certiorari will not lie to review errors of the trial court in assessing damages and benefits to lands by reason of the construction of a drainage system, since this section provides a review of all errors by appeal: State ex rel. Nelson v. Superior Court, 31 Wash. 32, 71 Pac. 601.

Collateral Attack on Proceedings: See Remington's Digest, Drains, § 10; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Pierce County, 51

Wash. 12, 97 Pac. 1099, 23 L. R. A. (N. S.) 286; State ex rel. O'Phelan v. Lundquist, 103 Wash. 339, 174 Pac. 440.

Where no objections were made or appeal taken from an order finding the plan impracticable and assessing costs against the district, all objections to the legality of the district are waived. State ex rel. O'Phelan v. Lundquist, 103 Wash. 339, 174 Pac. 440.

§ 4312. [4150.] Proceedings, When may be Dismissed.

In case the damages or amount of compensation for such right of way, together with the estimated costs of the improvement, amount to more than the maximum amount of benefits which will be derived from said improvement, or, if said improvement is not practicable, or will not be conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, or will not increase the public revenue, or will not have sufficient outlet, the court shall dismiss such proceedings, and in such case a judgment shall be rendered for the costs of said proceedings against said district, and no further proceedings shall be had or done therein; and upon the payment of the costs, said organization shall be dissolved by decree of said court. R. Co. v. Pierce County, 51 Wash. 12, 97 Pac. 1099, 23 L. R. A. (N. S.) 286.

§ 4313. [4151.] Damages, How Paid.

Any person or corporation claiming to be entitled to any money ordered paid by the court, as provided in this chapter, may apply to the court therefor, and upon furnishing evidence satisfactory to the court that he is entitled to the same, the court shall make an order directing the payment to such claimant of the portion of such money as he or it may be found entitled to; but if, upon application, the court or judge thereof shall decide that the title to the land, real estate or premises specified in the application of such claimant is in such condition as to require that an action be commenced to determine the title of claimants thereto, it shall refuse such order until such action is commenced and the conflicting claims to such land, real estate or premises be determined according to law. [L. '95, p. 283, § 15.]

§ 4314. [4153.] Certifying Benefits Assessed to Road District—Payment of Judgment.

Whenever, upon the trial to fix and assess the benefits and damages resulting from the construction of any diking or drainage system under the laws of this state, the jury shall find by its verdict that any public or county road will be benefited from the construction of such improvement, the clerk of the court in which such trial is had shall, upon the entry of the judgment upon such verdict, certify to the board of county commissioners of the county in which such road is situated the amount of benefits to such road so found and adjourned. The said county commissioners shall, upon the receipt of such certified statement, allow the same as for other road work and shall order the amount thereof to be paid out of the road and bridge fund of the road district in which the road so benefited is situated, and shall direct the auditor of said county to issue a warrant for the amount of such benefits against the road and bridge fund of such road district in favor of the county treasurer of said county. The said county treasurer shall, upon the payment of said warrant, place the proceeds therefrom to the credit of the drainage or diking district from which such benefits resulted. [L. '09, p. 690, § 1.]

§ 4315. [4154.] Additional Assessments and Maintenance.

Any additional assessments for the construction of any diking or drainage system, and also all assessments for the maintenance of same shall be based upon the benefits so found and adjudged and the proportion of benefits resulting to such public or county road therefrom, on such basis, shall be allowed and paid for by such county in the same manner as in the case of the original construction. [L. '09, p. 691, § 2.]

See note to last section.

§ 4316. [4155.] Transcript, to Contain What—Assessments, When Due.

Upon the entry of the judgment upon the verdict of the jury the clerk of said court shall immediately prepare a transcript, which shall contain a list of the names of all the persons and corporations benefited by said improvement and the amount of benefit derived by each, respectively, and shall duly certify the same, together with a list of the lands benefited by said improvement belonging to each person and corporation, and shall file the same with the auditor of the county, who shall immediately enter the same upon the tax-rolls of his office, as provided by law for the entry of other taxes, against the land of each of the said persons named in said list, together with the amounts thereof, and the same shall be subject to the same interest and penalties in case of delinquency as in case of general taxes, and shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes and subject to the same right of redemption, and the lands sold for the collection of said taxes shall be subject to the same right of redemption as the sale of lands for general taxes: Provided, that said assessments shall not become due and payable except at such time or times and in such amounts as may be designated by the board of commissioners of said drainage district, which designation shall be made to the county auditor by said board of commissioners of said drainage district, by serving written notice upon the county auditor designating the time and the amount of the assessment, said assessment to be in proportion to benefits to become due and payable, which amount shall fall due at the time of the falling due of general taxes, and the amount so designated shall be added by the auditor to the general taxes of said person, persons or corporation, according to said notice, upon the assessment-rolls in his said office, and collected therewith; Provided further, that no one call for assessments by said commissioners shall be in an amount to exceed twenty-five per cent of the amount estimated by the board of commissioners to be necessary to pay the costs of the proceedings, and the establishment of said district and drainage system and the cost of construction of said work; Provided, further, that where the amount realized from the original assessment and tax shall not prove sufficient to complete the original plans and specifications of any drainage system, alterations, extensions or changes therein, for which the said original assessment was made, the board of commissioners of said district shall make such further assessment as may be necessary to complete said system according to the original plans and specifications, which assessment shall be made and collected in the manner provided in this section for the original assessment. [L. '95, p. 283, § 16; L. '07, p. 669, § 1.]

This section merely authorizes a supplemental assessment for the cost of constructing the original improvement, if the amount of the deficiency plus the amount of the original assessment does not exceed the amount of the maximum benefits fixed by the jury; since it would be unconstitutional as impairing vested rights if construed to authorize an assessment in excess of the maximum benefits as fixed by the jury: Poolman v. Langdon, 94 Wash. 448, 162 Pac. 578.

§ 4317. [4156.] Conditional Tax, How Levied.

In the event of the dismissal of said proceedings and the rendition of judgment against said district, as hereinbefore provided, said drainage commissioner[s] shall levy a tax upon all the real estate within said district, taking as a basis the last equalized assessment of said real estate for state and county purposes, sufficient to pay said judgment and the cost of levying said tax, and shall cause said tax-roll to be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court in which such judgment was rendered. If said tax is not paid within sixty days after the filing of said tax-roll, the court shall, upon the application of any party interested, direct said real estate to be sold in payment of said tax, said sale to be made in the same manner and by the same officer as is or may be provided by law for the sale of real estate for taxes for general purposes; and the same right of redemption shall exist as in the sale of real estate for the payment of taxes for general purposes. [L. '95, p. 284, § 17.]

§ 4318. [4157.] Commissioners, Duty of—Contractor's Bond—Liabilities.

After the filing of said certificate said commissioners of such drainage district shall proceed at once in the construction of said improvement, and in carrying on said construction or any extensions thereof they shall have full charge and management thereof, and shall have the power to employ such assistance as they may deem necessary and purchase all material that may be necessary in the construction and carrying on of the work of said improvement, and shall have power to let the whole or any portion of said work to any responsible contractor, and shall in such case enter into all necessary agreements with such contractor that may be necessary in the premises: Provided, that in case the whole or any portion of said improvement is let to any contractor said commissioners shall require said contractor to give a bond in double the amount of the contract price of the whole or of such portion of said work covered by said contract, with two or more sureties to be approved by the board of commissioners of said drainage district and running to said district as obligee therein, conditioned for the faithful and accurate performance of said contract by said contractor, his executors, administrators or assigns, according to the terms and conditions of said agreement, and shall cause said contractor to enter into a further or additional bond in the same amount, with two or more good and sufficient sureties to be approved by said board of commissioners of said drainage district in the name of said district as obligee therein, conditioned that said contractor, his executors, administrators or assigns, or subcontractor, his executors, administrators, or assigns, performing the whole or any portion of said work under contract of said original contractor, shall pay or cause to be paid all just claims for all persons performing labor or rendering services in the construction of said work, or furnishing materials, merchandise or provisions of any kind or character used by said contractor or subcontractor, or any employee thereof in the construction of said improvement: Provided further, that no sureties on said last mentioned bond shall be liable thereon unless the persons or corporation performing said labor and furnishing said materials, goods, wares, merchandise and provisions, shall, within ninety days after the completion of said improvement, file their claim, duly verified, that the amount is just and due and remains unpaid, with the board of commissioners of said drainage district. [L. '95, p. 285, § 18.]

§ 4319. [4158.] Work, Where to Begin—Changes, How Effected.

The work on said improvement shall begin and shall be completed with all expedition possible, and said board of commissioners of such drainage district, or any contractor thereunder, shall have no power whatever to change said route or system of improvement or the manner of doing the work therein so as to make any radical changes in said improvement, without the written consent of all the land owners to be benefited thereby, and the land owners which may be damaged thereby. And in case any substantial changes in said system of improvement or the manner of the construction thereof shall be deemed necessary by said board of commissioners at any time during the progress thereof, and if the written consent to such changes cannot be produced from said land owners, then said commissioners, for and on behalf of said district, shall file a petition in the superior court of the county within which said district is located, setting forth therein the changes which they deem necessary to be made in the plan or manner of the construction of said improvement, and praying therein to be permitted to make such changes, and upon the filing thereof, the commissioners shall cause a summons to be served, setting forth the prayer of said petition, under the seal of said court, which summons shall be served in the same manner as the service of summons in the case of the original petition, upon all the land owners or others claiming any lien or interest therein appearing of record in said district and any or all of said parties so served may appear in said cause and submit their objections thereto, and after the time for the appearance of all of said parties has expired, the court shall proceed to hear said petition at once without further delay, and if it appears during the course of said proceedings that the property rights of any of said land owners will be affected by such proposed change in said improvements, then the court, after having passed upon all preliminary questions as in the original proceedings may call a jury to be impaneled as in the case of the original proceeding for the establishment of said improvements, and upon the final hearing of said cause the jury shall return a verdict finding the amount of damages, if any, sustained by all persons and corporations, the same as upon the original petition, by reason of such proposed change, and shall readjust the amount of benefits claimed to have been increased or diminished by any of said land owners by reason of said proposed change in said improvements, and the proceedings thereafter shall be the same as to rendering judgment, appeal therefrom, payment of compensation and damages and filing of the certificate with the auditor, as hereinbefore provided for in the proceedings upon the original petition, and said commissioners shall have a right thereafter to proceed with the construction of said improvements according to the changes made therein. [L. '95, p. 286, § 19; L. '09, Ex. Sess., p. 47, § 1.]

§ 4320. [4159.] Contractors, When Paid.

During the construction of said improvement said commissioners shall have the right to allow payment thereof, in installments as the work progresses, in proportion to the amount of work completed: Provided, that no allowance or payment shall be made for said work to any contractor or subcontractor to exceed seventy-five per cent of the proportionate amount of the work completed by such contractor or subcontractor, and twenty-five per cent of the contract price shall be reserved at all times by said board of commissioners until said work is wholly completed, and shall not be paid upon the completion of said work until ninety days have expired for the presentation of all claims for labor performed and materials, goods, wares, merchandise and provisions furnished or used in the construction of said improvements; and upon the completion of said work and the payment of all claims hereinbefore provided for according to the terms and conditions of said contract, said commissioners shall accept said improvement and pay the contract price therefor. [L. '95, p. 287, § 20.]

§ 4321. [4160.] Private Drains—Proceedings to Connect.

Any person or corporation owning land within said district shall have a right to connect any private drains or ditches for the proper drainage of such land with said system, and in case any persons or corporations shall desire to drain such lands into said system and shall find it necessary, in order to do so, to procure the right of way over the land of another, or others, and if consent thereto cannot be procured from such person or persons, then such land owner may present in writing a request to the board of commissioners of said district, setting forth therein the necessity of being able to connect his private drainage with said system, and pray therein that said system be extended to such point as he may designate in said writing, and immediately thereon said board of commissioners shall cause a petition to be filed in the superior court, for and in the name of said drainage district, requesting in said petition that said system be extended as requested, setting forth therein the necessity thereof and praying that relief [leave] be granted by the board to extend the system in accordance with the prayer of said petition, and the proceedings in such case, upon the presentation of such petition and the hearing thereof, shall be, in all matters, the same as in the hearing and presentation of the original petition for the establishment of the original system of drainage in said district, as far as applicable. The costs in such proceedings shall be paid from the assessment of benefits to be made on the lands of the person or persons benefited by such extension, and the assessment and compensation for the right of way, damages and benefits, and payment of damages and compensation, and the collection of the assessments for benefits, shall be the same as in the proceedings under the original petition, and the construction of the said extension shall be made under the same provisions as the construction of the original improvement; and all things that may be done or performed in connection therewith shall be, as near as may be applicable, in accordance with the provisions already set forth herein for the establishment and construction of said original improvement: Provided, that such petitioner or petitioners shall, at the time of filing such petition by said drainage commissioners, enter into a good and sufficient bond to said drainage district in the full penal sum of five hundred dollars, with two or more sureties to be approved by the court, conditioned for the payment of all costs in case the prayer of said petition should not be granted, which bond shall be filed in said cause. [L. '95, p. 288, § 21.]

In case of the establishment of a drainage district and system of drainage under the provisions of this chapter above any other district that may have theretofore been established and above any other system of drainage that may have theretofore been constructed in said district, and in case said district to be established above may desire to connect its drainage system with the lower or servient district, shall be made a party to the proceedings for the establishment of such system, and the petition to be filed in the superior court for the establishment of the system of drainage in said upper district shall, in addition to the facts hereinbefore provided and required to be set forth therein, set forth the fact that said lower system in said lower district is necessary to be used as an outlet for the system of drainage of said upper district, and that the same will be a sufficient outlet and will afford sufficient capacity to carry the drainage of both said upper and lower districts; and in case said system of said lower district will be required to be enlarged by widening or deepening the same, or both, in order to give sufficient outlet to said upper district and afford sufficient drainage for said upper and lower districts, then the plans and specifications for enlarging the system of said lower district shall be filed with said petition in addition to the other data hereinbefore provided for in this chapter. All the land owners in said lower district, or any person claiming any interest therein as mortgagee or otherwise, shall be made parties defendant in said petition, and the proceedings therein as to the assessment of damages and compensation for land taken, if any be necessary to be taken in enlarging said lower system, shall be the same as in the establishment of systems of drainage in the lower or servient district as hereinbefore provided for; but the jury, in addition to the facts to be found by them as provided for in the establishment of a drainage system in the lower district, shall find and determine whether said lower system, when improved according to the plans and specifications filed with the said petition, will afford sufficient drainage for both said upper and lower districts, which finding shall be made by the jury before considering any other question at issue in said proceeding; and in case said jury should find that the system of said lower district when improved as proposed in said petition would not be sufficient, then, in that case, said finding shall terminate the proceedings, and no further proceedings in said case shall be had, and the costs of said proceeding shall be paid as costs in other proceedings, as hereinbefore provided for; but in such case the finding of said jury shall not terminate the objects of said upper district or operate to disorganize the same, but said upper district may begin new proceedings for the establishment of a system of drainage with some new outlet provided therein. All costs for the enlarging or improving of said lower system that may be required shall be assessed to the land owners in the upper district according to the benefits to be derived from the construction of said entire system, and no additional cost shall be thrown upon the lower district, and all compensation for taking any right of way that may be necessary to be taken in enlarging said lower system, and all damages occurring therefrom, if any, to the land owners of said lower district, shall be ascertained and paid in the same manner as hereinbefore provided for for the adjustment of compensation and damages in the establishment of drainage systems in lower districts. Said lower district, by and through its board of commissioners, may appear in said cause and show therein any injury it may sustain as a district by reason of the additional cost of maintenance of said lower system as improved and enlarged, and such fact shall be determined in said cause and the jury shall find the amount of the increased costs of maintenance per annum, which will be sustained by said lower district by reason of said enlarging or improving of the same, and judgment shall be rendered in favor of said lower district against said upper district for such amount so found, and the same shall be paid each year as the cost of construction is paid as provided for in this chapter, and the amount so paid shall be held by said lower district as an additional fund for the maintenance of its said system as improved and enlarged by said upper district. [L. '95, p. 289, § 22.]

§ 4323. [4162.] Incorporated Towns may Act as Drainage Districts.

Any town or city already incorporated or which may hereafter be incorporated, may exercise the functions of a drainage district under the provisions of this chapter, or the whole or any portion of any such town or city may be included with other territory in a common district under the provisions for the establishment thereof as provided for herein. [L. '95, p. 291, § 23.]

§ 4324. [4163.*] Cost of Maintenance, Estimate—Tax Levy.

The board of commissioners of any drainage district organized under the provisions of this act shall, on or before the first Monday in October, of each year, make an estimate of the cost of maintenance of the drainage system in such district, which estimate shall include the cost of making any necessary repairs that it might become necessary to make in the maintenance of such system. Such estimate shall be for the succeeding year, and the amount so estimated shall be certified by the board of ——— commissioners to the auditor of the county in which such district is located, on or before said date, and the amount thereof shall be levied against and apportioned to the lands in such district benefited by said improvement, in proportion to the maximum benefits originally assessed, and such amount shall be added to the general taxes against said lands and collected therewith: Provided, however, that in case of emergency not in contemplation at the time of making such annual estimate the drainage commissioners may incur additional obligations and issue valid warrants therefor in excess of such estimate, and all such warrants so issued shall be valid and legal obligations of such district. [L. '17, p. 567, § 2; L. '95, p. 291, § 24; L. '05, p. 363, § 3; L. '07, p. 219, § 1.]

void where no estimate was made of the cost, as required by the act: McDougall v. Bridges, 52 Wash. 396, 100 Pac. 835.

§ 4325. [4164.] Commission, Officers and Duty of.

The board of commissioners of such district shall elect one of their number chairman and one secretary, and shall keep minutes of all their proceedings, and may issue warrants of such district in payment of all claims of indebtedness against such district; such warrants shall be in form and substance the same as county warrants, or as near the same as may be practicable, and shall draw the legal rate of interest from the date of their presentation to the treasurer for payment, as hereinafter provided, and shall be signed by the chairman and attested by the secretary of said board: Provided, that no warrants shall be issued by said board of commissioners in payment of any indebtedness of such district for less than the face or par value. [L. '95, p. 293, § 30.]

§ 4331. [4170.] Coupons, Payment of.

It shall be the duty of such drainage commissioners annually to levy an assessment sufficient for the payment of the coupons hereinbe-fore mentioned as they fall due. Said coupons shall be considered for all purposes as warrants drawn upon the funds of the district issuing bonds under the provisions of this chapter, and, when presented to the county treasurer, and no funds are in the treasury to pay said coupons, it shall be his duty to indorse said coupons as presented for payment in the same manner as other warrants upon the funds of said district are indorsed, and thereafter said coupons shall bear interest at the same rate as other warrants so presented and unpaid. [L. '95, p. 293, § 31.]

§ 4332. [4171.] Bonds to be Registered.

Before the bonds are delivered to the purchaser they shall be presented to the county treasurer, who shall register them in a book kept for that purpose and known as the bond register, in which register he shall enter the number of each bond, the date of issue, the maturity, amount and rate of interest, to whom and when payable, and the proceeds derived from the sale of said bonds shall in all cases be paid by the purchaser thereof to the county treasurer. And it shall be the duty of such treasurer, from time to time, when he has sufficient funds in his hands for that purpose, to advertise in the newspaper doing the county printing for the presentation to him for payment of as many of the outstanding warrants as he may be able to pay: Provided, that thirty days after the first publication of said notice of the treasurer calling in any of said outstanding warrants said warrants shall cease to bear interest, which shall be stated in the notice. Said notice shall be published two weeks consecutively, and said warrants shall be called in and paid in the order of their indorsement. [L. '95, p. 294, § 33.]

§ 4334. [4173.] Trial—Findings and Forms of Verdict.

Upon the trial of any questions of issue by a jury under the provisions of this chapter the trial court may, in its discretion, submit all questions to be found by the jury in the form of separate findings, or may submit to such jury separate forms of verdict on all such questions to be found by the jury therein. [L. '95, p. 294, § 34.]

See supra, §§ 4314, 4315, method of assessing benefits to county or public roads.

See note to § 4490, partial unconstitutionality of assessment against school lands.

Although school lands benefited by the construction of a ditch cannot be rendered liable for the payment thereof, such benefits cannot be charged up against private property, and, in such cases, the assessment should be levied against the school lands, leaving it to the state to provide therefor by proper legislation: State ex rel. Latimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38, 68 Pac. 368.

Said board of commissioners, or the member thereof presenting such claim or allowance, shall, at the time of the filing thereof in the court, post notices in at least four public places within said district, sold by an order of the superior court, directed to the sheriff of said county, whose duty it shall be to advertise and sell such property in manner otherwise provided by law for the sale of real and personal property, and the proceeds of such sale, after the costs are paid, shall be used to pay any indebtedness of such dissolved district. If the indebtedness of any such district exceeds the amount received from the sale of such property the amount of such excess shall be certified to the auditor of the county in which such district is located and the amount thereof shall be levied against and apportioned to the lands in such district in proportion to and upon the basis of the value of such lands as fixed by the last-preceding equalized assessment-roll of said county and said amount shall be added to the general taxes against said lands and collected therewith. If the amount received from the sale of any property in such district exceeds the indebtedness of such district the excess shall be distributed to the land owners of such district in proportion to the value of their respective holdings therein. [L. '07, p. 376, § 2.]

§ 4343. [4181-1.] Annexation of Territory to Drainage District.

Return of such election shall be by the officers thereof made to the board of commissioners of said district forthwith, and such board shall as soon as practicable make canvass of the said returns, and if a majority of the votes cast at each of the said elections shall be in favor of the annexation of said territory, the said board of commissioners shall forthwith certify to the county auditor and also to the county assessor of the county wherein such district and such territory are located, the fact of such election, the result thereof, and a particular description of the territory annexed by such election, which certificate shall be filed and become a part of the records of the said auditor and the said assessor; and thereafter the said territory shall be taken to be and shall be annexed to, and be a part of the said district, and shall be liable to assessment for extensions and improvement of drains, and for the cost and expense of maintenance and repairs the same as other property in the said district, and for the purposes of such assessment, the maximum benefits derived to such annexed territory shall be conclusively presumed to be equal to but not greater than those of abutting property, within the district as the same existed before the said annexation. [L. '17, p. 553, § 1.]

§ 4348. Petition for Reorganization.

For the purpose of securing such reorganization, a petition shall be presented to the clerk of the board of county commissioners of the county in which such district is located, at a regular or special meeting of the board. The petition shall be signed by the board of commissioners of the district and shall state the number of the district seeking to reorganize, and shall pray that such district be reorganized as a drainage or a diking improvement district. [L. '17, p. 553, § 2.]

§ 4349. Notice of Election.

Whenever a petition is presented as provided in section 4348, the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall give notice of an election to be held on a day, and at a place within the district, to be fixed in such notice, at which the electors of the district shall vote for or against the reorganization of the district so petitioning as a drainage or a diking improvement district. The notice shall state the number of the district so petitioning to reorganize, the place where and the time when the election is to be held, and shall require the voters to cast ballots which shall contain the words "Reorganization, Yes," or "Reorganization, No." Such notice shall be posted for at least twenty days prior to the date fixed for the election in four of the public places in the district; and if the board of county commissioners shall so direct, shall be published once a week for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county, the last publication of which shall be not less than ten days prior to the day fixed for such election. [L. '17, p. 553, § 3.]

§ 4350. Result of Election—Costs of Proceeding.

An election board for such election shall be appointed, and such election shall be held and the votes cast thereat shall be canvassed as is provided for elections held for the organization of a drainage district. If, upon such canvass and count, it appears that a majority of the votes cast are for "Reorganization, Yes," the board shall enter an order upon their minutes declaring such district reorganized as a drainage or as a diking improvement district. If it appears that a majority of the votes cast are for "Reorganization, No," the board shall enter an order dismissing the proceedings, and shall, in either case, cause a statement of the costs of such proceeding to be prepared and transmitted to the commissioners of the district, who shall allow and pay the same as an expense of maintenance of the district. [L. '17, p. 554, § 4.]

§ 4351. Reorganization Effected—Election of Supervisors—Dissolution of Old District.

Upon the entry of the order provided for in section 4350, such reorganized district shall be known as a drainage or a diking improvement district of the same number as borne by it as a diking or a drainage district; and the board of commissioners of such district shall, together with the county engineer, constitute the board of supervisors of the reorganized district until the second Tuesday of December following such reorganization, when an election shall be held as provided for annual elections in drainage improvement districts, at which two supervisors shall be elected, who shall serve for the terms and whose successors shall be elected in the manner provided for the first board of supervisors in drainage improvement districts. From the entry of said order such reorganized district, and its board of supervisors herein provided for, shall have all the rights and powers of and be subject to all laws applicable to a diking or drainage improvement district, and such district so reorganized shall be dissolved without any further proceedings therefor. Notwithstanding such dissolution and reorganization, none of the outstanding bonds, warrants or other indebtedness of the district, shall be affected thereby; and all lands liable to be assessed to pay any of such bonds, warrants or other indebtedness shall remain liable to the same extent as if such reorganization had not been made, and any and all assessments theretofore levied or made against any such lands shall be and remain unimpaired and shall be collected in the same manner as if no such reorganization had been had. The board of county commissioners of the county in which such reorganized district is situated shall have all the powers possessed at the time of the reorganization by the board of commissioners of such district to levy, assess, and cause to be collected any and all assessments or charges against any of the lands within such district that may be necessary or required to provide funds for the payment of all the bonds, warrants and other indebtedness thereof. [L. '17, p. 554, § 5.]

§ 4352. Refunding Bonds—Levy of Assessments.

Whenever in any district reorganized under the provisions of this act any bonds issued prior to such reorganization shall become payable and the board of county commissioners shall determine that it will be for the best interests of the owners of a majority of the acreage of lands included in such district to issue refunding bonds and to levy an assessment, payable in ten or fifteen years, instead of levying the annual assessments required by law to be levied to liquidate such outstanding bonds, they may levy such assessment and fix the time for the payment thereof at either ten or fifteen years, and fix the installments in which such assessment shall be paid as provided for the payment of assessments for the costs of construction under the provisions of chapter VI of this title, and acts amendatory thereof; and they may issue refunding bonds of the district in the manner thereafter provided, to provide funds with which to pay such outstanding bonds then payable. [L. '17, p. 555, § 6.]

§ 4353. Apportionment of Assessment—Refunding Bonds—Resolution of Intention.

The board shall determine the amount of the assessment necessary to be levied to provide funds to liquidate the bonds of the district then payable and shall cause such assessment to be apportioned to the lands of the district in proportion to the maximum benefits as fixed by the judgment of the jury, and shall cause to be prepared an assessment-roll showing the assessment apportioned against each tract, lot or parcel of land contained in such judgment and shall file such roll with the clerk of the board. Thereupon the board shall adopt a resolution which shall set forth:

(1) A schedule showing the bonds outstanding against the district then payable which they propose to refund, and the assessment necessary to be levied to provide funds for the payment thereof.

(2) That the assessment-roll for the collection of the assessments proposed to be levied against the lands of the district is on file with the clerk of the board and open to the inspection of all persons interested.

(3) That the commissioners propose to levy such assessments for collection in installments according to the schedule attached thereto.

(4) A schedule showing the installments in which such assessments are to be paid.

(5) That the assessments contained in such assessment-roll may be paid in full at any time prior to the expiration of thirty days after such assessment-roll shall have been turned over to the treasurer for collection and he shall have published a notice to that effect, and that all assessments not so paid shall thereafter bear interest until due at a rate to be fixed therein.

(6) That the commissioners propose to issue bonds under the provisions of chapter VI of this title, and acts amendatory thereof, payable in — years (to be stated in the resolution), to refund such outstanding bonds then payable.

(7) A date which shall be not more than sixty nor less than thirty days from the date of the adoption of such resolution, on which the board will hear any objections offered to the proposed levy and issuance of refunding bonds, or to the assessment-roll prepared by the commissioners. [L. '17, p. 556, § 7.]

§ 4354. Notice to File Objections.

Upon the preparation of the roll and the adoption of the resolution, the clerk of the board shall cause to be published in some newspaper published in the county and of general circulation therein, a notice containing a copy of the resolution and stating that on the date fixed therein for the hearing the board will meet and hear any objection offered to the proposed levy of the assessment or to the issuance of refunding bonds or to the assessment-roll or any assessment therein contained; and stating that all persons interested may file any objections they may have to the proposed levy or issuance of bonds or the assessment-roll with the board of commissioners prior to the date fixed for such hearing. The last publication of such notice shall not be less than ten days prior to the date fixed for such hearing. [L. '17, p. 557, § 8.]

§ 4355. Confirmation of Assessment-roll.

The board shall meet on the day fixed in the notice or to which the hearing may have been adjourned, and shall consider all objections which shall have been filed, and may modify any action as proposed in said resolution; and may correct any errors in the assessment-roll and shall confirm the roll as corrected and shall levy the assessments therein contained for collection as prescribed in the resolution as finally adopted and shall enter an order confirming said roll.

Upon the confirmation of the assessment-roll and the levy of the assessments therein contained, the board shall cause the clerk to attach thereto a copy of the resolution and certify such roll and resolution and turn the assessment-roll over to the county treasurer for collection in accordance with the resolution attached thereto.

If before or at the hearing herein provided for protests have been filed by the owners of more than fifty per cent of the acreage of land in the district objecting to the proposed levy and issuance of bonds, the board shall enter an order dismissing the proceedings and shall charge the cost thereof to the district as a maintenance charge. [L. '17, p. 557, § 9.]

§ 4356. Collection of Assessments.

As soon as the assessment-roll has been turned over to the treasurer for collection, he shall publish a notice in the official newspaper of the county, once a week for at least two successive weeks, that the said roll is in his hands for collection and that any assessments therein or any portion of any such assessments may be paid at any time on or before a date stated in such notice, which date shall be thirty days after the date of the first publication, without interest. All assessments levied as provided herein, which shall not be paid within thirty days as herein provided for shall be collected in the manner provided for the collection of assessments levied to pay the costs of construction in drainage improvement districts, and all the provisions of chapter VI of this title, and acts amendatory thereof, shall govern the collection of such assessments so far as the same shall be applicable. [L. '17, p. 558, § 10.]

§ 4357. Refunding Bonds—Issuance and Sale.

Upon the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of the notice given by the treasurer as provided herein, the board of county commissioners may issue and sell refunding bonds of the district, payable as determined by them in their resolution, in the manner provided for the issuance of bonds to pay the costs of construction in drainage improvement districts; and all the provisions of law governing the issuance, sale and payment of such bonds shall govern the issuance, sale and payment of the bonds herein provided for. [L. '17, p. 558, § 11.]

§ 4358. Proceeds of Assessments and Bond Sales.

The proceeds of all assessments paid within the thirty-day period herein provided for, and the proceeds of the sale of all refunding bonds, shall be paid into a proper fund to be established in the county treasury, and shall be applied to the payment of all outstanding bonds then due in the manner in which such bonds are required to be paid by the law under which they were issued, and such bonds shall be called and paid accordingly. The proceeds of all payments of assessments paid after the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of the notice given by the treasurer as herein provided, shall be paid into a fund to be established in the county treasury, to be known as the "refunding bond redemption fund," and shall be applied to the payment of such bonds as provided by chapter VI of this title, and acts amendatory thereof. [L. '17, p. 558, § 12.]

§ 4359. Liquidation of Bonds not Refunded.

The board of county commissioners shall have all the powers possessed by the board of commissioners of any district reorganized under the provisions of this act prior to such reorganization, to levy assessments for the payment of the interest on any other bonds of the district not then payable and refunded under the provisions of this act, and to levy assessments to provide a sinking fund for the liquidation of such bonds at their maturity. Such assessments shall be called and collected in the manner provided by the law under which they were assessed, and such bonds shall be paid as provided by the law under which they were issued. Proper funds shall be established in the county treasury for the proceeds of the payments of such assessments, and such funds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds for the payment of which they were levied. [L. '17, p. 559, § 13.]

§ 4360. Extensions Designed to Repair Inadequate Benefits—Payment.

Whenever in any district reorganized under the provisions of this act, extensions or additions are made to the system of improvements of the district to provide drainage or protection from overflow for lands previously found benefited and assessed for the construction of the original system of improvement which are not receiving benefits therefrom in proportion to the benefits found and the assessments levied against such lands, the costs of such extensions or additions shall be included as a cost of maintenance of the improvements of the district and shall be levied and collected in the manner provided for the levy and collection of such costs. [L. '17, p. 559, § 14.]

CHAPTER IV.

DIKING AND DRAINAGE DISTRICTS IN TWO OR MORE COUNTIES.

Private ditches in two or more counties, see § 4446.

§ 4361. [4182.] Powers—Designation.

Whenever a portion of two or more counties, which contain one hundred or more inhabitants and freeholders therein, require diking, draining, or the erection of flood dams or drift barriers to prevent inundations, such portion of two or more counties may be organized into a district: and the board of commissioners, hereinafter provided for, shall have and possess the powers herein conferred, or that may hereafter be conferred by law upon such district and board of commissioners, and all such powers not in conflict with those herein granted, which now exist under the provision of the laws of the state relating to the establishment, construction and maintenance of dikes and drains; and such districts shall be known and designated as "Diking and Drainage District No. —, in — and — Counties (here insert name of counties), of the state of Washington"; and shall have the right to sue and be sued by, in the name of its board of commissioners herein provided for, and shall have perpetual succession, and shall adopt and use a seal. [L. '09, p. 789, § 1.]

See supra, § 4304, additional powers and extension of district.

§ 4362. [4183.] Formation—Petition, Contents and Requisites of—Cost Bond.

For the purpose of the formation of such diking district, a petition shall be presented to the board of county commissioners of each of the two or more counties in which the portion of said counties are situated; which petition shall set forth the objects for the creation of said district, and shall designate in a general way the boundaries thereof, and set forth therein approximately the number of acres of land to be benefited by the proposed system, and shall also contain a brief description of the proposed system, and approximately the route over which the same is to be constructed, together with the proposed flood dams or drift barriers, if any, and approximately the termini thereof. The petition shall also set forth the further fact that the establishment of the said district and the proposed system will be conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, and will increase the public revenue, and that the establishment of said district will be of special benefit to the property included in each of the counties in such district. The petition shall be signed by at least one hundred of the freeholders in the proposed district, or by a majority of the freeholders in said district in each of the counties, in case there are less than two hundred freeholders in the proposed district. Said petition shall ask that a district be organized under the provisions of this chapter. A duplicate of the petition shall be filed with each of the board of county commissioners in each of the counties in which the proposed district is situated. At the time of filing of the petition, the petitioners shall file a bond with the board of county commissioners, running to the state of Washington, in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, conditioned that they will pay all costs in case said district for any reason shall not be established. [L. '09, p. 789, § 2.]

§ 4363. [4184.] Hearing of Petition — Procedure — Boundaries — Certificate.

Immediately thereafter the chairman of each of the respective boards of county commissioners shall notify the commissioner of public lands of the state of Washington that such petition and bond has been filed, praying for the establishment and maintenance of a district as aforesaid, and thereupon the commissioner of public lands shall at once give written notice to the board of county commissioners of each county that the said boards, together with the commissioner of public lands, will hold a joint meeting, at a time and place specified, not less than five or more than twenty days after the mailing of such notice, to consider the petition and to determine upon the matters therein prayed for. At such joint meeting said joint body, including the commissioner of public lands, shall proceed to consider the said petition and determine whether such proposed diking and drainage district shall be established in the locality and vicinity of the proposed system. If such body finds the district should be established, it shall then enter an order upon its minutes creating such district, and defining the boundaries thereof, and the boundaries so established may embrace more or less land than that embraced in the original petition, and the proposed boundaries may be enlarged or diminished as [to] the board may seem proper; such body shall not establish such district, however, unless they find that the proposed system of dikes and drains will be conducive to the public health, welfare and convenience, and will increase the public revenue and be of benefit to the majority of the lands included within the boundaries of the district. Said body shall at this first meeting elect a secretary, and the commissioner of public lands shall act as chairman of the body. If such body after consideration determines that a diking and drainage system shall be established, then the chairman and secretary shall certify to the board of county commissioners of each county a copy of the resolutions of the body creating such district, and a certificate to the same effect shall be made to the commissioner of public lands, and such certificates shall be filed with the board of county commissioners of each county, and in the office of the commissioner of public lands, and shall be recorded in the records and journals of the respective offices; a majority of all the members of said body shall be necessary to establish any diking and drainage system hereunder, and a majority of the body shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business. If such district is established the aforesaid body shall at its first meeting also designate the day upon which the first election shall be held under the provisions of this chapter, which shall not be less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time when the day of election is fixed. [L. '09, p. 790, § 3.]

§ 4364. [4185.] Approval—Election of Commissioners—Ballots—Vacancies—General Elections—Terms of Office.

Upon the establishment of a district as aforesaid, the said body shall give notice of an election to be held in the diking and drainage district established, as aforesaid, for the purpose of determining whether the same shall be approved and become an organized diking and drainage district, and for the further purpose of choosing at such election five commissioners, who shall be known and designated as "Commissioners for Diking and Drainage District No. — (here insert number), in — and — Counties (here insert name of counties), State of Washington," and such notice shall particularly describe the boundaries as established, and shall state the name of such proposed diking and drainage district, and the same shall be published for at least two weeks prior to such election in two or more weekly newspapers published within the proposed district, and in case no such newspaper be published in such district, then in two or more newspapers of general circulation in such district for two successive issues; and shall be posted for the same period in at least ten public places within the boundaries of such proposed district, which notice shall designate the places within the proposed district where the said election shall be held, and require the voters to cast ballots which shall contain the words "Diking and Drainage District 'yes,'" or "Diking and Drainage District 'no,'" and also the names of the persons voted for as commissioners of such district. The voting places shall be designated by such body; said body shall also appoint two judges, one inspector and two clerks for such election, to act at each polling-place, whose compensation shall be the same as in elections for county and state officers, and which shall be a charge upon such district in case the same be established; in case such district be not established, then all costs and expenses shall be collected from the bond hereinbefore provided for. The election shall be held on the day designated in the notice, and shall be conducted in accordance with the general election laws of the state of Washington, as far as applicable. The returns of all the elections hereunder shall be made by the judges of election to the commissioner of public lands. No person shall be entitled to vote at such election unless he be a qualified elector in the county in which said district is located, and shall have resided within the boundaries of such proposed district for a period of not less than ninety days next preceding the election. The commissioner of public lands shall, within fifteen days next succeeding said election, canvass the vote, and if upon such canvass and count it appears that the majority of votes cast in each of the counties are for "Diking and Drainage District 'yes,'" then the said body shall immediately certify to the board of county commissioners of each county interested and to the commissioner of public lands the result of such election, and shall in such certificate declare the proposed territory duly organized as a drainage and diking district; and that the five persons receiving the highest number of votes are duly elected commissioners of such diking and drainage districts. The commissioners so elected shall hold their position for the period of two years from and after their election and until their successors are elected and qualified. Not more than three commissioners shall be elected from any one county when the district is composed of two counties, and not more than two commissioners shall be elected from any county when the district is composed of three or more counties. All commissioners must be qualified electors of the district. Any vacancies occurring upon said board by failure to qualify, death or resignation, or otherwise, shall be filled by the board of county commissioners of the county in which the vacancy occurs. After the first election a general election for the election of such board of commissioners for the diking and drainage district shall be held every second year thereafter, on the first Tuesday of October, and the returns thereof shall be canvassed by the commissioner of public lands, who shall certify the result to the respective boards of county commissioners. The commissioner of public lands at the time of certifying any election shall also issue a certificate to each person elected as a member of the board that he has been duly elected as one of the commissioners for Diking and Drainage District No. —, in the counties of — and —, state of Washington. No official ballot shall be required at the first or any subsequent election, and the law known as the "Direct Primary Law" of this state shall have no application to the elections held under this chapter. The ballots shall designate the county from which the commissioners are to be elected, for example:

For commissioners from — county.

§ 4365. [4186.] Commissioners, Oath, Bond of—Assessment of Benefits—Procedure.

The members of such board, before entering upon their duties, shall take and subscribe an oath substantially as follows:

State of Washington, } ss.
County of —, }

I, the undersigned, a member of the board of commissioners of the Diking and Drainage District No. —, in — and — counties, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will well and truly discharge my duties as a member of said commission.

The members shall also, before entering upon their duties, give a bond to the state of Washington for the benefit of such diking and drainage district, for the faithful performance of their duties as such board of commissioners, in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with a company or corporation as surety, authorized to make and execute official bonds under the laws of the state, the district to bear the expense of such bond; and upon the oath and bond being filed with the commissioner of public lands, that officer shall enter an order upon his records that the five persons named as aforesaid have qualified as the board of commissioners for Diking and Drainage District, No. —, in — and — Counties, and that said persons and their successors do and shall constitute a board of commissioners for the aforesaid diking and drainage district; which order when made shall be conclusive of the regularity of the election and qualification of the board of diking and drainage commissioners for the particular district, and the persons named therein shall constitute such board of diking and drainage commissioners.

The said board of diking and drainage commissioners shall thereupon immediately organize and elect one of their number as chairman and another as secretary. The said board shall then proceed to make and cause to be made specifications and details of a system which may be adopted by the board for the improvements to be made, together with an estimate of the total cost thereof; and shall, upon the adoption of a plan of improvement of the district as aforesaid, proceed to levy an assessment upon the taxable real property within the said district which the board may find to be specially benefited by the proposed improvements; and shall make and levy such assessment upon each piece, lot, parcel and separate tract of real estate in proportion to the particular and special benefits thereto. Upon determining the amount of the assessment against each particular tract of real estate as aforesaid, the commissioners shall make or cause to be made an assessment-roll, in which shall appear the names of the owners of the property assessed, so far as known, and a general description of each lot, block, parcel or tract of land within such district, and the amount assessed against the same, as separate, special or particular benefits. The board shall thereupon make an order setting and fixing a day for hearing any objections to the assessment-roll by anyone affected thereby, which day shall be at least twenty days after the mailing of notices thereof, postage prepaid, as herein provided. The board shall send or cause to be sent by mail to each owner of the premises assessed, whose name and place of residence is known, a notice substantially in the following form, to wit:

To —: Your property (here describe the property) is assessed $—. A hearing on the assessment-roll will be had before the undersigned at the office of the said board at —, —, on the — day of —, at which time you are notified to be and appear and to make any and all objections which you may have as to the amount of the assessment against your property, or as to whether it should be assessed at all; and to make any and all objections which you may have to the said assessment against your lands, or any part or portion thereof.

The failure to send or cause to be sent such notice shall not be fatal to the proceedings herein described. The secretary of the board on the mailing of said notices shall certify generally that he has mailed such notices to the known address of all owners, and such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the mailing of all such notices at the date mentioned in the certificate.

The board shall cause at least ten days' notice of the hearing to be given by posting notice in at least ten public places within the boundaries of the district, and by publishing the same at least five successive times in a daily newspaper published in each of the counties affected; and for at least two successive weeks in one or more weekly newspapers within the boundaries of said district, in each county if there be such newspapers published therein, and if there be no such newspaper published, then in one or more weekly newspapers, having a circulation in the district, for two successive weeks, which notice shall be signed by the chairman or secretary of the said board of commissioners, and shall state the date and place of hearing of objections to the assessment-roll and levy, and of all other objections; and that all interested parties will be heard as to any objection to said assessment-roll and the levies as therein made. [L. '09, p. 794, § 5.]

§ 4366. [4187.] Objections to Assessment—Procedure.

Any person interested in any real estate affected by said assessment may, within the time fixed, appear and file objections. As to all parcels, lots or blocks as to which no objections are filed, within the time as aforesaid, the assessment thereon shall be confirmed and shall be final. On the hearing, each person may offer proof, and proof may also be offered on behalf of the assessment, and the board shall affirm, modify, change and determine the assessment, in such sum as to the board appears just and right. The commissioners may increase the assessment during such hearing upon any particular tract by mailing notice to the owner at his last-known address, to be and appear within a time not less than ten days after the date of the notice, to show cause why his assessment should not be increased. When the assessment is finally equalized and fixed by the board, the secretary thereof shall certify the same to the county treasurer of each county in which the lands are situated, for collection; or if appeal has been taken from any part thereof, then so much thereof as has not been appealed from shall be certified. In case any owner of property appeals to the superior court in relation to the assessment or other matter when the amount of the assessment is determined by the court finally, either upon determination of the superior court, or appeal to the supreme court, then the assessment as finally fixed and determined by the court shall be certified by the clerk of the proper court to the county treasurer of the county in which the lands are situated and shall be spread upon and become a part of the assessment-roll hereinbefore referred to. [L. '09, p. 796, § 6.]

§ 4367. [4188.] Appeal, Procedure on.

Any person who feels aggrieved by the final assessment made against any lot, block or parcel of land owned by him, may appeal therefrom to the superior court of the county in which the land is situated. Such appeal shall be taken within the time and substantially in the manner prescribed by the laws of this state for appeals from justices' courts. All notice of appeal shall be filed with the said board, and shall be served upon the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the action is brought. The secretary of the board shall, at appellant's expense, certify to the superior court so much of the record as appellant may request, and the cause shall be tried in the superior court de novo.

Any person desiring to appeal from any final order or judgment made by the superior court concerning any assessment authorized by this chapter, may appeal therefrom to the supreme court, in accordance with the laws of this state relative to appeals, except that all such appeals shall be taken within thirty days after the entry of such judgment. [L. '09, p. 797, § 7.]

§ 4368. [4189.] Assessments, Lien of—Notice and Collection of.

The final assessments shall be a lien paramount to all other liens except liens for taxes and other special assessments upon the property assessed, from the time the assessment-roll shall have been finally approved by the said board, and placed in the hands of the county treasurers as collectors. After the roll shall have been delivered to the county treasurers for collection, each treasurer shall proceed to collect the amounts due in the manner that other taxes are collected as to all lands situated within the county of which he is treasurer. Such treasurer shall give at least ten days' notice in one or more daily newspapers published in the counties in which the lands are situated for two successive weeks, that such roll has been certified to him for collection, and that unless payment be made within thirty days from the date of the notice, that the sum charged against each lot or parcel of land shall be paid in not more than ten equal annual payments, with interest upon the whole sum so charged, at a rate not to exceed seven per cent per annum. Said interest shall be paid annually. The county treasurer shall proceed to collect the amount due each year upon the publication of notice as hereinafter provided. In such publication notice it shall not be necessary to give a description of each tract, piece or parcel of land, or of the names of the owners thereof.

The treasurer shall also mail a copy of the notice to the owner of the property assessed, when the postoffice address of such owner is known to the treasurer; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be necessary to the validity of the collection of such tax. [L. '09, p. 798, § 8.]

§ 4369. [4190.] Commissioners to Conduct Business, Make Contracts, etc.

The commissioners herein provided for and their successors in office, shall from the time of their election and qualifications aforesaid, have the power, and it shall be their duty, to manage and conduct the business affairs of the district, making and executing all necessary contracts, appoint such agents and employees as may be required, and prescribe their duties, and perform any and all acts which may be necessary, proper or requisite to carry into effect their duties as commissioners, and all such other acts as may be provided in this chapter or in any other act. [L. '09, p. 798, § 9.]

§ 4370. [4191.] Powers—Eminent Domain—Purchase.

The districts organized under the provisions of this chapter, and the commissioners appointed and qualified as such shall have the right of eminent domain with the power by and through the board of commissioners to condemn and cause to be condemned and appropriated private property for the use of said district in the construction and maintenance of the system of dikes, drains, flood dams and drift barriers, and for any other purpose proper, necessary and convenient for the purpose of carrying into effect the powers vested in said district and the commissioners thereof; and the property of private corporations shall be subject to the same rights of eminent domain as private individuals. Said board of commissioners shall also have the power to acquire by purchase, in the name of the district, any and all real property necessary to make the improvements herein provided for. [L. '09, p. 799, § 10.]

§ 4371. [4192.] Construction and Maintenance in Charge of Commissioners.

Said board of commissioners herein provided for shall have the exclusive charge of the construction and maintenance of all dikes and drainage systems which may be constructed within the said district, and shall be the executive officers thereof, with full power to bind said district by their acts in the performance of their duties as provided by law. [L. '09, p. 799, § 11.]

§ 4372. [4193.] Procedure in Eminent Domain.

In the exercise of the right of eminent domain, all proceedings shall be prosecuted by the board of commissioners for and on behalf of the district, or in the name of the district itself, and such proceedings shall be conducted in the superior court of the county in which the lands sought to be condemned are situated, and shall be in the manner and in accordance with the procedure now provided by law regulating the mode of procedure to appropriate lands, real estate, or property by corporations for corporate purposes. [L. '09, p. 799, § 12.]

§ 4373. [4194.] Improvement of Watercourses—Auxiliary Ditches, etc.

Any district so established as aforesaid through its board of commissioners shall have the right, power and authority to straighten, deepen and improve any and all rivers, watercourses, or streams, whether navigable or otherwise, flowing through or located within the boundaries of said diking or drainage district, whenever necessary or proper in carrying out the objects of the system. The district by and through its board of commissioners shall also have the power to construct all needed auxiliary ditches, canals, flumes, locks, flood barriers, and all necessary artificial appliances in the construction of the system, and which shall be necessary and advisable to protect the land in any such district from overflow or to assist, or which may become necessary in the preservation or maintenance of such system. [L. '09, p. 799, § 13.]

§ 4390. [4211.] Reassessments.

If because of a substantial reduction of the amount of the assessment upon any lands, the result would be to leave the amount of the assessment upon other lands insufficient, or if for any cause the assessment should be held invalid or become inoperative, then the board shall have power to make a reassessment of all lands to the same extent as the original assessment. [L. '09, p. 809, § 30.]

§ 4391. [4212.] Annual Tax Levy for Maintenance.

It shall be the duty of the board to levy an annual tax upon all property within the district, for the purpose of maintaining such diking and drainage system. CHAPTER V.

PRIVATE DITCHES.

§ 4394. [4215.] Private Parties Authorized to Establish Ditches.

The owner or owners of any land which requires drainage and which is so situated that it is necessary to the proper drainage of the same to construct ditches or drains across the lands of others, may obtain the location and establishment of such ditch or drain across such lands, in the manner provided in this act. [L. '99, p. 239, § 1.]

“Act,” in this section, refers to §§ 4394—4404.

§ 4395. [4216.] Petition, Contents of.

The person or persons desiring the location and establishment of such ditch or drain may file in the superior court of the county in which the lands sought to be appropriated are situated, a petition showing the name of the petitioner or petitioners; a description of the lands to [be] benefited, and of those over which the ditch would pass, and setting forth the name of every owner, encumbrancer, or other person or party interested in the lands over which said ditch would pass, or any part thereof, so far as the same can be ascertained from the public records of the county. Such petition shall also show the object for which the lands are sought to be appropriated, the necessity for the appropriation and the length, width and depth of the ditch on the lands of each separate owner, with a description of said ditch, as nearly as practicable; and shall also set out the estimated damage to the lands of each owner to be crossed by such ditch. [L. '99, p. 239, § 2.]

§ 4396. [4217.] Petitioner must File Cost Bond.

The petitioner, or someone in his behalf, shall enter into a bond in the penal sum of one hundred dollars, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the clerk of said court, payable to the state of Washington, conditioned that the petitioner or petitioners will pay all costs and expenses incurred in the proceeding; which said bond shall be filed with the petition. [L. '99, p. 240, § 3.]

§ 4397. [4218.] Viewers—Appointment and Duties.

Upon the filing of said petition the court shall appoint three viewers, two of whom shall be resident freeholders of said county, and not interested in the result of the proceeding, and the other the county surveyor of the county in which the lands are situated (unless said county surveyor shall be a party in interest, in which case some other competent surveyor shall be appointed in his place who shall receive the same compensation as is allowed by law to county surveyors) who shall, upon a day to be fixed by the court, in the order appointing them, view the lands of the petitioner and the lands which said proposed ditch or drain is to cross, for the purpose of determining: First, whether there is a necessity for the establishment of a ditch; and, second, the most practicable route for said ditch to run, if the same be necessary. The clerk of said court shall furnish to said viewers a certified copy of the order appointing them, which shall warrant them entering upon the lands described in the petition for the purpose of viewing the same. [L. '99, p. 240, § 4.]

§ 4398. [4219.] Report of Viewers and Plat to be Filed.

When said viewers shall have made said examination they shall, within ten days after the day appointed by the court for such examination, report to the court, in writing, (filing the same with the clerk of said court) their decision as to the necessity for said ditch and if they deem such ditch necessary, then the county surveyor shall file with such report an accurate description and plat of the proposed ditch, showing the course thereof as recommended by the viewers. The viewers shall also estimate the amount of damage which each separate owner would suffer by reason of the construction thereof. [L. '99, p. 241, § 5.]

§ 4399. [4220.] Summons to Land Owners—Contents and Form.

Upon the filing of the report of the viewers aforesaid, a summons shall be issued in the same manner as summonses are issued in civil action, and served upon each person owning or interested in any lands over which the proposed ditch or drain will pass. Said summons must inform the person to whom it is directed of the appointment and report of the viewers; a description of the land over which said ditch will pass of which such person is the owner, or in which he has an interest; the width and depth of said proposed ditch, and the distance which it traverses said land, also an accurate description of the course thereof. It must also show the amount of damages to said land as estimated by said viewers; and that unless the person so summoned appears and files objections to the report of the viewers, within twenty days after the service of said summons upon him, exclusive of the day of service, the same will be approved by the court, which summons may be in the following form:

In case any person interested in any of the lands to be crossed by such ditch, as aforesaid, does not reside in the county, or cannot be found therein, or conceals himself so that personal service cannot be had upon him, upon proof thereof being made satisfactorily to appear to said court, said summons may be served by publication, in the same manner and with like effect as is done in civil actions: Provided, that no other or different form of summons shall be required for publication than is required for personal service. [L. '99, p. 242, § 7.]

§ 4401. [4222.] Hearing—Procedure.

Upon the expiration of the time within which exceptions may be filed to the report of the viewers aforesaid, the court shall set a day upon which the petition and the report of the viewers shall be heard and considered by the court. In case exceptions have been filed by any party or parties, which exceptions must have been served upon the petitioner or petitioners prior to the hearing, the court shall hear evidence in regard thereto, and without a jury, pass upon the questions of the necessity for said ditch and the location thereof. If the court finds that such ditch is necessary, and the route selected is the best and most practicable, and that the compensation allowed by the viewers is just and reasonable, then the court shall file his findings to this effect and cause an order to be entered approving the petition and report of the viewers. If, within twenty days from the filing of the findings of facts aforesaid, the petitioner or petitioners shall pay into court all the costs and sums awarded to the owner or owners of the land over which said ditch shall pass, a decree shall be entered establishing the same: Provided, if any party shall except to the amount of damages found by the viewers, then the amount of such damages shall be tried by jury, unless a jury trial be waived by the parties, in which case trial thereof may be had by the court. Such trial shall be at a regular term of said court, at which a jury shall be present, and shall be conducted and verdict rendered in the same manner as in civil actions: Provided further, that it shall not be incumbent on the petitioner to pay into court the amount of the award or awards of said jury, until within twenty days after said verdict shall have been rendered and entered. [L. '99, p. 242, § 8.]

§ 4402. [4223.] Appeal.

No appeal shall be taken from the finding of the court as to the necessity of such ditch or as to the route thereof until after final judgment or decree is entered: Provided, that exceptions shall be taken and allowed to such orders at the time that they are made and appeal from such orders and from the award of damages shall be taken at the same time. All the provisions of the law in regard to appeals in civil actions shall apply to the proceedings provided for in this act. [L. '99, p. 243, § 9.]

"Act," in this section, refers to §§ 4394—4404.

§ 4403. [4224.] Compensation of Viewers—Costs.

The viewers appointed under the provisions of this act shall receive the sum of two dollars per day for their services, and the county surveyor shall receive such compensation as is allowed by law for like services, the same to be taxed as costs and paid by the petitioner. All other costs shall be the same as in civil actions in the superior court. [L. '99, p. 243, § 10.]

"Act," in this section refers to §§ 4394—4404.

§ 4404. [4225.] Report Rejected—New Viewers Appointed.

In case the court should not for any reason adopt the report of the viewers, or the same should be deemed insufficient for any reason, the court may appoint other viewers whose duties shall be the same as the duties of the viewers first appointed. [L. '99, p. 243, § 11.]

CHAPTER VI.

DRAINAGE AND DIKING IMPROVEMENT SYSTEMS.

§ 4405. [4226-1.*] Private Drainage Systems—Parties Entitled.

Whenever one or more persons whose land will be benefited thereby shall desire to have improvements constructed for the drainage or protection from overflow, or both, of any continuous body of lands situated in the same county, whether wholly or partly within the limits of any incorporated city or town, proceedings for the construction of such improvements may be had as provided in this act. [L. '21, p. 646, § 1. Cf. L. '13, p. 611, § 1; L. '17, p. 521, § 12. Former act: L. '01, p. 106.]

"Act" in this section refers to §§ 4405 to 4448.

A county is liable for damages caused by its negligence in the construction of a drainage ditch pursuant to this chapter: Linn v. Walla Walla County, 99 Wash. 224, 169 Pac. 323.

This act is not indefinite and uncertain in failing to provide in terms for the making of a final order establishing the district, inasmuch as the district is established not later than when the county commissioners decide, after a hearing, upon the nature and extent of the proposed improvement: Foster v. Commissioners of Cowlitz County, 100 Wash. 502, 171 Pac. 539.

A diking district organized under this act is not an "association, company or corporation" within Constitution, Article VIII, section 7, forbidding a county to loan money or credit thereto; and hence that act requiring county commissioners to exercise certain powers and perform certain duties with reference to diking districts does not violate such constitutional provision: Foster v. County Commissioners of Cowlitz County, 100 Wash. 502, 171 Pac. 539.

§ 4406. [4226-2.*] Definition of Terms Used.

"System," "improvement," and "system of improvement," as used in this act, shall be held to include a dike, ditch, drain or water course, and any side, lateral, spur or branch dike, ditch, drain or water course, or other structure, necessary to secure the object of the improvement. Any number of dikes, ditches, drains or water courses, with their laterals, spurs, and branches, with separate outlets, may constitute one system for the protection or reclamation of the land included in any district. But no system shall be established or constructed unless sufficient outlet or outlets are provided for any drainage of such district. Such outlet or outlets may be either within or without the boundaries of the improvement district hereinafter provided for. Any natural water course may be improved in accordance with the provisions of this act.

"Damages," as used in this act, shall be held to include the value of property taken and injury to property not taken, or either, as the case may be. § 4407. [4226-3.*] Petition for System—Bond to Secure Expenses.

Application for any such improvement shall be made by petition to the board of county commissioners of the county in which such proposed system of improvement is located signed by one or more of the owners of property which will be benefited thereby. The petition shall be filed with the clerk of the board of county commissioners, and shall set forth the necessity for the improvement, and shall describe with reasonable certainty the location, route and termini thereof; and there shall be filed therewith a bond payable to the county, with good and sufficient surety, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, in a sum of not less than two hundred dollars ($200), conditioned for the payment of all expenses which may have been incurred in the proceedings, in case the prayer of the petition be not granted or the petition be dismissed for any cause. If at any time it shall appear to the board of county commissioners that the bond filed with the petition is not sufficient in amount to cover the expenses which will be necessarily incurred in the proceedings, the board may order an additional bond in such an amount as it shall direct to be given. [L. '17, p. 522, § 14; L. '13, p. 613, § 3.]

§ 4408. [4226-4.*] Report by County Engineer—Notice of Hearing—Duties of County Board and State Reclamation Board.

Upon the filing of the petition and the approval of the bond, the clerk of the board shall deliver a copy of said petition to the county engineer, who shall at once proceed to view the line and location of the proposed improvement and the property to be affected thereby and determine whether the improvement is in his opinion necessary or will be conducive to public health, convenience or welfare and whether in his opinion the location and route described are the best for the proposed improvement, what, if any, part of the proposed system of improvement mentioned in the petition should in his judgment be omitted, and what, if any, additions should be added thereto or changes made therein, and shall report to and file his findings in writing with the board of county commissioners: Provided, that if the lands to be benefited by said improvement are described in said petition and comprise three thousand (3,000) acres or more, the board of county commissioners, may, in its discretion, after a hearing previously had, as hereinafter provided, if it is so requested in said petition, dispense with the investigation by the county engineer and ask the state reclamation board to make such surveys and investigation of the lands involved in the proposed improvement as said reclamation board may deem advisable for the purpose of determining the feasibility of said improvement and the best means of accomplishing the same, and said reclamation board shall have the power in its discretion to make such survey and investigation and to report to and file its findings in writing with the board of county commissioners, which report shall contain at least all the findings of the county engineer, aforesaid, and shall have the same effect. In the event that said survey, investigation and report are made by or under the supervision of the state reclamation board the petitioners shall not be required to furnish the bond provided for in section 4407.

(a) Upon receipt of said petition the county board shall send a copy of the same to the state reclamation board and ask for an estimate of the total cost of such survey, investigation and report, which the state board shall in its discretion make out and file with the county board. The county board shall thereupon by resolution fix a time and place for a hearing on same and shall cause a thirty (30) day notice of said hearing to be given, by posting a copy of the same in a conspicuous public place in each voting precinct or fraction thereof included in the area of lands to be benefited by said improvement and by publishing the same in a newspaper of general circulation in the proposed district in three successive weekly issues of said paper, the date of the first publication being at least thirty (30) days before the day of hearing. Said notice shall contain a copy of the petition and of the estimate of expense, shall name the time and place of hearing, shall state that the expense of the survey and investigation contemplated in the petition will be charged against the lands described therein and shall require everyone interested to appear at said time and place and show cause in writing, if any he has, why the prayer of the petition should not be granted.

(b) Upon the hearing of such petition the board shall determine whether such survey and investigation should be made and whether any or all the lands described in said petition, or any additional ones, should bear their proportional expense of said survey and investigation and may adjourn such hearing from time to time not exceeding ninety (90) days in all: Provided, that no additional lands shall be made to bear their proportional expense of said survey and investigation without first giving the notice to all parties interested, as hereinabove provided: Provided, that in no event shall the total cost of such survey, investigation and report exceed the amount stated in the estimate of the state reclamation board more than fifty (50) per cent and any obligations contracted in excess of such maximum shall be void. The determination of the board shall be by resolution and shall be final and conclusive upon all persons except for fraud or lack of jurisdiction.

(c). If the board of county commissioners shall determine in favor of said survey and examination, it shall enter into a contract with the state reclamation board to do such work, which shall be done at actual cost, from any moneys in the state reclamation revolving fund. As a part of its report said reclamation board shall include an itemized statement under oath of the expenses that have been incurred in the making of said investigation, surveys and report aforesaid and the board of county commissioners shall thereupon cause a copy of such statement of expense together with a notice naming a time and place when and where said statement will be brought before the board for hearing and determination, to be published in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county two successive weeks prior to the date of said hearing. At the time of such hearing or at such other time, not exceeding thirty (30) days in all, to which the same may be continued or adjourned by said county commissioners, the board shall proceed to examine said statement, hear testimony, if offered, and shall make and enter an order upon the minutes of said meeting approving said statement or so much thereof as shall be deemed correct.

(d) Upon the approval of said statement of expense, the board of county commissioners shall by resolution apportion the same among the lands included in proportion to acreage, each acre, or fraction thereof, of the owners, bearing the same amount, and assess, levy and distribute such apportioned expense as a tax against said lands to be paid as a part of the general county and state tax against said lands at the same times, with the same penalties attached for delinquencies, and to be collected by the same agencies, as said general taxes. The county treasurer shall credit all collections of the same to the current expense fund of the county: Provided, that in no event shall the county board have power to apportion, assess, levy and distribute the expenses of any survey, investigation and report as taxes under the provisions of this section unless said survey, investigation and report has been made or shall have been made by or under the supervision of the state reclamation board.

(e) At the time of the approval of said statement of expenses, the board of county commissioners shall direct the auditor to issue a warrant against the county current expense fund payable to the state reclamation board for the amount of said expenses, which warrant shall be issued forthwith. All such sums so paid on account of such expenses shall be credited to the state reclamation revolving fund.

(f) If the report of the state reclamation board is in favor of said improvement, the board of county commissioners shall proceed as directed in section 4411 and following sections: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as preventing the county commissioners, or the improvement district so organized, as the case may be, from making such further agreement, as it may determine, with the state reclamation board for the construction or supervision of said contemplated improvement, under the provisions of the state reclamation act. "And following sections," refers to the act of 1917, practically all of the balance of this chapter.

§ 4409. Ditches Along Highway, etc.

That drainage ditches of any drainage improvement district heretofore or hereafter created may be constructed and maintained along any public highway, street, alley or road within the limits of any drainage district. [L. '21, p. 651, § 3.]

§ 4410. [4226-5.] Adverse Report.

If the report of the county engineer shall be against the improvement, the board of county commissioners shall dismiss the petition at the cost of the petitioners, and shall cause an itemized bill of all the costs to be made up by the clerk for its examination and approval, including the per diem of the county engineer, and all other costs necessarily incurred except the fees of the clerk and the compensation of the county commissioners, and if such costs are not paid by the petitioners on demand they shall be recovered in an action on the bond. [L. '13, p. 614, § 5.]

§ 4411. [4226-6.*] Favorable Report—Survey and Plat.

If the report of the county engineer shall be in favor of said improvement, the board of county commissioners shall give the improvement district a number, being its serial number in the order of time of its formation among the improvement districts of the county formed under this act, beginning with the next number following the last serial number of any drainage or diking district organized and existing in said county, if any, and thereafter such district shall be designated as Drainage (or Diking) Improvement District Number — of — county, and the board shall cause to be entered on its journal an order directing the county engineer to go upon the lines described in the petition, or as changed by him in his report, and survey, and take levels on the same and set a stake at every hundred feet, numbering the same consecutively, and note the intersection of property lines and boundaries, township, city and county lines, and road crossings, and make such other investigations as he may deem necessary, and make a report, profile and plat of the same; also to make an estimate of the cost of construction of such system itemized so as to be reasonably specific as to the various parts thereof: Provided, that such estimate of the cost shall be held to be preliminary only and shall not be binding as a limit on the amount that may be expended in constructing such system. The clerk of the board shall prepare and keep a special index in which he shall note all proceedings had and all papers filed in connection with such improvement district. [L. '17, p. 523, § 16; L. '13, p. 614, § 6.]

§ 4412. [4226-7.*] Schedule of Property Damaged and Benefited.

The board shall also by order entered on the journal, direct the county engineer to make and return a schedule and estimate of all property that will be damaged, or both damaged and benefited by the proposed improvement, and to estimate and report the total number of acres that will be benefited by the proposed improvement and to specify the manner in which the proposed improvement is to be made and the number, kind, location and dimensions of all waterways, ditches, dikes, outlets, flood-gates, and all other artificial appliances, bridges and crossings. Schedules of property to be damaged or damaged and benefited shall be arranged in parallel columns, with appropriate headings, and shall show the description of the property, and if land, give the legal subdivision, section, township and range, and number of acres; and if platted, the name of the plat and lot and block number; the name of the owner or owners or reputed owner or owners; the estimated gross damages that will be sustained by reason of the proposed improvement; the estimated gross benefits that will accrue; and the right-hand column of the schedule shall be sufficiently wide for the signature of the owner, and shall bear the heading: "I, the undersigned owner of the property opposite which I have signed my name, accept and agree to the estimated amount of benefits and damages that will accrue to my property by reason of the proposed improvement." [L. '17, p. 524, § 17; L. '13, p. 615, § 7.]

§ 4413. [4226-8.*] Plats and Profile to Show Details—Costs.

The plat provided for in section 4411 shall be drawn upon a scale sufficiently large to show all the meanderings of the proposed improvement, and shall distinctly show the boundaries of each lot or tract of land and the location of each public or other road and sewer system to be benefited thereby, and so far as known, the name of the owner of each lot or tract of land, and each public or other road and sewer system affected, the distance in feet through each tract or parcel of land crossed by the proposed improvement, together with such other matters as the county engineer shall deem material, and the profile shall show the surface, and grade lines and the gradient fixed. The county engineer shall make and file with his report an itemized bill of costs incurred in the proper discharge of his duties under this act and the preceding sections, and shall report the same to the clerk of the board of county commissioners within ten days after the completion of the survey. [L. '17, p. 525, § 18; L. '13, p. 615, § 8.]

§ 4414. [4226-9.*] Hearing on Engineer's Report—Notice.

Upon the filing of the report of the county engineer, the board of county commissioners shall immediately fix a date for a hearing on such report, and the clerk of the board shall give notice thereof by publication for at least once a week for three successive weeks, in the official newspaper of the county, and also, if so directed by the board, in one other newspaper to be designated by the board, published in or near the proposed improvement district and of general circulation therein. Said notice shall fix the time and place for said hearing and shall specify the territory to be included in the proposed improvement district, both by boundaries and also by sections or fractions thereof. Such notice shall also designate with reasonable certainty the location, route and termini of the proposed improvement, and shall state that the plat, report and schedule on file in the office of the board of county commissioners show the property to be taken or damaged, and the amount of damages proposed to be allowed therefor. The last publication of such notice shall be not less than seven nor more than fourteen days before the date of said hearing. Said hearing, and also the hearing hereinafter provided, for fixing the apportionment of the cost of said improvement, may either or both of them be held at a place other than the county seat, and more convenient to the lands affected, if the board of county commissioners shall so order. The county engineer shall attend and have at such hearing his plats, plans, reports and schedules in relation to the proposed improvement, and the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall also attend and have at such hearing all petitions, claims, objections and other papers and documents relating to said improvement on file in his office. [L. '17, p. 525, § 19; L. '13, p. 616, § 9.]

§ 4415. [4226-10.*] Hearing—Change of Plans, Estimates and District.

On the date set for said hearing the board of county commissioners shall meet at the place designated in the notice, and if it appear that due notice of such hearing has been given, shall proceed with the hearing on the report of the county engineer, and any objections thereto, and may adjourn said hearing from time to time and from place to place. At said hearing the board shall hear all pertinent evidence, including any evidence offered concerning the probable cost of the system and the probable benefits to accrue therefrom, and may change, add to or modify the plans for such system of improvement and the boundaries of the improvement district, and change the estimate of damages and benefits in any case, and may review, change and modify any of the findings and estimates of the county engineer, and may, in its discretion, employ another engineer to make separate findings on any or all of the matters hereinbefore required to be included in the report of the county engineer, and may adjourn said hearing and await such report; or may discontinue proceedings in regard to the proposed improvement, at the cost of the petitioners therefor, if the board shall determine that the construction of the proposed improvement is not warranted by the benefits to be derived therefrom. In case the board shall determine to enlarge the boundaries of the district, a date shall be fixed for a new hearing and notice therefor shall be given and such hearing shall be held as provided for the hearing on the report of the county engineer. In case any change in the plans of the proposed improvement is made at said hearing, and such change will cause additional damage to any property, or will damage any property not damaged under the original plans, the county engineer shall prepare and file a schedule, showing the estimated damages and benefits under such changed plans, and notice of the filing of such schedule shall be served upon the owners of the properties affected, and settlements made as hereinafter provided. The board of county commissioners may at said meeting appoint the board of appraisers provided for in section 4430. [L. '17, p. 526, § 20; L. '13, p. 617, § 10.]

The county commissioners cannot charge the costs of engineer's expense which was not incurred in connection with the plans substantially as recommended or which were incurred in a plan which was a substantial abandonment of that originally planned and petitioned for; but the district finally formed may be charged with such part of the costs as was necessarily incurred in the preparation of the district finally adopted: Shoultes v. Quast, 109 Wash. 510, 187 Pac. 356.

In the establishment of a drainage district it is proper to allow a reasonable attorney's fee for special attorneys employed whose services were beneficial to the district as finally created: Id.

Where in the establishment of a drainage district, two ditches were more feasible than one, as originally planned, it is proper to allow the cost of ditch number two: Id.

This section does not authorize changes in the boundaries or plans so as to require a new notice to the owners: Foster v.

Commissioners of Cowlitz County, 130 Wash. 502, 171 Pac. 539.

§ 4416. [4226-11.] Deeds to be Executed—Consideration.

In case any owner of property to be damaged by the proposed improvement shall agree to accept the damages estimated by the engineer, or as fixed by the board of county commissioners, the board shall direct and the clerk of the board shall prepare a deed to be approved by the county engineer and the prosecuting attorney, conveying to the county for the benefit of the proposed district the property to be taken, and the right to damage property not taken. If the damages agreed upon are equaled or exceeded by the agreed estimated benefits, the grantors in the deed shall execute and deliver the same without consideration other than the right to have the damages offset against the benefits in the apportionment of the cost of the improvement as hereinafter provided. If the damages agreed upon are damages to property not benefited, or if such damages exceed the agreed benefits, the grantors in the deed shall execute and deliver the same upon the receipt of a warrant drawn by the county auditor under the direction of the board of county commissioners upon the current expense fund of the county, for the amount of damages or the amount of excess of damages over benefits, as the case may be. No such deed shall be accepted, either with or without consideration, until the title conveyed thereby has been approved by the prosecuting attorney. [L. '13, p. 618, § 11.]

§ 4417. [4226-12.] Agent to Secure Deeds.

If at the conclusion of the hearing provided for in section 4415 it shall appear to the board of county commissioners that the owner of any property to be damaged by the proposed improvements has not accepted and agreed to the damages estimated by the engineer or fixed by the board, the board may, in its discretion, appoint an agent to secure acceptances and deeds from such owners and shall, within a reasonable time, direct the prosecuting attorney of the county to institute proceedings in the superior court of the county in which the property affected is located, for the determination of the damages to be sustained and the condemnation of any property the title to which or the right to damage which has not been acquired, and shall direct the clerk of the board to furnish the attorney with a certified copy of such proceedings of the board as he shall require. [L. '13, p. 618, § 12.]

§ 4418. [4226-13.*] Eminent Domain by County—Consolidation of Actions.

For the purpose of taking or damaging property for the purposes of this act, counties shall have and exercise the power of eminent domain in behalf of the proposed improvement district, and the mode of procedure therefor shall be as provided by law for the condemnation of lands by counties for public highways: Provided, that the county, at its option, pursuant to resolution to that end duly passed by the board of county commissioners, may unite in a single action, proceedings for the acquisition and condemnation of different tracts of land required for rights of way which are held by separate owners. The court may, on motion of any party, consolidate into a single action separate suits for the condemnation of different tracts of land held by separate owners whenever from motives of economy or the expediting of business it appears advisable to do so. In such cases the jury shall render separate verdicts for the different tracts of land. [L. '17, p. 527, § 21. Cf. L. '13, p. 619, § 13.]

Cited in 82 Wash. 440—442.

§ 4419. [4226-14.] Benefits Offset.

The jury in such condemnation proceedings shall find and return a verdict for the amount of damages sustained: Provided, that the jury, in determining the amount of damages, shall take into consideration the benefits, if any, that will accrue to the property damaged by reason of the proposed improvement, and shall make special findings in the verdict of the gross amount of damages to be sustained and the gross amount of benefits that will accrue. If it shall appear by the verdict of the jury that the gross damages exceed the gross benefits, judgment shall be entered against the county, and in favor of the owner or owners of the property damaged, in the amount of the excess damages over the benefits, and for costs of the proceedings, and upon payment of the judgment into the registry of the court for the owner or owners, a decree of appropriation shall be entered, vesting the title to the property appropriated in the county for the benefit of the improvement district. If it shall appear by the verdict that the gross benefits as found by the jury equal or exceed the gross damages, judgment shall be entered against the county and in favor of the owner or owners for the costs only, and upon payment of the judgment for costs a decree of appropriation shall be entered, vesting the title to the property appropriated in the county for the benefit of the improvement district. The verdict and findings of the jury as to damages and benefits shall be binding upon the board appointed to apportion the cost of the improvement upon the property benefited as hereinafter provided. [L. '13, p. 619, § 14.]

Cited in 82 Wash. 440—442.

The words "for the benefit of the improvement district" mean no more than that the county takes the title to be used for ditches of the irrigation district, and it is proper to offset the benefits accruing to the property owners: Pierce County v. Thompson, 82 Wash. 440, 144 Pac. 704.

The measure of damages in condemnation of a right of way for a drainage ditch is the value of the property taken, with all damages to the remainder: Yakima County v. Olson, 94 Wash. 579, 162 Pac. 987.

§ 4420. [4226-15.] Warrant for Damages.

Upon the settlement of the claims for damages as provided in section 4416. or upon the entry of judgment as provided in section 4419, the county auditor shall, under the direction of the board of county commissioners, draw his warrant upon the county treasurer for the payment of the amount of damages agreed to or the amount of the judgment, as the case may be, to be paid out of the current expense fund of the county. [L. '13, p. 620, § 15.]

§ 4421. [4226-16.*] Construction of System Authorized.

When the board of county commissioners shall have finally determined and fixed the route and plans for the proposed system of improvement and the boundaries of the improvement district, and when it shall appear that the damages for property to be taken or damaged have been settled in the manner hereinabove provided, or when it shall appear that such damages have been settled as to a particular portion of the proposed improvement, and that construction of such portion of such proposed improvement is feasible, thereupon such system of improvement or such portion thereof, as the case may be, shall be constructed in the manner hereinafter provided. [L. '17, p. 528, § 22; L. '13, p. 620, § 16.]

§ 4422. [4226-17.*] Assessment of Benefits—Payment in Bonds or Warrants—Installments—Call for Bonds.

At the hearing provided for in section 4415, the board of county commissioners shall determine in what manner and within how many years said assessment shall be paid, and shall also at such hearing determine whether the evidence of indebtedness for the cost of said improvement shall be bonds or warrants. If bonds, it shall fix either ten or fifteen annual installments for the payment of said assessment. In the event that the entire assessment upon any single tract or parcel of land, or contiguous tracts or groups of tracts belonging to the same owner is twenty-five dollars ($25.00) or less, such assessment shall become due and payable at the time of the first general taxes next after the date of the levy shall become due, and the terms of this act relating to the payment of assessments in installments shall not apply to such assessments. The bonds shall be of such denomination, not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500.00), as the county commissioners shall by resolution prescribe. The treasurer shall give notice of such call by publication in the county official newspaper once each week for two consecutive weeks, the § 4424. [4226-19.*] Elections—Notice.

Upon the determination by the board of county commissioners to proceed with the work of construction, said board shall order an election to be held in some place within the district to be designated by the board, and shall appoint an election board to consist of one inspector and two judges, who shall qualify in like manner and receive like compensation as election officers at general elections. Notice of said election shall be given by the clerk of the board of county commissioners by publication once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper to be designated by the board and of general circulation in the district, the last of which publications shall be not less than seven nor more than fourteen days prior to the date of said election, and such notice shall also be posted by the sheriff of the county not less than fourteen days prior to the date of said election, in three of the most public places in the district. At such election the polls shall be open from 1 o'clock P. M. until 7 o'clock P. M. All electors of the state owning land in the district shall be entitled to vote at said election and at the annual elections hereinafter provided for. At such election the election officers may require any person offering to vote to take an oath that he is qualified to vote as in this act provided. An officer or agent of any corporation, organized under the laws of this state owning land in the district, duly authorized thereto in writing, may, upon filing with the election officers such written instrument of authority, cast a vote on behalf of such corporation. § 4425. [4226-20.*] Board of Supervisors, Election, Powers and Duties.

At the election provided for in the preceding section, two qualified electors of the county owning land in the district shall be elected, who, with the county engineer, shall constitute the first board of supervisors of said district. The board of supervisors shall have charge of the construction and maintenance of the systems of improvement of the district, subject to the limitations hereinafter set forth, and may employ a superintendent of construction and maintenance, who may be one of the two elected supervisors. The elected supervisors may themselves labor or be employed upon the work of construction or maintenance, receiving for such labor the same compensation as other labor of like character shall receive. The engineer shall receive compensation for his services as supervisor in the maintenance of the system at the per diem rate allowed him for other work; and if he be a salaried officer such compensation shall be a charge against the district in favor of the engineer's office. The supervisor receiving the highest number of votes shall hold office until one year after the first annual election of the district and until his successor is elected and qualified, and the other supervisor shall hold office until his successor is elected at the first annual election and shall have qualified. The terms of the supervisors elected at the first election in any drainage or diking improvement district shall begin immediately upon the qualification of such officials. The terms of the supervisors elected at the annual election in such districts shall begin on the second Tuesday of January following their election; if any such official shall have failed to qualify by the 1st of February following his election his title to said office shall lapse and be forfeited and his place be subject to be filled by appointment by the county commissioners as hereinafter provided. Each elected supervisor shall qualify by taking the usual oath of office of county and precinct officers and by giving a bond in an amount to be fixed and with surety to be approved by the board of county commissioners. The cost of furnishing such bond shall constitute a part of the cost of maintenance of such district. On the second Tuesday of December in the year following the election hereinabove provided for and annually thereafter, there shall be elected one supervisor of such district, who shall hold office for the term of two years and until his successor is elected and qualified. Such annual election shall be held upon the same notice and under the same regulations and in the same manner as the first election hereinabove provided for: Provided, that in any districts established under this act, or heretofore established under chapter LXVI of the Laws of 1901, not including any city or town and not more than two thousand acres in extent including all additions thereto, notice of annual elections of supervisors shall be given by posting only. In case a vacancy occur in said board from any cause, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the board of county commissioners of some qualified elector owning land in the district.

Whenever any district organized under the provisions of this act contains not more than five hundred acres, or whenever a petition shall be presented to the county commissioners signed by the owners of fifty per cent of the acreage of such district praying for such action, the county engineer shall act as supervisor of the district and thereafter no board of supervisors shall be elected for such district; and in such case the allowance of all claims against the district shall be by the county commissioners. § 4426. [4226-21.] Elections in Districts Heretofore Organized.

In all drainage districts heretofore organized and now existing under the provisions of sections 4226 to 4250 of Remington and Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, in which an improvement or extension of the existing drainage system is initiated under the provisions of this act during the year 1913, an election of supervisors shall be held in the manner provided for the first election in drainage improvement districts organized under the provisions of this act, and in such districts in which no improvements are initiated during the year 1913, the first election shall be held on the second Tuesday in December, 1913. The supervisors of such districts now in office shall, unless sooner removed as provided by the act of 1901, hold office until their successors elected under this act shall have qualified. [L. '13, p. 624, § 21.]

The act referred to has been repealed.

§ 4427. [4226-22.*] Board to Make Improvement.

The said board of supervisors shall, immediately upon their election and qualification, begin the construction of such system of improvement and shall proceed with the construction thereof in accordance with the plans adopted therefor. In the construction of any system of drainage, construction shall be begun at the outlet or outlets thereof and at such other points as may be deemed advisable from time to time. In the construction of any system of improvement the board of supervisors with the approval of the board of county commissioners may modify, curtail, enlarge or add to the original plans wherever the same may be found necessary or advisable in the course of actual construction. But such changes shall not in the aggregate increase the estimated cost of the entire system by more than one-fifth, and all additional or different rights of way required shall be obtained as hereinbefore prescribed. The board of county commissioners may in its discretion let the construction of said system or any portion thereof by contract, in the manner provided for letting contracts for the construction of county roads and bridges. The board of county commissioners may, upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the United States acting in pursuance of the National Reclamation Act approved June 17, 1902 (32 Statutes at Large 388), and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, or in pursuance to any other act of congress appropriate to the purpose, contract for the construction of the system of improvement or any part thereof, by the United States, or in co-operation with the United States therein. In such case, no bond shall be required, and the work shall be done under the supervision and control of the proper officers of the United States.

Unless the work of construction is let by contract as hereinbefore provided, or for such part of such work as is not covered by contract, the board of supervisors shall employ such number of men as shall be necessary to successfully carry on the work of such construction, and shall give preference in such employment to persons owning land to be benefited by the improvement.

The provisions of this section shall not be construed as denying to the supervisors, in case the construction work is left in their hands, the power to enter into an agreement with any contractor to furnish labor, material, equipment and skilled supervision, the contractor to be compensated upon the basis of a specific sum, or upon a percentage of the cost of the work, the services of the contractor to cover the use of equipment and the value of skilled supervision: Provided, however, that there is retained in the said board by the contract the right of termination thereof at any time, on reasonable notice, and fixing in the said contract, or reserving in said board, the right to fix the rates of wages to be paid to the men employed in said work. The board of supervisors may also let contracts in such manner and on such notice as they deem advisable for items of construction not exceeding one thousand dollars in amount of expenditures. [L. '21, p. 629, § 5. Cf. L. '17, p. 534, § 27; L. '13, p. 624, § 22.]

§ 4428. [4226-23.*] Compensation of Board — Payment by Warrants — Priority.

The compensation of the board of supervisors, superintendent of construction, the board of appraisers hereinafter provided for, and any special engineer, attorney or agent employed by the board of county commissioners in connection with the improvement, the maximum wages to be paid, and the maximum price of materials to be used, shall be fixed by the board of county commissioners. Each county commissioner, except in counties of the first class, shall receive pay at the rate of four dollars ($4.00) per day for the number of days he is engaged in the performance of any duty under this act, which sum shall be additional to his salary in case he receive an annual salary; and none of the statutory provisions limiting the number of days that a county commissioner shall draw pay for or limiting the number of sessions for attendance upon which he shall be entitled to mileage shall apply to any proceedings under this act. All officers and members of boards performing duties under this act shall receive in addition to their fees or salaries their actual necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties hereinunder. All costs of construction or maintenance done under the direction of the board of supervisors shall be paid upon vouchers or pay-rolls verified by two of the said supervisors. All costs of construction and all other expenses, fees and charges on account of such improvement shall be paid by warrants drawn by the county auditor upon the county treasurer upon the proper fund, and shall draw interest at such rate not to exceed eight per cent per annum as the board of county commissioners shall fix, until paid or called by the county treasurer as warrants of the county are called.

If at the hearing provided for in section 4415 the county commissioners shall determine that bonds shall be issued to pay the costs of the improvement or warrants sold to procure funds with which to pay such cost, as therein provided, temporary warrants may be issued for any part or all of such costs, expenses, fees, and charges, and shall be paid in cash upon the issuance and sale of such bonds, or shall be exchanged for an equal amount par value of such bonds. All such temporary warrants shall recite that they are temporary warrants and that they draw interest until called to be paid in cash or to be exchanged for bonds. All warrants issued under the provisions of this act and sold by the commissioners, or issued to any contractor and by him sold or hypothecated for a valuable consideration, shall be claims and liens against the fund against which they are drawn, prior and superior to any right, lien or claim of any surety upon any bond or bonds given to secure the performance of the contract or to secure the payment of persons who have performed work thereon, furnished materials therefor or provisions and supplies for the carrying on of the work. [L. '17, p. 536, § 28; L. '13, p. 625, § 23.]

§ 4429. [4226-24.*] Crossing Roads or Public Utilities—Adjustment of Costs.

Whenever in the progress of the construction of the system of improvement it shall become necessary to construct a portion of such system across any public or other road or public utility, the board of supervisors, or in case the work is being done by contract the board of county commissioners, shall serve notice in writing upon the public officers, corporation or person having charge of, or controlling or owning such road or public utility, as the case may be, of the present necessity of such crossing, giving the location, kind, dimensions and requirement thereof, for the purpose of the system of improvement, and stating a reasonable time, to be fixed by the county engineer, within which plans for such crossing must be filed for approval in case the public officers, corporation or person controlling or owning such road or public utility desire to construct such crossing. As soon as convenient, within the time fixed in the notice, the public officers, corporation or person shall, if they desire to construct such crossing, prepare and submit to the county engineer for approval duplicate detailed plans and specifications for such crossing. Upon submission of such plans, the county engineer shall examine and may modify the same to meet the requirements of the system of improvement, and when such plans or modified plans are satisfactory to the county engineer he shall approve the same and return one thereof to the public officers, corporation or person submitting the same, and file the duplicate in his office, and shall notify such public officers, corporation or person of the time within which said crossing must be constructed. Upon the return of such approved plans, the public officers, corporation or person controlling such road or public utility shall, within the time fixed by the county engineer, construct such crossing in accordance with the approved plans, and shall thereafter maintain the same. In case such public officers, corporation or person controlling or owning such road or public utility shall fail to file plans for such crossing within the time prescribed in the notice, the board of supervisors or of county commissioners, as the case may be, shall proceed with the construction of such crossing in such manner as will cause no unnecessary injury to or interference with such road or public utility. The cost of construction and maintenance of only such crossings or such portion of such cost as would not have been necessary but for the construction of the system of improvement shall be a proper charge against the improvement district, and only so much of such cost as the board of county commissioners shall deem reasonable shall be allowed as a charge against the district in the case of crossings constructed by others than the district. The amount of costs of construction allowed as a charge against the district by the board of county commissioners shall be credited on the assessments against the property on which the crossing is constructed, and any excess over such assessment shall be paid out of the funds of the district. [L. '17, p. 537, § 29; L. '13, p. 626, § 24.]

§ 4430. [4226-25.*] Cost of Improvement—Apportionment.

When the improvement is fully completed and accepted by the county engineer, the clerk of the board shall compile and file with the board of county commissioners an itemized statement of the total cost of construction, including engineering and election expenses, the cost of publishing and posting notices, damages and costs allowed or awarded for property taken or damaged, including compensation of attorneys, including the costs of crossings constructed by the district and the cost of crossings constructed by others and allowed by the board of county commissioners, and including the sum paid or to be paid to the United States, and the discount, if any, on the bonds and warrants sold and including all other costs and expenses, including fees, per diem and necessary expenses of nonsalaried officers incurred in connection with the improvement, together with interest on such costs and expenses from the time when incurred at the rate of interest borne by the warrants issued for the costs of construction. There shall also be included in said statement, in case the county engineer is a salaried officer, a statement of the services performed by him in connection with said improvement at a per diem of five dollars ($5.00) per day and his necessary expenses, and a reasonable sum to be fixed by the board of county commissioners on account of the services rendered by the prosecuting attorney. Upon the filing of such statement of costs and expenses the board of county commissioners shall revise and correct the same if necessary and add thereto a reasonable sum which shall be not less than five per cent nor more than ten per cent of the total thereof in drainage improvement districts, and not less than ten per cent nor more than fifteen per cent of the total thereof in diking improvement districts, to cover possible errors in the statement or the apportionment hereinafter provided for, and the cost of such apportionment and other subsequent expenses, and interest on the costs of construction from the date of the statement until fifty days after the filing of the assessment-roll with the treasurer; and unless the same have been previously appointed, shall appoint a board of appraisers consisting of the county engineer and two other competent persons, to apportion the grand total as contained in said statement as hereinafter provided. Each member of said board of appraisers shall take, subscribe and file with the board of county commissioners an oath to faithfully and impartially perform his duties to the best of his ability in making said apportionment, and said board of appraisers shall proceed to carefully examine the system and the public and private property within the district and fairly, justly and equitably apportion the grand total cost of the improvement against the property and the county or counties, cities and towns within the district, in proportion to the benefits accruing thereto. [L. '17, p. 538, § 30; L. '13, p. 628, § 25.]

§ 4431. [4226-26.*] Apportionment Against Cities, Towns and Counties Benefited.

Whenever any system of improvement constructed under the provisions of this act will drain, protect or otherwise improve the whole or any part of any public road, roadbed or track thereof, or where any such system of improvement will furnish an outlet for or facilitate the construction or maintenance of any sewer system in any city or town, there shall be apportioned against the county in which any such state or county road outside of any incorporated city or town is located or against the city or town in which any such public road is located, or against any such other road or part thereof so drained, protected or otherwise improved, or against the city or town for which an outlet for sewage will be furnished or wherein the construction or maintenance of a sewer system will be facilitated, the proper amount of the total sum to be apportioned. The board of county commissioners may pay such portion as they deem proper of the amount assessed against the county on account of the drainage, protection or improvement of the roads, out of the funds of the road district in which such drainage, protection or improvement is made. [L. '17, p. 540, § 31. Cf. L. '13, p. 629, § 26.]

§ 4432. [4226-27.] Irrigation System Benefited.

In the plans for and in the construction of a drainage system in an irrigated region, under the provisions of this act, provision may be made for the prevention of, or affording an outlet for drains to prevent, injury to land from seepage of or saturation by irrigation water, and for the carrying off of necessary waste water from irrigation, and benefits resulting from such provision shall be considered in making the apportionment of the cost of such system. [L. '13, p. 629, § 27.]

§ 4433. [4226-28.] State Lands.

There shall be apportioned against all state school, granted, and other lands, in the district the proper amount of the total sum to be apportioned in proportion to the benefits accruing thereto. [L. '13, p. 630, § 28.]

See note to § 4490, partial unconstitutionality of assessment against school lands.

§ 4434. [4226-29.] Apportionment Certified to Municipality.

Upon the completion of the apportionment the board of appraisers shall prepare upon suitable blanks, to be prescribed by the bureau of inspection and supervision of public officers, sign and file with the clerk of the board of county commissioners a schedule giving the name of each county, city and town and the description of each piece of property found to be benefited by the improvement in the following order: First, counties, cities and towns and the respective amounts apportioned thereto for benefits accruing to public roads and sewer systems therein; second, other roads (a) railroads, (b) street railroads, (c) interurban railroads, (d) logging roads, and (e) tramways, giving the location of the particular portion or portions of each road benefited and the respective amounts apportioned thereto; third, unplatted lands giving a description of each tract arranged in the numerical order of the townships, ranges and sections, and giving the legal subdivisions and such other subdivisions and metes and bounds descriptions as may be necessary to show a different rate of apportionment, or different ownership, and giving the respective amounts apportioned to each tract; fourth, platted lands arranged by cities and towns and platted acreage in alphabetical order, giving under each the names of the plats in alphabetical order and the numbers of blocks and lots, and such other subdivisions and metes and bounds descriptions as may be necessary to show a different rate of apportionment, or different ownership, and giving the respective amounts apportioned to each plat, block, lot, or other description, as the case may be. [L. '13, p. 630, § 29.]

§ 4435. [4226-30.*] Notice of Hearing on Apportionment—Approval or Modification—Interest—Liens.

Upon the filing of the schedule of apportionment, the board of county commissioners shall fix the time and place for a hearing thereon which time shall be not more than sixty days from the date of the filing thereof and notice of such hearing shall be given in the manner provided for giving notice of hearing in section 4414. Said notice shall fix the time and place of hearing on said roll, and shall state that the schedule of apportionment showing the amount of the cost of the improvement apportioned to each county, city, town and piece of property benefited by the improvement is on file in the office of the board of county commissioners and open to public inspection, and shall notify all persons who may desire to object thereto that they may make such objections in writing and file the same with the clerk of the board of county commissioners at or prior to the date fixed for such hearing; and that at the time and place fixed and at such other times and places as the hearing may be continued to, the board of county commissioners will sit as a board of equalization for the purpose of considering such schedule and at such hearing or hearings will also consider any objections made thereto, or any part thereof, and will correct, revise, raise, lower, change or modify such schedule, or any part thereof, or set aside such schedule and order that such apportionment be made de novo as to such body shall appear just and equitable, and that at said hearing the board will confirm said schedule as finally approved by them and will levy an assessment against the property described thereon for the amounts as fixed by them. The board of county commissioners shall serve by mail, at least ten days before such hearing, upon the commissioner of public lands of the state of Washington a like notice, in duplicate, showing the amount of the cost of the improvements apportioned against all state, school, granted, or other lands owned by the state of Washington in such district. Upon receipt of such notice the commissioner of public lands shall indorse thereon a statement either that he elects to accept or that he elects to contest such apportionment, and shall return the same, so indorsed, to the board of county commissioners. At or prior to such hearing any person interested may file with the clerk of the board written objections to any item or items of said apportionment. At such hearing, which may be adjourned from time to time and from place to place, until finally completed, the board of county commissioners shall carefully examine and consider said schedule and any objections filed or made thereto and shall correct, revise, raise, lower, change or modify such schedule or any part thereof, or strike therefrom any property not benefited, or set aside such schedule and order that such apportionment be made de novo, as to such body shall appear equitable and just. The board shall cause the clerk of the board to enter on such schedule all such additions, cancellations, changes, modifications and reapportionments, all credits for damages allowed or awarded to the owner of any piece of property benefited, but not paid, as provided in section 4419; also a credit in favor of the county on any apportionment against the county, of all sums paid on account of said improvement, as provided in section 4420; and all sums allowed the county on account of services rendered by the county engineer or prosecuting attorney, as provided in section 4430; and all credits allowed to property owners constructing crossings as provided in section 4429. When the board of county commissioners shall have finally determined that the apportionment as filed or as changed and modified by the board is a fair, just and equitable apportionment, and that the proper credits have been entered thereon, the members of the board approving the same shall sign the schedule and cause the clerk of the board to attest their signature under his seal, and shall enter an order on the journal approving the final apportionment and all proceedings leading thereto and in connection therewith, and shall levy the amounts so apportioned against the property benefited, and the determination by the board of county commissioners in fixing and approving such apportionment and making such levy shall be final and conclusive.

The board of county commissioners shall also at said hearing, levy, in the manner hereinafter provided for the levy of maintenance assessments, such assessment as they shall deem necessary to provide funds for the maintenance of the system of improvement until the first annual assessment for maintenance shall fall due. Upon the approval of said roll the county auditor shall immediately prepare a completed assessment-roll which shall contain, first, a map of the district showing each separate description of property assessed; second, an index of the schedule of apportionments; third, an index of the record of the proceedings had in connection with the improvement; fourth, a copy of the resolution of the board of county commissioners fixing the method of payment of assessments; fifth, the warrant of the auditor authorizing the county treasurer to collect assessments; and sixth, the approved schedule of apportionments of assessments; and shall charge the county treasurer with the total amount of the assessment and turn the roll over to the treasurer, for collection in accordance with the resolution of the board of county commissioners fixing the method of payment of assessments. As soon as the assessment-roll has been turned over to the treasurer for collection, he shall publish a notice in the official newspaper of the county for once a week for at least two consecutive weeks, that the said roll is in his hands for collection and that any assessment thereon or any portion of any such assessment may be paid at any time on or before a date stated in such notice, which date shall be thirty days after the date of the first publication, without interest, and the treasurer shall accept such payment as in said notice provided. Upon the expiration of such thirty-day period the county treasurer shall certify to the county auditor the total amount of assessments so collected by him and the total amount of assessments remaining unpaid upon said roll. After the expiration of said thirty-day period, payment of assessments in full, with interest to the next coupon date which is more than thirty days from the date of such payment, may be made at any time: Provided, that the aggregate amount of such advance payments in any year, together with the total amount of the assessments due at the beginning of said year shall not exceed the total amount of the bonds which may be called in that year according to the applicable bond redemption schedule. The treasurer shall accept payments of assessments in advance, in the order tendered, until the limit herein set forth has been reached.

The assessments contained in the assessment-roll shall bear interest from the expiration of the thirty-day period at the rate of eight per cent per annum and interest upon the entire assessment then unpaid shall be due and payable at the time each of said installments becomes due and payable as a part thereof: Provided, that if the bonds or warrants be sold at a lower rate of interest than eight per cent then said assessments shall bear interest at the same rate borne by such bonds or warrants.

The assessments contained in said assessment-roll shall be liens upon the property assessed, such lien shall be of equal rank with other liens assessed against the property for local improvements and paramount to all other liens except the lien of general taxes, and shall relate back to and take effect as of the date when the board of county commissioners determined to proceed with the construction of the improvement as provided in section 4421. [L. '17, p. 540, § 32; L. '13, p. 630, § 30.]

Board of County Commissioners, 107 Wash. 264, 181 Pac. 868.

When there was no appeal under this section, from the decision of the county commissioners apportioning assessments upon the property in a drainage district benefited by the construction of a drainage ditch, the decision being final, there was a stronger presumption supporting the apportionment of benefits than in the cases of city local improvement assessments from which appeal may be taken to the courts: Northern Pac. R. Co. v.

An assessment for a drainage ditch against a railroad right of way is not upon a fundamentally wrong basis and arbitrarily excessive although it averages $235 per acre, while bordering farm lands were assessed at $15 per acre and county highways at about $90 per acre: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Board of County Commissioners, 107 Wash. 264, 181 Pac. 868.

§ 4436. Appeal from Apportionment.

The decision of the board of county commissioners upon any objections made within the time and in the manner prescribed in section 4435, may be reviewed by the superior court upon an appeal thereto taken in the following manner. Such appeal shall be made by filing written notice of appeal with the clerk of such board and with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such drainage or diking improvement district is situated, or in case of joint drainage or diking improvement districts with the clerk of the court of the county in which the greater length of such drainage or diking improvement system lies, within ten days after the order confirming such assessment-roll shall have become effective, and such notice shall describe the property and set forth the objections of such appellant to such assessment; and, within ten days from the filing of such notice of appeal with the clerk of the superior court, the appellant shall file with the clerk of said court a transcript consisting of the assessment-roll and his objections thereto, together with the order confirming such assessment-roll, and the record of the board of county commissioners with reference to said assessment, which transcript, upon payment of the necessary fees therefor, shall be furnished by such clerk of the board of county commissioners, and by him certified to contain full, true and correct copies of all matters and proceedings required to be included in such transcript. Such fees shall be the same as the fees payable to the county clerk for the preparation and certification of transcripts on appeal to the supreme court in civil actions. At the time of the filing of the notice of appeal with the clerk of the superior court, the appellant shall execute and file with the clerk of the superior court a sufficient bond in the penal sum of two hundred dollars, with good and sufficient surety, to be approved by the judge of said court, conditioned to prosecute such appeal without delay, and if unsuccessful, to pay all costs to which the county or the drainage or diking improvement district is put by reason of such appeal. The court may order the appellant upon application therefor, to execute and file such additional bond or bonds as the necessity of the case may require; within three days after such transcript is filed in the superior court as aforesaid, the appellant shall give written notice to the prosecuting attorney of the county, and to the clerk of the board of county commissioners that such transcript is filed. Said notice shall state a time (not less than three days from the service thereof) when the appellant will call up the said cause for hearing; and the superior court of said county shall, at said time or at such further time as may be fixed by order of the court, hear and determine such appeal without a jury. The judgment of the court shall confirm, correct, modify or annul the assessment in so far as the same affects the property of the appellant. A certified copy of the decision of the court shall be filed with the officer who shall have custody of the assessment-roll, and he shall modify and correct such assessment-roll in accordance with such decision. An appeal shall lie to the supreme court from the judgment of the superior court as in other cases: Provided, however, that such appeal must be taken within fifteen days after the date of the entry of the judgment of such superior court; and the record and opening brief of the appellant in said cause shall be filed in the supreme court within sixty days after the appeal shall have been taken by notice as provided in this act. The time for filing such record and serving and filing of briefs in this section prescribed may be extended by order of the superior court, or by stipulation of the parties concerned. And the supreme court, on such appeal, may correct, change, modify, confirm or annul the assessment in so far as the same affects the property of the appellant. A certified copy of the order of the supreme court upon such appeal shall be filed with the officer having custody of such assessment-roll, who shall thereupon modify and correct such assessment-roll in accordance with such decision. [L. '21, p. 623, § 1.]

§ 4437. Regularity and Validity of Proceedings Conclusive.

Whenever any schedule of apportionment of any drainage or diking improvement district shall have been confirmed, and the assessment therefor shall have been levied, by the board of county commissioners, as provided by section 4435, the regularity, validity and correctness of the proceedings relating to such improvement, and to the assessment therefor, including the action of the board of county commissioners upon such assessment-roll and the confirmation thereof, shall be conclusive in all things upon all parties, and cannot in any manner be contested or questioned in any proceeding whatsoever by any person not filing written objections to such roll in the manner and within the time provided in section 4435, and not appealing from the action of the board of county commissioners in confirming such assessment-roll in the manner and within the time in this act provided. No proceeding of any kind shall be commenced or prosecuted for the purpose of defeating or contesting any such assessment, or the sale of any property to pay such assessment, or any certificate of delinquency issued therefor, or the foreclosure of any lien issued therefor: Provided, that this section shall not be construed as prohibiting the bringing of injunction proceedings to prevent the sale of any real estate upon the grounds:

1. That the property about to be sold does not appear upon the assessment-roll, or

2. That said assessment has been paid. [L. '21, p. 625, § 2.]

§ 4438. District Liable for Judgments Against County.

Any judgment that heretofore has been obtained or that hereafter may be obtained against a county on account of any contract lawfully made by its officials for or on behalf of any drainage or diking improvement district, or on account of the construction or maintenance of any drainage or diking system of a drainage or diking improvement district shall be collected and reimbursed to the county from said improvement district, and the amount of such judgment shall be included in the construction costs of said district: Provided, that if such judgment be recovered after the assessment to pay the construction costs shall have been levied, then the county commissioners are hereby empowered and they shall make a supplemental levy upon the lands of the district, and from the funds collected under such levy, said reimbursements shall be made. [L. '21, p. 626, § 3.]

§ 4439. [4226-31.*] Construction Fund—Redemption Fund—Maintenance Fund—Collection—Application—Reassessments.

There shall be established in the county treasury of any county in which any drainage or diking improvement is established under the provisions of this act, appropriate funds as follows:

(1) The construction fund, into which shall be paid the proceeds of all bonds or warrants sold and the proceeds of all assessments paid prior to the sale of bonds or warrants. In case no bonds have been issued or warrants have been sold, the proceeds of all assessments levied to pay the cost of construction shall be paid into such fund. All warrants, including temporary warrants, issued in payment of cost of construction shall be paid out of such fund.

(2) A fund for the redemption of all bonds issued or warrants sold, to be known as the redemption fund, into which shall be paid all proceeds derived from assessments levied to pay cost of construction which shall not have been paid prior to the sale of bonds or warrants, in case bonds have been issued or warrants sold, and also all moneys, if any, remaining in the construction fund after the payment of all warrants drawn against it as above provided. The redemption fund shall be applied, first, to the payment of the interest due upon all such outstanding bonds issued or warrants sold and, second, to the payment of the principal thereof. After the payment of the principal and interest of all such bonds or warrants, the balance, if any, remaining in such fund shall be applied to the payment of any warrants outstanding, including temporary warrants, which may have been issued in payment of cost of construction which for any reason may remain unpaid. Any balance, if any, thereafter remaining shall be paid into the maintenance fund.

(3) The maintenance fund, into which shall be paid the proceeds of all assessments for maintenance, and all other funds received by the district which are not required by the provisions of this act to be paid into the construction fund or the redemption fund.

The respective installments of assessments for construction or maintenance of improvements made under the provisions of this act, shall be collected in the same manner and shall become delinquent at the same time as general taxes, and shall bear interest after delinquency at the rate of ten per cent per annum, and the lien thereof shall be enforced by foreclosure and sale of the property assessed, as in the case of general taxes. The purchaser, upon the foreclosure of any certificate of delinquency for any assessment or installment thereof, shall acquire title to such property subject to the installments of the assessment not yet due, and the complaint, decree of foreclosure, order of sale, sale, certificate of sale and deed shall so state.

The holder of any certificate of delinquency for general taxes may, before commencing any action to foreclose the lien of such certificate, pay in full all drainage or diking improvement district assessments or installments thereof outstanding against the whole or any portion of the property included in such certificate of delinquency, or, if he elect to foreclose such certificate without paying such assessments in full, the purchaser at such foreclosure sale shall acquire title to such property subject to all drainage or diking improvement district assessments a lien thereon, in which case the complaint, decree of foreclosure, order of sale, sale, certificate of sale and deed shall so state. If such holder shall pay such drainage or diking improvement district assessments, he shall be entitled to ten per cent interest per annum on the amount of the delinquent assessments or delinquent installments thereof so paid, from date of payment.

In any case where any property shall be struck off to or bid in by county at any sale for general taxes, and such property shall subsequently be sold by the county, the proceeds of such sale shall first be applied to discharge in full the lien or liens for general taxes for which the same was sold, and the remainder, or such portion thereof as may be necessary, shall be paid to the district to discharge all drainage or diking improvement district assessment liens upon such property, and the surplus, if any, shall be distributed among the proper county funds.

Whenever any improvement, any extension or betterment thereof shall have been constructed in whole or in part, either heretofore in a district established or attempted to be established under and by virtue of chapter 66 of the Laws of 1901, or in a district heretofore or hereafter established or attempted to be established under this act, and the assessment therefor or any part thereof shall be invalid by reason of any omission, irregularity or defect in any proceeding whatever, a reassessment shall be made upon the property benefited by the improvement to provide a fund for the payment of the costs thereof, and any bonds or warrants issued therefor in the following manner:

The board of county commissioners shall by order cause the clerk of the board to compile and file with the board an itemized statement of the total cost of the improvement in the manner prescribed by section 4430. Upon the filing of such statement the same proceedings shall be had assessing the costs of said improvement against the lands benefited thereby and the counties, cities and towns within the district, as are prescribed by section 4430 and subsequent sections of this act. In case no bonds have been issued or warrant sold to pay the costs of said improvement, the same may be issued and sold and disposed of as hereinbefore provided. In case an assessment for such improvement shall have been theretofore made or attempted, and any payment has been made thereon, proper credit for the amount of such payment shall be made upon the reassessment.

If upon the foreclosure of the assessment upon any property the same shall not sell for enough to pay the assessment against it, or if any property assessed was not subject to assessment, or if any assessment made shall have been eliminated by foreclosure of a tax lien or made void in any other manner, the board of county commissioners shall cause a supplemental assessment to be made on the property benefited by the improvement and against the county, cities and towns chargeable therewith in the manner provided for the original assessment, to cover the deficiency so caused in the original assessment.

If by inadvertence or for any cause the assessment levied shall be found to be insufficient to meet the entire cost of construction, a supplemental assessment shall be made by the board of county commissioners upon the lands of the district in the same proportion as the original assessment is levied, same being spread over not to exceed three years as the commissioners may determine.

Duplicate assessments or other errors that may by inadvertence be found to have been incorporated in the assessment-roll may be corrected by order of the county commissioners upon same being certified to them by the treasurer and the engineer. [L. '17, p. 544, § 33; L. '13, p. 632, § 31.]

§ 4440. [4226-32.*] Annual Maintenance Estimate—Levy of Assessment—Hearing.

On or before the first Monday in September in each year the board of supervisors of each district organized under the provisions of this act shall make and file with the board of county commissioners of the county containing such district, a statement and estimate in writing of the amount required for maintenance of the system of improvement of said district for the ensuing fiscal year, and the board of county commissioners shall, on or before the first Monday in October next ensuing, levy an assessment for the amount of said estimate, or such amount as it shall deem advisable, upon the property within the district and against the county, cities and towns chargeable therewith in the same proportion as the assessment to pay the original cost of construction of said system of improvement was levied. Such levy shall be certified by the county auditor to the county treasurer, who shall extend the same upon the assessment-roll. The maintenance assessments on all tracts of land of not more than one-half acre in area shall accumulate from year to year and every fifth year such accumulated levy shall be extended on the rolls and collected. Upon petition filed by two or more assessed property owners of a district the county commissioners may, in their discretion, hold a hearing at the county seat for the purpose of reapportioning the maintenance charges in such district, to be held at the time of the equalization of the real property assessment in the even numbered calendar years. Preliminary to such hearing the county commissioners shall appoint a board of three appraisers, of whom the county engineer shall be one, who shall qualify and proceed as the board of appraisers appointed to apportion the original cost of the system, and shall report to and file with the board of county commissioners their recommendations in such matter not less than twenty days prior to the date of such hearing. Notice of the filing of such report and that such hearing will be held shall be given by publication in the official county newspaper and in such other newspaper published in or near such district as the county commissioners may in their discretion direct in two successive publications, the last of which shall not be less than seven or more than fourteen days prior to the date of said hearing. And at such hearing the commissioners may make such change in the basis of the apportionment of the levies for the maintenance of such system of improvement as may seem just and equitable. In maintaining the system of improvement of their district the board of supervisors may, with the approval of the board of county commissioners, make expenditures in excess of the annual maintenance fund herein provided for, which excess amount shall in such event be included in the maintenance levy for the succeeding year: Provided, that when, owing to floods or other causes an unusually high maintenance levy or expenditure in excess of the current levy shall be necessary the board of county commissioners may provide that such levy or the levy to meet such excess expenditure be spread over a term of years and warrants or bonds issued to meet the same as herein provided for the original construction cost of a system of improvement. [L. '17, p. 548, § 34; L. '13, p. 633, § 32.]

§ 4441. [4226-33.*] Assessments Against Cities, Towns and Counties — Payment.

The amount of the costs of construction or maintenance of any system of improvement assessed against any city, town or county may be met by levies to be paid in similar installments and extending over a like period of time as the assessments against property benefited are spread; or such amounts may be met by the issue and sale of the bonds of such city, town or county in the manner in which bonds to meet general indebtedness of such city, town or county are issued. The proper authorities of such city, town or county shall make the necessary levies to meet such amounts thus apportioned thereto as a general levy on all property therein. [L. '17, p. 549, § 35; L. '13, p. 634, § 33.]

§ 4442. [4226-34.*] Abandonment or Enlargement of System—Subdistricts.

Upon a petition and bond being filed by one or more land owners, either within or without the boundaries of a district, and like proceedings being had as in the case of the original establishment and construction of a system of improvement, the county commissioners may declare any system of improvement or any part thereof, abandoned or may strike from the district lands no longer benefited or served thereby, or they may cause any system of improvement to be altered, reduced, enlarged, added to or in any other manner bettered or improved, either within or without the district, and to effect such subsequent improvements, may exercise any of the powers which are in this act, or may be hereafter conferred upon such districts. But the striking of any lands from a district shall not in any way affect any assessment theretofore levied against such lands. When such improvements shall have been completed the costs thereof shall be apportioned and assessed against the lands benefited thereby in the manner hereinbefore provided for such apportionment and assessment in the case of original proceedings. New lands assessed for any such improvement shall become a part of such district. The construction and maintenance of any such new improvement, unless let by contract by the board of county commissioners, shall be under the direction of the board of supervisors of the district in which they are made or to which said improvement is added. The lands assessed for such new improvements, of less than the entire district, shall be designated, alphabetically, "subdistrict — of — improvement district No. —." [L. '17, p. 550, § 36; L. '13, p. 635, § 34.]

§ 4443. [4226–35.*] Extension of Existing System — Apportionment of Costs.

When any extension of or addition to any existing system of improvement shall be thus constructed, the cost thereof shall be assessed to all the property, counties, cities and towns in the enlarged district benefited thereby in proportion to the benefits received therefrom. Any new lands thus brought into the district shall be assessed in addition a proper and equitable share of the then value of the original system of improvement in proportion to the benefits which such new lands derive therefrom. In determining the value to be so assessed the board of appraisers shall take in consideration the amount, if any, which the property to be assessed has already paid toward the construction of the original system and all other matters that may be pertinent. If at any time it shall appear to the board of supervisors of any drainage or diking improvement district that any lands without the boundaries of such district are being benefited by the improvements of the district and are not being assessed for the benefits received, they shall file a petition with the board of county commissioners praying the benefits received by such lands be determined and an assessment made upon such lands for the benefits so received. Thereupon, the board of county commissioners shall appoint a board of appraisers as provided in section 4430 for the apportionment of the cost of construction of the original system of improvement, and an apportionment of the then value of the improvements of the district shall be made to such lands in proportion to the benefits received therefrom as nearly as may be in the manner provided for the apportionment of the cost of the original system of improvement. In determining what share of the value of the improvements of the district shall be apportioned to such lands the board of appraisers shall take into consideration the benefits already received by such lands and all other matters that may be pertinent. The amount of the value of the original system assessed upon any new property brought within the district shall be rebated pro rata upon the assessments, if any, outstanding against the lands of the district on account of the construction of such original system. If the assessment against any land has been paid in full, or if the assessment remaining outstanding against such land is less than the rebate apportioned to such land, the amount so rebated or excess of rebate over assessment shall be paid into the maintenance fund of the district and a proper credit on any existing or future assessment for maintenance shall be entered in favor of the land entitled thereto. The lands in the original district shall remain bound for the whole of the original unpaid assessment thereon for the payment of any outstanding unpaid warrants or bonds secured to be paid by such assessments. [L. '17, p. 550, § 37; L. '13, p. 635, § 35.]

§ 4444. [4226-36.] Prosecuting Attorney to Prepare Blanks.

It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of each county to prepare suitable blanks for the use of the board of county commissioners under this act, not otherwise provided for, and to advise the board of county commissioners and other officers of the county and the boards provided for by this act in regard to the proceedings and in the performance of their duties under this act, and perform such other duties as in this act provided and required. [L. '13, p. 636, § 36.]

§ 4445. [4226-37.*] Drainage System to be Kept Efficient.

The board of supervisors of each district shall make reasonable rules and regulations whereby any owner of land in the district may make connection for drainage purposes, with any drainage system thereof. They shall also maintain and keep efficient the system of improvement of the district. [L. '17, p. 552, § 38; L. '13, p. 636, § 37.]

§ 4446. [4226-38.*] District in Two or More Counties.

When a drainage or diking system is proposed which will require a location, or the assessment of lands, in more than one county, application therefor shall be made to the board of county commissioners in each of said counties, and the county engineers shall make preliminary reports for their respective counties. The lines of such proposed improvement shall be examined by the county engineers of the counties wherein said improvements will lie, jointly. The hearings in regard to such improvement, provided for by sections 4414 and 4435 shall be had by the boards of county commissioners of the two counties in joint sessions, and all other matters required to be done by the county commissioners in regard to such improvement and the improvement district shall be had and done by the boards of county commissioners of the counties wherein such system of improvements shall lie, either in joint session at such place as the said boards shall order, or by concurrent order entered into by the said boards at their respective offices. Notice of the hearings shall be given by the auditors of both counties jointly by publication in the official paper of each of said counties. The county engineer of the county wherein the greatest length of the drainage or diking system will lie, shall have charge of the engineering work and be ex officio a member of the boards in this act provided for.

The schedule of apportionment shall be prepared in separate parts for the land in the respective counties; and that part of said roll containing the assessments upon the lands in each respective county shall be transmitted to the treasurer thereof, and the treasurer of said county shall give notice of said assessments as provided in section 4435, and shall collect the assessment therein contained and shall also extend and collect the annual maintenance levies of said district upon the lands of said district lying in his county. The auditor of the county in which the greater length of the drainage or diking system shall lie shall act as clerk of the joint sessions of the boards of county commissioners, and shall issue the warrants of the improvement district, and shall attest the signatures of the two boards of county commissioners on the bonds. He shall furnish to the auditor of the other county duplicate copies of the records of proceedings of such joint sessions. Duplicate records of all proceedings had and papers filed in connection with such improvement shall be kept, one with the auditor of each county. Protests or other papers filed with the auditor who is not clerk of the joint sessions shall be forwarded forthwith by him to the auditor who acts as clerk of such joint sessions. The treasurer of the said county shall register and certify and pay the warrants and the bonds, and shall have charge of the funds of the district; and to him, the treasurer of the county in which the lesser portion of such system of improvements lie, shall remit semi-annually, in time for the semi-annual warrant and bond calls, all such collections made in such other county. A drainage or diking improvement district lying in more than one county shall be designated "Joint Drainage (or Diking) Improvement District No. — of — and — Counties." All proceedings in regard to joint drainage or diking improvement districts, which have heretofore been had and done substantially in accordance with the amendatory provisions of this act are hereby approved and declared to be valid. [L. '21, p. 630, § 6; L. '13, p. 637, § 38.]

See Laws '13, p. 637, § 39, for savings clause as to ditches begun or maintained under that act.

§ 4447. Inapplicability of Act to Prior Laws.

Nothing in this act contained shall be construed as in anywise modifying or repealing any of the provisions of chapter I or of chapter II of this title, or the acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, or affecting any proceedings heretofore or that may hereafter be had under the provisions of said acts. [L. '17, p. 552, § 39.]

"Act" refers to the foregoing sections of this chapter, and § 4448.

§ 4448. [4226-41.] Validity.

An adjudication that any section, paragraph, or portion of this act, or any provision thereof, or proceeding provided for therein, is unconstitutional or invalid shall not affect or determine the constitutionality, or validity, of this act as a whole or of any other portion or provisions thereof, and all provisions of this act not adjudicated to be unconstitutional shall be and remain in full force and effect and shall be operative until specifically adjudicated to be unconstitutional or invalid. [L. '13, p. 639, § 41.]

§ 4449. Consolidation of Districts.

Whenever it shall appear to the board of county commissioners that the consolidation of two or more diking or drainage improvement districts established under the provisions of this chapter will result in economy of the maintenance of such districts, they shall by resolution declare their intention to order such consolidation, and shall fix a time and place for hearing objections to such consolidation. The time so fixed shall be not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the date of adoption of such resolution, and the place fixed may be the county seat or other place more convenient to the districts which it is proposed to consolidate. [L. '17, p. 517, § 1.]

"This act" refers to the foregoing sections of this chapter.

§ 4450. Notice of Hearing.

Notice of the hearing shall be given by publication in the newspaper doing the county printing once a week for two successive weeks, the last publication to be not less than seven nor more than fourteen days prior to the date of said hearing. The notice shall be posted for the same period in three public places in each of the districts proposed to be consolidated. [L. '17, p. 517, § 2.]

§ 4451. Order for Consolidation.

The board of county commissioners shall meet at the time and place fixed in such notice, and may adjourn such meeting from time to time and from place to place. If objections are offered to the proposed consolidation, they shall hear and consider the same and may refuse to proceed further with the consolidation, or may enter an order declaring any two or more of such districts consolidated, and that the territory included in such districts shall thereafter constitute and be known as "Consolidated Drainage or Diking Improvement District No. — of — County," giving to such consolidated district its consecutive number in the order of the establishment of such districts in the county. [L. '17, p. 518, § 3.]

§ 4452. Board of Supervisors.

Until the expiration of the terms of the elected supervisors having the shortest term to serve in each of the districts so consolidated, the two elected supervisors of each district, together with the county engineer, shall form the board of supervisors of such consolidated district.

At the annual election following the entry of the order of consolidation, one supervisor shall be elected in the consolidated district and shall serve for two years and until his successor is elected and qualified, and together with the supervisor of each district included in the consolidation whose term of office has not expired and the county engineer, shall constitute the board of supervisors of the consolidated district until the next annual election.

At the next annual election and at each succeeding annual election, one supervisor shall be elected in the consolidated district for a term of two years. [L. '17, p. 518, § 4.]

§ 4453. Rights and Powers of Consolidated District—Levy of Assessment.

From the time of the entry of the order of consolidation, such consolidated district and its board of supervisors shall have all the rights and powers of, and be subject to all laws applicable to a district established under the provisions of this chapter, and the several districts included in the consolidated district shall thereby be dissolved without any further proceedings. Notwithstanding such consolidation and dissolution, none of the outstanding bonds, warrants or other indebtedness of any district included in the consolidated district shall be affected thereby; and all lands liable to be assessed to pay any of such bonds, warrants or other indebtedness shall remain liable to the same extent as if such consolidation had not been made; and any and all assessments theretofore levied or made against any such lands shall be and remain unimpaired, and shall be collected in the same manner as if no such consolidation had been made. The board of supervisors of the consolidated district shall have all the powers possessed at the time of the consolidation by the boards of supervisors of the several districts included in the consolidation to levy, assess and cause to be collected any and all assessments or charges against any of the lands within the several districts that may be necessary or required to provide for the payment of all the bonds, warrants and other indebtedness thereof. Until such assessments shall have been collected and all indebtedness of the district paid, separate funds shall be maintained for each district as were maintained prior to the consolidation. [L. '17, p. 518, § 5.]

"This chapter." See notes to § 4449.

§ 4454. Governing Statutes.

Whenever two or more districts have been consolidated all the provisions of law applicable to such district prior to the consolidation shall apply to the consolidated district. [L. '17, p. 519, § 6.]

§ 4455. Use of Waters Developed—Effect of Appropriation by Others.

The use of any waters developed by the drainage system of any drainage improvement district shall be subject to the control of the drainage improvement district and such district shall have the right to dispose of and contract for the use of such waters for irrigation or other uses, as hereinafter provided: Provided, that the waters developed by any existing drainage system, and the waters developed by any drainage system hereinafter [hereafter] constructed which shall remain undisposed of for three years after the completion of the improvement and the levy of the assessment to pay the cost thereof, shall not be subject to disposal by such district where such waters shall have been appropriated by any person at a point below the outlet of the drainage system of such district. The term "waters developed" as used in this act shall not be held to include surface waste waters from irrigation. [L. '17, p. 519, § 7.]

§ 4456. Contracts for Use or Sale of Water.

The board of supervisors may enter into any contract for the use, sale or disposal of such waters that in their judgment shall be for the best interests of the district; but no such sale, contract or disposition shall be made except by the unanimous vote of the board. The district shall not guarantee nor warrant the amount or flow of, nor the title to, such waters; and no use, sale or disposition of such waters shall be lawful that will interfere with the efficiency of said drainage system. [L. '17, p. 520, § 8.]

§ 4457. Applications for Use of Water.

Any person or corporation desiring to acquire and use the waters developed by any drainage system, may make application therefor in writing to the board of supervisors of the district, accompanying such application with a bond to be approved by the board, conditioned that the applicant will pay the costs of the investigation and hearing in case no disposal of said waters be made thereat. Successive applications and proceedings may be made and had as long as there is any water remaining undisposed of in said drainage system. [L. '17, p. 520, § 9.]

§ 4458. Notice of Hearings.

When any such application shall be filed, the board of supervisors of the district shall cause to be published in the county official paper, once a week for three successive weeks prior to the date of the hearing hereinafter referred to, a notice fixing the time and place within the district when the board will hear and consider such applications. All applications shall be in writing and contain a statement of the proposed use to be made of the water, specifying the time, place and manner of such proposed use; and in entering into any such contract, the board of supervisors of the district may require such security as they may deem reasonable for the proper construction and installation of works of diversion and for the use of said water by the party proposing to use the same. [L. '17, p. 520, § 10.]

§ 4459. Penalty for Willful Injury to Improvements.

Every person who shall willfully damage or interfere with the operation of any dikes, drains, ditches or other improvements of any diking or drainage improvement district shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [L. '17, p. 521, § 11.]

CHAPTER VII.

EXCESS COSTS, REFUNDING BONDS, REASSESSMENTS AND ABANDONED DITCHES.

§ 4460. Costs in Excess of Estimate Authorized—Warrants for Added Costs.

Whenever any drainage district has been organized, established and created since January 1, 1911, and extending to January 1, 1921, in the manner provided by law, and the board of commissioners of such district have been authorized to proceed with the work of constructing a system of drainage for such district in the manner provided by law and have begun such work and expended the whole, or the major portion of the estimated cost of such improvement, and it shall have appeared to such board of commissioners that such improvement could not be completed within the estimated cost thereof so as to produce the benefits to the lands of the district found by the jury to be benefited by the proposed improvement without expending a greater sum than the estimated cost of such improvement and that the benefits which would actually accrue to the lands of the district would be sufficient to warrant the increased expenditure necessary to complete the improvement, and such board of commissioners shall have incurred indebtedness in the name of the district to such an amount as would complete the authorized system of drainage for the benefit of the lands of the district found by the jury to be benefited by the proposed improvement, and issued the warrants of the district to cover the additional cost of completing such improvement all warrants heretofore issued for such purposes are hereby declared to be valid and legal obligations of the district so issuing the same. [L. '21, p. 749, § 1.]

§ 4461. Determination of Damages and Benefits.

Whenever the board of commissioners of any drainage district shall have heretofore issued any warrants of the district for the purpose of completing a system of drainage for such district so as to produce the benefits to the lands of the district found by the jury to be benefited by the proposed improvement as provided in the preceding section, and the total estimated maximum benefits found by the jury that would accrue to the lands of the district by reason of such proposed improvement are not sufficient to cover the actual cost of such improvement, including the cost of completing the same as hereinabove provided, the board of commissioners of such district shall file a petition in the superior court in the original proceeding for the determination of the damages and benefits to accrue from the proposed improvement, setting forth the facts, describing the lands that have been, in the judgment of the commissioners, actually benefited by the completed improvement, stating the estimated amount of benefits per acre that have accrued to each tract of land respectively, giving the name of the owner or reputed owner of such tract of land, and praying that the original proceedings be opened for further proceedings for the purpose of determining the benefits which have accrued to each tract of land actually benefited by the completed improvement. If the said board of commissioners fail or refuse to file such petition within sixty days after receipt of a written request so to do, signed by any warrant-holder, then the said warrant-holder shall have the right to file same. [L. '21, p. 750, § 2.]

§ 4462. Procedure.

Upon the filing of the petition provided for in the preceding section, summons shall issue thereon and be served on the owners of all lands described in the petition as having been benefited, in the same manner as summons is issued and served in the original proceedings for the determination of damages and benefits by reason of a proposed drainage improvement, as near as may be. No answer to any such petition shall be required unless the party served with summons desires to offset damages claimed to have been actually sustained by reason of the completed improvement in addition to the damages found by the jury in the original proceeding, and no default judgment shall be taken for failure to answer any such petition. [L. '21, p. 750, § 3.]

§ 4463. Hearing.

Upon the issues being made up, or upon the lapse of time within which the parties served are required to appear by any summons issued as provided in the preceding section, the court shall empanel a jury to hear and determine the matters in issue, and if the jury shall find that the matters set forth in the petition are true and that any of the lands of the district have been benefited by the completed improvement, after offsetting any additional damages found to have been sustained by reason thereof, it shall determine and assess the benefits which have actually accrued, and shall specify in its verdict the respective amount of benefits per acre, if any, assessed to each particular tract of land, by legal subdivisions. [L. '21, p. 751, § 4.]
